There was evidently no possibility of securing the desired object by legitimate means, so others must be adopted. He clung to the belief that if he could by stratagem or bribery once gain access to the vessel and stow himself away until they were fully under way, General Grant would not have the heart to put him ashore as ruthlessly and unceremoniously as a river captain dumps a gambler who tries to paddle his own cotton-wood log with a shingle, amid mocking salutes from the steam whistle. Jove did not shrink from assuming lowly disguises, the form of the swan or the shape of the bull, when the exigencies of the public service demanded such action, and the thunderer of Olympus, a heathen and a myth, could not be permitted in the State of Illinois to outdo the thunderer of Chicago, a Christian and a tangibility.

Accordingly, the good deacon packed his trunk in a red silk bankerchief—his wardrobe consisted of a fine tooth comb, a Faber No. 2, a cake of honey soap and a pair of No. 14 gray worsted hose—and took his stand on the wharf on the day the expedition was to sail. A fortunate chance presented itself. A number of hospital attendants were carrying cots and mattresses on board. The deacon seized one, loaded it on his shoulders with the grace of a rou-tabout, and mounted the gangway. The weather was warm. The deacon was stout. The load was heavy. The gangway was steep. To say that he perspired freely would be to understand the facts of the case. But he passed the sentinels in safety, and in a few moments had tumbled his unwieldy burden upon the heap and had ensconced himself in safety—under a sink. His quarters were close; they could not be called commodious; they were not by any means clean. But he nobly held his ground, and did not wince audibly when a negro cook boy poured a pan full of dish-water down his disconal back to the detriment of his disconal coat. At last the welcome snort of the engines and dash of the wheels announced that the boat was under way, and he crawled from his retreat and entered General Grant's cabin, prepared to enjoy his own triumph and the general's discomfiture.

When the general saw him he inquired if Deacon Bross was not aware of the existence of orders against civilians accompanying the expedition. The Deacon said he was, but that it was all right. "No sir, that is not all right, Aid-de-camp," said he, turning to an officer, "stop the steamer; take a boat, and put this gentleman ashore." "But I am Mr. Bross of the Chicago Tribune." "If you were Horace Greeley of the New York Tribune it would be all the same." The officer laid his hand on the deacon's shoulder. Resistance was in vain; a boat was launched, and in five minutes he was seated on a log under a spreading tree, while the last vessel of the flotilla disappeared round a bend in the river.

History draws a charitable veil over the events of the hours immediately succeeding. It is said that the shore thence to Cairo was profaned by undiscoral expletives all that night; that a man about the deacon's sized plashed wearily along it, up to the waist in morasses, down on his nose over the deadfalls, torn by briers, bruised by the rocks, devoured by mosquitoes, haunted by the wail of the bullfrog. It is said that he ate of the berries of the wood and the catfish of the deep. It is said that at early dawn he crept into Cairo, muddy, hungry, sad—and it is said—and there appears to be good grounds for believing the assertion to be true—that ever since that memorable day the deacon has been utterly unable for the life of him to make out what the people could see in General Grant, anyhow. And this is part of the milk in the Chicago Tribune's cocoanut.—Chicago Post.

—Willard Fuller of Westford lost a cow recently in a very singular manner. She was found dead in the lot with one hind foot caught over her horn, the point of the horn being hooked through the skin near the hoof, having evidently been thus caught while scratching her head, so that the cow broke her neck by falling.

—A Mill Plain man came into Danbury recently with a load of potatoes, for which he desired to obtain 50 cents a bushel, but was not able to get 35 cents. There was not a dry eye in the load.—News.

—A son of the murdered Crittenden is preparing to get his eye frescoed. He is following Laura Fair, who has some little experience in shooting, with murderous intent.

—A matter of fact Danburian being asked if he saw Rubinstein when in New York, vacantly responded; "Why, no: was he looking for me?"

—A prosperous merchant has for his motto: "Early to bed, and early to rise; never get tight and advertise."

CASTORIA.—A substitute for Castor Oil—is a physic which does not distress or gripe, but is sure to operate when all other remedies have failed. You may confidently rely upon the Castoria in Stomach-ache, Constipation, Flatulency, Croup, Worms, Piles or deranged Liver. It contains neither Minerals, Morphine, Opium nor Alcohol, but is purely a vegetable preparation, perfectly harmless, and above all, pleasant to take. The Castoria soothes and quiets the system, and produces natural sleep. It is a wonderful thing to assimilate the food of children and prevent them from crying. A 35 cent bottle will do the work for a family and save many doctors' bills.

SO GENERAL has the public confidence become in Dr. Ayer's medicines, and so great the demand for them, that unprincipled villains are attempting to deceive the unwary by imposing upon them their worthless nostrums under a similarity of name. Cherry Pectoral Lozenges, Dr. Ayer's Troches, Ayer's Pastiles for Coughs, Cherry Pectoral Cough Drops, Ayer's Fever and Ague Cure, Dr. Ayer's Indian Pills, &c., (none of which are Dr. Ayer's manufacture or composition) are specimens of this villainy and deceit. They not only defraud the sick of their money but of their health, or the recovery of their health, which is far more important than money. From actual counterfeits the people are protected by law which the Doctor promptly enforces, but these evasions sometimes elude the law, and purchasers must protect themselves by refusing to be deceived by them.

MEDICAL BUBBLES.—Columns would be required to enumerate the medicines that have risen to the surface and burst since Hostetter's Stomach Bitters became the standard tonic of the Western Hemisphere. Boasts the most extravagant, fabrications the most preposterous, cant the most sickening, have in turn been employed to bolster up the worthless preparations that have from time to time been introduced, in hope to be dividing the field with that famous vegetable remedy. Signal failure has been the lot of each and all. The reputation of the Bitters as a preventive of epidemics, a stomachic, an invigorant, a general restorative, and a specific for indigestion, bilious affections, rheumatism, nervous debility, constitutional weakness, paroxysmal fevers, and all and all complaints to which the more sensitive sex is exclusively liable, is established upon the sound basis of more than twenty years' experience, and can no more be shaken by the clap-trap nostrums of unscientific pretenders than the everlasting hills by the winds that rustle through their defiles.

THE "HOUSEKEEPER" OF OUR HEALTH. The liver is the great depurating or blood cleansing organ of the system. Set the great housekeeper of our health at work, and the foul corruptions which gender in the blood, and rot out, as it were, the machinery of life, are gradually expelled from the system. For this purpose Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is pre-eminently the article needed. It cures every kind of humor from the worst scrofula to the comon pimple, blotch or eruption. Great eating ulcers kindly heal under its mighty curative influence. Virulent blood poisons that lurk in the system are by it robbed of their terrors, and by a persevering and somewhat protracted use of it, the most tainted system may be completely revated, renovated and built up anew. Enlarged glands, tumors and swellings dwindle away and disappear under the influence of this great resolvent. It is sold by all druggists. 613

PILES.—The necessing torture from internal bleeding, external and itching piles is fast wearing away the thousands of those who are afflicted and their hope and courage have long since given place to despair. Let those who see this cheer up, for a mild and sure cure may be had by using BRIGGS' PILE REMEDIES.

A UNIVERSAL ARTICLE OF FAITH.—In these days of religious contention it has been thought impossible to indicate an article of faith upon which all sects and classes were united. There is one, however, and a very notable one, too, viz.: a belief which is implicit and universal in the paramount efficacy of that matchless Household Tonic and Recuperant, Plantation Bitters. The constantly increasing patronage which it receives has, it is true, excited the petty envy of certain splenatic advertisers of pinchbeck panaceas, who hope to make a market for their own stagnant, watery wares, by decrying all meritorious medicinal preparations. But the public can stomach neither their arguments nor their potations, and consequently reject these very weak imitations of the enemy as entirely too thin!

CORNS.—Since pride and fashion have had control of mankind, men and shoemakers were compelled to make boots and shoes to fit fancy instead of the feet, the suffering from Corns, Bunions, Ingrowing Nails, Sore Insteps, Blistered Heels, Callosities on the bottom of the feet, &c., cannot be described. But Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies will cure all such torments, and proper fitting boots will prevent their reproduction. Sold by all druggists. a12

The Shoe Business.

One of the enterprises which has met with more than a moderate degree of success in this city is the manufacturing of shoes. When the fact is realized that among the many hundreds who are engaged in this business there are but few who successfully stem the current of its many fluctuations, it is not strange that few can be found who possess the courage to invest capital in it.

Among those who are engaged in this avocation is Mr. Andrew P. Bodge. A few months ago Mr. Bodge started the manufacturing of ladies' and misses' shoes in Vaughan Street, engaging as his assistant Mr. Daniel J. Terbune, whose practical experience made him adequately capable for the position. The superior work which was sent from this establishment brought in so many orders that they were obliged to remove to their present location on High Street, in the building formerly occupied by the Came Brothers as a Carriage Repository.

This building is 24 by 60 feet. The first floor is used for cutting and packing; the second for stitching uppers; the third for putting on bottoms, finishing, &c. There are employed about fifty hands, who turn out on an average a hundred pairs per day. The cost of the material used weekly will amount to $1000. The improvement and simplicity of the machinery used in these manufactories have not only greatly lessened the amount of capital required but also the price of articles manufactured. Machines which few years ago cost $10,000 are now obtained much cheaper.

Among the forty different varieties of shoes made we noticed in particular, those of the Polish and Buttoned styles, which were equal in finish and workmanship to any in the market. The material used is Calf, French and Curacoa, Kid, oiled and plain Goat, and Serge, designed after the present prevailing fashions, such as foxed, plain and scalloped bands. The patterns for the styles which will be introduced to the Spring trade are now being prepared. Newport Ties and the Buckle and Croquet Slipper are at present the favorites.

Mr. Bodge is at present running full teams to supply orders, and judging from the present promising aspect will continue them during the general relapse of trade. To carry on this business extensively involves nearly as much capital as it does to build a ship, and its advantages as a local institution merits the warmest support of our citizens.

Vandalism.

Some conscience-stricken individual, impelled probably by an overwhelming sense of his own unworthiness and sinfulness, (we join with him in believing it must be something very great,) has daubed the rocks, walls and fences in the suburbs of our city with the injunction, "Prepare to meet thy God." This admonition can hardly be intended for the inanimate objects on which it is painted, and must be meant as a warning to the race originally created in God's image; but we decline to take our spiritual pabulum in that way, and the feeling which such a defacing of nature's beauties arouses in the breast of the lover of nature we do not regard as a very advanced step in the preparation recommended. We expect nothing better from the quack-medicine man,—the man who is willing to trade in the comfort, the happiness, the health and even the life of his fellow man, if only he can make a dollar by it; but we respectfully represent that this following the evil example of the quack-medicine man lays the over-zealous religionist who does it open to a suspicion of dealing in quack religion. Had the warning as thus displayed on rocks and fences ever had any effect upon us, other than to arouse our indignation, the manner in which it was interpreted by a rustic maiden whom we overheard scan the phrase a few days since would have entirely destroyed its beneficial influence. Said this guileless country lass to a companion, on discovering the sentence referred to, "Look-a-here, Jane; I swanny! 'Prepare to meet thy God' on the fence!" Since that time we have considered the injunction as being intended only for a certain class of politicians, with whom we have nothing in common.

Laconics.

The fourth lecture of the temperance course will be delivered at the Temple, Sunday evening at quarter before 8 o'clock, by Mr. H. M. Bryant of Lewiston, Me. The Massachusetts press speaks in high terms of his abilities.

Have you seen Nast's "tidal wave?"

Apples are beginning to feel the power of the press.

Gen. Harriman will not be able to speak here next Thursday. He has finally yielded to the earnest solicitation of New York Republicans and will speak in that State five times next week. Hon. Bainbridge Wadleigh and Judge Russell will speak here.

The Portsmouth Dolly Vardens have raised $300 to pay the fare of 500 tumble-bugs to Manchester. This, no doubt, secures the election of Horace Greeley.

Rehearsal of Music Society, with orchestra at Mr. Tilton's rooms, Sunday evening at 7 o'clock.

City Council.

In Board of Mayor and Alderman, Thursday evening; it was Voted, that the new street from Islington Street by the Brewery of Frank Jones be called Albany Street.

The petition of the Eastern Railroad Company for "leave to extend a side track from their main track across Islington Street through a part of Albany Street to the buildings of Frank Jones on said last named street for freighting purposes," was granted.

The petition of John Stavers and others in aid of the above petition, was accepted.

Leave was granted to John W. Stott to encumber Hanover Street for building.

The Committee on Streets, to whom was referred the application of Dr. J. W. Parsons for a sidewalk on Chestnut Street, reported in favor of granting the same upon the condition that Chestnut Street shall not thereby be made of less width than 17 feet 6 inches between the sidewalks. The report was accepted.

S. C. H. Bellamy had leave to withdraw his proposal for carving an eagle for the City Building.

The Committee on Bills on 2d Reading reported the bill entitled "an ordinance relating to the fire department," without amendment. Laid on the table until the next meeting.

The Committee on Fire Department were requested to report immediately on the expediency of purchasing one or more fire extinguishers.

Voted, That when the Board adjourn it be to meet on Wednesday evening next.

Voted, That five aldermen shall constitute a quorum of this Board.

Voted, That when Market Street is repaved it be done with either gravel or wood.

—Mr. Amos Pearson is stocking his new hot house at Lincoln Hill, with some fine varieties of pot plants.

—Work on the new Catholic church is being pushed with vigor. The foundations are down, and masons are now laying the brick walls.

—A little four years' old boy piqued at not being asked to a party to which his sister was going, said he did not care! He didn't want to go; all of Bart Holland's ducks were invited.

—This is a charming time to take a drive through the country. The landscape is bewitching in its vernal charm. One of the most delightful views just now is that to be obtained from Stratham Hill.

—At the recent annual meeting of the Stockholders of the Concord & Portsmouth Railroad, it was voted that the Directors be authorized to sell and convey the interest in the "Spring" at Portsmouth for such price as they shall deem for the interest of the Corporation, and to take such action in reference to the extension of the Road in Portsmouth, under the act of the Legislature of 1867, as they may deem expedient.

—Operations on Star Island, Isles of Shoals, for the purpose of converting it in to a summer resort, commenced October 8th. The lumber for the new hote is arriving, the plans are drawn, and the work is to be contracted for immediately. The small buildings, which are to be converted into summer houses for the use of families, are being moved by Mr. Frank Follansbee, of Manchester. The wharf is to be commenced as soon as the stone for the outer walls arrives from Rockport. Mr. T. B. Mathes of Lynn, is to have charge of the entire stone work done on the island. The large force of workmen engaged to prosecute the extensive improvements have gone into winter quarters, where they will make lively work during the cold weather. The proprietors, Messrs. N. F. Mathes, of this city, and John R. Poor, of Boston, intend to have everything ready for next summer's travel.

JULY 4TH 1873.—One of the "Sons" who intends to be present at the reunion, July 4th, 1873, suggests that as Portsmouth has no hall at present capacious enough to accommodate the large numbers who are to be here on that day to take part in the celebration, that a mammoth tent be pitched on Pierce's Island, in which shall be given the oration, and dinner. It is also well suggested that a grand promenade concert take place in this tent in the evening, at which all the bands who are to be here shall be invited to be present, and give alternate exhibitions of their skill. Such a musical feature and feast would prove a great attraction. Absent sons are again reminded that a book is now in the hands of City Clerk Marcellus Bufford, for the registering of the names of those who desire to be present. Communications by mail will receive due attention. Keep the ball moving, and let there be no holding back of any one.

The Tip-Top House on Mount Washington rents for $1000 a month during the summer season.

—Mrs. Granger, of Cincinnati, valued her husband at $90,000, and now that he is dead, she sues the six saloon keepers who were wont to supply him with grog, for that amount.

—Chicago claims to have gained nearly fifty thousand in population during the past summer.

The Singer

SEWING MACHINE

STILL LEADS THE MARKET.

The Success of the Company is far beyond that of any other similar concern; the

Daily Manufacture

—OF—

400 OF THE SINGERS

Failing to Supply the Constant Demand.

All other machines call the public attention to some new loop or stitch or tension or finish, some advantage in running or needles or feed or prices—and many of these are as we have said very good points, and the agents selling them use them to divert entirely the would-be purchaser from fairly considering the facts in the case; but the

seems to unite the good qualities of all, and is never found wanting.

THE SINGER

IS THE

OLDEST

SEWING MACHINE

IN THE MARKET,

All others being copied from its first model, does two-thirds the sewing done in this country and preserves its advantages over all others combined.

It is readily kept clean, and has THE BEST TENSION EVER INVENTED; it is higher speeded and requires but little power to run; it works equally well upon the finest and heaviest goods; it does all the varieties of work known to the art.

N. B. Those purchasing for cash, before the 1 of January next, will have a consideration allowed them.

RAIL CAR LOVE MAKING.—The editor of the Lexington (Ky.) Gazette is a close observer, and has been car riding with an eye to the interesting. He tells the story of a love-making couple whom he met en route, and as a sample of some sweetness on the cars it is amusing. On the Orange road was a newly married couple. They got on at Arrington depot in Nelson. They were billing and cooing every five minutes, to the infinite disgust of the females and the amusement of the other sex. I greatly admired one favorite posture. He was sitting at the window and she was anxious to see the country, and lean across his knees to look out. Of course he wasn't going to let her fall out and be left, so he got a good hold around her body, and never broke his grip for an hour. It seemed sometimes like the pressure was about seventy-five pounds to the square inch, then again he would slack up. She was "mighty" afraid of dropping out of the window, for she never whispered, even when he tightened his arms to the last notch; that is, when going across rivers and ugly high banks. After she had seen the country long enough, they began to whisper to each other, and after each whisper would bite an ear, holding it a little while and "chawing" like puppies do your fingers, in fun.

He would make out sometimes she had bit him too hard and tousel her for it. The tow-ling was the best part of the performance. She knew she had done wrong in the auricular matter, and ought to be touseled. Most of the men in the car though so, and if she hadn't submitted they were ready to help him in this act of justice. Several of them stood up every now and then, to be ready if their services were needed. Some were interested to such an extent in suppressing with marked and reprehensive punishment, this unlawful compression of male acoustic organ between the incisors of the female, that the first refreshed themselves by passing to the ice-cooler and swallowing deep draughts and then returning to the neighborhood where the sufferer was avenging himself, keeping their arms in position for immediate use in case of emergency. The vanished was doomed to support the head of the conqueror or till he should recover from the fatigue of asserting his rights. I could tell you more.

—An Illinois farmer, who does not know much about farming, but raises a few things for his own, has a crop of 500,000 bushels of corn, a part of which he wants to sell as he keeps but one pig.

—A father living in Titusville, who has two or three very courtable girls, placed a notice on his front door, which read: "Shut down for thirty days. No stove in the parlor, and but one lamp."

—The Courier-Journal says that the Bardolpheian nose of the St. Louis Globe man is one of the prominent features of the Saint Louis fair.

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best PULMONARY CURATIVE he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

In the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are WILD CHERRY BARK, SQUILL ROOT, LICORICE ROOT, BLOOD ROOT, &c. It is a BLOOD PURIFIER, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is antiseptic and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic, and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle cathartic, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England,

Pulmocine Cordial

is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. EVERY FAMILY should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred THROAT DISEASES at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of PREVENTION. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this FAMILY MEDICINE prevent the spread of disease. Parents rescue their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stages) at all times, and cures in most cases, relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,

Croup,

Diphtheria,

Asthma, &c.

USE BUCHMAN'S

PULMOCINE CORDIAL.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified, in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

SARSAPARILLA

FOR PURIFYING THE BLOOD.

A medicine that cures is a real public blessing. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA makes positive cure of a series of complaints, which are always afflicting and often fatal. It purifies the blood, purges out the lurking humors in the system, which undermine health and settle into troublesome disorders. Eruptions of the skin are the appearance on the surface of humors that should be expelled from the blood. Internal disorganizations are the determination of these same humors to some internal organ, or organs, whose action they derange, and whose substance they disease and destroy. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA expels these humors from the blood. When they are gone, the disorders they produce disappear, such as Ulcerations of the Liver, Stomach, Kidneys, Lungs, Eruptions and Erysipelas, Diseases of the skin, St. Anthony's Fire, Rose or Erysipelas, Pimples, Pustules, Blotches, Boils, Tumors, Tetter and Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, Ulcers and Sores, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Pain in the Bones, Side, and Head, Female Weakness, Sterility, Leucorrhœa arising from internal ulceration and uterine disease, Dropsy, Dyspepsia, Emaciation, and General Debility. With their departure health returns.

AYER'S

CHERRY PECTORAL

For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma and Consumption.

The few compositions, which have won the confidence of mankind and become household words among not only one but many nations, must have extraordinary virtues. Perhaps no one ever secured so wide a reputation or maintained it so long as AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. It has been known to the public about forty years, by its friends and proofs of marvellous cures, which have won for it a confidence in its virtues, never equalled by any other medicine. It still makes the most effectual cures of Coughs, Colds, Consumption, that can be made by medical skill. Indeed the CHERRY PECTORAL has really robbed these dangerous diseases of their terrors, to a great extent, and given a feeling of immunity from their fatal effects, which is well founded, if the remedy be taken in season. Every family should have it in their closet for the ready and prompt relief of its members. Sickness, suffering, and even life is saved by this timely protection. Prudent men should not neglect it, and the wise will not. Keep it by you for the protection it affords in sudden attacks, and by its timely use.

AYER'S PURGATIVE PILLS.
For all the purposes of a Family Physic,
CURING
Costiveness, Jaundice, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Dysentery, Foul Stomach, Erysipelas, Headache, Piles, Rheumatism, Eruptions and Skin Diseases, Biliousness, Liver Complaint,
Dropsy, Tetter, Tumors and Salt Rheum,
Worms, Gout, Neuralgia, as a Dinner Pill, and Purifying the Blood,

Are the most congenial purgative yet perfected. Their effects abundantly show how much they excel all other Pills. They are safe and pleasant to take, but powerful to cure. They purge out the foul humors of the blood; they stimulate the sluggish or disordered organ into action, and they impart health and tone to the whole being. They cure not only the every day complaints of every body, but formidable and dangerous diseases. Most eminent clergymen, most skillful physicians, and our best citizens send certificates of cures performed, and of great benefits they have derived from these Pills. They are the safest and best physic for children, because mild as well as effectual. Being sugar coated, they are easy to take; and being purely vegetable, they are entirely harmless.

$1000 REWARD.
BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOR is composed of Ammonia, Chloroform, Spirits of Camphor, Tincture of Lapulino, Oil of Juniper, and Alcohol. This compound is unequalled in the annals of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling or Twitching of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, banish pimples, cure scaly eruptions, itching, humors, &c.; it equalizes the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the brain, cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. Briggs' Allevantor absolutely possesses more curative properties than any other preparation. Physicians, chemists, and others are requested to examine and test the remedy, and $1000 will be paid if found different from representation.

COUGHS. Much has been said and written, and many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases; but nothing has been so eminently successful, or obtained such a wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.

CORNS! The excruciating pain produced by Corns, the unceasing twinging from Bunions, the piercing, distressing pain from Ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, not knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies are no acid or potash compounds, but are reliable, soothing, and effectual, and just merit the success they have earned from an appreciative public. The Curative is a healing ointment; immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it will positively cure the worst cases of Festered Corns, inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the sorest instep, the largest and severest Blisters, the most extensive Callosities on the soles or heels of the feet, unequalled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Allevantor for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unexcelled by anything ever known.

PILES have been a terror to mankind for centuries, and almost every attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr. Briggs has discovered an absolutely cure for internal, bleeding, external, and itching piles. Briggs' Pile Remedies are mild, safe and sure.

For sale by J. H. THACHER, WM. R. PRESTON, Portsmouth; JAMES O. TRIPEPHEN, Kittery; E. S. SAYWARD, Kittery Point; H. M. CURTIS, Newcastle, and dealers generally.

AYER'S HAIR VIGOR
FOR RESTORING GRAY HAIR
TO ITS NATURAL VITALITY AND COLOR.
Advancing years, sickness, care, disappointment, and hereditary predisposition, all turn the hair gray; either of them dispose to fall off prematurely, and either effect is unsightly and unpleasant to behold. DR. AYER'S consummate skill has produced an antidote for these deformities, which has won gratitude for him from multitudes of men and women. His HAIR VIGOR sometimes reproduces lost hair; and always restores to faded and gray hair its natural color, with the gloss and freshness of youth. The comparatively few bald and gray heads, that we now see, are those who have not yet discovered the virtues of AYER'S HAIR VIGOR for renewing the hair. The fresh and youthful hair we see on older heads is often the product of his art. If you are disfigured, or made old, austere and ugly, by gray hair, restore its youthful color, and with your features to their original softness and agreeable expression.
As an elegant dressing for beautifying the Hair, it has no superior.

John.

I left Ogdensburg, and presume any person wishing to visit Ogdensburg will find it about where I left it. I sailed upon the St. Lawrence, and I was asleep when we passed the Thousand Islands. I wouldn't have got up to look at 'em if there had been ten thousand islands. One island is enough at a time for some folks—for instance, Blackwell's Island. When I awoke I found myself awake, and we were ploughing deep furrows in the bosom of Lake Ontario. I guess the waters were placed. I dont exactly know what placed is, but I guess they must have been placed. They were like a mirror, and I was in the right frame of mind to notice that that mirror had no frames. Gracious me, how the keel of that boat must have scared the little fishes! There was a ripple and a sheen on the lake. Some of these ripples were thirty feet high, and some of 'em crawled on board the boat, and I found 'em quite wet. I didn't feel of the sheen, but I suppose that was wet too. We continued to cleave the waters of Ontario until we began to cleave the Oswego river. We landed right up by the chin of Oswego, hitched up to the town, and went ashore.

Oswego is split in two by the river, and I exclaimed, "Which is Oswego?" and a man said "both." "A house divided against itself must fall." If a town divided against itself must fall, there will be the hardest tumble down here some day you ever heard of. A light house has grown right on the mouth of the Oswego river. Oswego is an awful windy place, and cold the year round. In winter you can sit right on a grate fire fifteen minutes before you thaw out enough to feel the heat. There are two or three bridges that hold the two sides of the town together, and instead of the people getting their hair cut, they sit on the bridge and let the wind blow it off. Nurses, when they wish to still crying children, take 'em on the bridge and make 'em face the wind, and they can't yell. After sunset in the middle of July, to feel comfortable you want a fur overcoat and sealskin mittens. The town was settled by Mr. Oswego, and he is dead. The hotels of Oswego could be improved by setting 'em on fire, burning 'em up and building new ones. If you stop at one, you'll wish you'd stop at another, and if you stop at all, you'll wish you'd camped out. They are trying to build a new one, and they need it.

There is a man, an excellent man, in Oswego. He is so strong on temperance that he won't make wry faces or eat corned beef, and he always wears pumps. He was drunk once and then made a mistake and ate some Worcestershire sauce on his hash, instead of vinegar. His son is a seaman. His grandfather taught him navigation with a shingle floating in salt mackerel pickle. He intended him for the lakes, but he preferred the ocean. His father says this preference was caused by using that salt brine to teach him navigation with instead of fresh water.

Two chickens that were perfectly well yesterday at roosting time died suddenly last night at the house where I was stopping. They were twins, aged six months and two days. They were very tender. I helped to bury 'em at breakfast.

Vexed an Oswegonian. He had a horse. He had driven that horse in between two posts so he wouldn't fall down. That horse looked like a cross between the jawbone of an ass, an umbrella frame, and the cover of an old dictionary.

Says I "Stanger, head him round. Put his jib to the wind so he can swallow some; it'll fat him up."

Says he, "Stranger, that horse is all right; he won't eat."

Says I "Ever try him with oats?"

Says he, "No, he don't need 'em. He is an awful strong horse. That horse can draw more than any other horse in this town."

Says I, "I'll tell you what that horse can draw more of than any horse I ever saw."

Says he, "What."

Says I, "Flies."

He was mad. He took a crowbar and pried the horse's hind legs from the ground, another fellow pushed the wagon, and they started off.

I met an Englishman in Oswego. He never had realized much, I guess. He couldn't tell a salt meadow from a corn field. When I called a muskmellon a huckleberry, he believed it, but when I swore right up and down, as true as I live and breathe, that hay was cut grass, he wouldn't believe it. He said, "I've seen hay growing, and it grew up in the shape of big toad stools." He had seen hay stacks, and thought it grew so.

I saw a military company in Oswego some years ago. There were twenty privates, who were all captains, and carried guns and swords. Half appeared to live on one side of the river, and half on the other side of the river. The half that lived on one side of the river wanted to parade on that side of the river, and the half that lived on the other side of the river were desirous of parading on that side of the river. They got mad and stopped on a corner, and were about to split up when the band numbering thirty, charged, surrounded 'em and made 'em parade all day. All good officers who desire to preserve discipline in the ranks should see that the band is two or three times larger than the company, so as to take care of 'em in case of mutiny. Most country officers do this.

A domestic sprinkled Paris green on the cold custard-pie the other day; she took it for green pepper. The corpse of a dead faucet roach on the top of the pie prevented the family from eating it. It was a narrow escape. They have no water bugs in Oswego, but there are lots of watermelons.

Ain't Port-land a queer name for a city where the Maine law is in operation?

I talked to-day with an Oswegonian—another Oswegonian. We talked about sunstrokes.

Says I, "There is nothing that's warm after it's dead."

Says he, "There's lots of things that's hot after they are dead"

Says I, "No, I don't mean the wicked folks."

"Says he, "No, I don't mean wicked folks."

Says I, "Please tell me what's warm after it's dead."

Says he, "My dear sir, roast peanuts, and boiled eggs are warm after they are dead."

He then tied his fur cap under his chin and waded across the bridge.

If you want to be reminded of the days of your childhood, watch a fly crawling through a plate of soft butter, and if it doesn't remind you of wading through the snow to get to school, then nothing will, and a cow path wouldn't remind you of the milky way. In fact, you're not susceptible.

People here have small feet, but large shoes fit 'em best. I saw a pair of feet to-day. They were hitched to a man. I asked him where his derrick was to hoist 'em? He didn't tell me. Those feet were too large to get into any place smaller than a camp meeting, and they couldn't get in there without mashing the mourners. Those old wooden boots in Chatham street would fit them. They would do to travel with a menagerie to hitch the elephants to. I told the owner so, which didn't please him.

Green muskmelons are in blossom. They are unhealthy. I once gave a child that was teething eight, and it ate the whole of 'em. It positively refused to eat more, and although I always thought that muskmelons were perfectly harmless, they made that child quite sick, and when I told its mother what I had done, although I always thought females were perfectly harmless, she made me quite sick too.

Street cars don't grow in Oswego. I was in a street car once. The car was out doors. It was getting dark; the fare was six cents. One of those chaps that sells clothes, "that cost him as sore as there is a God in hebble, twenty dollars, and sells them for ten dollars, so as to break his brother, who owns the store, so he can buy the pishness," got in, and thinking perhaps the conductor would put the money in his pocket without looking at it, he handed him a two cent and one cent piece. He thought he'd take it for five and one. The following conversation ensued:

Conductor—Here, that ain't enough,

Passenger—What ish dat?

Conductor—I want six cents.

Passenger—Dat ish what I give you.

Conductor (showing it to him)—You only gave me three cents.

Passenger (getting his head close down to the money)—Oh yes, oh yes; you ish right. Your eyesight ish petter dan mine, your eyesight ish petter dan mine, so it ish.

I saw many tow boats to-day, and it wasn't a good day for tow boats either. A tow boat ain't like a man. A man has tows before, and a tow boat has its tows behind. A tow boat towing a lot of boats always reminds me of a woman going through the street with twenty to twenty five of her children following her.

When a man lodges and eats in a house at so much a week it is called board because you have to plank down your money for it.

In Oswego a man lives who is a great eater. After a meal he can't walk, so he has built a house on top of a hill, and a store at the foot of it. After a meal he rolls down hill to the store. If he ever eats a meal at the store it will be bad for him getting home. Stanley has got rivers running up hill. Perhaps this old cuss can roll up hill.

A Celtic female—cousin of Rebecca the Bow—to-day threw some warm tar over another female. It was a pitched battle. The female who got the most tar is pronounced by eminent physicians to be water proof. This decision is rough on whiskey.

Part of the town is for Grant, and part for Greeley.

POOR SOUL.—The Boston Times says a gentleman in Portland took a trip to Casco with the idea of purchasing a farm. On his return he was questioned regarding the prospect and replied that he could not see his way clear to purchase in that vicinity, as he noticed the town filled the graves with manure, the soil being so poor they did not think the bodies could rise at the resurrection.

—Prentis of the Lawrence, Kansas, Journal, has been entertaining a party of Quakers, and in trying to follow their theesand thous he dislocated his tongue, and now lisps like a girl in her album age.

—Shakespeare, of the Chicago Post, did this with his left hand, tied behind him: "Youghees—the Tall Sycamore of the Wabash—is awfully more than he was before the election."

—Horace is raising a large crop of dessicated vegetable soup, and to prevent the rot of the sun reaching it, he is having a tin roof erected over his farm.

MONDAY, OCTOBER 21, 1872.

Pennsylvania.

The full returns of the Pennsylvania election give Hartranft a majority of 35,737 in a total vote of over 655,000. This is the largest majority ever cast for a popular candidate in the State since the war. Governor Geary in 1869 had a majority of only 4596; the majority for Hartranft (auditor-general) in 1868, with which vote the Greeley papers prefer to compare the results of the contest just closed, was 9677; and the majority for General Grant in 1868 was but 28,898. If this is not a sweeping and decisive party victory, then there never was one. Forty-one counties show Republican gains over the vote of 1868; while in only 17 of the 31 counties which went Republican in 1868 is the Republican vote now reduced. These figures demonstrate (as some of the liberal managers have already admitted) that several thousand Democrats have concluded to support the administration in preference to the liberal candidate for the presidency. While the vote for Hartranft is some three thousand more than the vote for Grant in 1868, the vote for Buckalew is nearly four thousand less than the vote for Seymour then. In the last legislature there was a Republican majority of eleven votes; in the next legislature the Republicans will have a majority of twenty-three.

Political.

The Washington correspondent of the Cincinnati Gazette says the Liberal lack in votes sufficient to make a good-sized victory was like the trouble Aaron experienced when he set out to make his graven image, as explained by a precocious scholar. "Why did Aaron make a golden calf?" said the teacher. "Because there wasn't gold enough to make a bull," was the reply.

Col. Alexander K. McClure, chairman of the Liberal State Central Committee of Pennsylvania, says in the Philadelphia Press: "Pennsylvania is hopelessly for Grant, and I do not think either Ohio or Indiana are likely to vote for Greeley. I regard the debatable States as settled against us by the October elections."

"Boys, we have got them. Pennsylvania has done it."—H. G. in the New York Tribune, October 9, 1860. History repeats itself, Horace.

Senator Wilson delivered his one hundredth speech in this campaign in Providence, R. I., Friday evening. The largest hall in the city would not contain the people who sought to hear him.

Leslie Coombs, the playmate of Methuselah and last survivor of the party in a famous architectural enterprise at Babel, is out for Greeley.

A Pennsylvanian's election bets yielded him $3000 in cash, eleven suits of clothes and two hundred kegs of nails. He was a Republican of course.

The Biddeford straight-outs put up a flag bearing the names of O'Conor & Adams, Friday. Col. T. E. Lane is at the head of the movement.

Hon. Hervey C. Calkin, a Democratic member of the Forty-first Congress, who was elected from the Twelfth New York District by a Democratic majority of 16,000, is out for Grant.

The Chicago Post says: "Hayes has gone to grass in Cincinnati. Also Eggleston. We are consoled by the fact, however, that the whisky candidate for Supreme Judge went out of the same districts with eight times the majority. Horace Greeley is right, after all. In the haunts of whisky, Democracy is enthroned."

At Newburyport, on Wednesday evening, at a parade of the Tanners, stones were thrown and struck one or two men, and their transparencies were destroyed.

A Grant and Wilson procession at Dedham, Mass., was repeatedly attacked by gangs of roughs, Friday night, and many of the Tanners were struck with stones, two men being so badly hurt that they had to be taken home in carriages, while a third had his face laid open by a blow from a brick or sharp stone. Such outrages do not help the Greeley cause any.

—To make a boy deceitful, a parent has only to require him, whenever he returns home, to give an accurate account of his doings during his absence.

—Herr Johann Strauss went home after the Jubilee chewing tobacco, it is said—having learned that bad habit as a recommended specific for toothache.

—The lumber trade for the season is drawing to a close in Minnesota, with twenty-five million feet of logs to winter over.

TOO MUCH BEER.—Another of those fearful yet not uncommon accidents—falling into a scalding beer vat—occurred recently at Glab's distillery.

Nicholas Haas, a boy fifteen years of age, employed in the establishment, went to the top of the vat to stir up the contents, lost his footing, and fell in. He was scalded so badly that the skin came off his whole body. He was taken to his home, on Jackson street and Eagle Point avenue, where all that medical skill could do was done for him without avail. He complained of inward pain, and it is probable some of the boiling liquid got down his throat in his struggles. He lingered from 10 o'clock in the morning until five in the afternoon, when death put an end to his sufferings.

Such accidents are sickening to think of. The idea of a man being boiled to death is shocking. This is said to be the fourth person who has fallen into that vat—the last case occurring about a year ago. We have heard of one other instance of the kind in this city, and within the past twelve months two deaths from a similar cause have happened in Galena. The frequency of these horrid deaths suggests the inquiry, cannot something be done to prevent them? It appears as if these vats might be covered or so guarded that they may cease to be traps for human beings.—Dubuque Telegraph.

SO GENERAL has the public confidence become in Dr. Ayer's medicines, and so great the demand for them, that unprincipled villains are attempting to deceive the unwary by imposing upon them their worthless nostrums under a similarity of name. Cherry Pectoral Lozenges, Dr. Ayer's Troches, Ayer's Pastiles for Coughs, Cherry Pectoral Cough Drops, Ayer's Fever and Ague Cure, Dr. Ayer's Indian Pills, &c., (none of which are Dr. Ayer's manufacture or composition) are specimens of this villainy and deceit. They not only defraud the sick of their money but of their health, or the recovery of their health, which is far more important than money. From actual counterfeits the people are protected by law which the Doctor promptly enforces, but these evasions sometimes elude the law, and purchasers must protect themselves by refusing to be deceived by them.

USE BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL for all throat diseases. For sale at the Union Store.

CASTORIA.—A substitute for Castor Oil—is a physic which does not distress or gripe, but is sure to operate when all other remedies have failed. You may confidently rely upon the Castoria in Stomach-ache, Constipation, Flatulency, Croup, Worms, Piles or deranged Liver. It contains neither Minerals, Morphine, Opium nor Alcohol, but is purely a vegetable preparation, perfectly harmless, and above all, pleasant to take. The Castoria soothes and quiets the system, and produces natural sleep. It is a wonderful thing to assimilate the food of children and prevent them from crying. A 35 cent bottle will do the work for a family and save many doctors' bills.

USED UP.—What is the precise meaning of this familiar phrase when employed to signify an unnatural condition of body and mind? It means exhaustion, languor, want of vital energy, mental apathy—a pitiable state of physical and mental helplessness. The best, and in fact the only perfectly reliable panacea for a "used up" system is that most popular and potent of medicinal stimulants, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. No matter whether the health has been broken down by excessive labor, over-study, an insalubrious atmosphere, anxiety, irregularities in diet, dissipation, or any other cause, this powerful and pleasant vegetable restorative will soon recruit the drooping energies of nature, restoring the integrity of the nerves, and re-establishing that functional regularity which is essential to animal vigor and a hopeful frame of mind. As a cure for debility, in all its varied manifestations, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is unapproached by any tonic in materia medica.

USE BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL for all throat diseases. For sale at the Union Store.

PILES.—The decessing torture from internal bleeding, external and itching piles is fast wearing away the thousands of those who are afflicted and their hope and courage have long since given place to despair. Let those who see this cheer up, for a mild and sure cure may be had by using BRIGGS' PILE REMEDIES.

A UNIVERSAL ARTICLE OF FAITH.—In these days of religious contention it has been thought impossible to indicate an article of faith upon which all sects and classes were united. There is one, however, and a very notable one, too, viz.: a belief which is implicit and universal in the paramount efficacy of that matchless Household Tonic and Recuperant, Plantation Bitters. The constantly increasing patronage which it receives has, it is true, excited the petty envy of certain shrewd advertisers of pinchbeck panaceas, who hope to make a market for their own stagnant, watery wares, by decrying all spirituous medicinal preparations. But the public can stomach neither their arguments nor their potations, and consequently reject these very weak imitations of the enemy as entirely too thin!

COMBS.—Since pride and fashion have had control of mankind, and shoemakers were compelled to make boots and shoes to fit fancy instead of the feet, the suffering from Corns, Bunions, Ingrowing Nails, Sore Instepe, Blistered Heels, Callosities on the bottom of the feet, &c., cannot be described. But Hoofine, Good and Patent Remedies will cure all such troubles, and proper fitting boots will prevent their reproduction. Sold by all druggists. m12

Fatal Accident.

Mr. George West, of Belfast, Me., a brakeman on the Eastern Railroad, was fatally injured at about 10 o'clock Saturday night, while shackling cars at the depot in this city. The heel of his boot caught in a frog and threw him down, the cars passing over him while in that position, tearing the flesh from one leg and injuring him internally. He died about half-past three o'clock Sunday morning, at the Franklin House, whither he was at once conveyed on being hurt. His age was 27 years.

BARNABEE ye Buffo is without an equal. He has a splendid voice and an inexhaustible fund of humor. Taken away his talent as a vocalist, and he would be famous as a comedian. Taken away his dramatic power, and he would still be noted as a vocalist. Both gifts are wielded in making captive all who see and hear him.—Utica (N. Y.) Herald.

Mr. Charles H. Sayward has sold all his right in the Sea Cottage Hotel and premises to his partner, Mr. Charles A. Grant. The many warm friends of Mr. and Mrs. Sayward will exceedingly regret the change although they will be glad to know that the house is still under the charge of Mr. and Mrs. Grant, who, with Mr. and Mrs. S. have, by their kind attention to their guests for the two seasons just past, won for themselves a host of friends, and for the house, truly a good reputation.

We doubt not the house under Mr. and Mrs. Grant's managment will continue to bear the same favorable reputation it has hitherto borne, "a home-like place." P.

State News.

The dead body of an Irishman named Kelly, who has been at work on the railroad in Conway, and who has been missing about two weeks, was found last Friday in the mill-pond, about half a mile from the village.

At Dover, during the hay season, four young ladies, Adelaide, Jenny, Emma and Alta Hanson, with the assistance of one man, their brother, made and gathered sixty tons of hay. One of them, Miss Emma, herself mowed the whole of it with a two-horse machine. This promising young farmer is but seventeen years of age.

At Mount Vernon last week as Mr. George Scales was assisting a neighbor, (B. F. Marden), to catch a vicious horse, the animal turned and kicked him with great force, striking him in the forehead and crushing in his skull. The injuries, it was feared, would prove mortal.

Miss Hattie Hicks of Jefferson, aged about 35 years, hung herself in her father's barn Friday.

It was stated the other day that the Greeley flag in Peterborough had been sold to the Republicans. The Nashua Telegraph says the statement was literally true, and yet the whole story has not been told. After the sale the Republicans bought a lot of crape to go with the flag. This was too much for some of the Greeley men, and a delegation waited on the Republicans and begged the privilege of repurchasing the flag. The Republicans—tender souls that they are—were touched by the appeal and offered to sell provided the Greeley men would take the crape off their hands at cost. The bargain was at once struck; the flag now floats as of yore, and the crape is stowed safely away. The incident has furnished the Republicans of Peterborough with fun for a week at very small cost.

The News.

The Grand Trunk Railroad Company is expending over $50,000 in reconstructing its wharves in Portland.

A mail coach was stopped by two highwaymen three miles north of Pleasant Valley, Montana, on Thursday night, and the passengers were robbed of $7000.

Mr. L. R. Cobb, associate editor of the Portland Advertiser, has resigned, and Mr. Giles O. Bailey, formerly editor of the Gardner Reporter, takes his place.

Mr. Eli Hanson, has recently recovered $4000 from the European and North American Railroad Company for an assault committed on him in March, 1871, by William Foster, a brakeman in the employ of the defendant corporation.

Two boys named Nelson and Purdy were found guilty of manslaughter in the second degree at Ogden for rape and murder of a little girl in Hooper City last summer, and sentenced to the penitentiary for twenty years.

As a young girl was hurrying past a store on Main street last Wednesday evening, she stumbled, fell to the pavement and was set upon by a dog and bitten quite severely.—Biddeford Times.

Henry A. Armstrong, formerly one of the proprietors of the Marine Railway in Madison, Ind., and who has not lived amicably with his wife for some time, beat and dragged her down stairs on Thursday night. He subsequently shot himself dead.

The President has appointed ex-Governor Lucius Fairfield of Wisconsin United States consul to Liverpool vice Thomas H. Dudley, resigned.

THE GENEVA WATCH-MAKERS.—Geneva has so long been the watch factory of the world that little need be said on the subject. From four to five thousand men are constantly engaged in making watches. Two or three thousand more are employed in making musical-boxes. In the absence of statistics it is supposed that one hundred and fifty thousand watches are now made in Geneva every year. The work is separated into many departments. The watch-makers, so-called—those who make the works of the watches—are the steadiest class. They have no trades-union. The case-makers are freer spirits, and have a trades-union, as do the jewelers, engravers, and enamelers. All of these latter command higher wages than the watch-makers, and having more temptation, are more given to beginning the week on Wednesday, after a leisurely spree. A watch-maker averages about six francs, or nearly a dollar and a quarter a day. Jewelers, engravers, and enamelers can make a little more than that. Case-makers can earn three dollars a day. But such are the habits of all these four latter classes that they do not average more than the six francs a day of the watch-work maker. There are not very large watch factories in Geneva; that is the workmen are rarely collected in one building. The independence of the whole class is indicated by the fact that they generally work at home. Where a quaint old house reaches out for light through many windows high above the dinginess of its narrow court, you may be sure that the proud ruler of the little republic is there with his watch-making or engraving tools. He and his brethren who make music boxes and singing-birds, and the other industrious denizens of the St. Gervais quarter, are the rulers of this little republic, because they are the backbone of the radical party, and the radical party is the backbone of the liberal or independent party, which rules the city and the canton. It is these people who, under the lead of James Fazy, in 1846, brought the aristocrats of the old upper city to terms, and made them pay for the powder and ball with which they did it. They work and think, and rule one of the best, and apparently one of the least, governed cities in the world.—Harper's Magazine for November.

A MISUNDERSTANDING.—Hon. D. W. Gooch addressed a crowded audience of his constituents at Melrose, on Thursday night, and a little incident occurred thereat which was certainly not in the programme. Shortly after Mr. Gooch had commenced his speech a quartette of female juvenility, occupying seats immediately in the rear of two reporters for the Boston press, commenced whispering in rather an audible manner, and the honorable gentlemen being greatly disturbed thereby, remarked that if they were going to speak he would at once desist, at the same time pointing his finger at them. The two reporters before mentioned discovered at this moment they had barely time to catch the last train into the city, and gathering up pencil and notebook, started for the door of the hall, not noticing the black looks of the audience which followed them. And here comes the laughable part of the whole affair. The worthy and eloquent candidate for Congress from the Fifth District, laboring under the impression that they had taken umbrage at what he had said to the children, immediately hastened to apologize. He had not intended the rebuke for the two gentlemen acting as reporters, but for those sitting behind. One of the knights of the pencil, with all that modesty which they as a class possess, explained the reason of their leaving the hall so unceremoniously in a neat maiden speech, and the two "victims of circumstances" left the hall amidst roars of laughter.—Boston Journal.

The Singer

SEWING MACHINE

STILL LEADS THE MARKET.

The Success o the Company is far beyond that o any other similar concern; the

Daily Manufacture

—OF—

400 OF THE SINGERS

Failing to Supply the Constant Demand.

All other machines call the public attention to some new loop or stitch or tension or finish, some advantage in running or needles or feed or prices—and many of these are as we have said very good points, and the agents selling them use them to divert entirely the would-be purchaser from fairly considering the facts in the case; but the

seems to unite the good qualities of all, and is never found wanting.

THE SINGER

IS THE

OLDEST

SEWING MACHINE

IN THE MARKET,

All others being copied from its first model. does two-thirds the sewing done in this country and preserves its advantages over all others combined.

It is readily kept clean, and has THE BEST TENSION EVER INVENTED; it is higher speeded and requires but little power to run; it works equally well upon the finest and heaviest goods; it does all the varieties of work known to the art.

N. B. Those purchasing for cash, before the 1 of January next, will have a consideration allowed them.

New Publications.

Brainard's Musical World for October comes to our table in an entire new dress, and is a model of handsome typography. It has always been one of the best, and now is the most beautiful of our musical exchanges. Its table of contents for October is a store of good things for musical people; selected miscellany, editorials, reviews of musical doings in the country, and fresh, sparkling new music. The publishers offer attractive premiums for new subscribers. The music in this number is a beautiful song and chorus, "Mother, do not shut the door," "Beautiful Day Mazurka," and "Pony Galop." $1 00 per annum. S. Brainard's Sons, Publishers, Cleveland, O.

The November number of Old and New offers a varied and attractive table of contents. A new serial story, "Pythamica," is begun. There is another chapter of Rev. James Martineau's able and suggestive work entitled "God in Humanity." An article which deserves attention, and will doubtless receive it, is entitled "Have workingmen any Cause of Complaint?" considered from a working-man's standpoint, by G. W. P., a printer, who writes with excellent perception of the disadvantages under which a Boston mechanic labors to-day. Mr. Habetels sleepless people what they must do to be somnolent. In The Examiner Mr. Wason reviews Dr. Bartol's "Radicals' Problems," and Professor Everett writes at length of "The Fourth Gospel, the Heart of Christ," by E. H. Sears.

Harper's Magazine for November contains part VI. of the Mountains, with twelve illustrations; The Listeners, one illustration; Down the Danube, (concluded,) thirteen illustrations; The Great Mother; An Industrial Experiment at South Manchester, eight illustrations; The Siren of Science, eight illustrations; The Republican Movement in Europe, sixth paper; The Visit; Geneva, nineteen illustrations; and other interesting articles. The Editor's Drawer is well provided with good things, as usual, and has eleven illustrations.

American Journal of the Medical Sciences, edited by Isaac Hays, M. D., and I. Minis Hayes, M. D.; published quarterly, by Henry C. Lea, 706 and 708 Sansom St., Philadelphia; $5 per year. The list of contributors to the present number contains over fifty names, many of them of physicians and surgeons of the highest reputation; and every number contains a large amount of matter of great interest and value to medical men.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

Pulmocine Cordial

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. EVERY FAMILY should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred THROAT DISEASES at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of PREVENTION. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup, should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this FAMILY MEDICINE prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocating by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all these afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the protracted, suffocating breathing at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the PULMONARY OUNATIVE he could prescribe, after a dozen years of trial and experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are WILD CHERRY BARK, SQUILL ROOT, LIQUORICE ROOT, BLOOD ROOT, &c. It is a BLOOD PURIFIER, gently stimulating, it increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic, and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

For Coughs, Croup, Diphtheria, Asthma, &c.

USE BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor is one who discovered a weed and thereby cured every disease. All the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified, in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and beloved physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

AYER'S

SARSAPARILLA

FOR PURIFYING THE BLOOD.

A medicine that cures is a real public blessing. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA makes positive cure of a series of complaints, which are always afflicting and too often fatal. It purifies the blood, purges out the lurking humor in the system, which undermine health and settle into troublesome disorders. Eruptions of the skin are the appearance on the surface of humor that should be expelled from the blood. Internal derangements are the determination of these same humors to some internal organ, or organs, whose action they derange, and whose substance they disease and destroy. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA expels these humors from the blood. When they are gone, the disorders they produce disappear, such as Ulcerations of the Liver, Stomach, Kidneys, Lungs, Eruptions and Eruptive Diseases of the skin, St. Anthony's Fire, Rose or Erysipelas, Pimples, Pustules, Blotches, Boils, Tumors, Tetter and Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, Ulcers and Sores, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Pain in the Bones, Side, and Head, Female Weakness, Sterility, Leucorrhœa arising from internal ulceration and uterine disease, Dropsy, Dyspepsia, Emaciation, and General Debility. With their departure health returns.

CHERRY PECTORAL

For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma and Consumption.

The few compositions, which have won the confidence of mankind and become household words among not only one but many nations, must have extraordinary virtues. Perhaps no one ever attained so wide a reputation or maintained it so long as AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. It has been known to the public about forty years, by a long continued series of marvellous cures, which have won for it a confidence in its virtues, never equalled by any other medicines. It still makes the most effectual cures of Coughs, Colds, Consumption, that can be made by medical skill. Indeed the CHERRY PECTORAL has really robbed these dangerous diseases of their terrors, to a great extent, and given a feeling of immunity from their fatal effects, which is well founded, if the remedy be taken in season. Every family should have it in their closet for the ready and prompt relief of its members. Sickness, suffering, and even life is saved by this timely protection. The prudent should not neglect it, and the wise will not. Keep it by you for the protection it affords in sudden attacks, and by its timely use.

BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOR is composed of Ammonia, Chloroform, Spirits of Camphor, Tincture of Lupulina, Oil of Juniper, and Alcohol. This compound is unequalled in the annals of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling or Twitching of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, banish pimples, cure scaly eruptions, itching, humors, &c.; it equalizes the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the brain, cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. Briggs' Alleviator absolutely possesses more curative properties than any other preparation. Physicians, chemists, and others are requested to examine and test the remedy, and $1000 will be paid if found different from representation.

COUGHS, Much has been said and many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases; but nothing has been so eminently successful, or obtained such a wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.

CORNS! The excruciating pain produced by Corns, the unceasing twinging from Bunions, the piercing, distressing pain from Ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, not knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies are no acid or potash compounds, but are reliable, soothing, and effectual, and just merit the success they have earned from an appreciative public. The Curative is a healing ointment; immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it will positively cure the worst cases of Festered Corns, Inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the sorest instep, the largest and severest Blisters, the most extensive Callosities on the soles or heels of the feet, unequalled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Allevantor for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unexcelled by anything ever known.

PILES have been a terror to mankind for centuries, and almost every attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr. Briggs has discovered an absolutely cure for internal, bleeding, external, and itching piles. Briggs' Pile Remedies are mild, safe and sure.

The Chronicle.

The Great Bank Robbery.

We recently gave a brief report of the robbery of the Saratoga County Bank at Waterford, N. Y., and now add the following further particulars, taken from the Troy Times:—

The Saratoga County Bank does business in a two-story brick building on the northeast corner of Second and Broad streets, in the village of Waterford. The first story is mostly used for banking purposes, and the remainder of the building is occupied by the Cashier, D. M. Von Hovenberg, and his family, which consists of himself, his wife, two daughters about 18 years of age, and one son, a little boy who saw his eighth birthday yesterday. The building was, between the hours of 1 and 4 o'clock this morning, the scene of the most daring and outrageous robbery ever perpetrated in Waterford, certainly, or in this vicinity, probably.

At one o'clock this morning Ann Driscoll, the servant who slept in the basement, says she was awakened by two men. They were standing over her, one holding a dark lantern in his hand and the other pointing a revolver at her head, and threatening by all that was horrible to kill her instantly if she dared utter the least outcry, or make any attempt to betray them. Without any more ado they commenced to bind her in such a manner as to render her incapable of moving. She briefly resisted them, but finding that she was only perilling her own life without becoming instrumental in thwarting the purposes of the men, she abandoned her opposition and allowed them to bind her wrists and limbs. She was then questioned as to the location of the sleeping apartments of the family, and the number of persons it comprised. She gave them truthful answers to the questions in every respect but one. In the hope of frightening the men, supposing there were but two, she said that Mr. Van Hovenberg's brother was one of the inmates of the building. Before the last words of this fiction had been uttered, one of the ruffians brought the revolver close to the head of the terrified woman, and told her that she lied, for the gentleman mentioned by her had left [illegible] truth, and judging from this utterance and from other incidents, the inference is plain that the robbers were as intimately acquainted with the internal arrangement as the inmates themselves. The two men then hastily slipped a pair of handcuffs over the woman's wrists, and tearing her underclothing into strips made it into gags which they used in providing for her silence. Then she was ordered to remain quiet, and instant death was named as the penalty if she dared to move or attempt to make a noise. A minute or two afterward the men left the room satisfied that the woman was secure.

The men and their confederates, to the number it is believed of seven, proceeded up stairs to the doors of the sleeping apartments of Mr. Van Hovenberg and family. The inmates were all asleep, unconscious of the presence of the midnight marauders. The door leading into the apartment occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Van Hovenberg was forced open with a chisel or bar. The door was partially broken and a portion of the casing fractured by the effort to secure entrance. Mrs. Van Hovenberg was the first to awake, and when she opened her eyes she saw that the gas burners in the room were lighted, and that a masked man was standing over her with one hand tightly clutching her throat, and holding in the other a revolver which he pointed at her head. She attempted to speak and succeeded in uttering a petition for her life. Perfect security was promised to her in the event of her following instructions. She looked about and saw another man, masked as the other, with his hand on her husband's throat. Mr. Van Hovenberg had until this moment been asleep. When he awoke he comprehended the situation at a glance, and shouted for help. Instantly he was throttled and silenced. Then his limbs were tied together with tarred rope, his wrists secured with handcuffs, and a piece of muslin crammed into his mouth. Mrs. Van Hovenberg implored the masked assailants not to harm her children. She was told that they would be protected. She did not know that while the men were securing her husband and herself the doors of her children's sleeping rooms had been broken open in the same manner as the others. Five men, it is believed, entered the room first broken into, and assisted in handcuffing and tying Mr. and Mrs. Van Hovenberg.

In the meantime four others broke open the doors of their daughters' rooms. One of the young ladies, Sarah, had been awakened by the struggle in her parents' apartment, and when she saw the two men enter her room she hid behind the bed. She was instantly seized and dragged from her hiding place. Then the momentary terror which had possessed her departed, and she boldly faced the desperadoes. "Do you mean to hurt me?" she asked of one of the villains. "Not if you behave yourself," was the reply She struggled to relieve herself from their hands, but her strength was no match for theirs, and she was soon bound in the same manner as the others. While this was going on her sister Mary was rendered helpless by the other two men.

The little son of Mr. Van Hovenberg heard his father's shout for help, and rushing from an adjoining chamber to his father's bedside, commenced to cry. One of the villains seized him and told him if he did not cease crying his throat would be cut. The little fellow was silenced by this awful threat, and without resistance he suffered himself to be stowed away in a closet. When all the inmates of the building had been thus disposed of, Mr. Van Hovenberg was ordered to get up, his limbs having first been set free. Then in his night-clothes he was ordered to accompany the robbers down stairs into the banking room. "Do not kill him; he is all I've got," pleaded his wife. "He won't be hurt; only he must obey orders," was the reply. Seven men accompanied the bound cashier down stairs.

Two men were left to take care of the family. These men led the young ladies into their parents' room and placed them in bed beside their mother, and then going to the closet where the little boy had been placed, they brought him out and put him along-side of them. One of them walked up and down the halls and peered out of the front window. The other, with an audacity that recalls the achievements of Claude Duval, and even outrivals the freaks of that distinguished genius, reclined upon a lounge and entered into conversation with the ladies. On his side the conversation was carried on with a politeness that indicated he was a well-bred robber, who knew his manners, and knew also when to display them. Mrs. Van Hovenburg asked him what he and his confederates intended to do. "Well, you know our object; we're after money," said he with an air of nonchalance. "Can I do anything to make you more comfortable?" he queried, and then, without waiting for an answer, he proceeded to supply her with pillows. "Are you cold?" he asked, and a liberal supply of quilts from the the other beds was furnished. Then this polite rascal made a tour of the room, inspecting the pictures and helping himself to a purse of money. [illegible] will not touch your jewelry; but I want your diamonds; where are they?" he inquired. "I have no diamonds," replied Mrs. Van Hovenburg. "Oh, you are not poor," urged the fellow with a smile. "Yes, we are poor," replied the lady. Thus an hour, it seemed an age to the terrified mother and her children, passed away.

Cashier Van Hovenberg was led into the bank room, where his captors stopped in front of the vault door. With horrible oaths and imprecations upon his head if he disobeyed orders, he was commanded to unlock the vault door. With his arms secured he commenced to work. He pretended to have forgotten the combination and made scores of other excuses, but they would not hearken to him. By various pretexts he secured delay, in the vain hope that assistance would come before he was compelled to expose to the thieves the valuable contents of the vault. Slowly the hands upon the dial of the clock before him moved; an age of time seemed to elapse while he was alone with the marauders. In every way that occurred to him he sought to delay, but at last the patience of the robbers gave out. Some of them whispered so loud, however, that his quickened hearing drank in every word. "Kill the —— if he don't open it right away."

All this time his arms were secured behind him, and three men—two armed with revolvers and one with a dagger and rolling-pin in his hands—were standing close to him. Still anxious to secure delay he turned to the men and said: "I can't unlock the door with my hands behind me." The handcuffs were slipped from his wrists and he was again commanded to proceed with his work. After consuming more time by his delays one of the burglars, losing all patience, proposed to take his life if the cashier persisted in his "dodges." Abandoning all hope of relief Mr. Van Hovenberg, to whose arms the shackles were restored, then opened the outer and inner vault doors, and with two revolvers pointed at his head was compelled to stand and witness the thieves while they ransacked the contents thereof.

Eight thousand five hundred dollars in currency belonging to the bank was first stowed away. Then thirty or forty tin boxes containing bonds and stocks belonging to private parties were carried out of the vault and placed upon the floor of the counting-room. All of these boxes were broken open and their contents placed in a heap. Several cast-iron boxes resisted successfully their violence, and these, with the bonds and stocks taken from the outer boxes, were, when the thieves were ready to depart, carried out of doors and placed in a wagon which was waiting for them. Only last week the bank vault contained $50,000 in currency, and that morning a remittance of $8000 was received. Before any of the plunder was removed from the bank, Mr. Van Hovenberg, after he had obeyed a command to unlock the front door, was ordered to proceed up stairs. He was taken into an apartment adjoining that which his wife and children occupied, and bound and gagged in the most secure manner.

The polite individual then left his companion to take care of the ladies while he proceeded to the basement. He soon returned accompanied by the servant. Then without any ado he commenced to tear up the sheets of the bed which the ladies occupied. "Look here, what are you tearing up my mother's nice sheets for?" asked Sarah, and then, without waiting for an answer, she continued, "If you want old rags I can get you some." "We usually help ourselves to what we want," was the reply. With the strips made out of the torn sheets the work of gagging Mrs. Van Hovenberg, her daughters and the servant was commenced.

In the meantime the little boy was lifted out of bed. "What are you tying up for and what do you intend to do with my ma?" inquired Mrs. Van Hovenberg of the Cheltenhidian burglar. "We are doing what is necessary for our own protection; nobody will be hurt." After the gagging process had been completed the room was deserted by the robbers, who took the little boy with them. It seems that Mrs. Van Hovenberg was not perfectly gagged, but was able to speak Appreheending danger to her husband, of whose whereabouts she was in ignorance, and not knowing where her son was, she remained quiet. It afterward turned out that the boy had been returned to the closet which he had once before occupied.

Quietly and noiselessly the burglars proceeded to the counting-room, gathered up their plunder and drove away from the scene of the outrage. The inmates did not hear their departure and all remained quiet for some time—all except Sarah, who struggled until she removed the tarred ropes with which she had been bound. Then she leaped from the bed and searched the different rooms until she found her father, who was tied to a bed. She released him, and he securing a revolver proceeded to the street door, discharged several barrels of the weapon with his wrists still confined in the handcuffs. The noise of the shooting alarmed Dr. P. T. Hearitt and George Stewart, who reside in close proximity to the bank, and they instantly proceeded thitherward.

Mr. Van Hovenberg shortly communicated the fact of the robbery to them and to others who subsequently arrived. Files were procured and the cashier's imprisoned wrists released from the. The remainder of the inmates were unbound, and J. B. Enos drove to Troy and notified the police authorities. Superintendent McKenna and detectives English and Squires and Capt. Murphy arrived soon afterward. At 1 o'clock that afternoon detective Hurlbut and Sheriff McKeon appeared, but no clue to the participators in this mysterious robbery was obtained.

The loss is very large and will reach, we believe, nearly a half million of dollars. Everything valuable, with the exceptions already noted, was taken. The officers of the bank say that all the bonds and stocks taken were deposited at the risk of the owners, and claim the soundness of the institution is not in any way impaired by the robbery. There has been a heavy run of depositors all the morning upon the institution, but up to this writing all demands have been met, and there is no reason to apprehend that the bank will be damaged by the robbery beyond the amount of currency actually stolen.

Clearing for Action.

Foster's Dover Democrat is getting ready to pour a broadside of red hot shot into the coalition traders, as soon as their schemes and candidates are decisively and finally repudiated in November. Commenting on the election of Hendricks in Indiana, it says "had Hendricks been the Democratic candidate for President, he would, in all probability, have swept the field" in 1868. It adds:

We see here the true and only key to Democratic success, as we have said a thousand times before. * * * Hendricks is the champion of State Rights Democracy and * * commands the unbounded confidence and respect not only of all Democrats, but of the best men of all parties and persuasions. Where Buckalew is only qualified to follow, Hendricks is just the man to direct and lead straight to victory. His success in Indiana gives the Democracy a sturdy barrier against Radical aggressions, and will prove to be the rock upon which the Radical party will yet run and be dashed to pieces.

That means, we suppose, that a return to the first principles of the old Democratic party, abandoned in this Greeley-coalition campaign, is all that can save that party and destroy the Republican organization. Reviving "State Rights Democracy" is easier talked about than performed; but the mutual recriminations of the parties to the disgraceful coalition will make things lively for a few weeks following November 5th. The Greeley paper in this State which will have the best rights to growl is undoubtedly the Dover Democrat, for that paper opposed Horace and the "leading traffickers in and out of Congress" until it was persuaded into the harness by the energetic cracking of the party whip, wielded by the other Democratic papers of the State. The Democrat did eat, and freely, of the boiled crow; but we do not remember that it ever pretended to like such provender. We do remember that the Concord Patriot professed to enjoy the feast, and asserted that not only did boiled crow taste very good but that it (the Patriot) was overjoyed at the chance to prove its sincerity by swallowing the entire bird; the Democrat swallowed him too, but not until the last moment and then with a terribly wry face,—and it is already getting its guns in position to sweep the ranks of the "traffickers," as soon as Grant's re-election has demonstrated beyond question the utter failure of the boiled crow movement.

Ohio.

Official returns from the entire State show the following majorities for State officers: Secretary of State, Allen Wyckoff, 14,055; supreme judge, John Welch, 10,189; member of the board of public works, Richard R. Porter, 16,455. The total vote cast for secretary of state was 520,037, being the largest ever cast in Ohio for any officer. The following are the names of the Congressmen elected and their majorities, with the districts they represent:—

Pennsylvania.

The complete official returns of the Pennsylvania election are received. The full vote for Governor was 672,406, of which Hartranft had 353,387, Buckalew 317,760, and S. B. Chase (temperance) 1259, showing a majority for Hartranft of 35,627. General Harrison Allen's majority for audito-general is 36,786; majority for Republican supreme judge, 40,443; majority for Republican delegates to the constitutional convention, 47,588. The majorities for Republican congressmen-at-large are as follows: Lemuel Todd, 46,707; Charles Albright (who got the labor vote), 47,012; and Glenni Scofield, 43,999.

The majority for Republican delegates to the Constitutional Convention is 47,588.

MURDERS.—On Saturday afternoon, a man in Cambridge, named Stephen Foley, stabbed his fellow workman, William Hanson, with a chisel, wounding him so that he died within a few hours. In the evening a bloody affray on North Street, Boston, resulted in the death of a young man named Clifford.

Political.

The New York Greeley Sun says: "we believe the present imperilled condition of the Reform candidates is largely due to the lack of zeal, courage, and heartiness on the part of the Democracy." The same paper, up to the date of the October elections, shouted vigorously about Democratic unity and "enthusiasm" for Horace, and was hardly surpassed by the Tribune itself in calling any who disputed its statements on that point, liars.

The vote on the State debt question in South Carolina is overwhelmingly against its increase.

The "straight-out" Democratic State committee in St. Louis have issued an address presenting the names of O'Conor and Adams for president and vice-president; also a full electoral ticket.

There is a silence on the part of the Democratic papers of Indiana on the subject of the immense vote polled in that State, October 8, which the Chicago Tribune would do well to consider. An examination of the election returns shows that wherever the vote was disproportionate to the population, it was cast in the Democratic precincts. Boss Tweed was in the habit of polling more Democratic votes in some of the New York districts than their entire population numbered. Alvord's Democratic repeaters in Indiana have not done quite so well as that, but they did their best under the circumstances.

President Grant is happy. Since the organization of the Greeley party he has been relieved of half the pressure from office-seekers. It is no small boon to get rid, all at once, of the hungry horde who have gone over to Greeley.

New York Republicans talk of electing Gen. Dix Governor, by 50,000 majority.

SO GENERAL has the public confidence become in Dr. Ayer's medicines, and so great the demand for them, that unprincipled villains are attempting to deceive the unwary by imposing upon them their worthless nostrums under a similarity of name. Cherry Pectoral Lozenges, Dr. Ayer's Troches, Ayer's Pastiles for Coughs, Cherry Pectoral Cough Drops, Ayer's Fever and Ague Cure, Dr. Ayer's Indian Pills, &c., (none of which are Dr. Ayer's manufacture or composition) are specimens of this villainy and deceit. They not only defraud the sick of their money but of their health, or the recovery of their health, which is far more important than money. From actual counterfeits the people are protected by law which the Doctor promptly enforces, but these evasions sometimes elude the law, and purchasers must protect themselves by refusing to be deceived by them.

USE BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL for all throat diseases. For sale at the Union Store.

CASTORIA.—A substitute for Castor Oil—is a physic which does not distress or gripe, but is sure to operate when all other remedies have failed. You may confidently rely upon the Castoria in Stomach-ache, Constipation, Flatulency, Croup, Worms, Piles or deranged Liver. It contains neither Minerals, Morphine, Opium nor Alcohol, but is purely a vegetable preparation, perfectly harmless, and above all, pleasant to take. The Castoria soothes and quiets the system, and produces natural sleep. It is a wonderful thing to assimilate the food of children and prevent them from crying. A 35 cent bottle will do the work for a family and save many doctors' bills.

LAUGHTER LENDS A NEW CHARM to beauty, when it discloses a new set of teeth. Whiteness, when nature has supplied this element of loveliness, may be retained through life, by using the fragrant SOZODONT.

USED UP.—What is the precise meaning of this familiar phrase when employed to signify an unnatural condition of body and mind? It means exhaustion, languor, want of energy, mental apathy—a pitiable state of physical and mental helplessness. The best, and in fact the only perfectly reliable panacea for a "used up" system is that most popular and potent of medicinal stimulants, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. No matter whether the health has been broken down by excessive labor, over-study, an insalubrious atmosphere, anxiety, irregularities in diet, dissipation, or any other cause, this powerful and pleasant vegetable restorative will soon recruit the drooping energies of nature, restoring the integrity of the nerves, and re-establishing that functional regularity which is essential to animal vigor and a hopeful frame of mind. As a cure for debility, in all its varied manifestations, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is unapproached by any tonic in materia medica.

USE BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL for all throat diseases. For sale at the Union Store.

PILES.—The unceasing torture from internal bleeding, external and itching piles is fast wearing away the thousands of those who are afflicted and their hope and courage have long since given place to despair. Let those who see this cheer up, for a mild and sure cure may be had by using BRIGGS' PILE REMEDIES.

A UNIVERSAL ARTICLE OF FAITH.—In these days of religious contention it has been thought impossible to indicate an article of faith upon which all sects and classes were united. There is one, however, and a very notable one, too, viz.: a belief which is implicit and universal in the paramount efficacy of that unselfless Household Tonic and Recuperant, Plantation Bitters. The constantly increasing patronage which it receives has, it is true, excited the petty envy of certain splenetic advertisers of pinchbeck panaceas, who hope to make a market for their own stagnant, watery wares, by decrying all spirituous medicinal preparations. But the public can stomach neither their arguments nor their pretensions, and consequently reject these very weak imitations of the enemy as entirely too thin!

CORNS.—Since pride and fashion have had control of mankind, and shoemakers were compelled to make boots and shoes to fit fancy instead of the feet, the suffering from Corns, Bunions, Ingrowing Nails, Sore Insteps, Blistered Heels, Callosities on the bottom of the feet, &c., cannot be described. But Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies will cure all such torments, and proper fitting boots will prevent their reproduction. Sold by all druggists. a12

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

Laconics.

Thousands of dollars' worth of labor and dirt will be saved the city by reason of the branch railroad to Jones' brewery. Little boys must "look out for the engine when the bell rings," at the Islington Street crossing, however, or be cut off before being sufficiently budded.

He who promptly pays his bills is a public benefactor.

The average umbrellian is careless. Not knowing always when he will want his parapluie again, the owner forms a habit of depositing it where somebody may want it more than he does.

It takes those High School young ladies to "sit down" sharp on an anxious enquirer. A respected citizen who is sufficiently advanced in life to have long ago acquired wisdom, recently wished to ascertain how much practical learning could be evoked from the inspiration of a four years' course. "How old was Washington when he took command of the American army?" said he. "He wasn't old," was the response. —And of such is the kingdom.

"The little boys laughed to see such fun" as the Greeley torchers departed for Manchester in the $215 train, on which every torch was as good as a ticket.

Transplanting is sometimes as necessary for the success of business men as of plants.

Did you ever hear a denizen of Strawberry Bank call the place "Porchmouth," without grating your teeth and feeling broken down in pride?

Second Assistant Engineer James A. Deaver has been ordered to the Navy Yard.

They do say that Hon. William B. Small and Hon. Samuel M. Wheeler, with James W. Emery, Esq., will be candidates for the Republican Congressional nomination. Some of them are busy counting noses now.

When a man grows old he may have the satisfaction of realizing that he need not feel old, as every youngster he meets knows more than he can, possibly.

Successful men advertise.

The repaving of Market Street with other material than that now down will be a welcome indication to the dwellers on Washington Street, that civilization and the wear and tear of time will bring them relief—if they are obliged to wait a life time for it.

If you were sick unto death and should hear a bell tolling for a funeral, how do you think you would feel? Why continue a useless and semi-barbarous custom?

A new bass drum and several picolo players are welcome additions to the Grant and Wilson drum corps.

Running streams and falling leaves are monotonous suggestions to toper and philosopher; to the former, that he need not enter the bar-room from thirst; and to the latter, that earthly things are mist—and the more they are missed the better off are some people.

Many Republicans expect to go to Boston on the 30th, to witness the grand torch-light display. An afternoon train leaves Newburyport, at 4.05; why cannot Portsmouth people be accommodated with a special train to leave this city at 3.30 and connect with that train for Boston?

A new pair of boots will develope a man's inner soul with faithful reflex.

The torchlight parade of the Grant and Wilson Guards, appointed for Thursday evening, the 24th, is postponed until further notice.

First Assistant Engineer James H. Chasmer, U. S. N., has been relieved from duty at this Navy Yard at his own request.

Lynn has a three-year-old "Little Giant," and a jolly "Little Giant" it is.

Another great audience gathered at the Temple, Sunday evening, to listen to a temperance address by Mr. H. M. Bryant of Lewiston, Me. A vote of thanks to the speaker for his able effort was passed, and brief addresses were made by Rev. I. F. Waterhouse of Clinton, Mass., and J. Horace Kent, Esq.

Rev. A. J. Patterson will deliver the sermon at the installation of Rev. Carlos Martyn, next month.

Wendell Phillips is expected to lecture here in December.

Silence, unbroken save by the fine music of the Marine Band, reigned, as 47 torch-bearers in uniform and as many more in store-clothes marched down Congress and Vaughan Streets to take the train for Manchester. The 500 persons called for didn't apply for torches and up went the price of tickets from 50 cents to $1.15—a last pathetic appeal appearing in the Greeley hand-organ for all to pay $1.15 who could afford it and 50 cents if they couldn't. Chinese lanterns were offered for 25 cents to be replaced for 15 cents "if torn or broken." The chaps who had them, however, failed to get rid of the stock. The "enthusiasm" was held on to for use elsewhere and a stranger could not have told by looking at the crowd in the darkness whether the mourners were for Greeley or O'Conor.

Grant and Wilson Guards.

There will be a meeting of the Grant and Wilson guards this evening at Republican Headquarters, at 7 1-2 o'clock.

Per order.

S. J. Court.

On Monday, Daniel Clark, John Jones and Frederick Silloway of Kingston, plead guilty of selling liquor, and were each fined $50 and costs.

Award of Contracts.

The contracts for furnishing clothing, hats, groceries, paints, oils, glass and other supplies for the Navy have been awarded respectively as follows to parties in New England, viz.:

To Samuel Adams & Co. of Portsmouth, N. H.; Ezra Eames of Rockport; Trickey & Jewett and Elijah Howe, Jr., of Boston; L. L. DeRochemont of Newington, N. H.; Hugh Kelly, John Turner, L. H. Fall and Mullett & Bradbury of Charlestown, Mass.

The Navy Yard.

A New York Herald reporter has been going the rounds of the navy yards, and speaks as follows of this Station;—"As we bid the yard farewell it is impossible not to be struck with the magnificent location for a naval station. In the grand natural formation and facilities for expanding the yard Seavey's Island must prove a valuable acquisition and the foresight of the purchaser deserves commendation."

The News.

The Flannigan murder trial in New York resulted in finding the prisoner guilty of murder in the second degree, and the prisoner was sentenced to State prison for life. Flannigan killed his wife last winter.

A successful experiment was made last week on the Chesapeake and Ohio canal in driving a canal boat by means of water taken into a steam automatic pump at the bow and driven out through a pipe with great velocity in the direction of the keel. All the machinery is of very simple character and the speed attained on the trial trip was about the usual rate for freight boats.

S. T. Pullen, Esq., of the Portland Press, is lecturing on Woman Suffrage.

The national board of trade held its final session in New York on Saturday. A resolution was adopted looking to the establishment of a standard rate of interest in States where usury laws prevail. A resolution asking that steps be taken by Congress looking to the resumption of specie payment was agreed to by a vote of 31 to 9. Resolutions favoring the construction by the government of a free ship canal from the deep waters of the Mississippi to the Gulf of Mexico, a survey with a view of cutting a ship canal across the peninsula of Florida, and a change in the coinage bill now before Congress were also adopted.

The Singer

SEWING MACHINE

STILL LEADS THE MARKET.

The Success of the Company is far beyond that of any other similar concern; the

Daily Manufacture

—OF—

400 OF THE SINGERS

Failing to Supply the Constant Demand.

All other machines call the public attention to some new loop or stitch or tension or finish, some advantage in running or needles or feed or prices—and many of these are as we have said very good points, and the agents selling them use them to divert entirely the would-be purchaser from fairly considering the facts in the case; but the

seems to unite the good qualities of all, and is never found wanting.

THE SINGER

IS THE

OLDEST

SEWING MACHINE

IN THE MARKET,

All others being copied from its first model, does two-thirds the sewing done in this country and preserves its advantages over all others combined.

It is readily kept clean, and has THE BEST TENSION EVER INVENTED; it is higher speeded and requires but little power to run; it works equally well upon the finest and heaviest goods; it does all the varieties of work known to the art.

N. B. Those purchasing for cash, before the 1 of January next, will have a consideration allowed them.

AN AWKWARD COMPLIMENT.—Empress Marie Louise had never been popular in Paris, as Josephine was to the last, nor had she the fine instincts which so especially distinguished the first consort of Napoleon, who was, indeed, his better angel. For example: one day Napoleon, having been provoked by her father, the Emperor of Austria declared to Marie Louise that he was "an old ganache" (blockhead). Her majesty asked one of her ladies-in-waiting—as she said the emperor had called her father by that name—the meaning of the word ganache, and the lady, not knowing what to say in reference to the empress' own father, answered that it meant "a venerable old man." Marie Louise believed this; and afterwards, when Cambacères came to pay his respects to her, she, wishing to be very complimentary to him, said, "Sir, I have always regarded you as the chief ganache of France."—Harper's Magazine.

—It is seldom that Mr. George W. Curtis lets any expression slip from his delightful pen queerer than the final one in this extract from his paper in the last number of Harper's Bazar. It must be remembered that he writes in the character of an old bachelor:—

"And I confess that had I a son I would rather leave him the inspiration of such memories, than the possession of the Indies. If when he did a kind act or said a good word, it should be remarked that he was the worthy son of his father, I hope that he would feel how much costlier a legacy had been left him than if it were said, he is the son of that rich old bachelor."

"WELL

Old Whitey, what's the matter with you and why are you muffled up so?"

"Wretched cold! Can't speak aloud. My throat's so sore and lungs so oppressed it pains me to talk."

"Now, Old Boy, I was in the same predicament and have been wonderfully cured. Met a friend who urged me to take

Bought a bottle at the

Lungs.

Relieve Your

For the terrible diseases engendered by trying climate of New England,

Pulmonic Cordial

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every FAMILY should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croup, Laryngitis, or Inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred THROAT DISEASES at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of PREVENTION. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMONIC CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As a stitch in time saves nine, so does the possession of this FAMILY MEDICINE prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all such afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMONIC CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best PULMONARY CURATIVE he could present, after a decade of years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are WILD CHERRY BARK, SCULL ROOT, LIQUORICE ROOT, BLOOD ROOT, &c. It is a BLOOD PURIFIER, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic, and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

For Coughs, Croup, Diphtheria, Asthma, &c.

USE BUGHMAN'S

PULMOCINE CORDIAL.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or somewhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified, in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned medical men, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

AYER'S

SARSAPARILLA

FOR PURIFYING THE BLOOD.

A medicine that cures is a real public blessing. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA makes positive cures of a series of complaints, which are always afflicting and fatal. It purifies the blood, purges out the lurking humors in the system, which undermine health and settle into troublesome disorders. Eruptions of the skin are the appearances on the surface of humors that should be expelled from the blood. Internal derangements are the determination of these same humors to some internal organ, or organs, whose action they derange, and whose substance they disease and destroy. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA expels these humors from the blood. When they are gone, the disorders they produce disappear, such as Ulcerations of the Liver, Stomach, Kidneys, Lungs, Eruptions and Eruptive Diseases of the skin, St. Anthony's Fire, Rose or Erysipelas, Pimples, Pustules, Blotches, Boils, Tumors, Tetter and Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, Ulcers and Sores, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Pain in the Bones, Side, and Head, Female Weakness, Sterility, Leucorrhœa arising from internal ulceration and uterine disease, Dropsy, Dyspepsia, Emaciation, and General Debility. With their departure health returns.

CHERRY PECTORAL

For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma and Consumption.

The few compositions, which have won the confidence of mankind and become household words among not only one but many nations, must have extraordinary virtues. Perhaps no one ever secured so wide a reputation or maintained it so long as AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. It has been known to the public about forty years, by a long continued series of marvellous cures, which have won for it a confidence in its virtues, never equalled by any other medicines. It still makes the most effectual cures of Coughs, Colds, Consumption, that can be made by medical skill. Indeed the CHERRY PECTORAL has really robbed those dangerous diseases of their terrors, to a great extent, and given a feeling of immunity from their fatal effects, which is well founded, if the remedy be taken in season. Every family should have it in their closet for the ready and prompt relief of its members. Sickness, suffering, and even life is saved by this timely protection. The prudent should not neglect it, and the wise will not. Keep it by you for the protection it affords in sudden attacks, and by its timely use.

AYER'S PURGATIVE PILLS.

For all the purposes of a Family Physic,

CURING

Costiveness, Jaundice, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Dysentery, Foul Stomach, Erysipelas, Headache, Piles, Rheumatism, Eruptions and Skin Diseases, Biliousness, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Tetter, Tumors and Salt Rheum, Worms, Gout, Neuralgia, as a Dinner Pill, and Purifying the Blood,

Are the most congenial purgative yet perfected. Their effects abundantly show how much they excel all other Pills. They are safe and pleasant to take, but powerful to cure. They purge out the foul humors of the blood; they stimulate the sluggish or disordered organ into action, and they impart health and tone to the whole being. They cure not only the every day complaints of every body, but formidable and dangerous diseases. Most eminent clergymen, most skillful physicians, and our best citizens send certificates of cures performed, and of great benefits they have derived from these Pills. They are the safest and best physic for children, because mild as well as effectual. Being sugar coated, they are easy to take; and being purely vegetable, they are entirely harmless.

$1000 REWARD.

BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOR is composed of Ammonia, Chloroform, Spirits of Camphor, Tincture of Lupulinc, Oil of Juniper, and Alcohol. This compound is unequalled in the annals of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling or Twitching of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, banish pimples, cure scaly eruptions, itching, humors, &c.; it equalizes the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the brain, cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. Briggs' Allevantor absolutely possesses more curative properties than any other preparation. Physicians, chemists, and others are requested to examine and test the remedy, and $1000 will be paid if found different from representation.

COUGHS, Much has been said and written, and many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases; but nothing has been so eminently successful, or obtained such a wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.

CORNS! The excruciating pain produced by Corns, the unceasing twinging from Bunions, the piercing, distressing pain from Ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, not knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies are no acid or potash compounds, but are reliable, soothing, and effectual, and just merit the success they have earned from an appreciative public. The Curative is a healing ointment; immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it will positively cure the worst cases of Festered Corns, Inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the sorest instep, the largest and severest Blisters, the most extensive Callosities on the soles or heels of the feet, unequalled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Alleviator for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unexcelled by anything ever known.

PILES have been a terror to mankind for centuries, and almost every attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr. Briggs has discovered an absolute cure for internal, bleeding, external, and itching piles. Briggs' Pile Remedies are mild, safe and sure.

For sale by J. H. TRAGUE, WM. R. PRESTON, Portsmouth; JAMES O. TRESSIDER, Kittery; E. S. SAFFORD, Kittery Point; H. M. CURTIS, Newcastle, and dealers generally.

CORNS, Bunions, Bad Nails, and other diseases of the feet, Scrofulous and Cancerous Humors, Piles, etc., skillfully treated at the great central Chiropodical and Healing Institute, No. 765 Broadway, New York. DR. J. BRIGGS, President; DR.

The railroad commissioners of New Hampshire met at Epping last week, to appraise damages for land taken by the Nashua and Rochester Railroad. The new road crosses the Concord and Portsmouth Railroad at Epping, and the proposed place of crossing was examined. F. H. Kinnicutt of Worcester, president of the Nashua and Rochester road, was present on the part of that road, with Hon. A. F. Stevens of Nashua and C. K. Sanborn of Rochester as counsel; and Stephen Kenrick, Esq., of Franklin, president of the Concord Railroad, appeared in behalf of the latter coporation, with Hon. S. N. Bell of Manchester and William H. Hackett of Portsmouth. The road is expected to be opened from Rochester to Epping—twenty miles—in September next. Nearly all the claims for damages for land taken between these points have either been adjusted or heard by the commissioners. On twenty-three miles between Epping and Nashua, the land damages have been given as an earnest of the desire of the residents to see the road finished over the accepted line of location.

John C. Davis' dwelling-house in Gilford was burned Monday afternoon. Insured in a Watertown (New York) company.

George W. Stevens was buried in Laconia on Sunday with Masonic honors. While in New Hampshire he was connected with the Boston, Concord and Montreal Railroad as master mechanic. He was afterwards connected with the Cocheco road, and more recently with a road in Texas in the same capacity. He died in Houston, in the latter State.

The Alpine House at Gorham was destroyed by fire Monday. It caught from a defect in the chimney. Value $1200; insured.

Mr. Joseph Robinson, a prominent citizen of Chester, a few days since, in jumping from his carriage, struck on his door-step and was instantly killed. His age was 61 years.

The board of trade at Bow Lake village, in Strafford, have issued a circular to capitalists, proposing to exempt all property for manufacturing purposes of an amount not less than $3000 from taxation for a term of years; to give land on which to erect buildings for business purposes, and assist in other ways.

The house and outbuildings of Mr. Frank Rand at West Salisbury were burned on Sunday. Loss about $1200; insured.

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 23, 1872.

Won't Swallow Him.

The New York correspondent of the Boston Advertiser says the Republican central committee is having a very unexpected character of business thrown upon it, being no less than a demand on a large scale for a certain class of their documents from Democratic organizations in various parts of the country. The avowed object of those sending orders for the documents is to secure the defeat of Mr. Greeley. The publications which are chiefly called for are Greeley's anti-Democratic record and his denunciations of the South, Grant's record upon amnesty, Schurz's reports upon the condition of the South, and some of the financial exhibits made by the committee. Some of these Democratic clubs announce that they will vote for Grant, and others that they intend to stay from the polls and induce as many Democrats as possible to do the same. Their purpose is not so much to elect Grant as to defeat Greeley by such a divided vote as will show clearly to the country that he was repudiated by the rank and file of the Democracy. This movement is wide spread and on no mean scale, as is evidenced by orders received within a few days past. One committee in New York city sent for 20,000 documents, another from Chicago ordered 10,000, and Judge Edmunds gave directions on Saturday to print 40,000 to meet demands of this kind coming in. Aside from information received through those sending these orders, the committee has very full information from all northern and western States, that the defection of the Democracy is rapidly increasing in spite of all attempt of the leaders to stop it.

Political.

The New York committee of seventy have indorsed the nomination of William F. Havemeyer for mayor, Noah Davis for supreme court justice, and Hooper C. Van Voorst for judge of the superior court.

The Wellsville (Pa.) Free Press, Greeley, concludes an article on the late elections in these words: "U. S. Grant is to be President for four years more."

"We played upon a harp of a thousand strings, but now our whangdoodle mourneth."—Bradford (Pa.) Argus.

Mr. H. C. Lord of Cincinnati, son of the late President Lord of Dartmouth College, and until recently president of the C., C. & I. C. R. R., is a Greeleyite, and had preparred a gun and ammunition to celebrate the expected victories of H. G. He had no use for powder, and sent his gun and cartridges to Mr. Thomas H. Yeatman, a Cincinnati Republican, enquiring in an accompanying note: "Why, in the name of humanity, were you not content with Ohio, Indiana and Pennsylvania? Why also bring in that confounded little Nebraska with 5000 more?"

The destruction of the Raleigh Sentinel office will injure Grant's chances in North Carolina, as that paper published all Greeley's speeches.

The Irishman's soliloquy—"Thim's the devil's own Dimocrats, that Grayley and Brown."

The epidemic among horses which first appeared in Canada has extended into the State of New York and appears to be spreading rapidly.

Seventy persons were injured by the falling of a gallery filled with spectators at a circus in Sheffield, Eng., Monday.

Prairie fires are raging in Nebraska and immense quantities of hay and grain have been destroyed.

The old John Allen dance house in Water street, New York, has been reopened by religious services, in hopes of another revival in that degraded quarter.

—A Terre Haute boy of tender years and heart has drowned seventeen kittens, tied pans to the tails of nine dogs, brushed his father's new silk hat against the grain, and blown up a pet canary with a fire-cracker in the last month, and still his fond mother intends him for the pulpit.

—The Louisville Courier Journal says that "much of the profanity of the age is the result of sending people magazines with cut leaves. There is a general outcry against uncut publications, and and reform sooner or later is not improbable."

A barber in Titusville, while cutting the hair of a rural customer, ran his shears against some hard substance, which proved to be a whetstone. The farmer said he had missed that whetstone ever since leaving time last fall, and had looked all over a ten acre lot for it, but had forgotten sticking it up over his door.

DEATHS.

In this city, Oct. 16, Mr. IRA TRAGUE, aged 59 years, 7 months.

In Concord, Oct. 21st, Miss ADELINE SHERBURNE, daughter of the late Jonathan Sherburne of this city, aged 75 years.

☞ Funeral services will be held at the Unitarian Church, this (Wednesday) afternoon at 3 o'clock.

USE BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL for all throat diseases. For sale at the Union Store.

RAPID CONSUMPTION is often the penalty of trifling with a severe cough; but no such a catastrophe can occur if Hale's Honey of Horehound and Tar is taken before the disorganization of the lungs has commenced. Take time by the forelock and you are safe. Crittenton's 7 6th Avenue. Sold by all Druggists.

Pike's Toothache Drops cure in 1 minute.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—After all other applications fail, Holloway's Ointment is guaranteed to heal an ulcerated leg or any running sore without pain or danger. In dyspepsia the Pills are a positive specific. Sold 78 Maiden Lane, N. Y. Price 25 cents per pot or box. Ask for new style; the old is counterfeited.

SO GENERAL has the public confidence become in Dr. Ayer's medicines, and so great the demand for them, that unprincipled villians are attempting to deceive the unwary by imposing upon them their worthless nostrums under a similarity of name. Cherry Pectoral Lozenges, Dr. Ayer's Troches, Ayer's Pastiles for Coughs, Cherry Pectoral Cough Drops, Ayer's Fever and Ague Cure, Dr. Ayer's Indian Pills, &c., (none of which are Dr. Ayer's manufacture or composition) are specimens of this villainy and deceit. They not only defraud the sick of their money but of their health, or the recovery of their health, which is far more important than money. From actual counterfeits the people are protected by law which the Doctor promptly enforces, but these evasions sometimes elude the law, and purchasers must protect themselves by refusing to be deceived by them

USE BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL for all throat diseases. For sale at the Union Store.

CASTORIA.—A substitute for Castor Oil—is a physic which does not distress or gripe, but is sure to operate when all other remedies have failed. You may confidently rely upon the Castoria in Stomach-ache, Constipation, Flatulency, Croup, Worms, Piles or deranged Liver. It contains neither Minerals, Morphine, Opium nor Alcohol, but is purely a vegetable preparation, perfectly harmless, and above all, pleasant to take. The Castoria soothe and quiets the system, and produces natural sleep. It is a wonderful thing we unhesitate the food of children and prevent them from crying. A 35 cent bottle will do the work for a family and save many doctors' bills.

TWO AMERICAN MISSES, Miss Isippi and Miss Ouri, are disfigured a good deal by the snags in their mouths In order that all other Misses may avoid the like blemishes, they are advised to use the famous SOZODONT, which will prevent and obviate all such difficulties.

VEGETINE is a great panacea for our aged fathers and mothers; for it gives them strength, quickens their nerves, and gives them Nature's sweet sleep.

MILLIKEN HOUSE, 337 Washington street, Boston. This favorite hotel, just off of the main street, has been put in thorough repair, newly finished and furnished, and latest improvements introduced. Especial attention will be paid to transient guests, and the whole will have the personal supervision of F. Milliken, Esq., long known as a successful public caterer.

LAUGHTER LENDS A NEW CHARM to beauty, when it discloses a new set of teeth. Whiteness, when nature has supplied this element of loveliness, may be retained through life, by using the fragrant SOZODONT.

USE BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL for all throat diseases. For sale at the Union Store.

PILES.—The unceasing torture from internal bleeding, external and itching piles is fast wearing away the thousands of those who are afflicted and their hope and courage have long since given place to despair. Let those who see this cheer up, for a mild and sure cure may be had by using BRIGGS' PILE REMEDIES.

A UNIVERSAL ARTICLE OF FAITH.—In these days of religious contention it has been thought impossible to indicate an article of faith upon which all sects and classes were united. There is one, however, and a very notable one, too, viz.: a belief which is implicit and universal in the paramount efficacy of that matchless Household Tonic and Recuperant, Plantation Bitters. The constantly increasing patronage which it receives has, it is true, excited the petty envy of certain splenetic advertisers of pinchbeck panaceas, who hope to make a market for their own stagnant, watery wares, by decrying all spirituous medicinal preparations. But the public can stomach neither their arguments nor their potations, and consequently reject these very weak imitations of the enemy as entirely too thin!

CORNS.—Since pride and fashion have had control of mankind, and shoemakers were compelled to make boots and shoes to fit fancy instead of the feet, the suffering from Corns, Bunions, Ingrowing Nails, Sore Insteps, Blistered Heels, Callosities on the bottoms of the feet, &c., cannot be described. But Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies will cure all such torments, and proper fitting boots will prevent their reproduction. Sold by all druggists. al2

USED UP.—What is the precise meaning of this familiar phrase when employed to signify an unnatural condition of body and mind? It means exhaustion, languor, want of vital energy, mental apathy—a pitiable state of physical and mental helplessness. The best, and in fact the only perfectly reliable panacea for a "used up" system is that most popular and potent of medicinal stimulants, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. No matter whether the health has been broken down by excessive labor, over-study, an insalubrious atmosphere, anxiety, irregularities in diet, dissipation, or any other cause, this powerful and pleasant vegetable restorative will soon recruit the drooping energies of nature, restoring the integrity of the nerves, and re-establishing that functional regularity which is essential to animal vigor and a hopeful frame of mind. As a cure for debility, in all its varied manifestations, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is unapproached by any tonic in materia medica.

Another Railroad Disaster.

Early Tuesday morning, it was reported that a terrible accident had occurred at Seabrook and that a dozen or fifteen people had been killed. Applications for information at the Eastern depot found no accommodation in the way of news, which was kept from the public when every person was anxious and it was known by a few that not more than one man had been killed. The 8.25 train for Boston furnished the first opportunity for news-seekers to proceed to the scene of the accident; the energetic Portsmouth correspondent of the Boston Journal was one of these, and we copy his account of the accident.

The local freight train at Seabrook, from which the through trains are made up, had been switched off a turnout, and the switch set to allow the Bangor freight to pass on the main track. Mr. C. F. Dow, the brakeman on the local freight train referred to, and the party who set the switch for the through freight train to pass, informs our reporter that about ten minutes elapsed after altering the switch when the Bangor freight train passed, and following the latter about fifteen minutes behind came the Pullman train running at the rate of twenty miles an hour, on the treacherous switch which sent it thundering out on the turnout and into the rear end of the local freight train. The terrible force with which the engine "Eastern" struck the freight cars caused the platform of the baggage car to ride up over the platform of the smoking car, and in it went, completely telescoping itself into the latter, and carrying with it seats, tables, stoves and every atom of the furniture of the car. The two Pullman cars in the rear were uninjured, as also the passengers therein, with the exception of the conductor, Mr. A. N. Goodhue, who is the same gentleman who had the misfortune to be on the Express train at the Revere accident, who had his wrist cut and right arm injured somewhat.

The only passengers injured were in the smoking car, and a look at the wrecked train as it appeared early this morning would cause one to wonder how any could have escaped alive. We give a list of the names of the killed and wounded as far as we could ascertain:

Capt. Robert Norton of Gardiner, Maine, killed instantly.

Capt. James M. Blaisdell of Brunswick, Maine, badly wounded but not dangerously.

Ernest C. Holbrook of Portsmouth, left foot jammed but otherwise unhurt.

Thomas J. Sanborn of Rye, mail agent, leg badly crushed.

—— Allen, Bangor, Maine, express messenger, badly injured about the stomach and bowels.

Charles Estes, Eliot, Me., brakeman, badly cut and bruised.

Thomas B. Gammon of Portsmouth, baggage master, somewhat bruised although not severely. The escape of the latter was miraculous. He was sitting in the middle of the baggage car when the accident occurred, and was only conscious of being rapidly borne through a mass of ruins until he found himself at the rear end of the smoking car amid a debris of broken iron and splinters of wood.

Mr. Gammon, on finding himself comparatively uninjured, immediately set to work with a will to help release his less fortunate comrades, who were buried beneath the wreck. The engineer, as soon as he found his engine on the turnout, reversed it, whistled down brakes, and then jumped, escaping unharmed. Just before he leaped from his locomotive he called loudly to his fireman to jump for his life, but the latter, not comprehending the circumstances of the occasion, remained upon the engine and just escaped being impaled by a brass rod rod torn from the engine boiler, and which darted through the cab with lightning velocity, just grazing the fireman's body.

The Pullman train had two Pullman cars, one other passenger car, a smoking car, and a mail and baggage car. When the collision occurred, the mail and smoking cars were telescoped, the other cars of the train being also badly shaken up. One side of the mail and baggage car went outside the smoking car, and the remainder inside to within one seat of the end, seeming to completely fill the smoking car.

One man was killed and sixteen wounded by the accident.

Capt. Norton was in the forward part of the smoking car when the collision occurred, and in the wreck was found his body, under the flooring of the baggage car. He must have been immediately killed. Some twelve persons were mingled in the ruins all about him, and these were the more terribly injured, not one escaping without some bone or bones broken. Not one in the smoking car escaped, and some had very narrow chances.

Dr. Parsons states that Capt. Norton must have died of concussion of the brain.

Two persons were in the postal (baggage) car, Wm. W. Palmer of Salem and Mr. L. Thos. Sanborn of Rye. Mr. Sanborn after being injured, contrived to get out of a window and fell to the ground head first. By his shouts he managed to obtain help for his companion, who was more seriously injured.

Doctor Whittier of this city, who went to Salem with Capt. Palmer, reports that he will probably die.

George Haywood, from Bangor, Me., bound for Minneapolis, Minn., received severe injuries of spine and was badly cut about the head. Probably fatally injured. He was taken to the Newburyport Hospital.

George W. Trott, of Barre, Me., had just gone into the smoking car and taken a seat by the side of Mr. Haywood, who was severely injured. He had hardly sat down when the car was telescoped. He was picked up insensible, buried under men, seats, &c. It was with difficulty he was taken out as his feet and legs were covered so that his boots pulled off in getting him out. He was injured in several places, but not severely.

Chas. Ester, brakeman of Pullman train, had his ribs broken.

James M. Blaisdell, of Brunswick, Me., right hip injured.

Albert Goodhue, conductor Pullman train, hands jammed and burnt in extinguishing the fire.

David F. Howard, of Bangor, was in smoking car; injured in the hip, legs and bowels.

Henry Fairbanks, of Winthrop, Me., about 25 years old. Left thigh broken twice; right leg slightly bruised and cut upon the head. He was in good spirits, while his thigh was being set.

A. B. Howdlett, of 1269 Washington Street, Boston, fractured clavicle and slightly injured internally.

Elisha Seprill, Somerville, New Brunswick, right hand badly jammed.

W. H. Whitenett, St. John, N. B., slightly jammed.

Horatio Hall, Brunswick, Me., injuries slight.

A. M. Curtis, Bowdoinham, Me., fracture of right leg and slight internal injuries.

Eben M. Anderson, 21 years old, from Annapolis, N. S., bound to Providence, R. I., was asleep at time of collision. Received severe cut and bruises over the eyes, with large flesh wound on right leg below the knee.

Joseph Edwards, of Annapolis, N. S., 28 years old. Escaped with slight injuries about the ribs and legs. Had his trowsers stripped entirely off.

Lendell Bartlett, of Newburyport, a brakeman on the local freight, was sitting in the saloon car at the rear of his train, when he heard the Pullman train coming, and jumped from the car, thus saving his own life, and swung his lantern, but of course such warning was too late.

By the rules of the road it was the duty of Mr. Chas. Dow, the brakeman of the freight train, after the freight was run upon the side track, to set the switch right for the through trains. This he says he did. The conductor of the freight train, however (Mr. J. B. Smith), went to the switch as soon as the accident occurred, and found the lock not closed and the padlock hanging from the chain.

Manager Hatch, the Traveller says, thinks an outsider may have changed the switch.

Newell Dow of Seabrook states that he saw from his house, about 300 yards from the scene of the accident, while he was standing in the door-way, a man walk from the freight train to the switch with a lantern, before the Pullmen train came along and after the Bangor express freight had passed on towards Salisbury. Alfred M. Dow, his son, says he went down to the switch, found it not locked and the pin in the place where the lock should have been. The noise of the collision was heard a quarter of a mile away. Some of the inhabitants thought it was an earthquake.

The cars had taken fire from the collision, and the sides were cut into for the purpose of getting out the wounded and extinguishing the fire. The side of the mail car which was not forced through the smoking car was split off and fell away.

If the cars had had the Miller platform the accident would not have been serious. This platform is attached to most of the cars owned by the Eastern Railroad, but the cars of the ill-fated train, or a portion of them, were those belonging to the Maine Central road and of a frail character. The Eastern express car, next to the engine and between that and the mail car, had Miller's platform, and was comparatively uninjured.

Superintendent Prescott and assistants, arrived at 10 A. M. in a relief train, and were busy in removing the wreck. Arrangements were made to return the wounded to their homes. A. A. Locke, depot master at Seabrook, was active in caring for the wounded, and in keeping the best order at the scene of the disaster. People came from all directions, on foot and in carriages, and crowds were at the scene of the accident at an early hour.

Conductor Johnson informs us that he had a presentiment of a coming accident while visiting his friends in Newburyport, Monday evening.

Eastern R. R. stock declined to 101 on Tuesday, but afterwards rallied to 105.

Coroner John E. Ryder, of this city, summoned the following jury on the death of Capt. Norton: J. Horace Kent, Portsmouth; Emery Brown, Seabrook; Robert Collins, Seabrook.

Capt. Norton had in his pocket book $1348.62; a gold watch, and wallet in his pocket. His pocket book was red with blood. In his pocket were letters addressed to Capt. Robert Norton, care of Bridge, Lord & Co., Boston.

Capt. Norton's wife started for Boston Monday night by boat and was to meet her husband there Tuesday morning. Her first news of his death was communicated from news furnished to Bridge, Law & Co. by J. Horace Kent, Esq.

Conductor Johnson's Testimony.

The hearing before the Coroner's jury commenced in Hon. W. H. Y. Hackett's office Tuesday afternoon at 4.30. We abridge Conductor Jacob Johnson's testimony:—

I am conductor of the Newburyport train to Boston; my door bell at Newburyport rang about 5:15 A. M., Tuesday; Mr. Goodwin, an Eastern R. R. employee, told me of the accident at Seabrook; went to depot and found four physicians there; started for Seabrook with engine and car and two employees, Goodwin and Jefferson; arrived about 6 o'clock; found several wounded persons in depot waiting room and others in a room occupied by a family; organized a company to help physicians; on arrival of Conductor Philbrick's train had Pullman cars hauled to depot and the wounded put in them; arrived with them at Newburyport at 8; the physicians decided to remove three or four; the rest were sent to Boston and Salem; did not see Capt. Norton until I returned again to Seabrook; did not examine switch or try to ascertain cause of accident. It is the duty of the conductor of a train to take charge of switch in the absence of a switchman. Do not know whether there was a switchman there or not. My whole attention was given to caring for the wounded.

Hon. William H. Y. Hackett and another gentleman appeared for the Eastern R. R., County Solicitor Frink was present. The hearing was adjourned to the State Street ward room to-day at 11 o'clock. Some thirty witnesses are to be examined.

Laconics.

The attention of any person in want of such a craft as the steam yacht "Hoffman," is invited to the advertisement in another column, concerning her peremptory sale by auction on Friday next, the 25th.

Rev. Carlos Martyn will be installed as pastor of the Congressional Church, and Rev. O. F. Van Cise as pastor of the Universalist Church, next month. Rev. A. J. Patterson of Boston Highlands will preach the installation sermon at the Universalist Church.

The Portsmouth Music Society,

With Harlow's full Orchestra, had a grand rehearsal on Sunday evening, at Mr. Tilton's rooms on Market Street—Mr. Tilton conductor, Miss Plumer at the piano. The chorus numbered about fifty voices, including most of the best singers in this city and the neighboring towns; and the Orchestra of twelve pieces probably was never excelled here. The Society will probably give a grand concert on Sunday evening, Nov. 17th, at the Temple. Rehearsal on Sunday evening, Oct. 27th, at 7 o'clock, from the Jubilee collection.

S. J. Court.

On Tuesday, Archibald McDougall of Portsmouth plead "not con." to a charge of selling liquor, and was fined $50 and costs.

State vs. Geo. T. Sherburne et als, Selectmen of Northwood, for fraudulently inserting the name of Lyman Hoitt in the check list. Given to the jury.

The Surf House Burned.

The "Surf House" at Rye Beach was entirely destroyed by fire Tuesday. Fire was first discovered about half-past twelve, and at 3 o'clock, P. M., nothing was left of the house and stable. Part of the furniture was saved, also the live stock and carriages, but some four tons of hay was burned. The origin of the fire is not known. The buildings were insured, but it is said, not to their full value. The house was built in 1858 by Mr. O. B. Philbrick, who (with the exception of a few years,) has resided in it ever since, and for the past three years has conducted the business of the house in connection with his son. Various parties have run the House during the summer seasons without making their fortunes. This makes the fifth hotel that has been destroyed by fire at Rye Beach within the past ten or twelve years. R.

P. S. We are informed that there was insurance amounting to $4000 on the Surf House, and $800 on the stable attached.

MISS EMILY FAITHFULL, one of the noblest women whom England has ever reckoned as her own, has just arrived in the city of New York. Miss Faithfull is now devoting her time and talents to the amelioration of the condition of that class of her sex who are forced to work to gain a livelihood. She left the circles of fashionable life in London at the age of twenty-five, (she is now thirty-seven), renounced the enjoyments that usually fascinate ladies, give up court society to which she had the entree, and now has it when she chooses to avail herself of it, and entered upon a career of usefulness such as is rarely selected by fashionable ladies. In 1860 she collected a band of female compositors, and after "out-Herculesing Hercules" in the number of difficulties she overcame, the "Victoria Press," a printing establishment in which women only are employed as compositors, was started. Meeting with the approbation of Her Majesty, the venture proved a success, and is now the means of finding employment for a large number of women. Miss Faithfull has a fine literary reputation. She edits the Victoria Magazine, delivers a great number of lectures during the year, gives lessons in elocution to Members of Parliament, presides over societies, and looks after the details of a great deal of work for the benefit of women.

MARBLEHEAD NECK.—The great increase in value, of real estate anywhere in the vicinity of Boston, is shown even as far distant as Marblehead,—where the Neck, comprising about 250 acres of land, which was valued at less than $100,000 five years ago, was this season sold at auction for $260,000! And when purchased it will speedily develope its natural attractions and advantages of location into one of the most beautiful places on the coast for summer visiting or residence.

The Singer
SEWING MACHINE
STILL LEADS THE MARKET.

The Success o the Company is far beyond that o any other similar concern; the

Daily Manufacture
—OF—
400 OF THE SINGERS
Failing to Supply the Constant Demand.

All other machines call the public attention to some new loop or stitch or tension or finish, some advantage in running or needles or feed or price—and many of these are as we have said very good points, and the agents selling them use them to divert entirely the would-be purchaser from fairly considering the facts in the case; but the

seems to unite the good qualities of all, and is never found wanting.

THE SINGER
IS THE OLDEST
SEWING MACHINE
IN THE MARKET,

All others being copied from its first model. does two-thirds the sewing done in this country and preserves its advantages over all others combined.

It is readily kept clean, and has THE BEST TENSION EVER INVENTED; it is higher speeded and requires but little power to run; it works equally well upon the finest and heaviest goods; it does all the varieties of work known to the art.

The News.

Rev. Jean Henri Merle D'Aubigne, the distinguished minister and author, died quite suddenly in his native city of Geneva, Switzerland, on Monday. He was born in 1794, and was therefore 78 years of age. He was the third son of Louis Merle, a merchant of Geneva, and a direct descendant of George D'Aubigne, the distinguished French Protestant nobleman and general under Henry the Fourth. While on a visit to Wartburg castle, the scene of Luther's captivity, he resolved to write the "History of the Reformation of the Sixteenth Century," a work that has worthily obtained an immense circulation, but especially in this country and England. The reputation of M. Merle depends chiefly on this book.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England,

Pulmocine Cordial

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. EVERY FAMILY should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred THROAT DISEASES at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of PREVENTION. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this FAMILY MEDICINE prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMONICE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best PULMONARY CURATIVE he knew of. Twenty years of constant use and experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are WILD CHERRY BARK, SQUILL ROOT, LIQUORICE ROOT, BLOOD ROOT, &c. It is a BLOOD PURIFIER, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic, and a powerful aid to digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

For Coughs,

Croup,

Diphtheria,

Asthma, &c.

USE BUCHMAN'S

PULMOCINE CORDIAL.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians have for the complaints specified, in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents."

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part induces me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges.

AYER'S

SARSAPARILLA

FOR PURIFYING THE BLOOD.

A medicine that cures is a real public blessing. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA is the most effective cure of a series of complaints, which are always afflicting and too often fatal. It purifies the blood, purges out the lurking humors in the system, which undermine health and settle into troublesome disorders. Eruptions of the skin are the appearance on the surface of humors that should be expelled from the blood. Internal derangements are the determination of these same humors to some internal organ, or organs, whose action they derange, and whose substance they disease and destroy. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA expels these humors from the blood. When they are gone, the disorders they produce disappear, such as Ulcerations of the Liver, Stomach, Kidneys, Lungs, Eruptions and Eruptive Diseases of the Skin, St. Anthony's Fire, Rose or Erysipelas, Pimples, Pustules, Blotches, Boils, Tumors, Tetter and Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, Ulcers and Sores, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Pain in the Bones, Side, and Head, Female Weakness, Sterility, Leucorrhea arising from internal ulceration and uterine disease, Dropsy, Dyspepsia, Emaciation, and General Debility. With their departure health returns.

AYER'S

CHERRY PECTORAL

For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma and Consumption.

The few compositions, which have won the confidence of mankind and become household words among not only one but many nations, must have extraordinary virtues. Perhaps no one ever secured so wide a reputation or maintained it so long as AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. It has been known to the public about forty years, by a long continued series of marvelous cures, which have won for it a confidence in its virtues, never equalled by any other medicines. It still makes the most effectual cures of Coughs, Colds, Consumption, that can be made by medical skill. Indeed the CHERRY PECTORAL has really robbed these dangerous diseases of their terrors, to a great extent, and given a feeling of immunity from their fatal effects, which is well founded, if the remedy be taken in season. Every family should have it in their closet for the ready and prompt relief of its members. Sickness, suffering, and even life is saved by this timely protection. The prucent should not neglect it, and the wise will not. Keep it by you for the protection it affords in sudden attacks, and by its timely use.

Dyspepsia, Jaundice, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Dysentery, Foul Stomach, Erysipelas, Headache, Piles, Rheumatism, Eruptions and Skin Diseases, Biliousness, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Tetter, Tumors and Salt Rheum, Worms, Gout, Neuralgia, as a Dinner Pill, and Purifying the Blood,

Are the most congenial purgative yet perfected. Their effects abundantly show how much they excel all other Pills. They are safe and pleasant to take, but powerful to cure. They purge out the foul humors of the blood; they stimulate the sluggish or disordered organ into action, and they impart health and tone to the whole being. They cure not only the every day complaints of every body, but formidable and dangerous diseases. Most eminent clergymen, most skillful physicians, and our best citizens send certificates of cures performed, and of great benefits they have derived from these Pills. They are the safest and best physic for children, because mild as well as effectual. Being sugar coated, they are easy to take; and being purely vegetable, they are entirely harmless.

COUGHS. Much has been said and written, and many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases; but nothing has been so eminently successful, or obtained such a wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.

CORNS! The excruciating pain produced by Corns, the unceasing twinging from Bunions, the piercing, distressing pain from Ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, not knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies are no acid or potash compounds, but are reliable, soothing, and effectual, and just merit the success they have earned from an appreciative public. The Curative is a healing ointment; immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it will positively cure the worst cases of Festered Corns, inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the sorest instep, the largest and severest Blisters, the most extensive Callosities on the soles or heels of the feet, unequalled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Allevantor for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unrivalled by anything ever known.

PILES have been a terror to mankind for centuries, and almost every attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr. Briggs has discovered an absolute cure for internal, bleeding, external, and itching piles. Briggs' Pile Remedies are mild, safe and sure.

For sale by J. H. THAGHER, WM. R. PRESTON, Portsmouth; JAMES O. TREFETHEN, Kittery; E. S. SAFFORD, Kittery Point; H. M. CURTIS, Newcastle, and dealers generally.

The Singer

SEWING MACHINE

STILL LEADS THE MARKET.

The Success of the Company is far beyond that of any other similar concern; the

Daily Manufacture

—OF—

400 OF THE SINGERS

Failing to Supply the Constant Demand.

All other machines call the public attention to some new loop or stitch or tension or finish, some advantage in running or needles or feed or prices—and many of these are as we have said very good points, and the agents selling them use them to divert entirely the would-be purchaser from fairly considering the facts in the case; but the

seems to unite the good qualities of all, and is never found wanting.

THE SINGER

IS THE

OLDEST

SEWING MACHINE

IN THE MARKET,

All others being copied from its first model, does two-thirds the sewing done in this country and preserves its advantages over all others combined.

It is readily kept clean, and has THE BEST TENSION EVER INVENTED; it is higher speeded and requires but little power to run it, working equally well upon the finest and heaviest goods; it does all the varieties of work known to the art.

The March Estate.

The case of Charles March Stephens, of New York State, vs. Clement March and others, of Greenland, N. H., which has for some time past been the most important case on the docket of the Supreme Judicial Court of Rockingham County, New Hampshire, has recently been decided. Colonel March, a few years since, was considered the most wealthy man in New Hampshire. By the wills of his uncle, for years well known as United States Consul at Madeira, and of his brother Charles W. March, the friend and biographer of Daniel Webster, Colonel March received a large property; and the wonder has seemed to every one, how he could contrive to spend so much of it in so short a space of time. On the ancestral farm in Greenland, five miles from Portsmouth, he erected houses, barns, grapery and other buildings, in a magnificent style; surrounded the farm by a stone wall costing more than the value of the land, purchased an extensive collection of books, furnished the houses and stocked the farm. All this was done with a lavish hand; and the elegant entertainments given by the Colonel, his well kept grounds, his stud of horses, his carriages, including the coach given by the Bostonians to Daniel Webster, were the admiration of many people in Portsmouth and the region round about.

Here, with a large income, he could have lived as a gentleman farmer, in the enjoyment of his fortune. But a taste for speculation, engendered by a success in that direction a few years previously, attacked him, and he yielded to the fascination. He visited Philadelphia, where he had once made, by a fortunate hit, a hundred thousand dollars; and the sharp stockbrokers of that city welcomed him to their offices. Into the various mining and other stocks of the Philadelphia Board, the Colonel plunged at once. The brokers knew their man and his reputed wealth. He thought he was the better judge of stocks and future operations. But the story is a brief one,—the Colonel succumbed before the experienced manipulations of the Sics; knew him, now know him no more. He returned to New Hampshire a poorer, if not a wiser man,—but ere long left his splendid home, probably forever.

In the will of Charles W. March were certain legacies which the financial gentleman, in his haste to double his fortune, had omitted to pay; and as creditors always want their money when a debtor is in a bad condition to pay, so the legatees and their representatives began to cast about to see how the funds they were to enjoy were being probated; and the result was the suit before alluded to, which was a suit in chancery, followed by the appointment of a receiver, who took possession of Mr. March's estate, his farm in Greenland, his library, horses, hounds, and all his effects, which were sold at auction. The establishment was closed and for several years this solemn "Bleak House" has stood as a warning to the passer by, against fighting the tiger in the Stock market.

The usual results in such cases followed: Cross bills, injunctions, answers, rejoinders, affidavits, testimony, interpleaders, joining of new defendants and parties, bonds, issues, pleadings, sales, references to Masters, Master's reports, attachments, workmen and laborers' liens, proceedings at law, equity, and all the well-planned accumulation of legal strife ensued; until recently the Court decreed that Mr. Small, the Receiver, be confirmed in his doings and sales and that sundry bondsmen of Mr. March be discharged from liability on his bond as executors. Mr. Goodall, an attorney at Portsmouth, was appointed Trustee under the will of Charles W. March, for Charles March Stephens, and was ordered to give bonds in the sum of $70,000. Mr. Conner, clerk of Courts at Exeter, is appointed Trustee for Mrs. St Clair, sister of Mr. March, and there is due to such Trustee $12,000, for which he is to have one-half of the Temple in Portsmouth, and other property. The Court adjudged that Col. March owed the administrator of Mrs. Stephens' estate, $19,638.41, and S. H. Goodall, Trustee, $83,920.25, as interest on a legacy of one hundred thousand dollars, and the sum of one hundred thousand dollars, principal of said legacy. The sales of the Receiver go to pay these as far as they may, and for any unsatisfied balance the Trustee takes an execution against the estate, or the body of Clement March. The other details are uninteresting.

Col. Clement March was and is a bachelor, as was also his brother Charles W., and their uncle, the Consul, from whom they inherited a portion of that wealth which has profited them so little. This family does not seem to run to marriage, as Josh Billings says his does. The family tomb, which has likewise passed under the auctioneer's hammer, and now stands sadly on land owned by a stranger, bears the inscription, "Built by Clement March, 1761, rebuilt by his great grandson, Clement March, 1861." The Messrs. March were Whigs in Webster's day; and Clement derived his title of "Colonel" from being appointed on the staff of a New Hampshire Governor, in which capacity he never served; and is also styled "Honorable," from achieving an election as State Senator from his district, though he never took his seat.

Afterward he espoused the Democratic cause, and labored to carry the election in Greenland that way. And by erecting a large shoe shop, with cottages for the men, and colonizing to this end, he was successful, and to this day the town votes Democratic. So bitter was the strife engendered by the Colonel's operations, that at one election a row ensued, in which the ballot-box was demolished, and the vote of the town lost, and litigation was several times resorted to. For several years, and up to the last, ex-President Pierce was a frequent guest at the March mansion, and with a large circle of guests enjoyed the hospitality of Mr. March. The marked contrast of this place, as now seen by the passer-by, compared with its former cheerful aspect,—now silent and almost deserted,—causes a pang of sadness and another reminder of the truism that "riches make themselves wings."—H., in Boston Globe.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 24, 1872.

Political.

W. F. Havemeyer accepts the nomination of the reform organizations for the mayoralty of New York.

The governor of Georgia is proceeding with the arming of the militia under the late State law, as a matter of precaution against possible outbreaks at the coming election. The law under which he is acting provides that in arming the militia he shall give preference to such companies as are composed of the organized militia of Georgia in January, 1861. These companies, almost without exception, went into the rebellion immediately after that date, so they will make the best of guardians to preserve the "purity of the ballot box" from being contaminated by colored men's votes for Grant and Wilson.

Another lot of documents containing evidence of the Tammany frauds have been stolen from the New York court-house. They included the treasurer's report of the re-auditing committee.

The News.

The horse epidemic has appeared in Boston, several cases being reported to exist in some of the South End stables. It is raging fearfully in Rochester and Buffalo, N. Y., and hundreds of horses are dying daily.

The Lyceum building, in the rear of S. S. Houghton & Co.'s Tremont Street (Boston) store, of which it formed a part, was burned on the night of the 22d Loss probably about $200,000.

The Australian telegraph line from Melborne to London was opened Oct. 22d.

At base ball in New York, the Bostons defeated the Eckfords by a score of 4 to 3. In Philadelphia the Athletics defeated the Mutuals, 6 to 3.

Hegemann Lindenerons has been appointed charge d'affaires and consul-general of Denmark at Washington.

The new horse-distemper is assuming alarming proportions; 7000 horses are sick in New York, and 300 in Boston.

The San Juan boundary question has been decided in favor of the United States by the jury to whom the case was submitted.

State News.

The roadbed of the Sugar River Railroad, through Morse's Swamp, near Bradford Village, sunk out of sight recently, about a dozen rods going down. The falling out of that part of railroad's bottom will not occasion any serious interruption to its business.

The store of M. W. Littlefield & Co., at Claremont, was robbed of a thousand dollars' worth of dry goods on Sunday night, Oct. 20.

On the 15th, Mrs. Clarissa Nichols of Bradford, aged 79 years, fell and broke her leg just above the ankle.

Daniel Desmond, of Concord, 7 years old, cut off two fingers of his right hand while playing with a machine for cutting sole leather, on the 22d.

A little son of Wm. W. Perkins, of Concord, tried to set fire to some gunpowder with a burning-glass, on the 22d; from a scientific stand point the experiment may be pronounced a grand success, as the gunpowder and the boy's eyebrows went off together.

On the 16th ult., Silas Ballou, of Swanzey, started alone in his wagon to attend the funeral of his daughter, Mrs. Wm. Wheelock, in Winchester. His team was overtaken on the way by his son, who was going to the same place, who found him dead in the wagon, and his hat and umbrella on the ground. He was an elderly man, and had evidently died in a fit.

The citizens of Gilmanton are making an effort to extend the Suncook Valley Railroad to Gilmanton Iron Works.

Michael G. Conlin fell from a staging in Nashua a distance of twenty feet, and broke his right arm near the wrist.

Ebenezer Burtt, of Pelham, fell while climbing upon a scaffold in his barn, to the floor, badly breaking his right leg.

Mr. O. S. Wright, of Lebanon, was thrown from his wagon on Saturday, 12th, and his left arm broken and wrist dislocated.

Geo. A. Searles, of Nashua, who was injured at New Boston, recently, by a kick from a fractious horse, died from his injuries.

John W. Brown, of Enfield, has recently caught five coons, the gross weight of which was 110 pounds. From two of them he extracted over a gallon of oil each.

NEW MUSIC.—We have received from Oliver Ditson & Co's Publishing House, 227 Washington St., Boston, the following pieces of Music: Father, ever keep me near Thee, sacred song, by F. D. Abbott; 'Tis sweet to be remembered, song, by Hamilton M. Rogers; Baby's garments, song and chorus, by A. T. Gorham; The Oakwood Waltzes, by M. G. C.; 'When the milk goes around, by Charles M. Connolly.

—A Boston man has invented a 'pocket companion and guide to happiness,' in the shape of a bottle made to look exactly like a cigar. On the cars, or even when in the parlor sparking your girl, you put the supposed cigar between your lips and before you have time to ask whether smoking is objectionable, you bite off the end of the cigar (ha ha!) and a drink of old rye corrugates your throat in a twinkling.

So GENERAL has the public confidence become in Dr. Ayer's medicines, and so great the demand for them, that unprincipled villains are attempting to deceive the unwary by imposing upon them their worthless nostrums under a similarity of name. Cherry Pectoral Lozenges, Dr. Ayer's Troches Ayer's Pastiles for Coughs, Cherry Pectoral Cough Drops, Ayer's Fever and Ague Cure, Dr. Ayer's Indian Pills, &c., (none of which are Dr. Ayer's manufacture or composition) are specimens of this villainy and deceit. They not only defraud the sick of their money but of their health, or the recovery of their health, which is far more important than money. From actual counterfeits the people are protected by law which the Doctor promptly enforces, but these evasions sometimes elude the law, and purchasers must protect themselves by refusing to be deceived by them.

CASTORIA.—A substitute for Castor Oil—is a physic which does not distress or gripe, but is sure to operate when all other remedies have failed. You may confidently rely upon the Castoria in Stomach-ache, Constipation, Flatulency, Croup, Worms, Piles or deranged Livers. It contains neither Minerals, Morphine, Opium nor Alcohol, but is purely a vegetable preparation, perfectly harmless, and above all, pleasant to take. The Castoria soothes and quiets the system, and produces natural sleep. It is a wonderful thing to assimilate the food of children and prevent them from crying. A 35 cent bottle will do the work for a family and save many doctors' bills.

A UNIVERSAL ARTICLE OF FAITH.—In these days of religious contention it has been thought impossible to indicate an article of faith upon which all sects and classes were united. There is one, however, and a very notable one, too, viz.: a belief which is implicit and universal in the paramount efficacy of that matchless Household Tonic and Recuperant, Plantation Bitters. The constantly increasing patronage which it receives has, it is true, excited the petty envy of certain splenetic advertisers of pinchbeck panaceas, who hope to make a market for their own stagnant, watery wares, by decrying all spirituous medicinal preparations. But the public can stomach neither their arguments nor their potations, and consequently reject these very weak imitations of the enemy as entirely too thin!

PILES.—The unceasing torture from internal bleeding, external and itching piles is fast wearing away the thousands of those who are afflicted and their hope and courage have long since given place to despair. Let those who see this cheer up, for a mild and sure cure may be had by using BRIGGS' PILE REMEDIES.

CORNS.—Since pride and fashion have had control of mankind, and shoemakers were compelled to make boots and shoes to fit fancy instead of the feet, the suffering from Corns, Bunions, Ingrowing Nails, Sore Insteps, Blistered Heels, Callosities on the bottom of the feet, &c., cannot be described. But Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies will cure all such torments, and proper fitting boots will prevent their reproduction. Sold by all druggists. a12

USED UP.—What is the precise meaning of this familiar phrase when employed to signify an unnatural condition of body and mind? It means exhaustion, languor, want of vital energy, mental apathy—a pitiable state of physical and mental helplessness. The best, and in fact the only perfectly reliable panacea for a "used up" system is that most popular and potent of medicinal stimulants, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. No matter whether the health has been broken down by excessive labor, over-study, an insalubrious atmosphere, anxiety, irregularities in diet, dissipation, or any other cause, this powerful and pleasant vegetable restorative will soon recruit the drooping energies of nature, restoring the integrity of the nerves, and re-establishing that functional regularity which is essential to animal vigor and a hopeful frame of mind. As a cure for debility, in all its varied manifestations, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is unapproached by any tonic in materia medica.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

CORONER'S INQUEST

On the Death of Capt. Robert Norton.

Shortly after eleven o'clock, Wednesday morning, the hearing before the Coroner's Jury was resumed in the State Street ward room, about forty persons being present. Every convenience was offered counsel and representatives of the press. Witnesses were examined separately.

Jos. S. Bradstreet, Gardiner, Me.; knew Capt. Norton, who had resided two years in Gardiner; he was engaged in ice and real estate operations; he was about 50 years old; was moving to Boston this week; he left Gardiner on Pullman train, Monday evening; recognized some papers in possession of coronor as his, also recognized the body.

A diagram of the scene of the accident was presented by one of the counsel for the Eastern Railroad, Mr. Lincoln, of the firm of Innes & Lincoln, Boston.

Chas. T. Pattee, East Boston. Am employed by Eastern R. R. Am conductor of the Bangor express freight train from Portsmouth to Boston and back, Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights. Leave Portsmouth at 11.30; left Tuesday morning at 2.15; overtook local freight train near Hampton; waited 30 minutes for the local train to do their work at Hampton; then proceeded, overtaking them again between Hampton Falls and Seabrook; they were stopped; detached my engine from my train and pushed them up the grade towards Seabrook near Seabrook station; detached my engine from their train and went back for my train; proceeded on to Salisbury, leaving them on the left side track at Seabrook; when I detached my engine from the local freight, they were 200 rods this side of the turn-out on main track; just over the crossing this side of Seabrook; the rear end of local freight when I passed was three or three and half cars' lengths from the switch; by the regulations of the road the local freight is due in Boston before we are; I passed them because they were late and on my time; I was entitled to the road; stopped at Salisbury after passing the local freight at Seabrook; gave no directions regarding the switch at Seabrook; no one on my train did; we did not stop there at all; there was a man at the switch and gave me a motion to come along by swinging a lantern; I passed him standing at the switch at 4.02; recognized the man at the switch; it was Charles Dow, head brakeman on the local train; shouted to him to set off the train if he couldn't haul it; was going pretty fast, probably four or five miles an hour; supposed at first that it was the conductor of the local freight; he made no reply—didn't have time; am well acquainted with Mr. Dow, who worked on the road some years ago; have known him about five years; he left the road once and was afterwards re-employed; do not know why he left the road.

Question by Mr. Frink: Should you pass local freight had it been on time? No. It is due in Boston at 2.14; I am due at 2.50; at Seabrook they are due at 11.49; I am due there at 12.26; could not pass them at Hampton because there is no turn out long enough; overtook them half a mile this side of the Seabrook turn-out; I ran off on the Salisbury side-track to let the Pullman train pass me; the book says the conductor shall be responsible for fixing the switch; there is no regulation for any particular person to alter the switch; the local freight had 23 to 26 cars; it was due in Boston, and I am, before the Pullman train; switch at Seabrook was all ready for Pullman train to follow me when I left; I usually do not lock the switch if I expect to use it again; I put the switch lock on but do not spring it; I lock it if I leave it; it is four miles from Seabrook to Salisbury; the rails were wet; a wet rail weakens the power of an engine to go up grade should have locked the switch at Seabrook had I been there expecting a train to pass; I did so at Salisbury; we used nearly a sand box full of sand from Portsmouth to Salisbury; noticed no jar or unevenness as I passed the switch at Seabrook; passed Seabrook twelve minutes before the Pullman train was due at that place. Have been on the road seven years—four years as conductor, three years as brakeman; found an empty flour barrel on the track about a month ago, near the bridge above Portsmouth Plains; the thro' freight had passed there half an hour before; never found anything else on the track; don't know of any trouble between E. R. R. and any parties at Seabrook; the local freight train has a conductor and three brakemen; at Seabrook, on night trains the train men tend the switches.

Henry Staples: Reside in East Boston; am employed by Eastern R. R. as brakeman on Express freight train; (his testimony was mainly corroborative of that of Conductor Pattee:) there were 24 cars on our train, all loaded; our engine endeavored to draw our train and push the express but could not do it, and was detached from our train to push the other; we average 25 cars on one train; the average length of a car is 20 feet; saw a lantern swinging for our train to proceed after the local train had reached the side track; Conductor Pattee was on our engine; I was near the centre of our train; some one was standing at the switch when we passed; don't know who it was; he had a lantern; I was on top of a car; didn't look back after we passed the switch; arrived at Salisbury at 4.14 and stayed there until 10 o'clock before proceeding on; a brakeman or a conductor rides ahead on the engine; he changes the switches; sometimes he stays at the switch; sometimes he gets on the engine and looks back until he sees the switch set right by the rear brakeman; if there is any doubt that the switch has been reset, some one goes back to look after it; there is always a man in the saloon car at the rear of the train; when we stop, this man remains behind the saloon car to signal any train that might be following if necessary; Eben Stronach was in the saloon car at the rear of our train as we passed the Seabrook switch, which is a patent switch; when we use it, we fasten it with a pin and padlock; if the pin was not put in, the weight of the engine would be likely to throw the switch back; if we are shifting cars and no train is due we do not lock the switch; when we left Seabrook, the switch was set right for the Pullman train to follow us on the main track.

Eben Stronach; Reside in Boston; am brakeman on the express freight train; have been employed a year last May on Eastern R. R.; was in the rear of the train with two lights, white and red. (Witness' testimony was similar to that of Conductor Pattee and Brakeman Staples; saw the signal with a lantern for our train to go on past Seabrook; as we passed the switch I saw a man standing about four feet from it, holding a lantern in his hand; did'nt know who he was; suppose he was an employee of the road; he sang out "Hi" and I answered "Hi"—a common salutation; the switch as we left it was right for the Pullman train to follow us on the main track; did not see the switch altered after we passed it; saw a man standing in the brake car door of the local train as I passed; saw no one else; never knew of a pin being shaken out of the patent switch by a train passing over.

Thomas B. Gammon; Reside in Portsmouth; am brakeman on Pullman express train; was acting as baggage master, Oct. 22d; think we left Portsmouth on time, 3.40 A. M.; had eaten a lunch and put cover on my pail, when I heard a whistle to brake up; the door of the car was closed; started to get out of chair, but found myself rolling over; the crash came almost simultaneously with the whistle; felt myself in a small heap rolling around; was stunned; when I came to my senses, I found myself near the third (rear) window in the smoking car, directly over the body of Capt. Norton; it was smoky; I got out of the window; assisted in getting people out of smoking car, and cleared out seats; worked there until I thought every one was out; the distance I was thrown was more than the length of a car; the mail and baggage car is one car with a partition between the apartments; think the whole of our train was on the side track when I looked at it; did not examine the switch; we were going 18 or 20 miles an hour; think the engine was on the side track until it struck the freight train; Conductor Philbrick's train went into Seabrook on the right hand (north) side track.

Charles F. Dow; reside in East Salisbury; am brakeman on freight train on Eastern road; have been employed about a year and a half; before that was a shoemaker; am brakeman on local freight from East Boston to Portsmouth; was employed as brakeman of that train on 22d; we left Portsmouth about quarter past 9 Monday night; had 23 cars into Seabrook; left Portsmouth with 31; left part of them at Greenland and the through freight took some; we started from Portsmouth before the express freight; our starting time is 8.05—don't know of any time within two months when we have started on time; the express freight usually passes us at Greenland; our train was so heavy we left ten cars on the side track at Emery's, just out of Portsmouth; we could not get up the grade with them all; afterwards came back and took the ten cars to Greenland; the express freight passed us at the Emery switch; there were three freight trains on the track that night; these trains as a general thing start three hours apart from Portsmouth; we wait at Greenland for the through express freight; sometimes we never sight the Bangor express freight behind us; unless we are very late, we get into Boston before the Pullman train; we are instructed to give all passenger trains ten minutes lee-way before they are due; our side tracks are large enough generally to accomodate our train. The Bangor express freight came up with us at Hampton, on the night of the accident; they do not stop at all stations; we do; they did not pass us at Hampton, having work there; they overtook us between Hampton Falls and Seabrook; we were stopped; I was in the car ahead of the saloon car, the latter being the rear car; they assisted our train up the grade; when we stopped I went to the engine; we ran to within the length of the train; I ran to the switch, threw the switch changing it to let our train on, changing it back again for the Bangor freight and the Pullman train to pass; I found the switch locked when I first went to it; a key was in my pocket; one key fits all the switch locks on the road; the conductor and three brakemen each have keys; I attended the switch because I was nearest to the switch; we are cautioned to keep the switches on the main track; had no printed instructions with me; have had them, from an officer of the road; my copy was in the car; had no special instructions other than the general ones; did not lock the switch after I swung it back to the main track for the Bangor express, because I thought we might use it again; that is my practice; I put the pin in and the lock into the staple; thought the conductor of our train might want to back off on the main track after the Pullman train had gone; I knew what time it was; knew the Pullman was due in 16 minutes from the time our train went on the side track; had freight to take on at Seabrook; some in freight house and a car of shoes for Lynn and Beverly; the freight house stands next to the main track on the opposite side to the turn-out; to load heavy freight, the car must be on the main track; the freight house is 12 cars' length from the switch towards Boston; that night the load was to be put in on the turn-out as it was light; it was such that we could carry it across; the shoe car was on the same side as the freight house.

Adjourned to 10.30 A. M., Thursday.

The Republican Rally

At the Temple, this (Thursday) evening, should not be forgotton by any one who believes the re-election of President Grant necessary to the continued prosperity of the country; and the opponents of the Republican policy, if they dare listen to the arguments in its favor, may hear them well presented. Senator elect Wadleigh, Hon. Thomas Russell and N. W. Bingham, Esq., of Boston, will address the audience; the Marine Band will be in attendance; and ladies are cordially invited. The Grant and Wilson Guards will act as escort to the speakers, without torches.

S. J. Court.

James Stanley, for stealing a spyglass and quadrant, was sent to jail for 30 days.

Dennis McCarthy, indicted for assault with intent to commit a rape plead guilty of assault and got off with a week in jail and $1 fine.

The Democratic selectmen of Northwood were acquitted on a charge of fraudulently inserting the name of Lyman R. Hoitt on the check list.

State vs. John E. Batchelder. The respondent was indicted for fraudulent voting in Ward One, in this city, at the election of Mayor in November, 1871. Mr. Batchelder, who now resides in Ward One, claimed that his absence in 1871 was only temporary, or rather, that he had never given up his residence in that ward. Verdict, "not guilty." Frink for State: W. H. Y. Hackett for respondent.

The E. R. R. Accident.

The persons injured by the accident on the Eastern Railroad at Seabrook, who were carried to the Massachusetts General Hospital for treatment, are all out of danger with the exception of Charles Estes, the brakeman on the Pullman, whose internal injuries are of a serious nature. The latter is quite comfortable and his recovery is confidently expected.

Mr. George Hayward died at Newburyport, Wednesday forenoon. He became conscious for a few minutes. The condition of Messrs. Fairbanks, Anderson and Edwards continues as favorable as could be reasonably expected.

HOW PESHTIGO HAS RISEN FROM ITS ASHES.—The same night that Chicago burned, the thriving little village of Peshtigo, in the heart of the lumbering region of northern Wisconsin, was destroyed by a fire and hurricane combined, only one solitary building there escaping the general calamity. Sixty blackened corpses were found among the ruins on the day after the fire; and most of the inhabitants who escaped effected their salvation by retreating into the river, where they remained for hours in the water clinging to burning logs. A few found safety by huddling together in a low marsh just outside the limits of the fire.

Among the buildings burned in Peshtigo were saw and grist mills, a sash and blind factory, and the largest and most complete wooden ware manufactory in the United States, with its brick houses for kiln-drying, and two very large warehouses. This establishment cost the company which owned it $156,000, and had a capacity of turning out wooden ware to the value of $250,000 or $300,000 annually.

This fire occurred on the night of the 9th of October, a year ago, and the rapidity with which the obliterated town has been reconstructed is worthy of notice as an illustration of American enterprise and pluck. In less than a year the sum of $128,000 has been expended in rebuilding the place, which now is again a flourishing village with mills, stores, hotels, dwellings, and all the edifices essential to towns of this character, including three saloons and a caloboose. A new Congregational church, supplied with an organ, has been finished, and an Odd Fellows building and a school erected.

And all this has been effected in the midst of a wilderness, immediately after a disaster which in comparison with the extent of the population was infinitely greater than that which overwhelmed Chicago. If Peshtigo does not become a town of note in the future it will not be for want of energy in her people.

—Frederick Hudson was offered a salary of $30,000 per annum to go back and conduct the editorial department of the New York Herald.

AYER'S HAIR VIGOR.

FOR RESTORING GRAY HAIR

TO ITS NATURAL VITALITY AND COLOR.

Advancing years, sickness, care, disappointment, and hereditary predisposition, all turn the hair gray; either of them disposes to fall off prematurely, and either effect is unsightly and unpleasant to behold. DR. AYER'S consummate skill has produced an antidote for these deformities, which has won gratitude for him from multitudes of men and women. His HAIR VIGOR sometimes reproduces lost hair; and always restores to faded and gray hair its natural color, with the gloss and freshness of youth. The comparatively few bald and gray heads, that we now see, are those who have not yet discovered the virtues of AYER'S HAIR VIGOR for renewing the hair. The fresh and youthful hair we see on oldsy heads is often the product of his art. If you are disfigured, or made old, austere and ugly, by gray hair, restore its youthful color, and with your features to their original softness and agreeable expression.

As an elegant dressing for beautifying the Hair, it has no superior.

The Science of Health for November treats of popular Physiology; Dragged to Death! Physical Culture; Dislocations; Medical Systems; Intelligent Cookery; Offensive Breath, and how to make it pure; The use of Oatmeal for Human Food, and how to Cook it; Something about Sundry Humbugs; The Cure of Stammering; Women Physicians in England. The Publisher offers the last three numbers of this year, on trial, for 25cts. Address, S. R. Wells, 389 Broadway, New York.

Dr. Holland's serial story, entitled "Arthur Bonnicastle," to be commenced in Scribner's Monthly for November, and continued through the year, will be autobiographical in form, and in different vein from the earlier stories of this writer. Col. T. W. Higginson will publish a paper on Hawthorne's "Septimius Felton," in the November number, which will also contain an editorial on Father Hyacinthe, in which Dr. Holland strongly defends the priest's recent marriage, and hurls scorn at his protestant revilers. The poetry of the November number is to be contributed entirely by women. They are:—Christina G. Rossetti, Celia Thaxter, "H. H.," Mrs. Whitney and Elizabeth Akers Allen. Edward King of the Boston Journal, will give an account of an expedition among the Spanish Revolutionists, which he took in company with Stanley, the Livingstone discoverer. "The Demons of the Shadow," is the title of a paper by Moncure D. Conway, in which he gives what may be called "The Natural History of the Devil."

The Nursery, November number, is as charming as ever, and full of the best pictures and reading for the little folk. Boston: John L. Shorey.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England,

Pulmocine Cordial

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. EVERY FAMILY should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred THROAT DISEASES at all times prevalent, it is the cunce of PREVENTION. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this FAMILY MEDICINE prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best PULMONARY CURATIVE he could prescribe, after years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial

Is the ultimo thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are WILD CHERRY BARK, SQUILL ROOT, LIQUORICE ROOT, BLOOD ROOT, &c. It is a BLOOD PURIFIER, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a secondary family medicine. It is a Tonic, and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a potis sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

For Coughs, Croup, Diphtheria, Asthma, &c.

USE BUCHMAN'S

PULMOCINE CORDIAL.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured his family. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified, in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

"Mr. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. AYER'S

SARSAPARILLA

FOR PURIFYING THE BLOOD.

A medicine that cures is a real public blessing. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA makes positive cure of a series of complaints, which are always afflicting and too often fatal. It purifies the blood, purges out the lurking humors in the system, which undermine health and settle into troublesome disorders. Eruptions of the skin are the appearance on the surface of humors that should be expelled from the blood. Internal derangements are the determination of these same humors to some internal organ, or organs, whose action they derange, and whose substance they disease and destroy. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA expels these humors from the blood. When they are gone, the disorders they produce disappear, such as Ulcerations of the Liver, Stomach, Kidneys, Lungs, Eruptions and Eruptive Diseases of the skin, St. Anthony's Fire, Rose or Erysipelas, Pimples, Pustules, Blotches, Boils, Tumors, Tetter and Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, Ulcers and Sores, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Pain in the Bones, Side, and Head, Female Weakness, Sterility, Leucorrhœa arising from internal ulceration and uterine disease, Dropsy, Dyspepsia, Emaciation, and General Debility. With their departure health returns.

AYER'S

CHERRY PECTORAL

For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma and Consumption.

The few compositions, which have won the confidence of mankind and become household words among not only one but many nations, must have extraordinary virtues. Perhaps no one never secured so wide a reputation or maintained it so long as AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. It has been known to the public about forty years, by a long continued series of marvelous cures, which have won for it a confidence in its virtues, never equalled by any other medicines. It still makes the most effectual cures of Coughs, Colds, Consumption, that can be made by medical skill. Indeed the CHERRY PECTORAL has really robbed these dangerous diseases of their terrors, to a great extent, and given a feeling of immunity from their fatal effects, which is well founded, if the remedy be taken in season. Every family should have it in their closet for the ready and prompt relief of its members. Sickness, suffering, and even life is saved by this timely protection. The prudent should not neglect it, and the wise will not. Keep it by you for the protection it affords in sudden attacks, and by its timely use.

AYER'S PURGATIVE PILLS.

For all the purposes of a Family Physic,

CURING

Costiveness, Jaundice, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Dysentery, Foul Stomach, Erysipelas, Headache, Piles, Rheumatism, Eruptions and Skin Diseases, Biliousness, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Tetter, Tumors and Salt Rheum, Worms, Gout, Neuralgia, as a Dinner Pill, and Purifying the Blood,

Are the most congenial purgative yet perfected. Their effects abundantly show how much they excel all other Pills. They are safe and pleasant to take, but powerful to cure. They purge out the foul humors of the blood; they stimulate the sluggish or disordered organ into action, and they impart health and tone to the whole being. They cure not only the every day complaints of every body, but formidable and dangerous diseases. Most eminent clergymen, most skillful physicians, and our best citizens send certificates of cures performed, and of great benefits they have derived from these Pills. They are the safest and best physic for children, because mild as well as effectual. Being sugar coated, they are easy to take; and being purely vegetable, they are entirely harmless.

$1000 REWARD.

BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOR is composed of Ammonia, Chloroform, Spirits of Camphor, Tinctures of Lupuline, Oil of Juniper, and Alcohol. This compound is unequalled in the annals of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling or Twitching of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, banish pimples, cure scaly eruptions, itching, humors, &c.; it equalizes the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the brain, cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. Briggs' Allevantor absolutely possesses more curative properties than any other preparation. Physicians, chemists, and others are requested to examine and test the remedy, and $1000 will be paid if found different from representation.

COUCHS. Much has been said and written, and many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases; but nothing has been so eminently successful, or obtained such a wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.

CORNS! The excruciating pain produced by Corns, the unceasing twinging from Bunions, the piercing, distressing pain from Ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, not knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies are no acid or potash compounds, but are reliable, soothing, and effectual, and just merit the success they have earned from an appreciative public. The Curative is a healing ointment; immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it will positively cure the worst cases of Festered Corns, Inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the sorest instep, the largest and severest Blisters, the most extensive Callosities on the soles or heels of the feet, unequalled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Allevantor for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unexcelled by anything ever known.

PILES have been a terror to mankind for years and years, for centuries, and almost every attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr. Briggs has discovered an absolutely sure for internal, bleeding, external, and itching piles. Briggs' Pile Remedies are mild, safe and sure.

The Singer

SEWING MACHINE

STILL LEADS THE MARKET.

The Success of the Company is far beyond that of any other similar concern; the

Daily Manufacture

—OF—

400 OF THE SINGERS

Failing to Supply the Constant Demand.

All other machines call the public attention to some new loop or stitch or tension or finish, some advantage in running or needles or feed or prices—and many of these are as we have said very good points, and the agents selling them use them to divert entirely the would-be purchaser from fairly considering the facts in the case; but the

seems to unite the good qualities of all, and is never found wanting.

THE SINGER

IS THE

OLDEST

SEWING MACHINE

IN THE MARKET,

All others being copied from its first model. does two-thirds the sewing done in this country and preserves its advantages over all others combined.

Carry the News to Greeley.

BY O. H. CARTER.

Oh, have you heard the news from Maine?
They are well protected;
Fifteen-thousand Republican gain,
Grant will be elected.
The Democrats feel very sick,
For they are all surrounded;
Old Horace G. will soon walk off
On his ear dumbfounded.

CHORUS:

Oh, carry the news,
Carry the news to Greeley,
Oh carry the news, for
They are all surrounded. (Repeat.)

Good old Vermont steps up in line
With the best authority,
The Greeleyites put on their specs,
To read the big majority.
But if I was a Democrat
I would not be detected
To cast a vote for old White Hat,
Who never'l be elected.

CHORUS.

Oh, carry the news, etc.

West Virginia has waked up
To a sense of reason,
And in the future will expose
Old Horace Greeley's treason;
They ought to hang him on a tree,
And then we'd hear him cry,
"Oh, let me down, and I'll behave,"
How is that for high?

CHORUS.

North Carolina polled her votes,
Greeley was rejected;
The boot was on the other leg,
Just as we expected.
Why don't you, Horace, move out West?
Your friends you are alarming;
Take a reefin your old white hat,
And settle down to farming.

CHORUS.

From Pennsylvania comes the news,
Hartranft is elected.
The Dems and Libs shake in their shoes
Because they are neglected;
But now they'll cry, and yelp, and howl,
In a very boisterous manner
To extricate them from their holes,
And that's what's the matter with Hannah.

CHORUS.

The Dems and Libs are very blue,
Ohio's votes are counted;
To see her act so staunch and true,
With laurels thus surmounted.
She comes as in the days of yore,
With unfurlin banners,
With torches, caps and caps she's marching,
With the noble Tanners.

CHORUS.

Nebraska State is not too late,
To sound the loyal lyge;
She seals the traitor Tipton's fate;
The victory is entire.
She sends the news across the line,
Her sons are wide awake;
Although the Dems and Libs combined
They could not win the State.

The Daily Chronicle,

Portsmouth, N. H.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 25, 1872.

Another Little Discrepancy.

The Portsmouth organ of the Greeleyites, in its account of the grand boiled-crow picnic at Manchester on the evening of October 21st, says:

The number of people in line is estimated at from eight to ten thousand, and there were nearly five thousand torches, lanterns and transparencies, counted by different persons. Some made the number over four and some over five thousand, and not much more than half were provided with torches, &c.

The Manchester Mirror's account is less enthusiastic than that of our local Greeley organ, the Mirror being a staunch Republican paper; besides, it knows nothing about manufacturing "startling statistics." It says:

There were just about twelve hundred torches in the procession by the count of many, and those with axes. Chinese lanterns, the bands and others brought the total up to a little over eighteen hundred, and occupied fifteen minutes in passing a given point. Many of the companies wore the white cape and hat, only two companies having the good taste to add red trimmings, and many had no uniform at all. The credit of having the most irregular and worst looking crowd must be divided about equally between Concord and Portsmouth.

"Who cares what that radical Mirror says? Of course it would falsely belittle a Greyback demonstration," is probably what any ardent Greeleyite would say, or at least think, on reading the latter statement concerning the procession, after the first one. Well, then take the Manchester Union; that paper was once good copperhead authority, and is good Greeley authority now; and in its report of the procession, under the headings "Grand torchlight procession" and "A brilliant demonstration," it has a third, "2000 men in column!" And the Concord Patriot says "the best calculators made the procession to consist of 4000 people"—which shows that the Concord crow-mangler does not include the Portsmouth crow-mangler among the "best calculators,"—which is a trifle strange, seeing that our Portsmouth struggler-with-the-multiplication-table "calculated" a bigger procession than all the Concord and Manchester papers put together.

The E. R. R. Accident.

A Newburyport special to the Boston Herald says: An insane woman named Jenness, of Seabrook, is suspected of having caused the disaster at that place by changing the switch. She is a religious monomaniac and claims that she foresaw the accident. She also declares that another will occur immediately at the same station.

A jury, consisting of Richard Plummer, D. T. Woodwell, C. N. Barlow, J. T. Brown, G. A. Wood and S. A. Smith, has been empanelled at Newburyport by Coroner Smith, to investigate the cause of the death of Mr. Geo. Heywood, a victim of the collision.

The other injured men are doing as well as could be expected. Mail agent Sanborn is gaining rapidly.

Political.

One day last week, at Palmyra, Mo., the Greeleyites held a meeting, and by way of exciting the enthusiasm of the masses, a rebel flag was hung out at the Liberal headquarters. The loyal people forced the lowering of this flag, but another was raised in its place. The National colors were then raised at the Republican rooms, when a mob of Fusionists assembled and ordered the flag to be hauled down. A riot seeming imminent, the Common Council assembled and decided that the flag must not be floated. So the stars and stripes, in obedience to rebel command, came down. This is the sort of "reconciliation" foreshadowed by the success of the coalition.

The nomination of Greeley was one of those stupendous political mistakes which it is ever difficult to comprehend. —A. Belmont.

At the city election in Baltimore, Oct. 23, the Republicans made a gain of two members of the city council. The vote was light.

It now appears that Perry, Democrat, is not elected to Congress in South Carolina, but that the whole delegation remains Republican. So all the Democratic crowing over that great "gain" was for nothing at all.

The Columbus (Ga.) Sun refuses to be longer hoodwinked or bamboozled. It says bluntly: "Disguise it as we may, and with all the assertions, predictions, wishes and hopes to the contrary notwithstanding, the late elections in the Middle States demonstrated that Liberal Republicanism is a failure."

A POPULAR SECURITY.—The Arkansas Central Railroad Bonds, advertised in another column, have two-fold strength as a security. They are a State Bond and a Railway Guarantee endorsement combined. As a Railway, the Arkansas Central has merits of the first order, viz.:—sixty-one miles of the road—over one-third of the whole—are completed, and are earning about $10,000 per mile, enough to pay the bonded interest, running expenses, and leave a fair stock dividend; the road is to connect Little Rock, the capital of Arkansas, with Helena, on the Mississippi river, and with Pine Bluff, three of the largest cities in Arkansas; this route has sustained five steamers several years, 800 miles out of the way, taking five days to run; the rail will do the same in four hours to Helena and nine hours to Memphis; the intervening country is one of the best Cotton districts in the world; the Coal trade will be about $300,000 annually, the Cotton trade $350,000, and it is estimated that the whole line of 160 miles will, when completed, yield $1,350,000 gross receipts annually; Helena, the Eastern terminus, is the only eligible point on the west bank of the Mississippi approachable by rail from Cape Girardeau to the Gulf; its land grant is worth from $1,500,000 to $2,000,000, being of the best Cotton lands in Arkansas. Besides the foregoing, the State of Arkansas has loaned her "credit irrevocably" to secure these bonds at only $15,000 per mile, by Act of Legislature, and this act has been confirmed unanimously at the ballot-box. These Bonds are for sale by E. P. Kimball in this city, or may be ordered through the nearest bank.

Accompanying the announcement that the San Juan boundary question has been decided in favor of the United States, comes a story that England is engaged in a discriditable attempt to defeat the decision. The story is generally treated with contempt.

☞ THE NEW HAMPSHIRE GAZETTE for this week, is now ready for delivery, at the Chronicle Office. Each number contains all the reading matter of the week's Dailies. Price $2 a year; single copies 5 cents, in wrappers for mailing, if desired. Six copies for $10 per year, to Clubs—per mail or city carrier.

USED UP.—What is the precise meaning of this familiar phrase when employed to signify an unnatural condition of body and mind? It means exhaustion, languor, want of vital energy, mental apathy—a pitiable state of physical and mental helplessness. The best, and in fact the only perfectly reliable panacea for a "used up" system is that most popular and potent of medicinal stimulants, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. No matter whether the health has been broken down by excessive labor, over-study, an insalubrious atmosphere, anxiety, irregularities in diet, dissipation, or any other cause, this powerful and pleasant vegetable restorative will soon recruit the drooping energies of nature, restoring the integrity of the nerves, and re-establishing that functional regularity which is essential to animal vigor and a hopeful frame of mind. As a cure for debility, in all its varied manifestations, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is unapproached by any tonic in materia medica.

RAPID CONSUMPTION is often the penalty of trifling with a severe cough; but no such a catastrophe can occur if Hale's Honey of Horehound and Tar is taken before the disorganization of the lungs has commenced. Take time by the forelock and you are safe. Crittenton's 7 6th Avenue. Sold by all Druggists.

Pike's Toothache Drops cure in 1 minute.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—After all other applications fail, Holloway's Ointment is guaranteed to heal an ulcerated leg or any running sore without pain or danger. In dyspepsia the Pills are a positive specific. Sold 78 Maiden Lane, N. Y. Price 25 cents per pot or box. Ask for new style; the old is counterfeited.

SO GENERAL has the public confidence become in Dr. Ayer's medicines, and so great the demand for them, that unprincipled villains are attempting to deceive the unwary by imposing upon them their worthless nostrums under a similarity of name. Cherry Pectoral Lozenges, Dr. Ayer's Troches, Ayer's Pastiles for Coughs, Cherry Pectoral Cough Drops, Ayer's Fever and Ague Cure, Dr. Ayer's Indian Pills, &c., (none of which are Dr. Ayer's manufacture or composition) are specimens of this villainy and deceit. They not only defraud the sick of their money but of their health, or the recovery of their health, which is far more important than money. From actual counterfeits the people are protected by law which the Doctor promptly enforces, but these evasions sometimes elude the law, and purchasers must protect themselves by refusing to be deceived by them.

PILES.—The unceasing torture from internal bleeding, external and itching piles is fast wearing away the thousands of those who are afflicted and their hope and courage have long since given place to despair. Let those who see this cheer up, for a mild and sure cure may be had by using BRIGGS' PILE REMEDIES.

CASTORIA.—A substitute for Castor Oil—is a physic which does not distress or gripe, but is sure to operate when all other remedies have failed. You may confidently rely upon the Castoria in Stomach-ache, Constipation, Flatulency, Croup, Worms, Piles or deranged Liver. It contains neither Minerals, Morphine, Opium nor Alcohol, but is purely a vegetable preparation, perfectly harmless, and above all, pleasant to take. The Castoria soothes and quiets the system, and produces natural sleep. It is a wonderful thing to assimilate the food of children and prevent them from crying. A 35 cent bottle will do the work for a family and save many doctors' bills.

CORNS.—Since pride and fashion have had control of mankind, and shoemakers were compelled to make boots and shoes to fit fancy instead of the feet, the suffering from Corns, Bunions, Ingrowing Nails, Sore Insteps, Blistered Heels, Callosities on the bottom of the feet, &c., cannot be described. But Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies will cure all such torments, and proper fitting boots will prevent their reproduction. Sold by all druggists. a12

Bankrupt Notice.

THE CORONER'S INQUEST.

The Coroner and Jury went to Seabrook, Thursday morning, and viewed the scene of the accident.

On returning, the examination of Brakeman Charles F. Dow was continued, County Solicitor Frink conducting the examination.—The shoe car at Seabrook was on the right hand turn-out; part of this turn-out is nearer Portsmouth than that on which the local freight train was; when we run into Seabrook, if we have a heavy train, we can drop a car from the right turn-out into the train,—we split the train and haul ahead so that we can drop the car in. Ques. Having drawn the train on the long turn-out how would you attach the car from the short turn-out? Ans. Should run off at the upper switch of the left hand turn-out and come back on main track; there were no other goods to be taken from Seabrook except those which we were to carry across to the turn-out; did not know what freight there was to be taken at Seabrook when I arranged the switch for the Bangor express freight to pass; when I crossed from the lower switch on the long turn-out I asked the conductor what there was to go; he was on the freight house platform; he told me there was a car for Lynn and a few cases for Beverly; there were some hides to re-load from the freight house; asked him how he would take this car for Lynn; advised him to run off from the upper switch towards Boston, as there was a car for Lynn next to the engine; this would save moving the whole train; the conductor said, "come up along; we will look at the train and see how it stands;" he concluded that my plan was the best; we then stood on the plank on the other side of the highway; I asked him about a case of fish in the third car from the rear of the train; I told him it would be a good plan, when we did go down on the main track to get the shoe car for Lynn, we could reload that fish into the Lynn car and haul it up to the Boston car; he said the cars of the train were pretty well mixed up; told him while we were taking this Lynn car, one man could be carrying the hides across; I was on the highway crossing when the Pullman train came, with the conductor; I saw a light first swung across the main track at the rear end of our train; it was a lantern with white light; think it was a railroad lantern; the signal was for a stop motion; suppose it was intended for the Pullman train; I should say the light was three or four cars' length towards the depot from the switch; did not know who swung the lantern; said nothing; the conductor and I started and ran that way; we ran because it was a danger signal; ran as far as the passenger depot platform; then the crash came and I stopped; do not know who swung the lantern; suppose it was done as a signal of danger; I only know how the man who swung the lantern discovered the danger from what he told me; Mr. Bartlett, the rear brakeman, came running up; I started and met him: Bartlett said the switch was wrong; he said he heard the Pullman train coming, cast his eye up out of the door of the saloon car, and the reflection of the head-light shone upon the track; he saw the switch was wrong; he grabbed the light and jumped upon the main track; swung it four or five times, I should say, very quick; and then ran towards the freight house across the main track; he was about three or four cars' length from the switch; he did not say how the switch became altered, although I asked him; he said he "didn't know;" told him the switch was left right for the main track; then I started, ran down and passed by the Pullman train to the switch; the first I noticed was the track to see if the switch rod was broken or what was the cause; found the track connected with the turn-out; looked at the switch; found the lock hanging by its chain, and that the switch was thrown over for the turn-out; the pin was in the switch; the switch was thrown clear over in the same position as when our train went over; the pin was where it ought to have been for turning on to the turn-out from the main track; the padlock was not in the position which I ordinarily leave it when locked or not locked; don't think I could see a man from the highway down to the switch; don't remember whether it was moonlight or not; when I threw the switch over on the main track for the Bangor freight, I then put the pin in and the lock through the staple; did not lock it; after the Bangor freight passed, I passed immediately over the main track up to the freight house to see the conductor and to see what there was going; while with the conductor we determined not to go back over the switch; my intention was to go and lock the switch when I got to the rear of the train; it would have taken 15 minutes to have loaded the freight and attach the shoe car; had no talk about doing it before the Pullman train came along; looked at my watch when the Bangor freight had pushed us to the top of the grade; have been on this train about six months; don't remember that the Pullman train ever passed us at Seabrook; knew by my time book when it was due there; did not have it with me; it is due at Salem at 5.16; do not know its time at all places; if we are behind time and expecting the Pullman we have our time book; the conductor usually has one in his pocket; we look at it if we do not know when Pullman is due; at Hampton talked with the conductor about the Pullman train; said we must hurry and get to Seabrook for the Pullman to pass; when I fixed the switch at Seabrook, I knew how long it was before the Pullman was due; it was about 16 minutes; our train did not move a foot after it was run on the side track and stopped; Mr. Locke is station agent at Seabrook; he lives close by the depot; did not see him until I ran and called him after the collision; saw no one but the employees of the road; the switch couldn't possibly have been changed by the passage of the freight as the pin was in its proper place; am very confident I did not shift the switch back again after the Bangor express freight passed; never knew of obstruction or disturbance of our switches at Seabrook; don't know, couldn't tell, how the switch was changed; know nothing that I have not stated here that would throw any light upon it; have no suspicions; saw no one near the switch after I left it; do not know how the other brakemen were employed while I was talking with the conductor; did not go to the switch after once leaving it before the accident; was starting to lock the switch when I saw the danger signal; locking the switch is only to prevent unauthorized persons from changing it; we are always supposed to leave the switch upon the main track and lock it if we leave it; do not know that the rules demand it only when we are thro' using it; suppose we have a right to leave it before we are done using it; never thought we were obliged to remain at the switch while using it; did not understand when I left it that we would not use again; would have no right to go away and leave the switch connected with the side track; any other employee of the Road would have a right to operate the switch; I was responsible to leave the switch on the main track before I left it; my custom is to do so, put in the pin—but do not lock it till I go away with the train; did not look at the switch after the Bangor freight passed; stood within four or five feet of it until it passed; saluted the rear brakeman.

Adjourned to 2 o'clock.

On resuming, Mr. Dow continued:—think it was dark when the lantern was swung; think I saw the moon before arriving at Seabrook; do not think it rained; the track was very slippery; could have seen a lantern from the highway to the switch, I think; it was three or five minutes after our train was on the turn-out and after the Bangor freight passed before I was informed of the freight to be taken at Seabrook; it was three minutes or more after our arrival when the Bangor express freight passed; we take freight about twice a week at Seabrook, Tuesday and Friday mornings particularly; couldn't understand what the conductor of the Bangor express said as he passed me; thought he was warning me of the Pullman; my impression then was if the Pullman came in sight before the freight was out of hearing I would haul them up and tell them to look out for the Bangor freight; was at no time on the left of our train before the accident; no person on our train spoke to me at the switch; we get our way bills at the freight house; sometimes I get them.

Lendall Bartlett; Reside in Newburyport; am brakeman on the local freight train between East Boston and Portsmouth; was on rear end of local freight on the 22d, with the conductor, when we went on Seabrook turn-out; saw the light of a lantern go by the saloon car on the left of the train, towards the switch; our train was moving; the conductor got out of same door where I stood, before the train stopped; Bangor freight passed; I leaned out of the door as it passed and spoke to the man on the rear car; then sat down in car; it was ten or twelve minutes before I heard the Pullman train whistle; I got up to look out as usual; when I looked out of the door I saw by the reflection of the head-light that the switch was wrong; I picked up my lantern and sprang out on the main track, and swung it across the track, giving the signal of danger; in a few seconds the collision occured; I started across the track, ran ahead and told Mr. Dow, the brakeman, that the switch was wrong; I met him coming towards the rear of the train; he replied "the switch is right;" we started back to the rear of the train; met the Pullman engineer, Mr. Newhall; he said to me, "the switch was wrong;" I then went for a bar and other tools to help clear the wreck; then for a wagon for the wounded; Mr. Dow was ten cars' length from the switch when I met him; I didn't touch the switch at all; I was about five cars' length from the switch at the time of the accident; it was misty but star-light; should have seen a man had one been at the switch as the Pullman train came on; do not know that any one went to the switch after the express freight train passed; have been employed over two years on Eastern R. R.; a year or more on local freight; if we are to use a switch we do not lock it; we never leave it unlocked and go on; I did not get out of the saloon car from the time we ran on the side track until I saw the head-light of the Pullman engine; didn't see any one about there but the employees of the road; a person might have passed down by the car I was sitting on and changed the switch without my knowing it; both doors of the car were open.

J. B. Smith; Reside at Chelsea; am conductor of the local freight on the Eastern R. R. (His testimony corroborated many details of previous witnesses.) Mr. Dow went ahead on our train by my orders and switched us on the Seabrook turn-out. Saw Mr. Dow shift the switch to the main track and put the lock in after we passed on the side track; was looking at him purposely; always do so, to see that the switch is right; left him at the switch; passed out of the side door towards freight house and motioned my engineer to stop; went to the freight house, found the way bills; looked them over; came out; by that time the express freight had passed me; saw Dow coming following the Bangor freight up; told him what was going; we went up the track together to see how our train stood; told him we would load hides by carrying them across main track; he made suggestions which I agreed to; we went to the highway crossing and remained there until the Pullman train whistled; looked towards the rear of our train; we were talking 12 or 14 minutes before the Pullman train whistled; saw brakeman jump from saloon car and give signal of danger; I ran to the rear of our train; did not know what the trouble was; did not go to the switch that night before the accident; went to the switch after the accident; found it on the turn-out with the lock out hanging by the chain; the pin was all right for the train to go on the turn-out; saw no one who did not belong to the train previous to the accident; the train was between us and the switch as we stood talking, so could not see the switch; after the accident Mr. Dow told me he left the switch right on the main track; some hands must have changed the switch; it could not be changed otherwise; the lock was not found as any railroad man would have left it; it could not have been jolted out; met the engineer of the Pullman train; he said "the switch was wrong;" I said, "It's impossible; one train has been over it and I saw Mr. Dow put the pin and lock in;" found the switch wrong; know of no disturbance or trouble at Seabrook; our duty is to lock a switch when we leave it finally; if Mr. Dow had shifted the switch after the express freight had passed, should not have seen him; it don't seem possible that he could have shifted the switch after the freight passed and have appeared so soon coming towards me; the switch at Seabrook goes hard; a strong man might shift it in 15 seconds; Mr. Dow is a light man—not very strong; some switches oiled can be shifted with one hand; Mr. Dow had come from Boston, and worked from one o'clock, P. M., of Monday to past four o'clock, A. M., of Tuesday; he works every other night.

Adjourned to Friday morning at 10 o'clock.

A Grand Rally.

A large audience filled the Temple, Thursday night. The Grant and Wilson Guards escorted the speakers from the Kearsarge, led by the Marine Band and the drum corps. Samuel Adams, Esq., called the meeting to order and introduced Hon. Wm. H. Y. Hackett as President of the meeting. The glee club and Band furnished music between the speeches. We have no room or time for a full report of the proceedings. N. W. Bingham's speech was brief; Judge Russell made a convincing and incisive speech, and dissected Greeley's record; he encroached so much on Senator-elect Wadleigh's time that that gentleman had but a half hour, which he improved, however, to the utmost. We hear that he was indisposed before the meeting commenced.

This was Mr. Wadleigh's first appearance here and his friends desire to hear him where he can speak more fully. The meeting adjourned with cheers for Grant and Wilson, after which the Guards marched to their headquarters and were dismissed. The drum corps made a tour of the city afterwards, practicing for an all-night performance Nov. 5th and 6th.

The Testimony

Of Mr. Charles F. Dow before the Coroner's jury on Wednesday and Thursday was very important, as will be seen by our report. Mr. Dow evidently feels keenly the position in which he is placed and understands its responsibility. Many persons are to apt to judge hastily when an accident occurs and misplaced judgment is more frequent than misplaced switches. Charity is necessary for a proper appreciation of the situation of a person responsible for loss of life; and while the responsibity of the Seabrook accident remains undetermined, the public should not judge harshly or wrongly. The Coroner's jury will inquire carefully into all the facts of the case, though it be a disagreeable and irksome duty. Mr. Dow, who has been blamed for the accident, is evidently a clear-minded, intelligent man. His testimony was given in a positive, straight-forward manner; and it is evident that no blame can be attached to the Eastern Railroad for employing a man fully capable of performing the manual labor which a brakeman performs and of suggesting proper methods of hastening the dispatch of business. Mr. Dow's testimony is direct that he altered the switch to the main track and stood within four or five feet of it until the express freight train passed; that he did not return to it or look at it, but having left it with the pin in and lock in the staple, went ahead and consulted with the conductor; as soon as the accident had happened, he testifies that he went immediately to the side-track or turn-out, and the pin had been changed to correspond with the change of switch, while the lock was hanging by the chain!

City Council.

The Board of Mayor and Aldermen met Wednesday evening.

J. D. Goodrich was granted leave to encumber Water Street for repairing building.

Bill of S. Adams & Co. against Hanover Street reservoir was approved.

The bill entitled "An Ordinance relating to the Fire Department" was taken from the table and passed.

Voted, That the consideration of the Portsmouth & Dover Railroad be postponed, and made the first business at the next meeting of the Board.

The sum of $260.32 was allowed for the payment of sundry bills against the Firemen's Muster.

Laconics.

Major Hackett will sell the steam yacht "Hoffman" at auction, to-day. See advertisement.

Gen. Tom Thumb and lady, with Commodore Nutt and Minnie Warren, will appear at the Temple Nov. 7.

The Biddeford Times says the citizens of Kittery and Portsmouth "are moving to make the bridge between those two places a free one."

The law compels a Coroner to have testimony reduced to writing. As there is no stenographer employed by the jury of inquest on the death of Capt. Robert Norton, Coroner Rider is obliged to write out the testimony, which causes delay and is rather tedious. While the investigation was proceeding, Thursday, Hon. W. H. Y. Hackett having rapidly asked a question of a witness was requested to proceed slowly, and apologized for forgetting that he was "on a freight train and not on the Pullman express."

Divorces Decreed.

Judge Doe decreed the following divorces, Thursday:—

Sarah E. Lane from Moses G. Lane of Northwood.

Kate C. Osgood from Chase E. Osgood of Raymond.

The News.

The estimates of the Navy department have been completed. They are for between eighteen and nineteen millions, and there is no deficiency. The sum is about the same as last year.

The Grand Duke Alexis has sent a compass of very elaborate workmanship as a present to the naval school at Annapolis.

The horse epidemic is creating a panic among owners of horse flesh, and well it may. In New York city, Brooklyn and Jersey City, the car and omnibus lines are reducing the number of carriages running, owing to so many of their horses being sick; in Syracuse, N. Y., 100 horses have died, and 500 more are sick; in Lockport, N. Y., the epidemic is raging, and in Rochester it is said not twenty horses have escaped it,—all horse travel is stopped in the latter city; Springfield, Mass., had seventy cases break out on Wednesday, and in Boston the epidemic is on the increase. The Treasury Department has prohibited the importation of horses from Canada,—very like locking the stable door after the horse is stolen. No effective mode of treatment has yet been discovered.

John Kelly murdered his wife with a hatchet at Boston Highlands, Wednesday night. He was drunk at the time.

One of the large water-mains which supply Georgetown and Washington burst in the former city, and for a time an emmense stream poured with great force through some of the streets, and did much damage. The water was soon shut off at the reservoir, but after that a long line of pipe had to empty itself through the break. One man was suffocated to death by entering one of the wells in a bridge abutment to turn off the water from one of the mains.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England,

Pulmocine Cordial

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. It will speedily and have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred THROAT DISEASES at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of PREVENTION. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this FAMILY MEDICINE prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agency. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the painful suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best PULMONARY CURATIVE he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are WILD CHERRY BARK, SQUILL ROOT, LIQUORICE ROOT, BLOOD ROOT, &c. It is a BLOOD PURIFIER, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary medicine. It is a Tonic, and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

For Coughs, Croup, Diphtheria, Asthma, &c.

USE BUCHMAN'S

PULMOCINE CORDIAL.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified, in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

SARSAPARILLA

FOR PURIFYING THE BLOOD.

A medicine that cures is a real public blessing. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA makes positive cure of a series of complaints, which are always afflicting and too often fatal. It purifies the blood, purges out the lurking humors in the system, which undermine health and settle into troublesome disorders. Eruptions of the skin are the appearance on the surface of humors that should be expelled from the blood. Internal derangements are the determination of these same humors to some internal organ, or organs, whose action they derange, and whose substance they disease and destroy. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA expels these humors from the blood. When they are gone, the disorders they produce disappear, such as Ulcerations of the Liver, Stomach, Kidneys, Lungs, Eruptions and Irruptive Diseases of the skin, St. Anthony's Fire, Rose or Erysipelas, Pimples, Pustules, Blotches, Boils, Tumors, Tetter and Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, Ulcers and Sores, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Pain in the Bones, Side, and Head, Female Weakness, Sterility, Leucorrhea arising from internal ulceration and uterine disease, Dropsy, Dyspepsia, Emaciation, and General Debility. With their departure health returns.

AYER'S

CHERRY PECTORAL

For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma and Consumption.

The few compositions, which have won the confidence of mankind and become household words among us not only one but many nations, must have extraordinary virtues. Perhaps no one ever secured so wide a reputation or maintained it so long as AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. It has been known to the public about forty years, by a long continued series of marvellous cures, which have won for it a confidence in its virtues, never equalled by any other medicines. It still makes the most effectual cures of Coughs, Colds, Consumption, that can be made by medical skill. Indeed the CHERRY PECTORAL has really robbed these dangerous diseases of their terrors, to a great extent, and given a feeling of immunity from their fatal effects, which is well founded, if the remedy be taken in season. Every family should have it in their closet for the ready and prompt relief of its members. Sickness, suffering, and even life is saved by this timely protection. The prudent should not neglect it, and the wise will not. Keep it by you for the protection it affords in sudden attacks, and by its timely use.

VEGETINE

The Great Blood Purifier.

A valuable Indian compound, for restoring the health, and for the permanent cure of all diseases arising from impurities of the blood, such as

Scrofula Scrofulous Humors, Cancers, Cancerous Humor, Erysipelas, Canker, Salt Rheum, Pimples and Humors on the Face, Ulcers, Coughs, Catarrh, Bronchitis, Neuralgia, Pains in the Side, Rheumatism, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Costiveness, Dizziness, Piles, Headache, Nervousness, Faintness at the Stomach, Pains in the Back, Kidney Complaints, Female Weakness, and General Debility.

This preparation is entirely vegetable, and chemically combined, and so strongly concentrated from roots, herbs and barks, that its good effects are realized immediately after commencing to take it. There is no disease to which human system is subject, which the VEGETINE cannot be used with PERFECT SAFETY, as it does not contain any metallic compound. For eradicating the system of all impurities of the blood, it has no equal. It has never failed to effect a cure, giving tone and strength to the system debilitated by disease. Its wonderful effects upon these complaints are surprising to all. Many have been cured by the VEGETINE that have tried many other remedies. It can well be called

AYER'S PURGATIVE PILLS.

For all the purposes of a Family Physic,

CURING

Costiveness, Jaundice, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Dysentery, Foul Stomach, Erysipelas, Headache, Piles, Rheumatism, Eruptions and Skin Diseases, Biliousness, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Tetter, Tumors and Salt Rheum, Worms, Gout, Neuralgia, as a Dinner Pill, and Purifying the Blood,

Are the most congenial purgative yet perfected. Their effects abundantly show how much they excel all other Pills. They are safe and pleasant to take, but powerful to cure. They purge out the foul humors of the blood; they stimulate the sluggish or disordered organ into action, and they impart health and tone to the whole being. They cure not only the every day complaints of every body, but formidable and dangerous diseases. Most eminent clergymen, most skillful physicians, and our best citizens send certificates of cures performed, and of great benefits they have derived from these Pills. They are the safest and best physic for children, because mild as well as effectual. Being sugar coated, they are easy to take; and being purely vegetable, they are entirely harmless.

BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOR is composed of Ammonia, Chloroform, Spirits of Camphor, Tincture of Lupulin, Oil of Juniper, and Alcohol. This compound is unequalled in the annals of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling or Twitching of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, banish pimples, cure scaly eruptions, itching, humors, &c.; it equalizes the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the brain, cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. Briggs' Allevantor absolutely possesses more curative properties than any other preparation. Physicians, chemists, and others are requested to examine and test the merits of this wonderful remedy, and $1000 will be paid if found different from representation.

COUGHS, Much has been said and written, and many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases; but nothing has been so eminently successful, or obtained such a wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.

CORNS! The excruciating pain produced by Corns, the unceasing twinging from Bunions, the piercing, distressing pain from Ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, not knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies are no acid or potash compounds, but are reliable, soothing, and effectual, and just merit the success they have earned from an appreciative public. The Curing is a healing ointment; immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it will positively cure the worst cases of Festered Corns, Inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the sorest instep, the largest and severest Blisters, the most extensive Callosities on the soles or heels of the feet, unequalled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Allevantor for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unexcelled by anything ever known.

PILES have been a terror to mankind for centuries, and almost every attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr. Briggs has discovered an infallible cure for internal, bleeding, external, and itching piles. Briggs' Pile Remedies are mild, safe and sure

The Singer

SEWING MACHINE

STILL LEADS THE MARKET.

The Success of the Company is far beyond that of any other similar concern; the

Daily Manufacture

—OF—

400 OF THE SINGERS

Failing to Supply the Constant Demand.

All other machines call the public attention to some new loop or stitch or tension or finish, some advantage in running or needles or feed or prices—and many of these are as we have said very good points, and the agents selling them use them to divert entirely the would-be purchaser from fairly considering the facts in the case; but the

seems to unite the good qualities of all, and is never found wanting.

THE SINGER

IS THE

OLDEST

SEWING MACHINE

IN THE MARKET,

All others being copied from its first model, does two-thirds the sewing done in this country and preserves its advantages over all others combined.

It is readily kept clean, and has THE BEST TENSION EVER INVENTED; it is higher speeded and requires but little power to run; it works equally well upon the finest and heaviest goods; it does all the varieties of work known to the art.

N. B. Those purchasing for cash, before the 1 of January next, will have a consideration allowed them.

THE OLD BARN.

Rickety, old and crazy,
Shingleless, lacking some door;
Bad is the upper story,
Wanting boards in the floors;
Beams strung thick with cobwebs,
Ridgepole yellow and gray,
Hanging in helpless innocence
Over the mows of hay.

How the winds turned around it—
Winds of a stormy day—
Scattering the fragrant hay seed,
Whisking the straws away;
Streaming in at the crannies,
Spreading the clover smell,
Changing the dark old granery
Into a flowery dell.

O, how I loved the shadows
That clung to the silent roof,
Day dreams wove with the quiet,
Many a glittering woof;
I climbed to the highest rafters,
And watched the swallows at play,
Admired the knots in the boarding,
And rolled in the billows of hay.

Palace of king could'nt match it,
The Vatican loses its charm
When placed in my memories' balance,
Beside the old gray barn!
And I'd rather scent the clover,
Piled in the barn's roomy mows,
Than sit in the breath of the highlands
Poured from Appenine brows!

—The World says: "Inflated rubber bustles are announced. They are said to impart great buoyancy to the movements. In case of shipwreck they would undoubtedly be advantageous, although a girl floated by one of them might be taken for a buoy, and so passed by unnoticed."

—The Detroit Free Press says that "yesterday afternoon a farmer named Palmer was thrown from his wagon about two miles from the toll-gate." A Union reporter has inquired into the case, and finds that instead of being thrown two miles, Palmer was simply thrown out upon the road beside his wagon. It is one of the Free Press' exaggerations.—Detroit Union.

—Apparently the Maine Democrats do not quite get the idea of the Credit Mobilier scandal, if the following from the Kennebec Journal is founded on facts: Captain — — of Pittston was engaged in conversation at the depot in this city to-day, with Captain — — of Augusta. This question of the intelligent gentleman from Pittston was overheard: "What do you think, Captain, about Jim Blaine's cheating them fellows so like h—l down in Mobile?"

General William Schouler died at his residence in West Roxbury, Mass., Thursday.

The portrait of ex-Governor Benjamin Pierce is to be added to the collection of governors now in the council chamber in the State house.

Robert J. Clark died at Rochester a few days since, aged, eighty-two years. He was a well known stage driver for over fifty -three years.

Charles F. Gilson of Pepperell was shot in the back on Wednesday night by an assassin, while standing near a window in the bar room of his hotel. The shot was fired from outside of the window. His wound has been probed but the ball had not been found at last accounts. The wound is probably not fatal. No cause is assigned, and no arrest has been made.

The governor and council appointed S. W. Rollins of Meredith judge of probate for Belknap county, in place of Judge Lowell, resigned. Lowell's resignation is to take effect in December.

—A merry party of ladies and gentlemen had a narrow escape from a terrible death among the Thousand Islands of the St. Lawrence recently, but, as it turned out, they were saved by the presence of mind and heroism of one of the ladies. The way of it is this: They were out in a yacht at a late hour in the evening, when the clouded sky rendered it almost impossible to distinguish objects on the water at a short distance. They were sailing about thoughtlessly, and enjoying themselves as such parties are in the habit of doing, when suddenly a dark object loomed up before them, which was evidently a large steamer. A collision seemed inevitable, unless the steamer could be signaled to change her course, as it was impossible for the sailing craft to do so. The party were in a terrible dilemma, as except a few matches, there seemed to be no means at command to produce a light. The young ladies, except one, screamed with terror, and a fearful catastrophe seemed on the point of consummation. A slight rustling, however, was observed in the direction of the silent young lady. No one could see what she was doing but she soon handed a roll of paper to one of the gentlemen. In a moment it was ablaze, the steamer's course was changed, and the party were saved. When they recovered from their fright there was naturally much speculation as to where that important roll of paper came from, and it finally leaked out that the fair one had heroically sacrified her bustle to secure the safety of her companions. The incident has given rise to a good deal of good natured gossip, and abundantly proves that even a lady's bustle is not without its uses when occasion requires.—Albany Eve. Journal.

—There was a spirited contest in Washington, recently, between two gangs of laborers, one working for the contractors under the board of public works and the other under the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company. The contractors undertook to take up the track to change the grade and pave the street. One set shoveled gravel on the track and the other cleared it off. This was varied when a long cattle-train came along, by shoveling gravel under the wheels till the train was blocked. The railroad company sent for a second engine and hauled the cars through in spite of the crowd, though one car went off in the street. Finally the contractors gave in under an order from the board of public works.

—A Somers (Ct.) farmer having more apples than he could find room for in his cellar, and not considering them worth picking at present prices, sold them unpicked for four dollars for each row of trees. On one row of trees there appeared to be seventy barrels of apples, which cost the purchaser, besides the trouble of picking, less than six cents a barrel!

—The police will appreciate the sympathy of Small Talk, of the Courier-Journal, who says: "In St. Louis recently, a scoundrel tried to blow up a number of sleeping policemen. The vigilant guardians of that town can hardly rest at night, such is the boldness of the prowling villians who infest the place."

—Vigogne, like undressed cashmere, is a new fabric, of which travelling suits are made. It is a dull Carmelite gray, and is prettily trimed with wool fringe and groups of swinging cords.

"WHO PESE DESE LOCAL EDITORS?"—Dectecive Larry Hazen was met recently by a keeper of a beer saloon, who was laboring under considerable excitement. Recognizing Hazen, he stepped up to him with the exclamation:

"Who pese dese vot you call local editors?"

"They pick up items," said the officer.

"Dey bick items? I tink so. Is gold watch items? Is sixty tollars items? Hey?"

He was asked to explain what he meant, which he did as follows:

"Dis morning I vas trinking lager mit mine vrens all the vile in mine zaloon, and in gomes a man vat dere never vas already—and he bulls out a leetle sheepskin pook and a lead bencil, and he says he pees local editors, and vants me to tell him all vot dere vas pout the row mit mine zaloon last night. I ask him vot kind o' pusiness he vas to that row, by tam, vot, kind o' right? Und he says he reborts um in de babers. So I tell him all vot I ton't know pout the rows vot some rowdies tried to gick out of mine zaloon last night. Und mine poarders gets round und dells more tings vot I recollects, und de nice young man, he sticks' em down in his sheepskin pook mit his lead bencil. Den he trinks glass lager, vich he ton't let himself pay for, py tam, (I felt sure as never vas he one leetle noosebaber feller ven he tiden't make pay mit mine lager; but dat make notting tifference; der's brinciple in dat,) und den he goes out, und I ton't see him some more all de vile. Den one of mine poarders he finds himself stolen avay from his gold vatch py tam; und my neighbor Schmitz, he found sixty tollars vat he hadn't cot."

"The nice young man who pretended to be a local editor, was a pickpocket," said Hazen, "who took that way to carry on his trade, and he succeeded pretty well if he got a gold watch and sixty dollars."

"I tinks he succeed pretty vell, mine Gott! De next time a man gomes in mine zaloon mit his tam sheepskin pencil and lead pook, and says he is a local editor, py tam, he ton't gome in!"

"It is surprising how I love a man after I've fought with him," says the gallant Colonel Dumas. "It's amazing how I love a man after I've fought and been slaughtered for him," exclaims the valiant Dan. Voorhees. —Among the passengers who got on the train at Utica, N. Y., recently, were twenty-three men who were unable to find a seat. Among them was a lawyer, who proposed to the rest that all decline to give up their tickets until they were furnished seats. The agreement was made, and when the conductor came around he found twenty-three gentlemanly but very obstinate men who refused to give him either tickets or money unless he would show them a place to sit. The conductor replied that there were plenty of vacant seats in the next car, but on inquiry it was ascertained that this was a drawing-room car, for which extra charge was made. So the twenty-three declined to budge, and matters remained in this unsettled condition until the cars had gone a long distance. The conductor finally induced two dozen persons who had seats to go into the drawing-room car without extra charge, and then made place for the obstinate twenty-three, who then gave up their tickets, as they said they would do. Undoubtedly they had the right of it, as the courts have repeatedly decided that a passenger is justified in refusing payment of fare until the railroad company gives proper accomodations.

—The emigration commissioners state that in the last twenty-four years, from 1848 to 1872, upward of £17,000,000 sterling have been sent home by emigrants in America, to their friends, and that these remittances were almost entirely made by Irish emigrants to their relations in Ireland.

USED UP.—What is the precise meaning of this familiar phrase when employed to signify an unnatural condition of body and mind? It means exhaustion, langour, want of vital energy, mental apathy—a pitiable state of physical and mental helplessness. The best, and in fact the only perfectly reliable panacea for a "used up" system is that most popular and potent of medicinal stimulants, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. No matter whether the health has been broken down by excessive labor, over-study, an insalubrious atmosphere, anxiety, irregularities in diet, dissipation, or any other cause, this powerful and pleasant vegemble restorative will soon recruit the drooping energies of nature, restoring the integrity of the nerves, and re-establishing that functional regularity which is essential to animal vigor and a hopeful frame of mind. As a cure for debility, in all its varied manifestations, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is unapproached by any tonic in materia medica.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.—Absolute control over the disordered stomach and bowels is exercised by these unapproachable vegetable curatives. Their genial effect upon the system is akin to the miraculous. Sold 78 Maiden Lane, N. Y. Price 25 cents per box. Ask for new style; the old is counterfeited.

DON'T Hawk, Hawk, Spit, Spit, Blow, Blow, and disgust everybody with your catarrh and its offensive odor, when Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy will speedily destroy all odor, arrest the discharge, and cure you. 614

PLEASANT AND ATTENTIVE ASSISTANTS are always on duty at the newly opened "Milliken House," 187 Washington street, Boston. The hotel is just far enough back from the main street to relieve it from too much noise, while its proximity to the Old South Church makes it central for travellers on business or pleasure.

MALTREATING A COUGH!—Beware of irritating potions and opiates. Hale's Honey of Hoarhound and Tar is a sovereign, swift and peerless remedy for coughs, colds, sore throat, difficulty of breathing, and all bronchial ailments. There is no other reliable antidote. Crittenton's, 78th avenue. Sold by all Druggists.

TWO AMERICAN MISSES, Miss Issippi and Miss Ouri, are disfigured & good deal by the snags in their mouths. In order that all other Misses may avoid the like blemishes, they are advised to use the famous SOZODONT, which will prevent and obviate all such difficulties.

A UNIVERSAL ARTICLE OF FAITH.—In these days of religious contention it has been thought impossible to indicate an article of faith upon which all sects and classes were united. There is one, however, and a very notable one, too, viz.: a belief which is implicit and universal in the paramount efficacy of that matchless Household Tonic and Recuperant, Plantation Bitters. The constantly increasing patronage which it receives has, it is true, excited the petty envy of certain splenetic advertisers of punchbeck panaceas, in hope to make a market for their own stagnant, watery wares, by decrying all spirituous medicinal preparations. But the public can stomach neither their arguments nor their potations, and consequently reject these very weak imitations of the enemy as entirely too thin!

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—After all other applications fail, Holloway's Ointment is guaranteed to heal an ulcerated leg or any running sore without pain or danger. In dyspepsia the Pills are a positive specific. Sold 78 Maiden Lane, N. Y. Price 25 cents per pot or box. Ask for new style; the old is counterfeited.

PILES.—The unceasing torture from internal bleeding, external and itching piles is fast wearing away the thousands of those who are afflicted and their hope and courage have long since given place to despair. Let those who see this cheer up, for a mild and sure cure may be had by using BRIGGS' PILE REMEDIES.

CORNS.—Since pride and fashion have had control of mankind, and shoemakers were compelled to make boots and shoes to fit fancy instead of the feet, the suffering from Corns, Bunions, Ingrowing Nails, Sore Insteps, Blistered Heels, Callosities on the bottom of the feet, &c., cannot be described. But Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies will cure all such torments, and proper fitting boots will prevent their reproduction. Sold by all druggists. a12

GRAND ARTISTIC

Promenade Exhibition!

MR. T. P. MOSES is fast completing his gallery of Oil Paintings and decorations, and will open for visitors on MONDAY evening, November 11, in the spacious rooms at No. 13 Exchange Buildings, (first floor, up stairs,) opposite the Post Office,—to continue every day and evening (Sundays excepted) until his PIANO and over thirty well-finished OIL PAINTINGS are disposed of at One Dollar a Share. Mr. M. designs to make this Exhibition the most beautiful and social resort ever presented in Portsmouth. All the paintings, tinsel-work decorations, etc., are of his own production; and he hopes the Gallery will elicit the interest of thousands of visitors during its continuance. The blessing of pleasant recollections will reward each visitor if he should not be the recipient of a tangible and valuable award at the grand Finale. Mr. M. hopes all the children of the city will attend during the Exhibition on Wednesday and Saturday afternoons—the show will please them and impress them with delightful dreams and help to elevate their taste and imagination. There will be no bitterness in the memory of this charming and refining scene. Programmes will be in free circulation, with the catalogue of paintings and further particulars.

Tickets of admission, 25cts.; children under 14 years, 15 cts.; Season tickets, admitting the purchasers at all times to the Gallery, and having an interest according to their numbers, in the awards to be made after all the tickets are sold, $1. Tickets can be procured at the usual places, at the Bookstore of Messrs. Buzzell & Son, and at the Exhibition Hall.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

THE CORONER'S INQUEST.

Important Testimony.

On Friday forenoon the inquest was continued. Conductor Smith was recalled, and continued as follows:—

When Mr. Dow came to me from the switch he had a lantern with him; after arriving at Seabrook, did not intend to use the switch again when I saw my way bills; we never went on that turn-out before with local freight; had any person been using the switch and thrown out the lock it would have been found as it was, hanging by the chain; know of no necessity for Mr. Dow to stay at the switch after throwing it on main track while express freight was passing; the pin in switch is sufficient to hold it without the lock; I formerly ran on Bangor freight; had worked the switch at Seabrook; Mr. Dow motioned for express freight to pass; a man would naturally wait for it to pass; we are instructed to keep out of the way of passenger trains; the difference in our work causes delay and consequently we get behind time.

Benjamin Walton; Reside in Seabrook; am a shoemaker; was in bed at the time of the accident; live 50 yards southwest from the station; heard short whistle and crash when I awoke; everything was still for a minute, except steam; got out of bed; heard a voice to the south of the depot saying to some person north of the depot, "what have they done?" the answer was, "they've run into us and smashed us all up;" heard a call for water, as a car was on fire; went out of the door and a man said "bring some water pails;" went to machine shop and got two; filled them and carried one to the car; went back to tell my wife of accident; went back and when half way from depot to freight house, met five or six men; one was telling how it happened; it was the one I think who tended the switch; he was thin, had a red moustache I think, was light* complected, short, and had on a Kossuth hat, low crowned; there was a lantern in the crowd; don't know as this man had it; this was within five minutes of the accident; thought they were all railroad men; the man talking said, "when we came up from the east, I turned the switch and let my train on; then I turned it back for the Bangor freight to pass; then I must have swung it back again, intending to back off; didn't do it, and I must have left it so. I see the brakemen of the freight train nearly every other night; could recognize only the men who was talking that night; have no passing acquaintance with the man, except Dow; have known him ten years; I know the man talking was Dow; saw him Monday afternoon before the accident, between four and five o'clock, going down on a train to Portsmouth; saw the man who was talking a half dozen times that forenoon after the accident; it was Charley Dow; went over to help the wounded; a stranger asked me how it happened; I told him what I heard; that "He says, he turned the switch and let his train on and turned it back for the Bangor freight; and turned it back intending to back their train off; and didn't back off and must have left it so;" afterwards told others the same thing; I told it in Locke's store; Locke, the station agent, was present, I think; there were others there; the men Dow talked to, stayed there only a minute; Alfred Dow of Seabrook and Newell Dow heard me; they have no connection with Charles Dow; Frank and James Locke, I think were in the store when I told what I heard Dow say; there were a dozen there; this was Tuesday night; told the same story last night in the same place; Dow was very much excited and his voice trembled awfully while talking; he seemed to feel awful bad; they were within 75 yards of the wreck, towards Boston; Dow and I were boys together; never very intimate with him; never had any trouble with him; am not related to him; I work for William Boynton; afterwards heard Dow tell a freight agent that he left the switch all right on the main track; this was after the Boston train arrived; I said nothing.

(Mr. Walton's testimony was not sworn to; he affirmed.)

Conductor Smith, recalled; Mr. Dow had a cap on the morning of the accident; he has a black moustache, dark hair, and is dark complected; his hair curls; it was ten minutes after the accident when Mr. Dow came to me and told me he left the switch all right for the main track.

Adjourned to 2 o'clock.

Conductor Smith; I asked Dow "did you leave that switch on the main track after the Bangor freight passed?" He said "I did." He appeared calm and spoke distinctly; we then went in opposite directions; everybody seemed to be helping the sufferers; saw no persons talking about the accident; went to Newburyport in an engine; arrived at 5 o'clock; telegraphed to Boston, Salem and Portsmouth; did not know then that any one was killed.

William Whippen; reside in East Boston; am brakeman on local freight; was on train when Pullman struck us; when Mr. Dow came by before the collision, he told me to take the head box car and go up over the upper switch and come down and go on turn-out by the freight house and get one Lynn car; could not see the switch from where I stood, the view being obstructed by our train; my car was 28 cars from the freight house; I was two cars' length across the highway towards Boston; saw Smith and Dow run down the track and stop on a platform near the highway crossing; I jumped out and ran down the track; I passed them; they were talking; saw Bartlett, rear brakeman; remained some hours at the wrecked train; it was dark; could see the length of three or four cars; Dow had a cap on that night; saw a man bring a bucket of water half an hour after the accident; Dow was at work on the wreck 20 minutes after the collision; an hour after the accident Dow told me he left the switch on the main track; have been a year on the local freight.

Adjourned to Monday.

It is reported that two witnesses will be examined on Monday, whose testimony will fix the responsibility of the accident.

*Dow is a dark haired, dark featured man.

The Horse Distemper.

Is spreading with a rapidity unexampled in the history of epidemics among men or animals, and as there is undoubtedly enough of it to go all around, we shall probably soon have it here. It had got as far west as Chicago on Thursday; Portland and Augusta, Me., each boasted of numerous cases of the disease; and Keene, in this State, reported a hundred horses sick.

Dr. Very, veterinary surgeon for the city of Boston, says the proper remedy in most cases is one dram of chlorate of potash dissolved in a half-pail of water, to be given morning and evening. In some of the severer cases he recommends one-half dram of calomel to be placed on the tongue. In cases where there are symptoms of weakness stimulants may be given, with one-half dram of fluid extract of cayenne, to be placed undilutedunder the tongue. The use of aconite, belladonna and such tinctures should never be permitted, as they serve to lower the beating of the heart and otherwise imperil the life of the horse. When the nostrils become dry they should be steamed two or three times a day by using a bucket of hay or oats, upon which boiling water should be poured. To perfect the steaming process, the head of the animal should be then placed so as to inhale the steam. The hay or oats used in steaming, after becoming cool should be given to the animal, as it serves to nourish and strengthen him. Horses without appetite should be given small quantities of feed at long intervals. The horses affected with the disease should be carefully nursed and kept well clothed. Horses affected should not be worked in any case. Dr. Very says the whole matter has not been properly represented to the press, the distemper being of a more severe form than was at first anticipated. The greatest ratio of deaths would be among these horses which have been worked after being affected.

Mr. Samuel Wilson, a horse-dealer, informs the Boston Journal that he had six horses quite ill Oct. 21st., and cured them in the following way: he changed their food from cracked corn to oats and carrots, and gave each horse from four to six quarts of old cider a day with half a teaspoonful of saltpetre in the first two quarts. The animals should be kept warm, but may be worked as usual, he thinks, provided due care is taken to prevent a chill. The cure was complete in less than three days from the time that the animals were first taken. He regards the disease as a sort of influenza which comes from something in the atmosphere, and to which every horse is liable.

P. S. It is reported that two horses belonging to Hon. Frank Jones were taken ill on Friday afternoon with the distemper. A horse belonging to Mr. Wm. Plaisted was taken sick Friday evening, and fell down. Boston's streets are very quiet, comparatively few horses being visible; and New York has 28,000 horses sick.

Almost a Fire.

An old barn on the corner of Jefferson and Atkinson Streets, belonging to the Leonard Cotton estate, was entered on Friday afternoon by some person who kindled a cheerful little fire at the top of a flight of stairs. A dweller near by saw smoke issuing from the building, and a few buckets of water extinguished the fire and its kindler's hope of a pleasant time. The incendiary is supposed to be some vagabond boy; and our informant states that the old barn has more than once been used by such boys as a shelter wherein to pluck the feathers from fowls "purchased in the absence of their owner." Owners of old fire-traps should do all they can to remove temptation from the path of youth, by carefully shutting them up,—the fire-traps, we mean, not the boys, though being shut up once in a while wouldn't harm some of the boys any.

Destructive Fire.

About half past five o'clock, Friday evening, fire was discovered breaking from the roof of Hon. F. Jones' barn at Gravelly Ridge. The alarm was given about ten minutes afterwards down town, and the Fire Department rallied quickly. The barn was completely destroyed and nearly all its contents, including two yoke of oxen, two cows and a bull, 100 tons of hay, and 1000 bushels of corn and other farm produce. A yoke of oxen and two cows were saved. The horses and carriages were taken from the stable, which was badly scorched, though it was finally saved. Mr. Jones was away from the city and Mrs. Jones was not at home. A dozen workmen were employed about the premises during the day, and the barn had been closed but fifteen minutes when the fire broke out. It is thought the fire may have caught from spontaneous combustion of damp hay. Those first at the fire describe the bellowing of the cattle for several minutes as heart-rending. Mr. Jones' loss is said to be in the neighborhood of $10,000; insured in Sise's agency. DeRochemont & Son had insurance on the stable. The rabble burst into the house and damaged the furniture to a great extent, but were at length ejected.

Laconics.

Boston papers say that Mr. Joseph B. Stearns of this city will shortly visit Europe to induce foreign powers to purchase the right to use his new invention of the duplex telegraph, by means of which messages can be sent in opposite directions at the same time on a single wire.

The "Grimshaw Estate," on Bridge and Hill Streets, will be sold at auction by Major Hackett, in accordance with a degree of the S. J. Court. Sale unreserved, and positive. See advertisement.

The Springfield (Mass.) Union says of the Eastern Railroad and the Seabrook accident:—

It is the universal testimony that there is no road in the State that has within the year made such improvement in its rolling stock, and taken such precautions for the safe running of trains; and the managers will have much sympathy in the censure, wether deserved or not, that is sure to be visited upon them for this accident, which shows again how insecure ordinary travel still is on the best managed of our railroads.

Old Probabilities says rain.

Capt. William W. Low, U. S. N., has been ordered to the Philadelphia Navy Yard as Executive Officer.

Mr. Edward Carswell will deliver the fifth of the series of Temperance lectures on Sunday evening at the Temple, at quarter to 8 o'clock. Go early to secure seats. Mr. Carswell is an excellent speaker.

We have received from Gray's Music Publishing House, Nos. 623 and 625 Clay Street, San Francisco, two songs for children, entitled "God bless papa," and "Loving Hearts Around You, Mother,"—words by S. Booth, music by G. T. Evans.

The woman Jenness, refefred to in a dispatch from Newburyport, as confessing she changed the switch at Seabrook and predicting the occurrence of another disaster soon, is said to belong in this city and is unworthy of credence, as she has been mentally aberrated for some years.

THE HEATHEN CHINEE.—The New Orleans Times of October 9th says: On Saturday last Mr. E. L. Thayer, a well known contractor, entered the store of Messrs. Tou Loy & Co., Chinese merchants, on Chartres street, for the purpose of purchasing several hundred dollars' worth of opium. He had just arrived in Donaldsonville with two hundred Chinese, who had been contracted for to Colonel Scott, of the Texas and Pacific Railroad, and stated the fact in the presence of one of the members of the firm, who immediately said he also had a contract, with Colonel Scott for hands. Now, as Mr. Thayer knew he had the sole contract, he stated that fact, when the heathen said he would bet him one thousand dollars that it was not so. Mr. Thayer immediately produced his money, when the Chinaman said he would not bet, but that Mr. Thayer simply lied on the subject.

At this cool statement, Mr. Thayer slapped the Chinaman's face, and then going to the Third Precinct Station, surrendered himself on a charge of assault and battery. Capt. Flannagan, on hearing the statement, simply laughed and told him it was all right and to go away, when lo! in rushed the heathen, and stated that Mr. Thayer had just robbed him of eight one thousand dollar bills. The charge, to say the least, was preposterous, but there being no other course, Mr. Tuayer was arrested and locked up.

He was, however, immediately released on bail, nearly a million of dollars of bonds being forthcoming in a couple of hours, being furnished by the most wealthy and respectable citizens.

Yesterday the case was brought up before Judge McArthur, when lo! and behold, the heathen summoned over one hundred and fifty witnesses for the prosecution, when it is self-evident not even half that number could get into the store where the robbery is alleged to have been committed.

The witnesses upon being separated, were in a fix, each of them swearing to a different statement. This was by no means satisfactory to the heathen Chinee.

Calculating on hearing each other swear, and being able to corroborate each other's statements, they were "muchly at fault and chinned Chinese oaths" to perfection. The case, owing to the number of witnesses, was continued until to-day, when it will be up for final trial.

A large number of the most prominent merchants and bank presidents were also in court to testify for the defence, swearing to the utter impossibility of such a thing.

It is alleged by Detective Pierson, who is cognizant of the facts, that it was stated by the heathen that the "job" was put up for the purpose of ruining Mr. Thayer's contract with Colonel Scott and to obtain it for themselves.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England,

Pulmocine Cordial

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred THROAT DISEASES at all times prevalent, it is the choice of PREVENTION. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this FAMILY MEDICINE prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all the afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in an advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians who called it PULMONARY CURATIVE he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are WILD CHERRY BARK, SQUILL ROOT, LIQUORICE ROOT, BLOOD ROOT, &c. It is a BLOOD PURIFIER, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic, and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

For Coughs, Croup, Diphtheria, Asthma, &c.

USE BUCHMAN'S

PULMOCINE CORDIAL.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured his wife's cancer. Most of the ingredients are with our best educated physician daily use for the complaints specified, in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents."

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges.

AYER'S

SARSAPARILLA

FOR PURIFYING THE BLOOD.

A medicine that cures is a real public blessing. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA makes positive cure of a series of complaints, which are always fortunately and often fatal. It purifies the blood, purges put the lurking humors in the system, which undermine health and settle into troublesome disorders. Eruptions on the skin are the appearance on the surface of humors that should be expelled from the blood. Internal derangements are the determination of these humors to some internal organ, or else organs, whose action they derange, and whose substance they disease and destroy. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA expels these humors from the blood. When they are gone, the disorders they produce disappear, such as Ulcerations of the Liver, Stomach, Kidneys, Lungs, Eruptions and Corrupting Diseases of the skin, St. Anthony's Fire, Rose or Erysipelas, Pimples, Pustules, Blotches, Boils, Tumors, Tetter and Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, Ulcers and Sores, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Pain in the Bones, Side, and Head, Female Weakness, Sterility, Leucorrhœa, Suffering from internal ulceration and uterine disease, Dropsy, Dyspepsia, Emaciation, and General Debility. With their departure health returns.

AYER'S

CHERRY PECTORAL

For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma and Consumption.

The few compositions, which have won the confidence of mankind and become household words among not only one but many nations, must have extraordinary virtues. Perhaps no one ever secured so wide a reputation or maintained it so long as AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. It has been known to the public about forty years, by a long continued series of marvellous cures, which have won for it a confidence in its virtues, never equalled by any other medicines. It still makes the most effectual cures of Coughs, Colds, Consumption, that can be made by medical skill. Indeed the CHERRY PECTORAL has really robbed these dangerous diseases of their terrors, to a great extent, and given a feeling of immunity from their fatal effects, which is well founded, if the remedy be taken in season. Every family should have it in their closet for the ready and prompt relief of its members. Sickness, suffering, and even life is saved by this timely protection. The prudent should not neglect it, and the wise will not. Keep it by you for the protection it affords in sudden attacks, and by its timely use.

HOLLOWAY'S

PILLS AND OINTMENT.

Every Man His Own Physician.

CAUTION.

THE immense demand for HOLLOWAY'S PILLS and OINTMENT, has tempted unprincipled parties to counterfeit these valuable medicines.

In order to protect the public and ourselves, we have issued a new "Trade Mark," consisting of an Egyptian circle of a serpent, with the letter H in the centre. Every box of genuine HOLLOWAY'S PILLS and OINTMENT will have this trade mark on it; none are genuine without it.

$1000 REWARD.

BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOR is composed of Ammonia, Chloroform, Spirits of Camphor, Tincture of Lapulino, Oil of Juniper, and Alcohol. This compound is unequalled in the annals of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling or Twitching of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, banish pimples, cure scaly eruptions, itching, humors, &c.; it equalizes the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the brain, cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. Briggs' Allevantor absolutely possesses more curative properties than any other preparation. Physicians, chemists, and others are requested to examine and test the remedy, and $1000 will be paid if found different from representation.

COUGHS. Much has been said and written, and many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases; but nothing has been so eminently successful, or obtained such a wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.

CORNS! The excruciating pain produced by Corns, the unceasing twinging from Bunions, the piercing, distressing pain from Ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, not knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies are no acid or potash compounds, but are reliable, soothing, and effectual, and just merit the success they have earned from an appreciative public. The Curative is a healing ointment; immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it will positively cure the worst cases of Festered Corns, Inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the sorest instep, the largest and severest Blisters, the most extensive Callosities on the soles or heels of the feet, unequalled in the cure of Chilblains, or Frosted Feet. The Allevantor for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unexcelled by anything ever known.

PILES have been a terror to mankind for centuries, and almost every attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr. Briggs has discovered an absolutely cure for internal, bleeding, external, and itching piles. Briggs' Pile Remedies are mild, safe and sure.

For sale by J. H. TEACHER, WM. R. PRESTON, Portsmouth; JAMES O. THRESTHEN, Kittery; E. S. SAFFORD, Kittery Point; H. M. CURTIS, Newcastle, and dealers generally.

CORNS, Bunions, Bad Nails, and other diseases of the feet, Scrofulous and Cancerous Humors, Piles, etc., skilfully treated at the great centers of Chronical and Healing Institute, No. 765 Broadway, New York. DR. J. BRIGGS, President; DR. ALEXANDER WEBBER, Secretary. ap9

AYER'S PURGATIVE PILLS.

For all the purposes of a Family Physic,

CURING

Costiveness, Jaundice, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Dysentery, Foul Stomach, Erysipelas, Headache, Piles, Rheumatism, Eruptions and Skin Diseases, Billiousness, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Tetter, Tumors and Salt Rheum, Worms, Gout, Neuralgia, as a Dinner Pill, and Purifying the Blood,

Are the most congenial purgative yet perfected. Their effects abundantly show how much they excel all other Pills. They are safe and pleasant to take, but powerful to cure. They purge out the foul humors of the blood; they stimulate the sluggish or disordered organ into action, and they impart health and tone to the whole being. They cure not only the every day complaints of every body, but formidable and dangerous diseases. Most eminent clergymen, most skillful physicians, and our best citizens send certificates of cures performed, and of great benefits they have derived from these Pills. They are the safest and best physic for children, because mild as well as effectual. Being sugar coated, they are easy to take; and being purely vegetable, they are entirely harmless.

The Singer

SEWING MACHINE

STILL LEADS THE MARKET.

The Success of the Company is far beyond that of any other similar concern; the

Daily Manufacture

—OF—

400 OF THE SINGERS

Failing to Supply the Constant Demand.

All other machines call the public attention to some new loop or stitch or tension or finish, some advantage in running or needles or feed or prices—and many of these are as we have said very good points, and the agents selling them use them to divert entirely the would-be purchaser from fairly considering the facts in the case; but the

seems to unite the good qualities of all, and is never found wanting.

THE SINGER

IS THE

OLDEST

SEWING MACHINE

IN THE MARKET,

All others being copied from its first model, does two-thirds the sewing done in this country and preserves its advantages over all others combined.

It is readily kept clean, and has THE BEST TENSION EVER INVENTED; it is higher speeded and requires but little power to run; it works equally well upon the finest and heaviest goods; it does all the varieties of work known to the art.

RECONCILIATION.

I ain't no politician
But once I watched a fly
A sailing round and round a web—
A spider sitting by.
He sighed and said, "I love her so!
I should rejoice if she
'D shake hands across the bloody chasm,
And come and practice Re-
Conciliation—ation—"
That spider said to me.

I looked out of the window—
A bird was fluttering 'round
Just where a Ku-Klux copperhead
Lay coiled upon the ground.
He smiled a smile, and softly said,
"Forget the past," said he,
"Its worn-out hates and by-gone feuds,
And learn to practice Re-
Conciliation—ation—
And come and talk with me."

Just then the fly went buzzing by—
She looked back as she went,
And laughed, "Good-by, old spider, I Don't humbug worth a cent."
The startled blue-bird, piping loud,
Soared high into a tree;
"Too thin, old Johnny Reb," she sang,
"I scorn your bogus Re-
Conciliation—ation—
You can't play that on me!"

I ain't no politician—
But then, it sort o' seems Too bad for men of sense to be
Took in by shabby schemes.
They know less than a fly or bird,
Or bug or bumblebee,
Who don't detect beneath the mask
The meaning of the Re-
Conciliation—ation—

MONDAY, OCTOBER 28, 1872.

State News.

Rochester has organized a Board of Trade.

George Demeritt, a fourteen year old son of Charles Demeritt, fell from a barrel the other day, and striking his bare foot on a drawing knife, cut the foot and toes badly.—Rochester Courier.

We regret to record the untimely death of Edward, only son of E. D Boylston, Esq., editor of the Amherst Cabinet, which took place after a short illness of typhoid fever at Athol, Mass., Saturday morning, Oct. 16. He was a young man possessed of many sterling qualities of character, and his loss will be universally deplored by a large circle of acquaintances and friends. Joyful and with a heart full of kindness, we last met him at North Conway during the printer's excursion; but at a time when life with all its sweets and endearments seemed in store for him, he has been cut down in the bloom of youth. The household circle in which he was an ornament, has our deepest sympathy in its sad bereavement.

PETROLEUM.—The oil excitement at South Lee, Mass. still holds out, the flow from the springs continuing unabated. Mr. Wheeler, the Egremont mineralogist, claims that these small springs are only leaks from large supplies of oil, and that coal can be found in the region. In proof of his faith in the latter statement, he is sinking a shaft on the south slope of Monument Mountain, having made sixty feet in twelve days, and has discovered an excellent quality of fireclay suitable for the manufacture of the white fire brick which are now brought from Bennington, Vt., for use in smelting furnaces, fire places, grates, etc., although no coal has been found as yet.

BOSTON, Oct. 26th.

The terrible ravages of the epidemic now afflicting our horses is a leading topic here. Even the time-honored topic of the weather is left in the background. Humanity in general little consider how much civilization owes to the aid of what is called the brute creation. The horse, the ox and the dog have been the tried friends and servants of man so long that their almost indispensable services have come to be often overlooked. Up to this date Boston has been fortunate in the small mortality among the horses attacked by the "epizootic influenza," but business is seriously interrupted by the sickness of the steeds who draw the heavy vans and light drays that fill the wants of our daily life and the demands of commerce. Horse car lines and omnibuses are withdrawn, and many streets present a Sunday aspect; on Sunday, notice is given that no horse cars will run. Many express companies have ceased making "calls," but Jackson & Co. have imported one of their Portsmouth horses, and will bring still others if necessary and advisable. A rain will almost clear our streets of the equine race, as such weather is dangerous to horses afflicted with the epidemic.

Messrs. Allen & Shapleigh of the Oriental Tea Company finding it impossible to replace their sick horses, were obliged to go into the suburbs and buy a yoke of oxen, and to-day their tea-vant is passing through the streets propelled by a couple of slow but sure steeds. Your citizens will remember the enterprising parties of this firm as among the the most energetic of Portsmouth's young merchants in years gone by.

All of us remember the trouble our mothers and grandmothers have had from the persistency with which the cover of the teapot has insisted in falling off when the vessel was inclined to turn out a cup of the beverage which revives but does not intoxicate. And if coffee, chocolate or cocoa has been drawn from that pot, and the vessel is of plate or tin, a most objectionable flavor is left therein; a flavor that only some grade of pottery will avoid. Then, too, the fire must be kept alight, or such late birds as you and I would have a cold welcome in the liquid line. As other old legends fade, one by one, so has this. Messrs. Clark, Plympton & Co., the well known dealers in China and Glass, have put upon the market a most convenient and perfect kettle for household purposes. On an ornamental plated stand, which contains a neat spirit lamp, rests an ornamental kettle of the choicest Wedgewood ware, with a handle (or bale) of plate, which not only serves for tipping purposes, but has also a simple attachment which prevents the lid of the kettle from falling, no matter at what angle it is tipped. Midway of the kettle are two hangers, on which the receptacle turns, allowing the hostess to dispense her cups of Souchong, Mocha or Bohea, without trouble or the danger of "irritating the grounds." To the bachelor, who wishes hot water for the above or for any other purposes, the Combination Kettle will prove almost as great a blessing as to the house keeper.

You know I have always a penchant for all that is new in the way of rendering home beautiful, and so I am at once enchanted by a little device original with C. P. & Co., and just manufactured to their order in Germany. It is a hanging glass vase which they call the "Amphora" from its antique shape, and is suspended by delicat chains from a bronze holder, the latter so arranged that it may be affixed to a window sash of any dimensions ordinary use. These vases will prove immensely popular. M.

Business Notices.

USE BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL for all throat diseases. For sale at the Union Store.

HELP THE TORPID ORGANS.—When the body is in a state of health, the food taken into the stomach, acts on the bowels as a stimulant, causing in them that worm-like motion by which their contents are expelled. The liver being in a natural condition, the flow of bile (which is a mild cathartic) into the intestines is ample and regular, and hence the discharges are easy and sufficiently frequent. The reverse of all this constitutes costiveness, and the only true method of cure is to restore the functional activity of the two important organs which use the bowels as a sewer for the egress of waste matter. For this purpose Hostetter's Stomach Bitters can be confidently commended as the most effective of all medicines. It is not too much to say that chronic constipation would be unknown if the Bitters were in universal use as a remedy in the earlier stages of the complaint. At this period of the year, when dyspepsia with all its kindred disorders are so apt to be engendered and aggravated by the dampness of the atmosphere, this unequalled stimulant, tonic and alterative should be taken daily

MALTREATING A COUGH!—Beware of irritating potions and opiates. Hale's Honey of Horehound and Tar is a sovereign, swift, and peerless remedy for coughs, colds, sore throat, difficulty of breathing, and all bronchial ailments. There is no other reliable antidote. Crittenton's, 76th avenue. Sold by all Druggists.

A POLYGLOT BUSINESS.—The wide spread influence of American skill and enterprise has outstripped the comprehensions of the Americans themselves. The fabrics of our mills clothe savages of both continents. They wrap the lions of Africa, and the tawny skins of South American pampas. But wider still are spread the products of our skill in medicines. A late visit to Ayer & Co.'s laboratory and office in Lowell, showed us that the whole surface of the habitable globe pays its tribute there: there they enter to answer the requirements of almost all nations. Their publications are in the many tongues that widely-severed peoples use. Their letters must be read from and written in many tongues, for which there sit a long range of correspondents with this indispensable accomplishment for their duties. Their daily mail of half a bushel of letters brings them advices, orders and remittances from the circle of the world. We were overwhelmed with amazement, and our readers would be by an inspection of this wonderfully extensive, health-dealing enterprise.—Holly Springs (Miss.) Conservative.

THE GREAT HAIR PRODUCER.—Hair Oils, Pomatums and Pomades have had their day. They belong to the musty past. Nobody that understands the chemistry of the hair and the philosophy of its growth thinks of using them. Instead of clogging the pores of the scalp with thick unguents, and thus obstructing the insensible perspiration which is essential to the health of the fibres, we now tone the surface of the head with an invigorating application which penetrates to the roots of the hair and stimulates them in the same way that the fertilizing agents spread over the meadows stimulate the grass roots and cause the blades to spring up in myriads, coating the earth with verdure. The invigorant best adapted to this purpose is Lyon's Kathairon. It may well be called the fertilizer of the head. To the barren scalp it communicates vegetative power. If the hair is dropping out or becoming dry and withered, it arrests the process of dilapidation or blight. The hair thickens and becomes glossy and flexible under its genial operation, and as a dressing it is unapproached by any preparation that has yet been laid on the toilet of Fashion.

PILES.—The unceasing torture from internal bleeding, external and itching piles is fast wearing away the thousands of those who are afflicted and their hope and courage have long since given place to despair. Let those who see this cheer up, for a mild and sure cure may be had by using Bridge' Pile Remedies.

CORNS.—Since pride and fashion have fed victims of mankind, and shoemakers were compelled to make boots and shoes to fit feet instead of the feet the shoes, pain from Corns, Bunions, Ingrowing Nails, Sore Insteps, Blistered Heels, Callosities on the bottom of the feet, &c., cannot be described. But Bridge Corn and Bunion Remedies will cure all such torments, and proper fitting boots will prevent their reproduction. Sold by all Druggists. a12

Promenade Exhibition!

MR. T. P. MOSES is fast completing his gallery of Oil Paintings and decorations, and will open the exhibition MONDAY evening, November 11, in the spacious rooms at No. 13 Exchange Buildings, first floor, up stairs, opposite the Post Office,—to continue every day and evening (Sundays excepted) until his PIANO and over thirty well-finished OIL PAINTINGS are disposed of at One Dollar a Share. Mr. M. designs to make this Exhibition the most beautiful and social resort ever presented in Portsmouth. All the paintings, fluted work decorations, etc., are of his own production; and he hopes the Gallery will elicit the interest of thousands of visitors during its continuance. The blessing of pleasant recollections will reward each visitor if he should not be the recipient of a tangible and valuable award at the grand Finale. Mr. M. hopes all the children of the city will attend during the Exhibition on Wednesday and Saturday afternoons—the show will please them and impress them with delightful dreams and help to elevate their taste and imagination. There will be no bitterness in the memory of this charming and refining scene. Programmes will be in free circulation, with the catalogue of paintings and further particulars.

Tickets of admission, 25cts.; children under 14 years, 15 cts.; Season tickets, admitting the purchasers at all times to the Gallery, and having an interest according to their numbers, in the awards to be made after all the tickets are sold, $1. LOCAL AFFAIRS.

Improvements.

No part of the long-settled portion of our city has been more improved within a short time than the part of State Street between Middle and Chestnut Streets. The enlargement of the Rockingham House, with the widening of the sidewalk in its front, was a long step towards making the street more pleasant for the passer-through; the costly and highly ornamented house built by Mr. B. F. Webster on the long-vacant lot near his residence is a more agreeable object to the eye than the high board fence which has so long stood in front of the lot, even tho' the fence were ornamented with the most exquisite circus or negro minstrel poster; and the extensive alterations now being made to the Cutts mansion by Dr. J. W. Parsons are improvements as well as alterations. But the most striking though least costly alteration yet effected in the appearance of that neighborhood has resulted from the cutting down—or sinking down—of the high, close, board fence which since the beginning of the world (to the best of our memory) has shut out the gaze of the pedestrian from the large garden of the Lord estate. The job of lowering the fence was commenced Friday, but Saturday's rain prevented the work being finished at the time we write this; but enough was done to show that when the job is completed, and the rubbish removed from around Dr. Parsons' house and the big bill-board from in front of Mr. Webster's, the neighborhood will be one of the pleasantest in the city, at least for the public.

Laconics.

Hon. Frank Jones had insurance on the out buildings on his farm at Gravelly Ridge, as follows: on barn which was destroyed by fire Friday evening, $5000; on the contents of the barn, $1500; on carriage house, (not burned,) $700; on other outbuildings, $300; on farming tools, $500,—all divided equally between the Etna, Franklin, Home and Hartford companies. Mr. Jones, who was in Boston at the time of the fire, knew nothing about it until he saw an account of it in the Herald while at breakfast next morning at the Tremont House,—not a very good "appetizer," we should imagine.

The young people of the Universalist Church of Kittery, have engaged Mr. C. S. Frost to give the allegory of "Joseph and his Brethren" at the church on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, Oct. 29 and 30. The first evening's entertainment will conclude with a tableau, "Joan of Arc," and the second with a tableau of "Faith, Hope and Charity." The programme will be varied with recitations and music. Admission 35 cents; children under twelve years of age, 20 cents.

By an advertisement in the Concord Patriot we see that the Portsmouth Greeley and Brown club is "expected" in that city next Thursday, to take part in a torch-light demonstration. Wonder if they will be collated again and will pour hot coffee into the eatables?

A Pennsylvania paper is so well pleased with the speeches of Senator Aaron H. Cragin in that State during the present campaign, that it nominates him for President to succeed Gen. Grant in 1877.

Contracters will find in another column a P. & D. R. R. advertisement, of special interest to them.

A Hampton correspondent of the Haverhill Bulletin says he overheard an "old fellow" lamenting the postponement of the Exeter mass meeting and excusing it as follows:—

"Just as I 'spected: them chaps up to Exeter has as much as they can do to find candidates for offices, fill vacancies in the Custom House at Boston with an occasional lift at the Portsmouth navy yard, and then draw their own salaries. It's a hard time them chaps has."

The coroner's jury of inquest on the death of Geo. W. West, the Eastern R. R. brakeman who was killed while shackling cars at this Station, have agreed on a verdict attaching no blame to the R. R. company.

The force of mail clerks running between Boston and Bangor is to be increased by the addition of six, making twenty in all. A year ago there were only eight, but the large increase of postal matter has been constantly requiring an increase in the clerical force. It is estimated that at least three tons daily of mail matter is conveyed over the road between the points we have indicated.

The Greeleyites are to have a "grand torchlight demonstration" to-morrow evening. The Lyre gave notice, Saturday, that the Greeley club would meet that evening to perfect arrangements, and in the same column said "it will be an impromptu affair!" On the Tuesday previous, just a week before the "impromptu affair," it said, referring to the Manchester Greeley gathering:—"Next week it is proposed to have such a one in this city. The people are awake and we can have ten thousand men in line if the word is given." How thoughtful, to commence getting up an "impromptu affair" a week beforehand!

A writer in the Boston Advertiser hits the nail squarely on the head, as follows:—

What is wanted is a switch that shall always keep the rail on the main line, except when a man standing by it holds it forcibly off.

As two gentlemen came out of the National House, Saturday evening, one was struck with a slung-shot on the head near his left eye and knocked into the street. The cowardly assailant evidently struck the wrong person—and took to his heels. The gentleman injured does not know that he has an enemy in the world. Wearing spectacles, he had a wonderful escape from losing an eye. A search for the spectacles, on Sunday, was fruitless, and the owner hasn't even the poor satisfaction of knowing whether they were broken or not.

The Temple held a small audience, Saturday evening, to hear John H. George, Esq., praise crow.

A dispatch from Lewiston, Me., Sunday, says the horse disease has increased considerably there in two days. The cold rain storm renders it more severe. There have been two fatal cases—the disease lasting two days only.

Torch-Light.

The Grant men of Manchester are to have a grand torch-light demonstration to-night if the weather is pleasant. About 3000 torch bearers are expected to participate. At a meeting of the Grant & Wilson Guards of this city, Saturday evening, it was ascertained that all but three were able and willing to go to Manchester; and the Marine Band was immediately engaged, and with the drum corps will creditably furnish music for the occasion. An extra train will start from the Concord depot at 15 minutes before 7 o'clock, promptly; fare to Manchester and return, $1.15. The Grant & Wilson Guards will assemble at 6 o'clock and march to the depot at 6.20. All members are requested to be promptly on time at headquarters. Five hundred torch bearers from Lawrence and 500 from Nashua will attend.

On Tuesday evening, the Greeley Guards will have a torch-light parade in this city, and it is expected that a large delegation from Manchester will join them.

On Wednesday evening comes the great torch-light demonstration at Boston, of organizations from Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, New York and New Jersey. It is expected that 30,000 torches will be in line. All but one division—the cavalry—will form on Boston Common, and torches will be lighted simultaneously, as the signal gun fires, at 7:45. The procession will move at 8 o'clock. It will be the most magnificent demonstration ever seen in New England. Elaborate preparations are being made for illuminations and fireworks along the route of the procession.

The Republicans of Portsmouth propose to close the campaign on Thursday evening by a torch-light demonstration. Four companies of Grant Guards in Manchester, numbering about 500, have accepted an invitation to be present; other invitations have been extended to organizations in Hookset, Newmarket, Kittery, Biddeford and Portland. The battalions of Continentals and Grant and Wilson Rangers in Portland, have chartered a steamer to take them to Boston and back, and Major Vaughan received a telegram, Saturday evening, intimating that if the steamer could be secured for another day, these organizations would stop here and join the procession on their return trip to Portland. We hope our Republican friends along the proposed line of march (which we shall publish Wednesday,) will make arrangements to illuminate their dwellings more extensively than is customary.

The Ovid (Seneca, N. Y.) Bee, which has always been a Democratic journal, has had the names of Greeley and Brown at the head of its columns since June last, but has now taken them down and declared in favor of the re-election of President Grant. It sensibly says "good and forcible reasons should be given, not claptrap about Grant's cousins."

—A little boy in Hornsville poured oil of peppermint on the stove, which took fire and burned him so seriously that he died soon after.

Clippings.

From the Portsmouth Journal.

—The ladies of the North church are to hold a fair soon, to raise money to liquidate the debt contracted in procuring the new carpet for their church.

—It is rumored that the U. S. S. Ossipee, which was attached to the Pacific fleet, and ordered home in July last to be repaired at the Charlestown yard, will now come here to undergo repairs, the former orders having been revoked.

—The jail premises in this city, which have long been out of repair, are being thoroughly overhauled and repainted under the direction of Deputy Sheriff Longee and the County Commissioners, and to the credit of Commissioner F. W. Miller, who has taken especial interest in the matter.

—Carpenters, house-joiners and masons, were never more busy here than at the present time. The spirit of improvement is seen on every hand; and no wonder, when the remodeling and modernizing of the old Cutts mansion on State street, next east of the Rockingham House, by its recent purchaser, Dr. J. W. Parsons. The heavy stone steps and curbstones add much to the effect of the surroundings.

—Fishermen assure us that the season has not been a prosperous one, the catch not being more than one half as large as last year. There has been a wanton destruction of mackerel toward the close of the season, by the seiners, who would fill their decks with poor mackerel, call not a few barrels, and throw the remainder overboard, in hopes to fill up with larger fish. The limited catch will prevent any from remaining over in the market in the Spring, as has been the case for two years past, to the great loss of the speculators.

The Portsmouth correspondent of the Traveller, throws out the following mysterious hints:

A business movement is contemplated, which, if carried out, will bring a large capital into this city and be of great benefit as well. There are a few live men here who are aware of the great advantages our harbor has over any other in the United States, viz; that the largest vessels can enter our harbor and lay at our wharves at any season of the year perfectly protected, as the harbor never freezes over, and it is perfectly landlocked.

—Those diminutive people, Gen. Tom Thumb and wife, and Commodore Nutt and Minnie Warren, are to give two entertainments here, afternoon and evening, November 8. They have recently returned from a tour of the world, exhibiting before crowned heads, and everywhere meeting with great success. Of Mrs. Tom, Miss Minnie, and the Commodore, it is difficult to speak too highly. Their varied stage performances are enlivened with humor, and cannot fail to be appreciated. Tom Thumb has written a book containing a story of his adventures, which must find many purchasers in the large audience which will doubtless greet the company on their return here after so many years absence.

—An anonymous pamphlet of twelve pages has been sent over the city the present week warning (?) our inhabitants "against the machinations of a combination of parties who seek to take possession of the city treasury to carry out their private purpose of building a railroad to Dover." While giving our due attention to the objections of him who signs himself "Conservator," each one of which has been thoroughly discussed and answered during the twelve months the project was in embryo, we sincerely conclude with the writer that Enterprise is a popular word, and it is common for those who oppose anything christened by this name to be denounced as "old fogies," and the like." True, "we need a city hall, a public park—for which we have one of the best sites in the world, which an outlay of a part of this sum would convert into a paradise—and we want and must have, sooner or later, more water. Besides these, our streets need large outlays, we require better and more extended sewerage, more reservoirs and the like," and doubtless in good time they will each one and all be secured. Speaking in reference to the site which was generously offered some years ago for a park, we understand that its wealthy owner having become impatient at the city's delays in improving upon his offer, has leased said land for a term of thirty years to private individuals. If this be true then some other spot, beautiful for situation, must be secured, and where?—though it is hoped that that public avenue leading to our city of the dead will be attended to as provided by the will of the late Mrs. Cutts, before anything is done on the park question. Surely, all these improvements, including the Portsmouth & Dover Railroad, would greatly enlarge our city's value as a residence, and so increase its population and business. Let us have them, then.

GALVANIZED WATER PIPES.—A bottle of Portsmouth Aqueduct Water, drawn through about twenty feet of galvanized iron pipe, was sent to Philadelphia and analyzed by Drs. Booth and Garrett, eminent chemists of that city, with the results given below. The effects upon two of our prominent citizens, as well as their families, early in the summer, in one case proving all, but fatal, who used water at their homes coming through these pipes, should be, with the above endorsement, to its dangerous qualities, sufficient evidence and cause for a general discarding of galvanized iron pipes. "An ounce of prevention is better than a pound of cure."

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 9, 1872.

DR. A. L. ELWYN, Philadelphia,—Dear Sir:—At your request we have made a chemical examination of a Water, which we received from you in a bottle, labelled "Portsmouth, Sept. 3, 1872. Aqueduct Water, Portsmouth, N. H., drawn from pipe this morning by N. L. Folsom."

The clear and bright Water yielded to our chemical tests the reaction of zinc, which metal was contained in the water in solution and not in suspension.

It is hardly necessary for us to say that such water, containing zinc in solution is not fit for domestic purposes. We suppose the zinc to be derived from pipes, which have been interiorly zinced, or galvanized, as it is improperly termed. The water would probably be a good water, passed through glass, stone ware, or possibly through iron or lead, but we cannot speak positively of the two last metals, except after a thorough analysis of the water.

Very truly yours, BOOTH & GARRETT.

"Rambles About Portsmouth."

Since the notice given in the Journal three weeks ago, we have received a number of subscriptions to the republication of the first series of this book. Backed by the highest literary authorities we do not hesitate to commend this publication as possessing an attractiveness seldom attained by either book of general history. It is quite a common occurrence for people of just discrimination and high literary taste to say, that they had begun reading the book and could hardly lay it down unfinished; or, that they had been reading it aloud in their family circle. Not only as a local history, told in short, disconnected chapters, but as a book of interest to the general reader is it thus received. We intend to commence reprinting it when four hundred subscribers shall have been obtained. The subscription is $2.25, or ten copies for $5.00. $2.75 will be the price when the subscription is closed.—Journal.

The Prevalent Horse Distemper.

An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure. The easiest and simplest as well as the most effective preventive is to disinfect all stables and their surroundings with a solution of common copperas (sulphate of iron.) Its mode of application is as follows:—dissolve a pound of copperas in a pail ful of water; then, by means of a common watering pot sprinkle the stable floor with this solution, three or four times a day; also wash the horse's hoofs; it is well also to raise the trapdoor and disinfect the manure heap beneath the stable, if any such there be. A general attention to this single measure would in many cases stay and prevent the spread of the disease. Added to the above, if the animals are already affected, let them have rest, good nursing, pure air, and soft, unirritating food. Discard all violent purgatives and bleeding. The horse should be kept blanketed, and his legs bandaged if they are cold. Horse medicines, so called, as a general thing are not required. Half an ounce of either the chlorate or nitrate of potash dissolved in two quarts of water may be given from time to time as a febrifuge.

[The above is from a medical man who has studied the subject and whose opinions are worthy of consideration. The treatment, both preventative and curative, is at least simple and easy of trial.—Eds].

Wounded Passengers.

The Brunswick (Me.) Telegraph says of Capt. James Blaisdell and Mate Horatio Hall:—

We have seen this (Thursday) morning both of these gentlemen injured at Seabrook, and both are confined to their beds, utterly unable to move except when assisted by attendants. Both were jammed severely, and both complain of severe pain in the abdomen; so serious are the hurts as almost to paralyze the action of the internal organs, at least for the present. Mr. Hall was not otherwise injured; at first (he was among the first taken from the wreck) he thought himself but slightly hurt, and for an hour or two assisted in relieving the other passengers; all at once he gave out and was sent home as we have stated above.

Mr. Blaisdell received very severe cuts and bruises upon the right foot and leg, and the right hip, and suffers very severe pain in the latter region. He was held in the wreck for a period of three quarters of an hour, being almost the last man removed.

He desires us to say the exertions of the conductor [Mr. Goodhue we suppose,] in extinguishing the fire when it was discovered, in breaking up the car and releasing the passengers, were almost marvellous, and Mr. Hall says of the man [he did not know him at the time] that he never saw one accomplish more that he did at the moment.

—The Titusville Press man gets on his ears about a globule (and when he gets on his ears he looks like a boy on stilts) and waltzes off in the following style: "Globules lately came near losing his life on account of his ears. While walking up Fifth street the other day, a sudden breeze struck him with both ears unfurled, and before he could put the helm down or seize the reefing ropes to take in sail, he was capsized in the ditch. He now walks the streets with his auricular organs clewed to temporary spars, and people who are not acquainted with him suppose him to be some hide and leather dealer, with a roll of sole leather on each shoulder."—St. Louis Globe.

Morning Chronicle.

MIGHT BE WORSE.—We take the following from the Grass Valley Union of a recent date: After the perusal of about half a bushel of political exchanges yesterday, we were just settling down into the belief that the country was corrupt beyond redemption; that the greater the man the greater the scoundrel; that wealth was used but as a club to break the heads and hearts of the poor; that rascality commanded a premium, and virtue was left out in the cold; that for the good of the men of the mountains some of the San Francisco Railroad editors should be sent to Stockton, and, in fact, that a comet should come, because the purer days of our fathers were past, with their saintly example and hallowed memories. Just then, laughing and chatting, with dancing curls and dainty dresses, some young ladies passed on the opposite side of the street, and the apparition turned the current of our thoughts, and we found ourself asking the question if indeed this world, in its old age, was so bad after all?

Then, in fancy, the wheels of time turned backward for two hundred years or less, and we tried, with a contemporary (who happened on a time to be in a similar fix with ourself), to imagine a New England village as it must have been, with its solemn church, its unin viting school-room, with seats so high no little foot could reach the floor, with a discipline so severe that the coming of the blessed Sabbath was a terror, that the morning and evening prayer, those daily approaches to the loving Infinite Creator were woven round with dread, and the weekly Sabbath-day rehearsals of that fearful thing called Death, and of that fearful place beyond, where unrepentant old men and young men, old women and young women, and little children, were roasted for ever and ever in a climate where a horned toad would die of sunstroke in a moment, and in an atmosphere worse than that surrounding a Barbary coast primary, until the very nature of the people was changed, and they became sombre and stern.

Just then our bevy of young ladies returned, and forgetting ourself, we were on the point of screaming to them to run home and divest themselves of curls, ribbons, panniers, jaunty hats and high-heeled shoes, and put on a calico dress, straight in front, straight in the back, with a big double-bunked bonnet to cover their heads, or they would be burned for witches, when the illusion passed away and we felt thankful that things were not as bad as they used to be, and might be a little worse than they are.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England,

Pulmocine Cordial

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. EVERY FAMILY should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred THROAT DISEASES at all times prevalent, it is the choice of PREVENTION. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. Those painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this FAMILY MEDICINE prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human racelies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage) at such time there is no doubt care) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by our New England forefathers, famous physicians as the best PULMONARY CURATIVE he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are WILD CHERRY BARK, QUILL ROOT, LIQUORICE ROOT, BLOOD ROOT, &c. It is a BLOOD PURIFIER, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic, and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

For Coughs, Croup, Diphtheria, Asthma, &c.

USE BUCHMAN'S

PULMOCINE CORDIAL.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients of "unknown" or "Indian Herb pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. All of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified, in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents."

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for patents, and has been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges. AYER'S

SARSAPARILLA

FOR PURIFYING THE BLOOD.

A medicine that cures is a real public blessing. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA makes positive cure of a series of complaints, which are always afflicting and too often fatal. It purifies the blood, purges out the lurking humors in the system, which undermine health and settle into troublesome disorders. Eruptions of the skin are the appearance on the surface of humors that should be expelled from the blood. Internal derangements are the determination of these same humors to some internal organ, or organs, whose action they derange, and whose substance they disease and destroy. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA expels these humors from the blood. When they are gone, the disorders they produce disappear, such as Ulcerations of the Liver, Stomach, Kidneys, Lungs, Skin, Eruptions and Pimples Diseases of the skin, St. Anthony's Fire, Rose or Erysipelas, Pimples, Pustules, Blotches, Boils, Tumors, Tetter and Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, Ulcers and Sores, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Pain in the Bones, Side, and Head, Female Weakness, Sterility, Leucorrhea arising from internal ulceration and uterine disease, Dropsy, Dyspepsia, Emaciation, and General Debility. With their departure health returns.

CHERRY PECTORAL

For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma and Consumption.

The few compositions, which have won the confidence of mankind and become household words among us not only one but many nations, must have extraordinary virtues. Perhaps no one ever secured so wide a reputation or maintained it so long as AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. It has been known to the public about forty years, by a long continued series of marvellous cures, which have won for it a confidence in its virtues, never equalled by any other medicines. It still makes the most effectual cures of Coughs, Colds, Consumption, that can be made by medical skill. Indeed the CHERRY PECTORAL has really robbed these dangerous diseases of their terrors, to a great extent, and given a feeling of security from their fatal effects, which is well founded, if the remedy be taken in season. Every family should have it in their closet for the ready and prompt relief of its members. Sickness, suffering, and even life is saved by this timely protection. The prudent should not neglect it, and the wise will not. Keep it by you for the protection it affords in sudden attacks, and by its timely use.

BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOR is composed of Ammonia, Chloroform, Spirits of Camphor, Tincture of Lupuline, Oil of Juniper, and Alcohol. This compound is unequalled in the annals of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling or Twitching of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, humors, eruptions, scaly eruptions, Itching, humors, &c.; it equalizes the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the same, cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. Briggs' Allevantor absolutely possesses more curative properties than any other preparation. Physicians, chemists, and others are requested to examine and test the remedy, and $1000 will be paid if found different from representation.

COUGHS, Much has been said and many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases; but nothing has been so eminently successful, or obtained such a wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.

CORNS! The excruciating pain produced by Corns, the unceasing twinging from Bunions, the piercing, distressing pain from ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, not knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies are no acid or potash compounds, but are reliable, soothing, and effectual, and just merit the success they have earned from an appreciative public. The Curative is a healing ointment; immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it will positively cure the worst cases of Pestered Corns, inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the sorest instep, the largest and severest Blisters, the most extensive Callosities on the soles or heels of the feet, unequalled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Allevantor for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unexcelled by anything ever known.

PILES have been a terror to mankind for centuries, and almost every attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr. Briggs has discovered an absolutely cure for internal, bleeding, external, and itching piles. Briggs' Pile Remedies are safe and sure.

For sale by J. H. THACHER, WM. R. PRESTON, Portsmouth; JAMES O. TREFETHEN, Kittery; E. S. SAFFORD, Kittery Point; H. M. CURTIS, Newcastle, and dealers generally.

AYER'S PURGATIVE PILLS.

For all the purposes of a Family Physic,

CURING

Dostiveness, Jaundice, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Dysentery, Foul Stomach, Erysipelas, Headache, Piles, Rheumatism, Eruptions and Skin Diseases, Biliousness, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Tetter, Tumors and Salt Rheum, Worms, Gout, Neuralgia, as a Dinner Pill, and Purifying the Blood,

Are the most congenial purgative yet perfected. Their effects abundantly show how much they excel all other Pills. They are safe and pleasant to take, but powerful to cure. They purge out the foul humors of the blood; they stimulate the sluggish or disordered organ into action, and they impart health and tone to the whole being. They correct not only the every day complaints of every body, but formidable and dangerous diseases. Most eminent clergymen, most skillful physicians, and our best citizens send certificates of cures performed and of great benefits they have derived from these Pills. They are the safest and best physic for children, because mild as well as effectual. Being sugar coated, they are easy to take; and being purely vegetable, they are entirely harmless.

The Singer

SEWING MACHINE

STILL LEADS THE MARKET.

The Success of the Company is far beyond that of any other similar concern; the

Daily Manufacture

OF

400 OF THE SINGERS

Failing to Supply the Constant Demand.

All other machines call the public attention to some new loop or stitch or tension or finish, some advantage in running or needles or feed or prices—and many of these are as we have said very good points, and the agents selling them use them to divert entirely the would-be purchaser from fairly considering the facts in the case; but the

seems to unite the good qualities of all, and is never found wanting.

MEN TEACHERS IN GIRLS' SCHOOLS.—I am inclined to think, with all due deference to the powers that be, that male teachers are not best for young girls. It takes a woman who understands all the witcheries of the sex, and off whom they glance harmless, like water off a duck's back, to deal with these kittens; they have more fun than geography can stagnate, and are not to be ferruled like a great cub of a boy, whose whole future life will be license after jacketdom, as decreed by society and the laws; while a severe woman discipline surely awaits the most frolicsome girl, beginning from the moment when she first learns what her heart is made of, till death stills its yearnings.

And yet I pity a male teacher of girls, whose studied dignity is in a second dethroned by a pantomimic gesture of some bright-eyed young flirt, who feels her power without being old enough to understand it, and with an intesimitive coquetry gets on his blind side, turning all his forerordained frowns into ill-suppressed smiles. How can he box those little round ears? How can he disfigure those soft, white palms? How can he—sending all the other pupils home—trust himself after school alone with those bright eyes, to put them through a subduing tear process? Ten to one the "subduing" is on the other side!

Don't I know! Answer me, thou now "reverend" gentlemen who once kept me after school for a reprimand, and spent the precious moments rolling my curls over your fingers, while my comrade was bursting off her hooks and eyes as she peeped through the keyhole. Not that I upbold it, but every animal naturally fights with the weapons a good Providence has given it—and somehow or other I had found the tout; though whether France was bounded south of Rhode Island or not was still a mystery that I was not in a hurry to solve. Still, for all that, I pity a male teacher who is set to the impossible task of making girls "behave" I should pity them more, did I not know that they keep them in school about four or five hours longer than they ought. Did I not know what they know, but will persist practically in ignoring, that the fun has got to come out somehow, or turn to poison in the blood, and that if teachers won't give it whizzing time out of school, they must needs have it fly in their faces in school.

Said I to a little girl, not many mornings since, who was getting ready for school, "Why do you put on that bright new dress to go, when your old brown one would do as well?" "Oh," was her reply, "I haven't got my lesson to-day, and of course I must look pretty." There's fourteen-year-old female knowledge of human nature for your! Imagine a boy putting on his best jacket for such a purpose. There must be discipline, that's certain; but, in my opinion, a man's head must be gray, not brown or black, if he would enforce it; his blood must be cold and sluggish, and his ear deaf to the charmer, charm she never so cunningly, or, certes, his magisterial chair will be set at naught.

I should pity them more, did I not, every day, see their pupils staggering home under a pile of stupidly-written school books, fit only to kindle the kitchen fire—thank goodness, their little beaux sometimes save their arms from dislocation, by gallantly carrying them home for them. Do I approve of boy-beaux? Why not? Doesn't every rose bud draw its humming-bird? Did not God make them both for this harmless, innocent delight?

You had your boy-beaux, madam; I had mine, by the score. Only teach your daughter to love you well enough to conceal nothing, however minute, from you; only show her that you have a heart, and don't want to pluck out hers, and my word for it, no harm will come of her "boy beaux." It is your repression that does the mischief—your ignoring your own youth and hers. The child who has leave to pluck the apple often leaves it unplucked, undesired on the tree.

A GOOD JOKE.—We have seen many good jokes born of the present campaign, but none so good as the following. The Chester (Pa.) Advocate is responsible for it, and it is doubtless true. Here it is:

On Saturday night Dr. Hutchinson and Thomas V. Cooper were down on the bills for Republican speeches at Phenixville, and both went by way of the Reading Railroad. Mr. Reid, Chairman of the Chester county Committee, had provided transportation at West Chester, and, finding them not on hand, sent Oliver Sidwell and William Windle, of Chester county, to fill their places at the meeting. The hall at Phenixville had been engaged by the Republicans, and Cooper was busy talking while a Democratic meeting was under way a square below at the Phenix hotel.

About eight o'clock Sidwell and Windle rapidly drove up to the meeting at the hotel, were received on the sidewalk by the Chairman, asked if they had been sent as additional speakers, and when informed that they were, said that Hon. J. B. Haskin had just closed, and he would introduce one of them when the band ceased playing.

Windle was accordingly introduced and went on with his speech, while Sidwell entered the bar to wait his turn. While there he asked one of the local politicians what would best suit the Phenixvillians, and was requested, particularly requested, to show "that the interests of the South and those of the laboring men of the North were identical."

While Sidwell was scratching his head and wondering how in the world he could work out such a problem, in rushed an excited man from the platform. "Who's that man talking out there?" he inquired of Sidwell. "Why, that's Windle of West Chester. Who are you?" "Why, I'm Sidwell!" "Who sent you?" "Reid, of course." (By the way, A. P. Reid is chairman of the Democratic and Wm. B. Reid of the Republican Committee.) "But what's your politics—Democratic, Liberal or straight Republican?" "Why, we're straight out Republicans." "The d——l you are. Just look here, this is a Democratic meeting, and get that friend of yours off the stand this minute or he'll get killed. The Republican meeting is a square above."

Windle for fifteen minutes had been discussing general principles from a Republican standpoint, had spoken of rebel pensions, compensation for slaves, Niagara conferences, and was just about to reach some of the climaxes by mentioning the names of the candidates, when Sidwell slipped quietly up and whispered, "For God's sake get out of here, this is a Democratic meeting!"

Windle reached for his hat and sloped; the audience wondering what was wrong, looked sort o' confused,—but up to that time was unable to see what Windle was driving at, whether he was a Liberal Republican, Straight-out Democrat, or was only in a sarcastic vein. The details of this meeting were given at the immense Republican meeting above, the audience shouting with laughter. Here Cooper was followed by Hutchinson, Windle and Sidwell, the meeting being one of the best known to Phenixville.

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 29, 1872.

The News.

There was quite an exciting scene at the South Cove, Boston, on Saturday evening, caused by an attempt to rescue a prisoner. The would-be rescuer and his mother were both shot but unfortunately not killed, and an officer was badly cut about the head.

Small-pox is again on the increase in New York.

The Hamilton stage, from San Francisco, was stopped by six highwaymen, and the treasure-box taken. The passengers were unmolested

Ex-Governor William F. Johnston, of Pennsylvania, died Oct. 25th.

Steamer Guatemala, of the Panama and Acapulco line was wrecked on the bar of Sanala Chiapas on the 15th ult., and twenty-three lives were lost. Those saved are at Tehuantepec awaiting transportation.

Hon. Elihu B. Washburne, minister to France, has arrived in New York from Paris.

The National Democracy have nominated John McCool for mayor of New York.

There were 27 deaths of small-pox in Boston last week—one less than for the week before.

The State Department furnishes information that instead of enormous sums reported to have been paid for telegraphing, in connection with the treaty of Washington, the actual cost is only $15,000.

The inundation of the River Po in Italy continues, and the consequences are terrible. Hundreds of persons are said to have been drowned, houses swept away and the crops badly damaged.

From Cuba it is reported that 1,000 insurgents attacked the town of Guisa, Oct. 19, and burned fifty houses. The government troops encountered and repulsed the insurgents. Seven of the latter and three Spaniards were killed. Pepille Gozalez killed the insurgent leader Nurizes, a former companion of his.

The required sum, $25,000, for the erection of Conant Hall at Dartmouth College has been raised.

Political.

The Tammany leaders held a ratification meeting in and about Tammany Hall, Saturday night. It was intended to be a tremendous affair, and to make it such their candidates for governor and for mayor were called upon to show themselves and to make speeches, but somehow the crowd didn't come and the lack of enthusiasm was marked. About two thousand is all the Herald claims at present.

The New York correspondent of the Boston Advertiser says the political affray Saturday night, in the most dangerous part of the fourth ward, which embraces the most villainous class of shoulder-hitters, is regarded as the first move in a battle between factions supporing the Tammany and the Apollo Hall candidates for mayor—Lawrence and O'Brien. The trouble was caused by the O'Brien men attempting to raise a banner in the vicinity of a Tammany flag. While the crowd were on the street waiting for the speaker to begin, a Tammany gang cut the rope supporting the banner from the top of a house and tumbled a couple of chimneys down among the crowd, killing one man and wounding several others, including a woman. On the way to the station, a Catholic priest administering the last rites to the fatally wounded man as he lay in the ambulance, was also badly hurt.

The registration of voters in New York is completed, and shows 148,810 voters, a decrease of 3872 since last year. The census of voters, taken under the United States election law, is finished. Every house in the city has been visited. About 1000 fraudulent registrations have so far been discovered, and others will probably be shown when the census is compared with the registry list. Not more than a half-dozen arrests have been made under the law The registry in Brooklyn shows 75,517 voters.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.—Absolute control over the disordered stomach and bowels is exercised by these unapproachable vegetable curatives. Their genial effect upon the system is akin to the miraculous. Sold 78 Maiden Lane, N. Y. Price 25 cents per box. Ask for new style; the old is counterfeited.

THE GREAT HAIR PRODUCER.—Hair Oils, Pomatums and Pomades have had their day. They belong to the musty past. Nobody that understands the chemistry of the hair and the philosophy of its growth thinks of using them. Instead of clogging the pores of the scalp with thick unguents, and thus obstructing the insensible perspiration which is essential to the health of the fibers, we now tone the surface of the head with an invigorating application which penetrates to the roots of the hair and stimulates them in the same way that the fertilizing agents spread over the meadows stimulate the grass roots and cause the blades to spring up in myriads, coating the earth with verdure. The invigorant best adapted to this purpose is Lyon's Kathairon. It may well be called the fertilizer of the head. To the barren scalp it communicates vegetative power. If the hair is dropping out or becoming dry and withered, it arrests the process of dilapidation or blight. The hair thickens and becomes glossy and flexible under its genial operation, and as a dressing it is unapproached by any preparation that has yet been laid on the toilet of Fashion.

USE BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL for all throat diseases. For sale at the Union Store.

A POLYGLOT BUSINESS.—The wide spread influence of American skill and enterprise has outstripped the comprehensions of the Americans themselves. The fabrics of our mills clothe savages of both continents. They wrap the lions of Africa, and the tawny skins of South American pampas. But wider still are spread the products of our skill in medicine. A late visit to Ayer & Co.'s laboratory and office in Lowell, showed us that the whole surface of the habitable globe pays its tribute there: there they cater to and serve the requirements of almost all nations. Their publications are in the many tongues that widely-severed peoples use. Their letters must be read from and written in many tongues, for which there sit a long range of correspondents with this indispensable accomplishment for their duties. Their daily mail of half a bushel of letters brings them advices, orders and remittances from the circle of the world. We were overwhelmed with amazement, and our readers would be by an inspection of this wonderfully extensive, health-dealing enterprise. — Holly Springs (Miss.) Conservative.

TWO AMERICAN MISSES, Miss Isippi and Miss Ouri, are disfigured a good deal by the snags in their mouths. In order that all other Misses may avoid the like blemishes, they are advised to use the famous SOZODONT, which will prevent and obviate all such difficulties.

PILES.—The unceasing torture from internal bleeding, external and itching piles is fast wearing away the thousands of those who are afflicted and their hope and courage have long since given place to despair. Let those who see this cheer up, for a mild and sure cure may be had by using BRIGGS' PILE REMEDIES.

CORNS.—Since pride and fashion have had control of mankind, and shoemakers were compelled to make boots and shoes to fit fancy instead of the feet, the suffering from Corns, Bunions, Ingrowing Nails, Sore Insteps, Blistered Heels, Callosities on the bottom of the feet, &c., cannot be described. But Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies will cure all such torments, and proper fitting boots will prevent their reproduction. Sold by all druggists. a12

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

THE CORONER'S INQUEST.

On Monday morning the inquest was resumed, and the following testimony taken:

Conductor Alfred N. Goodhue; reside in Boston; am conductor of Pullman train; left Portsmouth at 3.44 A. M. on the 22d; four minutes late; nothing noticeable occurred until we neared Seabrook; did not stop between Portsmouth and Seabrook; was sitting at rear end of rear car; was thrown back against the door and heard a crash; got up and went out that door; met rear brakeman, Arthur Lane; asked the matter; he replied, "don't know;" sent him back a half mile on the track with two lanterns to signal danger to any train behind; I ran to the engine; saw the engineer; said he wasn't hurt, nor the fireman; then stepped back to the smoking car; it had caught fire; it was telescoped by baggage car; ran to engine and asked engineer for pail of water; he was using it putting fire out in engine; he and another man put me thro' a window in smoking car; there were several passengers in rear end who could not get out; they were 10 or 12 feet from the flames; put fire out with some four or five pails of water; went to work to help get out wounded, including the injured mail agent in mail car; put them in sleeping car; sent a man to Hampton to telegraph to Portsmouth for help and doctors; helped wounded in depot; I judged it was 18 minutes past 4 when the accident occurred; looked at my watch at 4.07 between Hampton and North Hampton; we were not running over 15 miles an hour; we usually go slow there having plenty of time—47 minutes from Portsmouth to Newburyport; it is 20 miles; had just gone over a rising grade; for y minutes is the best time any express makes in this distance; we have to run slow to use up time; knew freight trains were ahead; did not know they were off time; knew they would not be on main track late or not; we rely wholly on the regulations of the road to keep it clear for us on our time; I usually ask watchmen when I see them what time freight trains pass, although they are due in Boston before I am; the time allowed for trains to keep off my time (10 minutes) is sufficient; went around my train at Seabrook; was all over the track at time; did not notice any men talking on the main track; saw no one bring water; received water from a passenger with my engineer; made no extended talk about switch with Conductor Smith, tho' I told him it was wrong; he did not answer, particularly; saw Dow an hour after the accident; I think he was with Conductor Smith when I spoke of the switch being wrong; don't think Dow made any answer; Mr. Smith may have said "the switch must have been wrong;" my train had engine, Eastern express car (belonging to Eastern R. R.); that car had Miller platform; next was baggage and mail car all in one; it belonged to Maine Central RR.; next was a smoking car of same road; then a common passenger car of same road; next were two Pullman sleeping cars run by the Eastern R. R.; neither Maine Central car had Miller platform; both Pullman cars had; the baggage and smoking cars of Me. Central road were most injured; no car with Miller platform was seriously injured; the apparatus for using Westinghause brake was ready on engine to use for cars; not for engine; it could not be applied for that train as the Maine Central cars had no air brakes; I think the Eastern express car remained on the track; I think there would have been no one seriously injured had the train been equipped with the Westinghause brake and the Miller platform throughout.

Engineer Allen Putnam Newhall; reside in Charlestown; engineer of Pullman train; at Hampton Falls on the 22d, looked at my watch; it was 4.14; we were four minutes late; got within about 100 feet of Seabrook switch and saw it was wrong, by the reflection of my head-light; switch was on the turn-out; saw the freight train on turn-out; reversed my engine, whistled for brakes, told fireman to jump and jumped myself; as I jumped from my engine, I saw a man jump from saloon car of the freight train; he had a white light in lantern; as he swung it, the engine struck the freight train; met brakeman Bartlett, who swung the light lantern, first; told him switch was wrong; he said he knew it, saw it and jumped; I put out fire in engine; just as I got out, Conductor Goodhue called for water, saying the smoking car was on fire; passed water as fast as I could to him; got more buckets and the fire was put out; did not see any one at the switch when I discovered it was wrong; my head light would show me a man 300 feet off; we were running about 15 miles an hour; we had two brakemen on our train—the regular number; one passenger helped carry water; helped remove wounded; was 45 minutes doing so; did not meet any number of train hands talking; they were engaged in aiding wounded; there was enough for them to do without stopping to talk; saw Cond'r Smith helping; we use Westinghause brake Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights from Boston down; Wednesdays, Fridays and Sundays we use it on the up train; other nights we cannot use it as we have Maine Central cars with us; they have no air brakes; I do not consider the Westinghause brake reliable to stop the train at so short a distance; it would slide a train on such a wet track; the brake is complicated; it is a safeguard in ordinary case of accident; is better than hand brakes; is liable to get out of order—but mine never bothered me any; this is in addition to ordinary brakes on the train; did not see any one bringing water to the fire other than from the engine; it took 15 minutes to put out the fire in smoking car; I jumped on the right; was not injured and walked about in a minute; the fireman did not jump; knew the switch was wrong by the rail and target; could not have seen either in season to stop the train.

Brakeman Arthur Lane; brakeman of Pullman train; reside in Boston; was in rear of train; after the shock went a half mile to rear of train; didn't know what the accident was until I returned in half or three-quarters of an hour; helped wounded, then went back to Hampton Falls and waited for Conductor Philbrick's train; aided the wounded for 20 minutes; was up and down main track; did see Mr. Newhall and some one connected with freight train who had a lantern, talking together; none others; heard freight man say he jumped out of saloon car and gave signal of danger; heard a cry for water while at the rear of our train.

Fireman Nathaniel Appleton; reside in East Boston; fireman of Pullman train; was ringing bell when engineer whistled to brake; stepped to brake; heard him tell me to jump, but there was no chance; stood at the brake until engine stopped; afterwards found engineer and we put out fire; engineer of local freight helped us; picked up mail matter; did not think I was needed to help wounded, there were so many to help; was across main track twice about 20 minutes after the accident; did not see a group of persons talking about the accident; don't remember any one I met; saw no railroad men there; know Mr. Dow; had no talk with him; think Mr. Smith had a lantern; Mr. Dow was within two cars' length and I asked him first where Mr. Smith was; Dow was coming towards the engine.

Engineer Charles O. Adams; reside in East Boston; engineer of local freight train; have been employed over four years on the road; when we leave a station we whistle twice for depot master to note down the time of our departure; on the 22d, did not notice Mr. Dow before the accident after my engine passed on the turn-out; got off engine and crossed to platform beyond main track; as the express freight passed, I saw two lanterns at the freight house; thought they were those of conductor and head-brakeman, Dow; got on my engine, ate my lunch, heard Pullman train whistle as I was about to get off; heard them run into us; saw my engine was safe to leave; and ran back to help put out fire on Pullman engine; ran to depot when conductor called for water and got another bucket; saw Mr. Smith and Mr. Goodhue together; we took our engine to Newburyport; had seen no group on the track; think we have plenty of sleep and opportunities for sleep while at work for Eastern R. R.; sleep at Greenland but never feel sleepy between Greenland and Boston; we have three hours' wait at Greenland.

Newell Dow; reside in Seabrook; 200 paces east of station; on the south side of the road; on the 22d, was up at 3.30 to go gunning; I was to call John Newell Boyd, who lives about 20 rods towards Boston from my house; stopped in the house about ten minutes; called him about the time the local freight train went on the turn-out; stopped out-of-doors a short time seeing the freight hands work; half way back saw a light going towards the switch; the Bangor freight came along; think the light at the switch went towards Newburyport before the freight passed; there was only one light; I was about 600 feet in a straight line from the switch; could not see the Bangor freight, but heard it coming; after the freight passed, I saw the light go back towards the switch; it came down the track; saw it more than 50 feet; I cannot tell whether any light went to the switch; it was about that distance; it stopped and it appeared as if some one was handling the switch; then the light went towards the station; heard them at work at the station; Boyd then came out and we started off; when we had got 600 feet from the house "heard a pretty good scrushing;" went back to see what was the matter; saw the freight hands there; know Dow; (witness could not identify conductor Smith, who was in the room; thought he resembled Dow, though; conductor Smith has a light complexion; Dow has a dark complexion and was not present;) told train hands to call depot master; went to help wounded; my son soon came out and we went to the switch and found it switched right to turn the Pullman train on the turn-out; did not touch it; there was no one there but us; stayed about the train ten minutes or so; then went up; passed people on the track; saw no group talking together; don't recollect of seeing Benjamin Walton; always knew brakeman Dow; may be related to him; never had any business relations with him; our families never had any trouble; have known Dow ever since he was big enough to be out; I do not know who altered the switch.

Coroner; "Mr. Dow, have you discussed this accident or anything relating to it with any one in the town of Seabrook?"

Ans. "Shall answer that question if I am obliged to; if not, I sha'n't?" Coroner stated that he had reasons for asking the question. The witness was surly in giving testimony, identified a Portsmouth man who does not work for the Eastern R. R., as a train hand, and on being excused until Tuesday said he wanted to go to sea Tuesday. Witness was put under $100 bonds for appearance. Adjourned to Tuesday.

Fire.

Another alarm of fire brought out the Fire Department about 20 minutes after eleven o'clock, Monday morning. A box full of rags in the attic of the "Rogers" house (recently purchased by Main & Winchester) on Congress Street, took fire and burned through both roofs. Mr. Hiram C. Locke and another gentleman extinguished it with water, but a policeman was promptly on hand to help them with a Fire Extinguisher.

The Torch-Light Parade.

The procession of Grant and Wilson organizations, Thursday evening, will form and march as follows: First Division will form on Congress Street, right resting on North Church; Second Division will form on Fleet Street, right resting on National House.

Procession will march through Market, Deer, Vaughan and Elm streets, to Christian Shore, countermarch through Elm, Vaughan, Congress, Islington, Dover, McDonough, Sudbury, Hanover, Vaughan, Congress, Pleasant and South Streets to Newcastle Street, countermarch through South, Water, State, Union, Middle, Congress, Daniel, Chapel, Atkinson, Court and Middle Streets to Richards Avenue, where a collation will be served.

ELBRIDGE G. PEIRCE, JR.,
Chief Marshal.

Laconics.

The selectmen of Ward Two will meet at the Ward Room this morning to correct the check-list.

The inquest on the death of Capt. Robert Norton will be resumed at the Police Court Room at 10:30, A. M., today.

Speaking of the crowd in attendance at last week's Greeley demonstration in Manchester, the Mirror says:—

It was hardly fair to abuse the excellent Marine Band by putting them in the rear on account of the company they kept.

In the Lyre's report of the number who went from this city to attend the Greeley torch-light demoustration at Manchester last week, it was claimed there were over 700. Mr. Barrett, who sold the tickets and afterwards acted as conductor of the train, says there were just 348.

Mr. Edward Carswell's lecture on temperance, Sunday evening at the Temple, was attended by a large audience, notwithstanding the bad weather. The next lecture in the Temperance Reform Course will be given in the Universalist Church next Sunday evening, by the pastor, Rev. O. F. Van Cise.

In the general orders issued for the Greeley and Brown procession, "All persons who join in the procession are requested to pass the Grant and Wilson flags with silent respect." A good, common-sense injunction. No person with brains or a spark of patriotic pride would hiss at or otherwise insult the flag of the Union, under a mistaken idea that he was thereby advancing the interests of his favorate candidate. We have not heard anything of the kind charged against Republicans in this city, and the one or two such exhibitions of bad taste on the part of Greeley processions were probably the work of zealous but ignorant youngsters.

AN ARKANSAS LETTER.—The following letter, dated "Dover, Ark., Oct. 3, 1872," is published in the St. Louis Democrat, and gives a pleasant picture of lively times in that region:—

My Dear Boy:—The double barrel that you sent came safely to hand, and I was only shot at once while I was carrying it home. Bill Slivers popped at me from behind the fence as I was passing his house, but I had loaded the two shooter as soon as I got it and he didn't jump up from behind that fence but once.

I am glad that one of the barrels is a rifle, as I needed it for long range practice. The other I can fill with buckshot, and can riddle a man nicely at close quarters. I mean to try both barrels on those Jetts when I meet them. You see, old man Jett stole a mule from us in the war, and when it was over pap laid for him and killed him. Then nigger Tom Jett, as we called him—the blackfaced one, he laid for pap and plugged him. Then I picked a fuss with Tom and cut him into giblets, and since that time his brother Sam has been laying for me. I know it is his turn, but I think my double barrel will prove too much for him.

If you want to see fun, come down for a while and bring a rifle. It don't make any difference which side you belong to, and it isn't even necessary to join the militia. It is easy to get up a grudge against somebody, and all you have to do is to lay for your man and knock him over. Behind my pig pen is one of the sweetest hiding places I know of, and it is so handy! A good many people come within range in the course of a week, and a man can pass his time right pleasantly.

I wish you would send me a catalogue of Sunday school books, with the prices, if there are any in St. Louis. If we can get them on time we will take a big lot of books. I am superintendent of the Baptist Sunday school now, and am running it under a full head of steam. Old man Byers who was turned out, is right mad about it, and swears that he will chaw me up; but he will chaw lead if he don't keep clear of me.

My wife wants to know if you can't send her a set of teeth without her getting measured for them. Her twenty-five dollar set was busted all to flinders by a pistol shot that went through her mouth; but it didn't hurt her tongue. Write soon, to your friend and pard,

P. S.—That sneaking, ornery cuss, Sam Jett, crept up last night and fired at me through the window, but he didn't happen to kill anybody except a nigger girl. I mean to go for him, though, today—will be glad of a chance to try the double-barrel.

—Fanny Fern's last contribution to the New York Ledger ended with the quotation from Festus: "O God, I thank thee that I live!"

New Publications.

Oliver Optic's Magazine for November contains the continuation of "Little Bobtail" more of "Winning his Spurs," two chapters of Virginia F. Townsend's "Only Girls." The boys' adventures "Among the Rafremen" are continued. There is a delightful story entitled "The Little Barber's Daughter," and an original dialogue, "The Dolly Varden." Head-Work is Peculiar and Puzzling; and D. F. Hodges, editor of "The Sacred Crown," furnishes jolly music with the title of "The Rural Serenaders." The illustrations are good, especially the four full page illustrations. Send for a specimen number. Lee & Shepard, Publishers, Boston, at $2 50 per year.

The November number of the Lady's Friend is fuller than ever of Engravings, Stories, and other good things, and completes Mrs Woods's novelet. The famous author of "East Lynne" announces a new serial for this Magazine, to be called "The Master of Greylands;" and four other serials are also announced for next year by Daisy Ventnor, Miss Douglas, Miss Hodgson, and Miss Muzzey. Published by Deacon & Peterson, 319 Walnut street, Philadelphia.

APPLES OF GOLD.—This little weekly paper for youngest readers has been having a successful run since its commencement in January last, and now the completed volume, prettily bound with a chromatic cover, has been issued as a holiday book. It is a genuine home production in a line which heretofore the English seem to have held, and is certainly elegant enough and cheap enough to satisfy those who have been in the habit of looking only to English publications. Its engraving are very profuse, some of them being elegantly printed in colors; and its stories are admirably adapted to interest children. A portion of the contents is in large type, which gives a pleasing variety. There are over a hundred pictures, many of them occupying a full page, and some must be very charming to children, particularly "Adrift," the "Basket Wagon," the "Swing in our Barn," and the first and last ones in the volume, entitled "Come in," and "Making a Path." We are gratified to learn that Apples of Gold has already attained an extensive circulation. It is admirably adapted for infant classes in Sunday-Schools, and for use by illiterate adults. The price of the paper is 50 cents a year; of the bound volume, one dollar. Published by the American Tract Society, through its agen's, Hurd & Houghton, New York; The Riverside Press, Cambridge. Received from Lee & Shepard, Boston.

THE NEW YEAR.—The American Tract Society has issued towards its publishers, Hurd and Houghton, New York, The Riverside Press Cambridge, its annual almanac. The press number is a fine, large octavo, fully illustrated, with astronomical calculations for New York, Boston, Chicago, and Portland (Maine); tables giving all the most important information about postal matters, legal weight of the bushel in every state, and a variety of useful notes of different kinds. It is a handsome affair, and only costs twenty cents.

—The Globe stated the other day that Hess, the Chicago theatrical manager, had started a vinegar factory, whereat the Post triumphantly says Hess had been dead a year. We really can't see what that has to do with it. There are several corpse-editing newspapers in Chicago, and why shouldn't one run a vinegar shop? Besides, Mr. Hess may not have been entirely worthy of paradise; what fitter punishment than to be compelled to do business in Chicago?—St. Louis Globe.

—A fellow who attempted to wallop a widow in Telfair county, Ga., recently, was the worst-fooled man in the Union. The widow knocked him down and walked all over him; then she set him up on his feet and jerked him out of his socks; then she snatched him bald-headed, and finally wound up the ceremony by paddling him with a board until he had the hysterics.

—The Chicago Sunday law is creating considerable excitement in that city. Its advocates and opposers are holding public meetings, and the question will be made a political issue.

—The corn crop this year, as summed up by the department of agriculture, will be one of the largest ever grown, and the product of oats and barley will be slightly greater than last year.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Believe Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England,

Pulmocine Cordial

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. EVERY FAMILY should have a bottle at hand to check the earliest growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Cough, Croup, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all incipient THROAT DISEASES at all times prevalent, it is the choice of PARVENTION. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cured for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL relieves the child, and the little cheek soon spurns home of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," be does the possession of this FAMILY MEDICINE prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pale faces, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, yearning with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMONIC CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best PULMONARY CURATIVE he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with all others he was aware of that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are WILD CHERRY BARK, SQUILL, ACONITE, SANGUINARIA ROOT, BLOOD ROOT, &c. It is a BLOOD PURIFIER, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is anodyne and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic, and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

For Coughs, Croup, Diphtheria, Asthma, &c.

USE BUCHMAN'S

PULMOCINE CORDIAL.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified, in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their application in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents."

"Mr. R. H. Eddy has been employed by THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend all inventors to employ him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges. AYER'S

SARSAPARILLA

FOR PURIFYING THE BLOOD.

A medicine that cures is a real public blessing. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA makes positive cure of a series of complaints, which are always afflicting and too often fatal. It purifies the blood, purges out the lurking humors in the system, which undermine health and settle into troublesome disorders. Eruptions of the skin are the appearance on the surface of humors that should be expelled from the blood. Internal derangements are the determination of these same humors to some internal organ, or organs, whose action they derange, and whose substance they disease and destroy. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA expels these humors from the blood. When they are gone, the disorders they produce disappear, such as Ulcerations of the Liver, Stomach, Kidneys, Lungs, Eruptions and Erupting Diseases of the skin, St. Anthony's Fire, Rose or Erysipelas, Pimples, Pustules, Blotches, Boils, Tumors, Tetter and Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, Ulcers and Sores, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Pain in the Bones, Side, and Head, Female Weakness, Sterility, Leucorrhœa arising from internal ulceration and uterine disease, Dropsy, Dyspepsia, Emaciation, and General Debility. With their departure health returns.

CHERRY PECTORAL

For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma and Consumption.

The few compositions, which have won the confidence of mankind and become household words among not only one but many nations, must have extraordinary virtues. Perhaps no one ever secured so wide a reputation or maintained it so long as AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. It has been known to the public about forty years, by a long continued series of marvellous cures, which have won for it a confidence in its virtues, never equalled by any other medicines. It still makes the most effectual cure of Coughs, Colds, Consumption, that can be made by medical skill. Indeed the CHERRY PECTORAL has really robbed these dangerous diseases of their terrors, to a great extent, and given a feeling of immunity from their fatal effects, which is well founded, if the remedy be taken in season. Every family should have it in their closet for the ready and prompt relief of its members. Sickness, suffering, and even life is saved by this timely protection. The prudent should not neglect it, and the wise will not. Keep it by you for the protection it affords in sudden attacks, and by its timely use.

BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOR is composed of Ammonia, Chloroform, Spirits of Camphor, Tincture of Lapulina, Oil of Juniper, and Alcohol. This compound is unequalled in the annals of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling or Twitching of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, banish pimples, cure scaly eruptions, itching, humors, &c.; it equalizes the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the brain, cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. Briggs' Allevantor absolutely possesses more curative properties than any other preparation. Physicians, chemists, and others are requested to examine and test the remedy, and $1000 will be paid if found different from representation.

COUGHS. Much has been said and written, and many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases; but nothing has been so eminently successful, or obtained such a wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.

CORNS! The excruciating pain produced by Corns, the unceasing twinging from Bunions, the piercing, distressing pain from Ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, not knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies are no acid or potash compounds, but are reliable, soothing, and effectual, and just merit the success they have earned from an appreciative public. The Curative is a healing ointment; immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it will positively cure the worst cases of Festered Corns, Inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the sorest instep, the largest and severest Blisters, the most extensive Callosities on the soles or heels of the feet, unequalled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Alleviator for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unexcelled by anything ever known.

PILES have been a terror to mankind for centuries, and almost every attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr. Briggs has discovered an absolutely cure for internal, bleeding, external, and itching piles. Briggs' Pile Remedies are mild, safe and sure.

AYER'S PURGATIVE PILLS.

For all the purposes of a Family Physic,

CURING

Costiveness, Jaundice, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Dysentery, Foul Stomach, Erysipelas, Headache, Piles, Rheumatism, Eruptions and Skin Diseases, Biliousness, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Tetter, Tumors and Salt Rheum, Worms, Gout, Neuralgia, as a Dinner Pill, and Purifying the Blood,

Are the most congenial purgative yet perfected. Their effects abundantly show how much they excel all other Pills. They are safe and pleasant to take, but powerful to cure. They purge out the foul humors of the blood; they stimulate the sluggish or disordered organ into action, and they impart health and tone to the whole being. They cure not only the every day complaints of every body, but formidable and dangerous diseases. Most eminent clergymen, most skillful physicians, and our best citizens send certificates of cures performed, and of great benefits they have derived from these Pills. They are the safest and best physic for children, because mild as well as effectual. Being sugar coated, they are easy to take; and being purely vegetable, they are entirely harmless.

The Singer

SEWING MACHINE

STILL LEADS THE MARKET.

The Success the Company is far beyond that of any other similar concern; the

Daily Manufacture

OF

400 OF THE SINGERS

Failing to Supply the Constant Demand.

All other machines call the public attention to some new loop or stitch or tension or finish, some advantage in running or needles or feed or price—and many of these are as we have said very good points, and the agents selling them use them to divert entirely the would-be purchaser from fairly considering the facts in the case; but the

seems to unite the good qualities of all, and is never found wanting.

THE SINGER

IS THE

OLDEST

SEWING MACHINE

IN THE MARKET,

All others being copied from its first model. does two-thirds the sewing done in this country and preserves its advantages over all others combined.

It is readily kept clean, and has THE BEST TENSION EVER INVENTED; it is higher speeded and requires but little power to run; it works equally well upon the finest and heaviest goods; it does all the varieties of work known to the art.

HOT BRICKS.

BY CUMMING NYE.

I have read in some book of forgotten lore,
Some volume of travels or tales,
How the barbarous tribes of a distant shore
Try whether a convert is true to the core,
Or if his religion fails:

A circle of bricks, red-hot from the fire,
Around them a circle of men,
And the neophyte hopping, in agony dire,
From brick to brick, while louder and higher
Rolls up the heathenish din.

If his toes are not tough, and his courage good,
And his head both level and cool,
And the vigor of youth in his bounding blood,
He will fall in the trial and roll in the mud
To the chorus of "Hypocrite! fool!"

I think of this barbarous voodoo rite
When I witness the lively tricks
Of a proselyte candidate, clad in white,
Hopping right to left, and left to right,
On the hottest of red-hot bricks:

One toe on protection, on free trade one,
One heel on the KuKlux law,
His right hand scorched on a rebel gun,
In his left the hot dollars that Tammany won
In Tweed's little game of taw.

If he gain the applause of the motley crew,
By reaching the difficult goal,
A tough epidermis must carry him through,
Wrinkled and shriveled and blistered and blue,
With all that was noble and manly and true
Fried out of his sizzling soul.

An Awful Night.

Last Tuesday week went out to dine with Bottledail. Had shrimp salad. Excellent. Ate too much of it. Oil always affects my stomach. Family weakness. Castor oil nearly killed my uncle Bob when a boy. Thought 'twas barley water, and drank a pint in the dark. Maternal uncle, Finker, had left leg smashed by sperm whale in South Pacific, aboard ship Sarah Ann. Prentice Mulford chaplain. Oil—coal oil—ruined the governor eight years ago in Pennsylvania. Oil's been very rough on the family. Distant British relative was driven into brain fever from studying Hoyle on whist. Never took oil on cards; prefer half dollar corners. My name's Wheezer; do something in stocks occasionally. Bottledail's my broker. When I got up from the table found something the matter with my feet; kept slipping. Bottledail said he guessed the oil from the salad had soaked through my boot soles. Told him I shou'dn't wonder; oil always played the deuce with my family.

Remember Bottledail bossed the job of putting me in a hack. Don't remember anything more. Smell of oil from the carriage house affected my memory.

Somebody must have put me to bed. Woke up in time to hear the clock strike two. Lamp burning; wish my landlady would have gas put in her house; oil flame consumes all the oxygen; girl who takes care of the oil lamp uses up all my Holland gin.

Counted a hundred to make me go to sleep. When I said "one hundred" something stuck its head above the footboard of my bed; looked like an owl; thing gradually crawled up until it stood on the edge of the foot-board. "Go away," said I. The owl only winked and commenced to swell. I began to feel a little nervous. Owl kept swelling bigger and bigger, until he was seven feet high; then I heard an awful yell just over my bed. Looked up; saw an enormous black cat on head-board glaring at the owl. Felt pale and wanted to go out and take a little walk; legs and arms wouldn't work. Black cat commenced to swell too, and be as big as the owl; its back took an "upward tendency," tail bristled, hair stood out on its back like bayonets, eyes flashed like Arizona diamonds.

Something pulled the bed-clothes off me, and the lamp burned blue. Black cat produced a bottle of salad oil, greased his claws and yelled again. Awful! Ceiling perceptibly vibrated. Wondered if I was not getting a little frightened. Then the owl pulled up another bottle of oil from behind the footboard with a string and oiled his beak. Wanted to pray—could not remember anything religious except the name of the place of perpetual punishment. Wanted to address this word in the form of an expletive to the owl, but hadn't the necessary courage. Then the two monsters yelled and shrieked in concert. Cannons and soprano singers! As they screamed, each dashed at the other. They met midway with an awful shock; feathers and fur flew about like chaff from a threshing machine, and down the two came on my stomach with a crash. Had not any mind left in me to scream with nor any power to move. How they fought! No fair play, but gouging, biting, scratching and yelling. They fought all over me in the most desperate manner, sometimes the owl on top and sometimes the black cat. Occasionally the two would go around like the arms of a windmill, with Roman candles tied to them, their eyes flashed so. Interesting, but not agreeable; for every little while one of the combatants would insert a talon, tooth or beak in my carcass by mistake. Like the man in the poem (name began with a K, I think) I was "bleeding at every vein."

This was bad enough, but soon about three hundred small owls and as many small cats, each with a voice as load as that of their giant kindred, suddenly appeared and had a battle royal over the room. Every one of 'em had a little bottle of oil to his neck! Fighting was going on everywhere, on the floor, on the bed, on the mantlepiece, on the dressing table, on the what-not, on the window-sill, on the walls, on the ceiling, on me! Never saw anything like it. Worst of all, the principal combatants, who had taken my body for a battlefield were working steadily in the direction of my head. The black cat's tail gave me an awful blow on the nose. It revived me; it gave me strength. I stretched out both arms. Bless me! my arms were forty times as big as either the cat or owl!!! I screamed with delight, and grasped the black cat between the forefinger and thumb of my right hand, the owl between the thumb and fore-finger of my left hand, and rolled them. Gracious! with what fiendish delight did I listen to the crackling of their bones!

* * * * * * * *

I am a great deal better than I was. There is a jar of gorged leeches by my bedside and several vials of medicinal wrath decorate the mantel piece. The nurse (a man of great muscular development) says that his bill, at eight dollars a day, is now sixty-four dollars, and that he hasn't had much trouble in holding me in bed except when the hour came to give me the regular dose of oil; then he has had to call in assistance. Landlady says I was in an awful state the night after my dinner with Bottledall. She pretends that I roused the whole house at three o'clock A. M., with my yells, and that I was discovered pinching a flea between the thumb and fore-finger of each hand, and raving about giant owls and colossal black cats. But I know my own recollection is the more authentic; I have circumstantial evidence. My body is covered with red blotches, where the cat and owl scratched or bit me, and how they do itch!

Shall never dine again with Bottledall—he puts too much oil in his shrimp salad. Oil's been the ruin of our family.

The Daily Chronicle,

Portsmouth, N. H.

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 30, 1872.

Political.

The La Grange (Ga.) Reporter, a "straight" Democratic paper, says:—"There is not the slightest obligation resting upon the Democrat, as a Democrat, to vote for Horace Greeley any more than for Grant. Both were nominated by Republican Conventions, and no Democratic Convention, or body of men calling themselves Democrats, had any right or authority to pledge Democratic votes for either one of these Republican candidates for the Presidency. The most the Baltimore Convention could have rightfully done was to decline making nominations, and recommend to Democrats to vote for one or the other of the Republican candidates already nominated. It is time this twaddle were dispensed with, and Democrats appealed to in the light of common sense and decency. Put the issue right, and say that so many of the Democrats have gone to the liberal Republicans, that there is no chance to elect a Democrat, and advise our people to take the lesser evil. That is what it is if the issue is anything. There isn't the slightest party obligation resting upon any Democrat to vote for any man outside of his party. If you will say something, do say it right, and say that Greeley is a more tolerant Republican than Grant; and that is all it means."

The straightout democratic executive committee of New Jersey, in addition to electors, nominated Hon. Samuel J. Bayard for Congress.

The registration of Brooklyn is said by United States Marshal Harlan to be remarkably clean, only three orders of arrest being issued.

The News.

A New York Times special from New Orleans reports a street encounter there of the most savage order. Two notorious roughs, named Perry Lyons and John Henry, violently attacked each other with pistols and knives. The result was that both were killed. The fight arose out of an old feud originating before the war. Both were desperadoes of the worst character.

A fearful hurricane swept through the province of Syracuse, Italy, Oct. 21st. Several buildings were blown down and it is reported that 32 persons were buried under the ruins.

The two houses of the Prussian Diet are at a dead-lock over the bill providing for local government in the rural districts. The chamber of deputies adopted it during the last session, but the upper house refuse to pass it. The Emperor favors the bill, and the majority of the deputies threaten to resign unless the lords concur in its passage.

Oxen are employed in carrying the mails from the Boston post-office, in consequence of the impossibility of getting horses to do the work. The Advertiser says the condition of horses in Boston is generally reported as improving, though the deaths are increasing alarmingly. The interruption of business is very great, and many business firms have organized gangs of "draughtmens" to take the place of teams. In Springfield and other places in the western part of Massachusetts, and various places in New England the disease is as prevalent as in Boston. In New York the condition of affairs is growing worse instead of better. Many cases there are resulting fatally, and dead horses are lying in the streets in many places. Reports from other places at a distance show that the spreading of the epidemic is becoming very general throughout the Eastern and Middle States.

The steamer Victor, running between New York and New Orleans, has been wrecked, together with her cargo. The total loss is $250,000.

At base-ball in Philadelphia the Baltimores defeated the Athletics, 15 to 7.

THE SAN JUAN BOUNDARY.—The St. John (N. B.) Globe rejoices over the settlement of the San Juan boundary question, and says:—"We believe, however, that the local authorities—at Vancouver Island and in the adjacent American territory—have attached more importance to this question than it deserves. The English say, for instance, that San Juan is the key to Vancouver Island, but the channel there is sixteen miles wide, and as the Dominion and the United States lie alongside of each other, separated by only an imaginary line along nine-tenths of their territory, we opine that sixteen miles apart in that region is quite enough."

—To remove old putty from broken windows, dip a small brush in nitric or muriatic acid (obtainable at any druggist's), and with it anoint or paint over the dry putty that adheres to the broken glass and frames of your windows: after an hour's interval, the putty will become so soft as to be removed easily.

—At a recent funeral in Georgetown, Cal., one of the mourners fainted and fell into the open grave, and died in a few minutes after he was extricated.

Business Notices.

Don't let that SORE THROAT get the upper hands of you. PULMOCINE CORDIAL will cure it. For sale by druggists and at the Union Store: 50 cts. per bottle.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.—Absolute control over the disordered stomach and bowels is exercised by these unapproachable vegetable curatives. Their genial effect upon the system is akin to the miraculous. Sold 78 Maiden Lane, N. Y. Price 25 cents per box. Ask for new style; the old is counterfeited.

TRAVELLERS visiting Boston by rail, can leave their baggage at any of the depots, and for a few cents, ride in horse car or omnibus to the popular new "MILLIKEN HOUSE," 187 Washington street, where a porter is constantly in attendance to insure the prompt delivery of baggage so left to the guests of the house.

USE BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL for all throat diseases. For sale at the Union Store.

HELP THE TORPID ORGANS.—When the body is in a state of health, the food taken into the stomach acts on the bowels as a stimulant, causing in them that worm-like motion by which their contents are expelled. The liver being in a natural condition, the flow of bile (which is a mild cathartic) into the intestines is ample and regular, and hence the discharges are easy and sufficently frequent. The reverse of all this constitutes costiveness, and the only true method of cure is to restore the funtional activity of the two important organs which use the bowels as a sewer for the egress of waste matter. For this purpose Hostetter's Stomach Bitters can be confidently commended as the most effective of all medicines. It is not too much to say that chronic constipation would be unknown if the Bitters were in universal use as a remedy in the earlier stages of this complaint. At this period of the year, when dyspepsia with all its kindred disorders are so apt to be engendered and aggravated by the dampness of the atmosphere, this unequalled stimulant, tonic and alterative should be taken daily.

USE BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL for all throat diseases. For sale at the Union Store.

BETTER LATE THAN NEVER.—If your teeth are going, and you have not tried the "Sozodont," as a preservative, try it now. Abandon all other Dentrifices and give it a fair chance; it is guaranteed to be as harmless as water.

PILES.—The unceasing torture from internal bleeding, external and itching piles is fast wearing away the thousands of those who are afflicted and their hope and courage have long since given place to despair. Let those who see this cheer up, for a mild and sure cure may be had by using BRIGGS' PILE REMEDIES.

USE BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL for all throat diseases. For sale at the Union Store.

CORNS.—Since pride and fashion have had control of mankind, and shoemakers were compelled to make boots and shoes to fit fancy instead of the feet, the suffering from Corns, Bunions, Ingrowing Nails, Sore Insteps, Blistered Heels, Callosities on the bottom of the feet, &c., cannot be described. But Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies will cure all such torments, and proper fitting boots will prevent their reproduction. Sold by all druggists. a12

—An Iowa paper advertises for "an apprentice, girl or boy, we don't care which, only so the office may be kept clean and the wood sawed."

THE PUBLIC LIBRARY OF KENTUCKY GIFT CONCERT.—We call the particular attention of our readers to the final announcement of Gov. Bramlette in our advertising columns in reference to the Second Grand Gift Concert to be held in Louisville, Ky., on the 7th day of Dec. next. The greater portion of the tickets are already sold, and a half Million deposited in Bank and held for the payment of all Gifts offered, as will be seen by the certificate of the Cashier of the Farmers' and Drovers' Bank published in the advertisement. The demand for tickets since this announcement has been made is more brisk than ever, and the remnant will be disposed of at an early day, so that it behooves those of our friends who want to participate in this magnificent Distribution, to order their tickets at once.

No agent will be permitted to sell tickets for the managers after the 25th of November, which makes the time very short for the supply of those who may want tickets

The Concert and Drawing is by authority of a special Act of the Legislature of Kentucky, so that all its benefits may be, as now, absolutely and forever free to every State. There are one thousand Gifts in all, the largest being $100,000, and the smallest, $100.

GRAND ARTISTIC

Promenade Exhibition!

MR. T. P. MOSES is fast completing his gallery of Oil Paintings and decorations, and will open for visitors on MONDAY evening, November 4, in the spacious rooms at No. 13 Exchange Buildings, (first floor, up stairs,) opposite the Post Office,—to continue every day and evening (Sundays excepted) until his PIANO contains and over thirty well-finished OIL PAINTINGS are disposed of at One Dollar a Share. Mr. M. designs to make this Exhibition the most beautiful and social resort ever presented in Portsmouth. All the paintings, tinsel-work decorations, etc., are of his own production; and he hopes the Gallery will obtain the interest of thousands of visitors during its continuance. The blessing of pleasant recollections will reward each visitor if he should not be the recipient of a tangible and valuable award at the grand Finale. Mr. M. hopes all the children of the city will attend during the Exhibition on Wednesday and Saturday afternoons—the show will please them and impress them with delightful dreams and help to elevate their taste and imagination. There will be no bitterness in the memory of this charming and refining scene. Programmes will be in free circulation, with the catalogue of paintings and further particulars.

Tickets of admission, 25cts.; children under 14 years, 15 cts.; Season tickets, admitting the purchasers at all times to the Gallery, and having an interest according to their numbers, in the awards to be made on the last evening, sold $1. JOSIAH T. BROWN, No. 40 Market St.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

THE CORONER'S INQUEST.

Tuesday morning the inquest was resumed at the Police Court room.

Thornton K. Lothrop; reside in Beverly; am President of the Eastern R. R.; the contract between the Eastern and P. S. & P. R. R. provides for the operation of both as one road by the Eastern, which furnishes the passenger equipment for both; there is a contract between Eastern, P. S. & P and. Maine Central, by which through passenger trains without change of cars are run between Boston and Bangor; among these trains are one day and one night express each way; by the contract, the Maine Central furnishes the cars for half these trains and the Eastern for the other half; there is also a law in Maine by which every R. R. is obliged to haul the cars brought to it by a connecting Road. Under that statute, the P. S. & P. R. R. has been compelled for a year or more and ever since express trains were put on, to haul upon its express trains, the cars brought to South Berwick junction by the Boston & Maine R. R.; these cars are never furnished with the Miller platform or Westinghouse brake, the B. & M. R. R. not having adopted these; it therefore never seemed to the E. R. R. Directors either desirable or feasible to request that the other cars furnished them by connecting Roads should be supplied with Miller platforms and Westinghouse brakes; the Boston & Providence R. R. and Eastern are the only Railroads which have to any extent adopted the Miller platform and Westinghouse brake; about 110 out of 150 of our cars have the Miller platform and about the same the Westinghouse brake; the latter has been put on as fast as the company furnished it, the past year, and we could get cars into shop to have it done; to locomotives for passenger trains the same proportion; the Miller platform was very early adopted by the Eastern and no new car has been constructed without it for several years; in New England its use is very limited, and upon express trains running out of Boston, the B. & P. and Eastern are the only Roads using it; the Westinghouse brake has not been thoroughly introduced in New England, and some months ago, there was a discussion among the Eastern R. R. Directors, as to applying to the Court in Maine for a modification of the injunction requiring us to carry the B. & M. cars on our express trains, upon the ground that they were not furnished with the Miller platform or with the Westinghouse brake; but the conclusion we then arrived at was, that as there was no R. R. in Maine which had any cars with either of these appliances, we could not expect to prove to the satisfaction of every Judge, that the Railway experts of this part of the country considered them essential or even valuable safeguards; and such an application would be idle and look merely like an exhibition of temper on our part; it was therefore abandoned; as to both these appliances, railway managers in New England generally or as a rule have not been satisfied that they were essential or desirable; we deem them important and from our experience, I deem the Miller platform to be essential to the proper construction of every new car, and the Westinghouse brake a very valuable safeguard, and if not a perfect brake on the whole much better than any other brake now in use; my experience so far as avoiding accidents on the Eastern R. R. is concerned shows that in adopting these improvements we have acted wisely; the B. & M. R. R. have no arrangements by which wecould attach the Westinghouse brake;

Newell Dow, recalled; at noon, after the accident, there was no one at dinner with me excepting wife; don't know of any railroad man dining there; don't think there was any man there that day connected with the railroad; don't know that any person connected with the railroad had talked with Charles Dow except that my wife said she had talked that morning with him; said something about it at Locke's store; don't recollect what was said, there was so much; think I said, Charles Dow told my wife that he threw the switch over and left it on the turn-out; don't recollect saying that Dow "didn't know what he was about, sometimes;" think my wife and Dow are related and have been on friendly terms; think I said in Locke's store, that Dow did or would change his cap or hat; don't recollect saying anything about his coloring his moustache; think I said the road hands would probably put their heads together and cover up the thing and put it on somebody else; that was the general opinion around the depot; had no particular reason in doing so; had no trouble with the Eastern R. R. or the hands; others were expressing their opinions and I gave mine; did not see a man at the switch—only a light; if there had been any light following the Bangor express train, think I should have seen it; saw a lantern go down the track, I judge, as far as the switch; did not remain over a minute or two—and then passed up again; it went up so far that the local freight and buildings shut it out from my view; did not see a light at the switch when the Bangor freight passed; don't think there was; the light went away from the switch before the Bangor freight engine reached the switch; when I went to the switch, ten minutes after the accident, left it before my son did; I examined it first, and left him examining it.

Mrs Nancy Dow; am wife of Newell Dow; was at home on the morning of the accident; was abed; heard the collision; got up after six o'clock; didn't know what had happened; some neighbors told me of it; Jane Dow asked me if I knew it; told her I did not; went to depot; spoke with Charles Dow, the brakeman, regarding the accident; didn't know him; introduced myself to him near the freight house; I felt bad for him; knew Charles Dow was employed as brakeman on the train; his father is my cousin; asked him if this was Charles Dow; he replied, "it is;" don't know that I ever spoke with him before, tho' I knew he was a relative of the family; told him not to feel so bad; he felt very bad; I suppose at seeing a man dead and the cars stove to pieces; told him I did not think he was all to blame; that it was accidentally done and not meaningly, if he did it hfmself; asked him how he felt when he saw the Pullman run on the switch; he said, "I stood back here and shut my eyes;" that was all he said then; I left him; I went to the ruins; never had seen Dow many times to take notice; some one pointed him out to me as Dow; inquired for him because I thought he must feel bad because of the accident, and that they might lay it to him; some one told me that Charles Dow was the switchman; the man I thought was Dow and talked with had reddish whiskers, I think dark brown hair and light moustache; couldn't tell his complexion; his face was smoky; he had overalls on; he had a straw hat on; it was dirty—looked as if it might be brown; (witness pointed out Conductor Smith as Dow, Mr. Smith being in the court room:) some men came to the house before the local freight train went to Boston; I was at the door; I thought they were going off in the cars; wanted to know if I had any cider to sell; told them I had none; asked them how long before they were going on train; they said a half hour; told them where they could go and get some and they went; I should think there were five or six of them—did not count them; this was after dinner; they came back and said they could not get any; don't think Mr. Dow was one of them; they then went away; don't know of any trouble between Dow's family and mine; I asked Charles Dow at the freight house if he altered the switch for the trains; he said he did.

Alfred N. Dow; live in house of John B. Dow; was awakened by John B. Dow's son calling me on the morning of the 22d, who informed me that the freight train had run off or the boiler had bursted or something; it was half-past 4; got up and went on main track, expecting to see where the engine had run off; not finding it went to switch and found it turned; crawled under a Pullman car to get to it; I found the switch as follows: There is a hole through an arm of the staff they haul around and a hole in the semi-circular plate it swings on; there is a pin to go through these holes; there is also a link on the pin which goes over this staple and a lock through the staple to hold the pin in the switch; the pin was in the place where the lock ought to have been, in a horizontal position, instead of in the hole where it belonged to hold the switch; therefore it was not secure; the arm was near the hole for the switch to be on the turn-out; but was not fastened; the lock hung by the chain; never saw the switch in that condition before; was alone; went right from the house to the switch; the pin was shoved in as far as it would go; when I went there a man was standing close to it, who told me it was in just the condition he found it five minutes after the disaster; he was a stranger; I think a passenger: this was about 4.35; it was about ten minutes before I went to the switch again with my father; I asked him to go with me; I went a third time; took other men with me, because it seemed singular to leave a switch so; the switch could not have been changed, as a car was across it; I didn't touch it; the third time, it was in the same condition as when I first saw it; called the attention of my father to the way the pin was left; afterwards went to work to help care for the wounded; I asked a man connected with the freight train, 18 or 20 years of age, if he always left the switch locked when they got through using it; he told me they did; I told him this switch was not locked; he told me they hadn't got through; they were going back on the main track over that switch.

Mrs. Nancy Dow recalled; the man who just testified is my son; (seven men had come in, including Conductor Conductor Smith as the man she talked Smith and Mr. Dow. They stood up and Mrs. Dow then indentified with and thought was Dow;)

Adelaide Dow; reside in Seabrook; live about five minutes' walk from the depot; about half past 7, on the 22d, first learned of the accident; about 8, I went down to the depot; had been there 20 minutes when John W. Dow, my brother, asked me if I would take two men home to breakfast; I said "yes;" told them to come, they called another, "Charlie, wont you come;" the two came and got breakfast; they were just rising from the table, when the one they called Charlie came with two others; these last three ate breakfast; they said but very little; said they had but little appetite; the man they called Charlie said he was faint and did not feel very well; I asked him to take something; he said "No;" he said he had a dream; asked him to tell it; he said he dreamed that he saw the accident just as it appeared—they got run into and were smashed up; this was just as he was about to sit down to eat breakfast; some one asked him (think I asked him) who they would eventually lay the blame to; he said, "God only knows; I was at the switch last and turned it as I always did and thought I did my duty;" that was all he said; (witness recognized Mr. Dow, Conductor Smith and brakeman Bartlett;) do not remember of ever seeing them before the accident.

Anna E. Dow; reside in Seabrook; Newell Dow is my uncle; heard of accident at home at 8.30; my husband, John W. Dow, told me; in about half an hour; I went down to the scene of the accident and stood in the crowd; then went to my husband's sister's house, (Mrs. Adelaide Dow); Mr. Charles Dow was there with others; my husband had spoken of him; I heard him ask him to go to breakfast; never saw him before; witness recognized Charles Dow; I heard him say something about a dream; he said a short time ago he dreamed of this accident; he said everything looked just as it did down there after the accident; he said he wished he had left them, when he had dream; said if he had, this never would have happened to him—he would not have been here amongst them; (witness recognized Conductor Smith and Brakeman Bartlett.)

Abbott A. Locke; trader in Seabrook; station agent there; the crash occurred at 4.20; it waked me; look at my watch; had railroad time; Mr. Dow was waiting for me when I got down stairs; had no conversation with him; have heard the accident talked over in my store, but did not give attention to it so I could recollect; I or my assistant, Mr. Mr. Buzzell, attend the switch at Seabrook from ten minutes past 7 A. M. to about 10 o'clock at night; after that time the train hands do it; am not required to be there after 10 o'clock at night; always examine the switches near my station before the arrival of trains.

Anna E. Dow, recalled; think Mr. Charles Dow had on a light straw hat, smutty, the morning of the accident; also a brown knit jacket; should think his moustache was dark brown; think his moustache is darker to-day than it was then.

Laconics.

Mr. Jeff C. Rowe, the heroic brakeman who lost an arm at Revere last year, is to open an eating saloon immediately in the store in Thatcher's building near the corner of Vaughan and Congress Streets, formerly occupied by Herbert & Watkins in the retail fish business. Mr. Rowe's friends are numerous and we hope every one will feel it a duty as well as a pleasure to patronize him. There will be no bar attached to the premises.

David Welch was brought before Judge Page on Tuesday, charged with assaulting Charles Allen on Saturday night. Adjudged guilty, and fined $18. Welch appealed, and was put under $100 bonds to appear at S. J. Court.

The testimony of President Lothrop of the Eastern Railroad on Tuesday, published elsewhere, will be read with interest. The working of the Maine law enjoying the P. S. & P. R. R. to draw connecting trains over its track is very well shown. Railroad men and citizens generally will be interested in the revelations.

The great torch-light demonstration at Boston will take place this evening. The Eastern Railroad will run an extra train leaving this city at 5 o'clock this afternoon, arriving in Boston at 7.20; returning at 12 o'clock and arriving here at 2:10, A. M., Thursday. All organized bodies of Tamers and Guards pay fare one way only.

Portsmouth seems nearly exempt from the horse disease.

Mr. Mitchell, of the Boston Advertiser, makes excellent reports of the daily sessions of the Coroner's Jury for that paper.

The Presidential election will take place next Tuesday.

The following named gentlemen are to serve as Petit Jurors from Ward 2 at the S. J. Court, now in session, viz.: James Miller, Joseph A. Grace, Andrew P. Bodge, Horace E. Frye.

Manchester

Outdid itself, Monday night. The Grant and Wilson Guards, 200 strong, went up from this city, and were well taken care of. Mayor Marvin and the representatives of the press were especially remembered. The city was in a blaze of light, the illuminations being general, some of the Democracy joining in lighting up. The route of the procession was eleven miles long and the travelling bad. We noticed among the thousands of illuminations, that the residences of Governor Straw, Ex-Gov. Smyth, Mayor Cheney, Hon. Phineas Adams, Mr. Piper and many others, were brilliantly and artistically illuminated. In many places, the ladies formed tableaux and were cheered continuously. Shortly after the procession commenced marching, just as the Portsmouth delegation met the cavalry escort while countermarching on Elm Street, a thousand Roman candles and scores of rockets were simultaneously lighted by the Manchester battalion, and with others from the Republican headquarters and the burning of Greek fire, the heavens seemed lighted and a shower of colored stars seemed falling. With one accord, the procession halted, and the thousands of spectators who thronged the street, burst into one grand acclaim of applause. It was the most magnificent display of the kind we ever saw.

The Portsmouth Guards, and others who went to Manchester, arrived home in a special train at fifteen minutes of 4 o'clock, Tuesday morning, and as they marched to headquarters to the inspiriting music of the Marine Band, joined in singing "Marching Through Georgia," with grand effect.

Postponed.

The torch-light demonstration proposed for Thursday evening, is unavoidably postponed until Friday evening, as the Manchester organizations were unable to secure transportation to this city on Thursday.

—An Oregon sheriff attached a show in that far away country, and while tacking up a "sale" notice on the elephant's hindquarters, which the official mistook for a small barn, the animal swung his tail around—and now when that county wants another sheriff they will have to elect one. —Titusville Press.

—The business of a reporter often brings him into odd places. In a report of a New Orleans wedding, we read that the bride wore silk embroidered stockings.

The lumbering business in northern New Hampshire is brisk, and unusually extensive preparations are being made for "logging" this winter. Good prices and ready markets are anticipated, as timber is becoming more difficult to reach, and the demand as a general rule exceeds the supply. Thousands of acres which have been "skinned over" will be gone through thoroughly this winter.

The Gift of the Knees; or The Ministry of Prayer the Ministry of Power. In one volume 16mo. 328 pp. Published by the American Tract Society through Hurd and Houghton, New York, and The Riverside Press, Cambridge. Any one conversant with current religious litrature must be struck with the prominence given to the subject of prayer. Every religious paper discusses the subject in its various bearings, and new books are constantly appearing, all of which indicates the interest which people are taking in the matter. "The Gift of the Knees," is the quaint title of the latest book which the Tract Society has issued. There is an introduction explaining the origin of the title and recalling a racy book which the last generation will remember, Huntington's "Bank of Faith." Reference is also made to "Muller's "Life of Trust," and the reader is then presented with three narratives illustrating the subject, by the well known author, Mrs. Shipton, and one "Three Days in the Life of Gellert," a charming tale from the German, which are confident will become very popular. The whole book is crowded with reading and will prove a cheap and acceptable book for general reading and for Sunday-school libraries.—Received from Lee & Shepard, Boston.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England,

Pulmocine Cordial

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. EVERY FAMILY should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croup, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred THROAT DISEASES at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of PREVENTION. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this FAMILY MEDICINE prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human races, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at the best PULMONARY CURATIVE he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial

Is the ultimo thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are WILD CHERRY BARK, SQUILL ROOT, LIQUORICE ROOT, BLOOD ROOT, &c. It is a BLOOD PURIFIER, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary, not a medicine. It is a Tonic, and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

For Coughs, Croup, Diphtheria, Asthma, &c.

USE BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredient or "discovered" by "roaming in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured hundreds. Some of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents."

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to strongly commend the inventor to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges. AYER'S

SARSAPARILLA

FOR PURIFYING THE BLOOD.

A medicine that cures is a real public blessing. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA makes positive cure of a series of complaints, which are always afflicting and dangerous. It purifies the blood, purges put the lurking humors in the system, which undermine health and settle into troublesome disease. Eruptions of the skin are the appearance on the surface of humors that should be expelled from the blood. Internal derangements are the determination of these same humors to some internal organ, or organs, whose action they derange, and whose substance they disease and destroy. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA expels these humors from the blood. When they are gone, the disorders they produce disappear, such as Ulcerations of the Liver, Stomach, Kidneys, Lungs, Eruptions and Eruptive Diseases of the skin, St. Anthony's Fire, Rose or Erysipelas, Pimples, Pustules, Blotches, Boils, Tumors, Tetter and Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, Ulcers and Sores, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Pain in the Bones, Side, and Head, Female Weakness, Sterility, Leucorrhea arising from internal ulceration and uterine disease, Dropsy, Dyspepsia, Emaciation, and General Debility. With their departure health returns.

CHERRYPECTORAL

For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma and Consumption.

The few compositions, which have won the confidence of mankind and become household words among not only one but many nations, must have extraordinary virtues. Perhaps no one ever secured so wide a reputation or maintained it so long as AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. It has been known to the public about forty years, by a long continued series of marvellous cures, which have won for it a confidence in its virtues, never equalled by any other medicines. It still makes the most effectual cures of Coughs, Colds, Consumption, that can be made by medical skill. Indeed the CHERRY PECTORAL has really robbed these dangerous diseases of their terrors, to a great extent, and given a feeling of immunity from their fatal effects, which is well founded, if the remedy be taken in season. Every family should have it in their closet for the ready and prompt relief of its members. Sickness, suffering, and even life is saved by this timely protection. The prudent should not neglect it, and the wise will not. Keep it by you for your family, it affords in sudden attacks, and by its timely use.

PILLS AND OINTMENT.

Every Man His Own Physician.

CAUTION.

THE immense demand for HOLLOWAY'S PILLS and OINTMENT, has tempted unprincipled parties to counterfeit these valuable medicines.

In order to protect the public and ourselves, we have issued a new "Trade Mark," consisting of an Egyptian circle of a serpent, with the letter H in the centre. Every box of genuine HOLLOWAY'S PILLS and OINTMENT will have this trade mark on it; none are genuine without it.

$1000 REWARD.

BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOR is composed of Ammonia, Chloroform, Spirits of Camphor, Tincture of Lapulina, Oil of Juniper, and Alcohol. This compound is unequalled in the annals of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling or Twitching of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, banish pimples, cure scaly eruptions, itching, humors, &c.; it equalizes the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the brain, cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. Briggs' Allevantor absolutely possesses more curative properties than any other preparation. Physicians, chemists, and others are requested to examine and test the remedy, and $1000 will be paid if found different from representation.

COUGHS. Much has been said and written, and many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases; but nothing has been so eminently successful, or obtained such a wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.

CORNS! The excruciating pain produced by Corns, the unceasing twinging from Bunions, the piercing, distressing pain from Ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, not knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies are no acid or potash compounds, but are reliable, soothing, and effectual, and just merit the success they have earned from an appreciative public. The Curative is a healing ointment; immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it will positively cure the worst cases of Festered Corns, inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the sorest instep, the largest and severest Blisters, the most extensive Callosities on the soles or heels of the feet, unequalled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Allevantor for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unexcelled by anything ever known.

PILES have been a terror to mankind for centuries, and almost every attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr. Briggs has discovered an absolutely sure cure for internal, bleeding, external, and itching piles. Briggs' Pile Remedies are mild, safe and sure.

For sale by J. H. TRACHER, WM. R. PRESTON, Portsmouth; JAMES O. TREFETHEN, Kittery; E. S. SAFFORD, Kittery Point; H. M. CURTIS, Newcastle, and dealers generally.

CORNS, Bunions, Bad Nails, and other diseases of the feet, Scrofulous and Cancerous Humors, Piles, etc., skilfully treated at the great Chiropodical and Healing Institute, No. 765 Broadway, New York. DR. J. BRIGGS, President; DR. ALEXANDER WEBBER, Secretary. ap9

For all the purposes of a Family Physic,

CURING

Costiveness, Jaundice, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Dysentery, Foul Stomach, Erysipelas, Headache, Piles, Rheumatism, Eruptions and Skin Diseases, Biliousness, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Tetter, Tumors and Salt Rheum, Worms, Gout, Neuralgia, as a Dinner Pill, and Purifying the Blood,

Are the most congenial purgative yet perfected. Their effects abundantly show how much they excel all other Pills. They are safe and pleasant to take, but powerful to cure. They purge out the foul humors of the blood; they stimulate the sluggish or disordered organ into action, and they impart health and tone to the whole being. They cure not only the every day complaints of every body, but formidable and dangerous diseases. Most eminent clergymen, most skillful physicians, and our best citizens send certificates of cures performed and of great benefits they have derived from these Pills. They are the safest and best physic for children, because mild as well as effectual. Being sugar coated, they are easy to take; and being purely vegetable, they are entirely harmless.

The Singer

SEWING MACHINE

STILL LEADS THE MARKET.

The Success of the Company is far beyond that of any other similar concern; the

Daily Manufacture

OF

400 OF THE SINGERS

Failing to Supply the Constant Demand.

All other machines call the public attention to some new loop or stitch or tension or finish, some advantage in running or needles or feed or prices—and many of these are as we have said very good points, and the agents selling them use them to divert entirely the would-be purchaser from fairly considering the facts in the case; but the

seems to unite the good qualities of all, and is never found wanting.

THE SINGER

IS THE

OLDEST

SEWING MACHINE

IN THE MARKET,

All others being copied from its first model. does two-thirds the sewing done in this country and preserves its advantages over all others combined.

It is readily kept clean, and has THE BEST TENSION EVER INVENTED; it is higher speeded and requires but little power to run; it works equally well upon the finest and heaviest goods; it does all the varieties of work known to the art.

ADVICE.—Always attend to checking yourself. If you feel like swearing at the baggage-master, check yourself. If you haven't a trunk full of clean clothes to check, you at least should be adequate to a check shirt.

When you vacate your seat for a moment, leave a plug hat in the seat. Some one will come along and sit on it, thereby preventing your hat from being stolen.

Ladies without escort in traveling should be very particular with whom they become acquainted. They needn't be so particular with those whom they are unacquainted with.

Keep your head and arms inside of the car windows, if you would keep your head and "carry arms."

Never talk on politics, it encourages somebody to take a vote of the passengers.

No gentleman will occupy more than one seat at a time unless he be twins.

Always show your ticket whenever the conductor asks for it. If you get out of humor about it, don't show it.

Never smoke in a car where there are ladies. Get the conductor to turn the ladies out before lighting your cigars.

Never use profane language in the car. Go out on the platform. Profanity is never thrown away on a brakeman.

If you cannot sleep yourself, do not disturb the "sleepers."

Look out for pickpockets. Pickpockets are never in the car, you know, as you have to look out for them.

Provide yourself with sleeping berths before starting. No careful man will start out on a journey without a good supply of sleeping births. [N. B.—Those put up in flat bottles are the best, as they are easily carried in the pocket.]

Always be at the railroad station in good time to take the train. Better be an hour too early than a minute too late, unless you are on your way to be hanged.—Fat Contributor.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 31, 1872.

DEATH OF MRS. GREELEY. — Mrs. Horace Greeley died at four o'clock Wednesday morning, after having been an invalid for many years. Political differences will detract nothing from the sympathy Mr. Greeley will receive in this affliction.

The News.

The Helena and Ogden stage coach was robbed, Oct. 15, near Pleasant Valley, Montana, by highwaymen. W. B. Logan, son of the general, and paymaster of the Yellowstone expedition, was relieved of $7000.

Strong efforts will be made for the restoration of Cadet Midshipman Diggs, recently dismissed from the naval academy for assaulting Cadet Midshipman Convers (colored). The authorities are not disposed to reinstate him, as the assault was without provocation.

The Prussian House of Lords still refusing to pass the country reform bill, Court von Eulenburg, minister of the interior, has resigned, but the Emperor refuses to accept his resignation.

The steamer Missouri, which sailed from New York Oct. 17 for Nassau and Havana, has not yet arrived, and is now five days overdue.

At base-ball in New York the Baltimores defeated the Mutuals—4 to 1.

Many people may not be aware that for illuminating windows the most convenient light is an ounce phial, half-filled with lard oil, and with a wick big enough not to fall into the bottle. This gives a brilliant light, is cheap, will burn for four hours, requires no watching, and—a great desideratum with the thrifty housewife—makes no dirt on the window glass and does not spatter sticky "sperm" on the sash and floor. This may not be generally known—we didn't know it ourself half an hour ago.

TOO BROAD ALTOGETHER. — The dambroad is known to be the ordinary Scottish name of wheat in English is termed a draught-board. A Scotch lady newly come to London, and rather too familiar with her own mode of expression, inquired at a linen draper's shop for a table cloth of dambroad pattern. The cockney shopmen, amazed at such a question from a lady, answered: "why, ma'am, we have patterns pretty broad, but—a—a—but none quite as broad as that."

HYDROPHOBIA.—Whatever charlatans may say, there is no known remedy for canine madness. When bitten, the surest means to escape infection is the application of a red-hot iron with a firm hand, and as soon as possible. A certain-rod, a small poker, a bit of stout wire, any iron nearest at hand, heated to a bright red, will suffice. Then the wound must be sounded and burned. It is good to put the iron again in the fire, and repeat the operation effectually. The pain is quite supportable. M. Leblanc, senior, says that the cauterization gives the person bitten, not exactly pleasure, but decided satisfaction, because the sense of preservation and safety completely overpowers the pain inflicted. In Hayti, where canine madness is common, they apply gunpowder to the wounded parts, and then set fire to it. After this a blister, a mercurial treatment carried to salivation, complete the cure, or rather prevent the disease. Of course, after these necessary precautions, any known nostrum may be employed. Old women's precepts and popular prescriptions can do no harm and may do good by keeping up the patient's spirits, and inspiring him with hopes of a favorable result.

It is a great consolation to know that a person may be bitten by a really mad dog, without contracting the disease. A bite through clothing has rarely serious consequences, the saliva,—the only vehicle of infection,—being thus wiped from the animals teeth. Out of twenty individuals bitten, it is uncertain how many will go mad; perhaps none. It is certain that they will not all go mad. The cause of their escape is unknown; but such escapes make the fortune of charlatans, cunning men and practicers of superstitions. Bitten persons, who have taken such and such drugs, have gone through such and such devotion forms, and remain unharmed, never fail, say and theirs, to attribute the result to the means employed. But it is a reassuring thought, likely to have a favorable influence, without hindering the employment of rational precautions to know that, although bitten, it is quite possible not to be touched by the poison. Infinitely better it is to persuade the patient of this than to hazard remedies which will make as many victims as there are persons foolish enough to try them.—Appleton's Journal.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS. — Absolute control over the disordered stomach and bowels is exercised by these unopproachable vegetable curatives. Their genial effect upon the system is akin to the miraculous. Sold 78 Maiden Lane, N. Y. Price 25 cents per box. Ask for new style; the old is counterfeited.

HELP THE TORPID ORGANS.—When the body is in a state of health, the food taken into the stomach acts on the bowels as a stimulant, causing in them that worm-like motion by which their contents are expelled. The liver being in a natural condition, the flow of bile (which is a mild cathartic) into the intestines is ample and regular, and hence the discharges are easy and sufficently frequent. The reverse of all this constitutes costiveness, and the only true method of cure is to restore the functional activity of the two important organs which use the bowels as a sewer for the purpose of waste matter. For this purpose Hostetter's Stomach Bitters can be confidently commended as the most effective of all medicines. It is not too much to say that chronic constipation would be unknown if the Bitters were in universal use as a remedy in the earlier stages of the complaint. At this period of the year, when dyspepsia with all its kindred disorders are so apt to be engendered and aggravated by the dampness of the atmosphere, this unequalled stimulant, tonic and alterative should be taken daily.

THE GREAT HAIR PRODUCER. — Hair Oils, Pomatums and Pomades have had their day. They belong to the musty past. Nobody that understands the chemistry of the hair and the philosophy of its growth thinks of using them. Instead of clogging the pores of the scalp with thick unguents, and thus obstructing the insensible perspiration which is essential to the health of the fibers, we now tone the surface of the head with an invigorating application which penetrates to the roots of the hair and stimulates them in the same way that the fertilizing agents spread over the meadows stimulate the grass roots and cause the blades to spring up in myriads, coating the earth with verdure. The invigorant best adapted to this purpose is Lyon's Kathairon. It may well be called the fertilizer of the head. To the barren scalp it communicates vegetative power. If the hair is dropping out or becoming dry and withered, it arrests the process of dilapidation or blight. The hair thickens and becomes glossy and flexible under its genial operation, and as a dressing it is unapproached by any preparation that has yet been laid on the toilet of Fashion.

TWO AMERICAN MISSES, Miss Isippi and Miss Ouri, are disfigured a good deal by the snags in their mouths. In order that all other Misses may avoid the like blemishes, they are advised to use the famous SOZODONT, which will prevent and obviate all such difficulties.

BETTER LATE THAN NEVER.—If your teeth are going, and you have not tried the "Sozodont," as a preservative, try it now. Abandon all other Dentrifices and give it a fair chance; it is guaranteed to be as harmless as water.

PILES.—The unceasing torture from internal bleeding, external and itching piles is fast wearing away the thousands of those who are afflicted and their hope and courage have long since given place to despair. Let those who see this cheer up, for a mild and sure cure may be had by using BRIGGS' PILE REMEDIES.

USE BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL for all throat diseases. For sale at the Union Store.

CORNS.—Since pride and fashion have had control of mankind, and shoemakers were compelled to make boots and shoes to fit fancy instead of the feet, the suffering from Corns, Bunions, Ingrowing Nails, Sore Insteps, Blistered Heels, Callosities on the bottom of the feet, &c., cannot be described. But Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies will cure all such torments, and proper fitting boots will prevent their reproduction. Sold by all druggists. al2

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

THE CORONER'S INQUEST.

Wednesday.—Ira Newhall Blake; reside at Seabrook; am a shoe manufacturer; live about a mile from the depot; have lived there nearly three years; on the morning of the disaster I was at home; the first I heard of it, Mr. Parker called at my rooms, about 5 o'clock, and said there had been a disaster at the depot, and asked me to go to the station with him; we went; when I got there, went into the waiting room of the station; this was about 15 minutes past five; saw several people lying there wounded; one of them I recognized as an old friend of mine, Mr. Levi T. Sanborn; he told me he had a good suit of clothes in the mail car, and asked me if I wouldn't go down and see if I could get them for him; I went right down for them; went down towards the freight depot, and after passing the freight depot, between that and the milk car, which was upon the main track, I saw a group of men standing; it was scarcely light; could see people, however; there might have been in the group half a dozen men; this was about half-past five; I was attracted to them by hearing some excited talk; I heard one man say that he stood at the switch or near the switch when the Bangor freight passed over; he left to go forward to see about getting in the freight at Seabrook, and that he feared that he must have left the switch wrong; I then passed and heard no more; I then passed on to the mail car to get the clothing, but did not find it; I then went to the rear of the smoking car, as it was thought there were some eight or ten dead there; the group of men talking were standing this side of the freight house; did not recognize one of them; should think that they were railroad men; one of them had a lantern; I think the man who was talking stood back to me; think he had a straw hat on; I was at the accident till half-past twelve; during the time I was there I heard one man talking to two or three reporters; this was about half-past 10 in the forenoon; don't distinctly remember what was said; think the voice speaking was similar to the one I heard in the morning; know Benjamin Walton; he was standing a rod or two from the group of men when they were talking; I am positive that the group of men were standing this side of the freight house; I could not say Conductor Smith was one of the group; I think Walton was at work when I passed him; I think he was moving the debris to get the wounded from the car.

Jeremiah Chase; reside in Seabrook, near the depot; presume it may be twenty rods from the station, towards the sea; I live about 150 or 200 yards from Mr. Newell Dow; was at home on the morning of the accident; my attention was first called to it by hearing the crash, which I supposed was caused by the shackling of the cars; got up and looked out of the window, and saw the freight train on the turnout; I went to bed again; do not know what time it was; the next thing I heard was a man running across the platform of the depot; my wife got up and looked out of the window, and said there was a man sitting on the platform of the depot with a bloody face; I then got up and went out, and went into that part of the depot occupied by Mr. Buzzell to live in; in the room I saw Mr. Charles Dow, sitting in a rocking-chair; his head was laid on the back of it; had in his hand what we call a pint flask; had both hands on the flask, and the flask at his nose; I made a remark to the person who went with me that I thought Dow was the man who handled the switches; that was my impression; I spoke to Mr. Dow, and asked him if he was hurt; he did not reply; I then went and took hold of his shoulder and moved him a little, and repeated the question; he answered, "No, I am not hurt, only a little faint;" that was all the conversation I had with him at that time; have known Mr. Dow for a number of years; I knew about the switch being wrong because some one had told me of it, before I saw Dow in the room, Dow had on a dark colored jacket with the sleeves rolled up; could not tell if he had anything on his head or not; did not notice whether he had overhauls on or not; it was about 6 o'clock when I saw Dow in the room, about an hour and a half after the accident; have frequently told of the conversation since that time; I saw Mr. Dow talking with Mr. Newhall Dow and two ladies; one of the ladies had a child with her; they were on the north side of the freight house, about thirty feet from it; did not hear what was said at that time; Dow had on a straw hat at that time; looked as if it had two bands on it.

Calvin Buzzell; reside at Seabrook; am assistant station agent; was just getting up at the time of the accident; when I heard the crash, hurried out as fast as I could; Mr. Bartlett, the brakeman, was the first man I saw; he was calling for an axe; I saw others but did not recognize them, who were calling for pails; they got the pails and pumped some water; I helped; am acquainted with Benjamin Walton; did not give him any water; after pumping I went to the wreck; did not meet Dow, the brakeman; I know him; did not have any conversation with him at that time about the accident; I made a memorandum of the freight that was to go that night; there was a car of wood for Newburyport, a car of shoes for Lynn, some hides for Boston and two or three cases for Beverly; the hides were in the freight house; could not tell the position of the cars; I got up because I heard some talking near my window; they were talking about the freight; did not recognize the voices; I know Charles Dow; I went through the room at my house while he was in it; could not tell what time it was; he was sitting at the table, drinking a cup of coffee; did not see him have a flask; know Jeremiah Chase; do not remember seeing him at my house while Dow was in the room; Mrs. Buzzell told me that Dow asked for camphor, which she gave him; this was five minutes after the accident; did not see any strangers about the depot the night previous to the accident; I know Olive Jenness, the crazy woman; did not see her at Seabrook until Wednesday after the accident; she was on the freight train going to Boston; she appeared as usual, deranged.

J. B. Smith, recalled; after I found that there was a car load of wood at Seabrook, I made up my mind to leave it, as my train was too heavy to haul it; it is customary to carry more than one hat on the train; the reason why I know that Dow were a cap was because the Saturday night before I had a straw hat, and I asked Mr. Dow if he had a cap or hat to lend me; he loaned me a cap; Monday night when I went into the car I looked for the cap and could not find it, and when I next saw Dow he was wearing it; that evening, when we left Boston, I think that he had a straw hat in the car.

Jeremiah Chase, recalled; when I have seen Mr. Dow on the train I think he always has had a straw hat on.

Dr. J. F. Hall, who was present at the autopsy which was held to this city, stated that the death of Mr. Richard Norton, who was killed at Seabrook, was from concussion of the brain caused by striking his head against some part of the car.

Charles F. Dow, recalled: when I left Boston the day before the accident I wore a cap, and changed it before I got to Seabrook for a straw hat, which I had on at the time of the accident; after the Bangor freight train passed I did not turn towards the switch; did not at that time have any doubt about the switch being right; my mind is perfectly clear that the switch was right for the Pullman train; my mind was not engaged at that time on other than railroad business; suppose I took breakfast at Mrs. Dow's; heard afterwards that it was her; if she had not mentioned about the dream I should have forgotten it; I had a conversation with Mr. Purley, our former conductor, and told him in substance about the dream as stated by Mrs. Dow; the expression that I used to her, "God only knows," is one that I have often used since; I feel perfectly clear in my conscience; so clear that I would risk my own life on the switch being right; have read the testimony of Mr. Benjamin Walton; do not remember being with any number of railroad men at any time after the accident, except Mr. Bartlett the brakeman and Conductor Smith; do not remember how long I had my lantern in my hand; remember going into Buzzell's house and using the camphor; [In regard to the testimony given by Mr. Alfred N. Dow, the witness said he never left a switch in his life in that condition, and never knew a person entrusted with one to leave it so, as it would not be safe.] the train in passing could not have changed the position of the switch from the way I left it to the position it was found by Mr. Dow after the accident; and I have no hesitation in saying after I left the switch, after the Bangor freight had passed and before Mr. A. N. Dow had seen it, that some one must have interfered with and changed it; it could not have been changed without hands; I did not have any conversation with five or six men standing together listening to my narration of the incidents of the disaster; do not know Benjamin Walton; did not use the language or words to that effect as stated by Mr. Walton, that morning; did not find the switch when I went to it, in the same condition as represented by Mr. Alfred N. Dow.

J. B. Smith, recalled; have never in my experience seen a switch left in the condition as stated by A. N. Dow; never knew any railroad man to leave one so.

This closed the evidence, and after a few remarks by W. H. Y. Hackett, Esq., and a few lucid directions from the Coroner, the case was given to the jury, who will probably report on Saturday.

At It Again.

Willie, of the Lyre, cannot let slip an opportunity to fling a slur, even if he has to tell one of the meanest of lies—a lie by insinuation—to do it. He says: "It seems that Manchester whiskey did not agree with a portion of the Grant Guards who went from this city to attend the demonstration at Manchester"—aiming, of course, to create a belief that there was much drunkenness among them; the fact being that no one on the up trip and but one man on the return train was drunk,—and he, with oaths, imprecations upon his eyes and soul, and obscene expressions, loudly proclaimed his intention "to vote for Greeley!"

The Greeley Fiasco.

The agony is over; the grand Greeley and Brown "demonstration" is a thing of the past; and so far as its influence in arousing enthusiasm for Greeley is concerned it might better never have come off at all. So far as the number in the procession is concerned, the demonstration was a fair success, and we believe all had enough to eat; having said this, no more can be said in its favor.

The Greeley organ in this city, in giving notice a week beforehand of the "impromptu" affair, said "we can have ten thousand men in line if the word is given;" but it is evident the word was not given, for the number of men and children together in line at any one time certainly did not much exceed one thousand—and this we consider a very liberal estimate. The Greeley organ had announced that "torches will be supplied only at the Greeley and Brown headquarters," agreeably to which announcement large lots of torches were carted to the middle of Market Square at an early hour in the evening, and given away to whoever would accept them. One little boy, as he received his gratis torch, was encouragingly told, "That's right, sonny; you stick to the procession and we'll pay you!" This liberality resulted in producing the most remarkable political procession we ever saw; a percentage,—not a large percentage, either,—of men old enough to vote; more young men, who will be old enough to vote in a year or two; boys who will not be old enough to vote for ten years to come; and boys not yet old enough to wear pantaloons!—"trundle-bed trash," we heard the extremely youthful processionists called.

The first of the visitors to arrive were the Portland Greeley Zouaves, seventy-two strong (by the count of several persons,) when they left the cars, though only about fifty appeared in the procession. They were at once escorted to the big tent in Rundlett's field and "collated;" and on their return, as the procession passed the CHRONICLE Office, we made out 430 torches in the crowd, all told,—though a gentleman who twice counted them put the number at 410, and another at 348. The Portsmouth Greeley and Brown Guard, with the Marine Band, led the line with 42 torches; then came the motley, irregular throng of men, small boys and smaller boys; then the Greeley Zouaves, bringing up the rear with 46 torches. The Greeley Guards, though nearly all boys, made a fine appearance in their handsome uniforms; but the Portland Zouaves decidedly "took the shine off" all the rest of the demonstration; they looked well and marched well,—and would have made a still better show if some twenty of their number had not been engaged in skirmishing in various establishments about town, instead of being in the ranks.

As the supporters of Greeley, conciliation and the Union passed beneath the flag stretched across the street from the CHRONICLE Office, we heard various exclamations, such as "Look, look!" "Put out yer tor-r-ches!" and plenty of hissing. Full twenty torches were raised in vain attempts to set fire to the flag; it was just a little out of reach, and the disappointed patriots passed on,—the tall standard-bearer of the Portland Zouaves, the only man who could have struck the obnoxious flag, gracefully dipping his flag-staff to avoid it. The gentlemen who showed such "silent respect" (as per general orders to Greeley procession) to the stars and stripes, were without exception gentlemen from over the sea.

One rank in the Portsmouth contribution to the funeral procession attracted much attention, consisting as it did of a rebel soldier wearing the Confederate uniform, a Union soldier, and a colored man between the two, the latter bearing a transparency with something on it about "clasping hands across the chasm." The mere fact that the ex-rebel soldier has lived in this city ever since the war, unmolested and unprescribed in either business, political or social life on account of his avowed participation in the war of the rebellion, and that he could wear his rebel uniform thro' the streets in the height of a political campaign without let or hindrance, while the American flag was hissed at by men within twenty feet of him, in the same procession, is a better answer to the twaddle about "clasping hands across the bloody chasm" than the most labored and able essay could be. A friend suggests to us that the whole procession could have dressed in rebel uniform, very appropriately; and the "bloody chasm" will not be much of a chasm after November 5th, as the Greeleyites are using it for a "last ditch" and will fill it level full on that day.

The Concord Railroad train was very late, not arriving until 11 o'clock; it brought large delegations from Manchester, Franklin and Epping, we are informed,—none from Concord. The late arrivals were taken in tow and the whole lot of Greeleyites marched 'round town,—the most hilariously irregular funeral procession we ever saw,—and then proceeded to the provision-tent.

After being joined by the delegations from the interior of the State, the procession was again numbered by several gentlemen; one of them counted 593 torches, not including the Portlanders; a second made the whole number of torches to be 810; and a third, whose tally agreed very nearly with that of three companions, returned the number at 854. Taking the highest number as correct, the bands, officers in uniform but without torches, and persons with torches, without uniforms, would raise the total to about a thousand. If any person is inclined to be lavishly liberal, he can say twelve hundred,—but he will be exaggerating.

Illuminations were neither general nor particularly striking; the National Hotel made as fine an appearance as any building we saw. Chinese lanterns were freely used in a few instances, the office of the local Greeley organ presenting a very handsome appearance. Several residences on State Street, past which the procession did not march, were handsomely lighted up, as were others in the vicinity of the Creek. The residence of Richard D. Smart, Esq., on South Street, was beautifully illuminated with Chinese lanterns and candles, and as the procession passed a fine display of fireworks was let off. [On Tuesday evening next Mr. S. will assist at a grand "wake" in honor of what memory of Horace will be then left, and will afterwards "go West."]

The editor of the Greeley organ said "Manchester whiskey did not agree with a portion of the Grant Guards;" what disagreed with the Greeleyites on this occasion we cannot tell; but something did. So many drunken men we never before saw on our streets, and the police say the same thing; and though we did not see any fights, we are informed—and our informant in each case is a Democrat—that there were many. One took place on Deer Street, one or more at the victualing-tent, and several on Water Street and in other places. Lone torch-bearers steering most eccentric courses met us on several occasions, at a late hour, and we walked over dozens of broken torches laying in the streets. The grand jamboree wound up about 2 o'clock, A. M., Wednesday.

Laconics.

At a meeting of the Grant and Wilson Guards, Tuesday evening, Oct. 29th, a vote of thanks to the ladies of Manchester was unanimously passed, for the generous hospitality extended the Guards on their recent visit to that city.

Henry Barrett was on Wednesday arrested for assault on Charles Allen in Danel Street, Saturday night, in company with David Welch, who was attended to by Judge Page on Tuesday. Barrett was fined $13.

The "epizootic" is here. Mr. Woodbury Locke's stable is so badly affected that he has ceased to let horses, and Mr. R. H. Beacham's is little if any better. Many animals in private stables are also sick. The disease is decreasing in Boston and other cities.

Trafton & Co.s' Express and Fast Freight Line is again in working order, their horses having recovered from the distemper so far as to be able to work.

SHOEING A MULE.— The New York Herald's correspondent with Andrew Johnson and the other congressional candidates in Tennessee writes: "If there had been any sanguinary ill-feeling among those who came to attend the meeting, a scene that took place before its assembling must have routed it completely. That scene will last in the memory of those who saw it as long as life remains. Once in his existence it is given a man of the proper appreciative feeling to witness, all unexpectedly, something so preeminently comic, or rather comic and tragic at the same time, but with the element of tragedy contributing its whole volume to increase the fun that all the premeditated drollery of the stage sinks into insignificance beside it.

Camels in Africa and mustangs in Mexico are indispensable animals. So is the mule in our southern country, especially to the negroes. The scene about to be described occured on the verge of the town and came near spoiling all interest in our own circus.

Six negroes on the common road, opposite a blacksmith's shop, for over an hour were trying to persuade a young, tall, robust country mule to allow himself to be shod. They put a rope collar round his neck, and to that attached a line which, thrown out between his hind legs, was intended to trip up each in turn and hold it in position while the blacksmith—Sam by name—operated on the hoof. For over an hour this extraordinary mule fought the six men, kicking away the trap laid for his enslavement as easily as he might a cobweb, and describing high up in the air forked lightning diagrams with his heels, a sight fearful to behold.

Panting, yet patient, their hats kicked off their heads, their shins bruised and cuts torn, the six gallant darkies stuck to that supernatural mule until finally they secured his right hind leg and had his hoof laid on Sam the blacksmith's lap ready for the sacrifice. By this time all the surrounding points of vantage were occupied by spectators wrought up to the most intense pitch of excitement—Johnson men cheering on the mule, Maynard men cheering on the darkies. Sam the blacksmith was a tall, well-built fellow. He had his back to the mule's head, and was in a stooping position over the hoof. In front of him, about six feet from the mule's tail (a perilous distance) was a circle of about twenty darkies awaiting the operation with the most solemn interest. Never did mule draw such pious reverence from a like audience.

"I'd ha' let him be," said one; "dar's no use in afussin' with such a good for nuffin meule as dat."

"Fo' God," exclaimed another in a low and cautious tone, "I do b'lieve in my so' de ole debbel hisself is in dat dat meule."

"Wot you speaks alike dat fo'?" said a third, turning on the previous speaker. "Dat meule bears everytin you say and tinks it insultin'. Don't know wedder the debbel is in him; but I do conseequentially b'lieve dar's a heap of kick on his hind legs still. Guess whoever gets him will tink so too. I wants my head insured when I'ee axed to nurse him."

In the meantime, Sam had his implements ready, and an assistant farrier approached and laid the shoe tenderly upon the virgin hoof. A nail was inserted, while Sam elevated his hammer to deliver the pregnant blow that was to drive it safely home. It was a moment of breathless and agonizing suspense with whites and blacks alike. The latter anticipated a triumph for their race; the former prepared to keep their sides from splitting asunder. Sam's legs shook, but he brought down the hammer with all his might, and at the same moment an explosion occurred that fairly baffles description.

A trip hammer falling on a ton weight of nitro-glycerine immured in a tin box could hardly have produced any more sudden and bewildering results. Quicker than thought the mule drew his hind leg forward, and springing it back with incredible force, struck the still stooping Sam square in the bulbous centre of his hind section, projecting him forward in the air like a cannon ball from a catapult. As Sam disappeared in space he knocked all the darkies down in front of him like ninepins, scattering them over the road in all directions, and landing himself on top of a snake fence twenty feet away. The roar that went up from "the assembled multitood" might have been heard in the next county. The mule grew alarmed, took to his heels, and amid the cheers of the Johnson party crossed the country for home and freedom. Poor Sam had no shape to him when he came to, and it will be many a long day before the terminus of his spinal column forgets that visitation of mule power.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England,

Pulmocine Cordial

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. EVERY FAMILY should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred THROAT DISEASES at all times prevalent, it is the course of PREVENTION. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this FAMILY MEDICINE prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all this afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years are it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best PULMONARY CURATIVE he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experiment with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are WILD CHERRY BARK, SQUILL ROOT, LIQUORICE ROOT, BLOOD ROOT, &c. It is a BLOOD PURIFIER, gentle, stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic, and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

For Coughs, Croup, Diphtheria, Asthma, &c.

USE BUCHMAN'S

PULMOCINE CORDIAL.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredient "discovered" by "walking in gardens" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are as far as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified, in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents."

"Mr. R. H. Eddy has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great skill and ability as his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges. AYER'S

SARSAPARILLA

FOR PURIFYING THE BLOOD.

A medicine that cures is a real public blessing. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA makes positive cure of a series of complaints, which once always afflicting and too often fatal. It purifies the blood, purges out the lurking humors in the system, which undermine health and settle into troublesome disorders. Eruptions of the skin are the appearance on the surface of humors that should be expelled from the blood. Internal derangements are the determination of these same humors to some internal organ, or organs, whose action they derange, and whose substance they disease and destroy. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA expels these humors from the blood. When they are gone, the disorders they produce disappear, such as Dizziness of the Liver, Stomach, Kidneys, Lungs, Eruptions and Eruptive Diseases of the skin, St. Anthony's Fire, Rose or Erysipelas, Pimples, Pustules, Blotches, Boils, Tumors, Tetter and Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, Ulcers and Sores, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Pain in the Bones, Side, and Head, Female Weakness, Sterility, Leucorrhea arising from internal ulceration and uterine disease, Dropsy, Dyspepsia, Emaciation, and General Debility. With their departure health returns.

AYER'S

CHERRY PECTORAL

For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma and Consumption.

The few compositions, which have won the confidence of mankind and become household words among not only one but many nations, must have extraordinary virtues. Perhaps no one ever secured so wide a reputation or maintained it so long as AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. It has been known to the public about forty years, by a long continued series of marvelous cures, which have won for it a confidence in its virtues, never equalled by any other medicines. It still makes the most effectual cures of Coughs, Colds, Consumption, that can be made by medical skill. Indeed the CHERRY PECTORAL has really robbed these dangerous diseases of their terrors, to a great extent, and given a feeling of immunity from their fatal effects, which is well founded, if the remedy be taken in season. Every family should have it in their closet for the ready and prompt relief of its members. Sickness, suffering, and even life is saved by this timely protection. The prudent should not neglect a cough, or even a cold not. Keep it by you for the protection it affords in sudden attacks, and by its timely use.

BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOR is composed of Ammonia, Chloroform, Spirits of Camphor, Tincture of Lupuline, Oil of Juniper, and Alcohol. This compound is unequalled in the annals of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling or Twitching of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, banish pimples, cure scaly eruptions, itching, humors, &c.; it equalizes the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the brain, cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. Briggs' Allevantor absolutely possesses more curative properties than any other preparation. Physicians, chemists, and others are requested to examine and test the remedy, and $1000 will be paid if found different from representation.

COUGHS. Much has been said and written, and many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases; but nothing has been so eminently successful, or obtained such a wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.

CORNS! The excruciating pain produced by Corns, the unceasing twinging from Bunions, the piercing, distressing pain from Ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, not knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies are no acid or potash compounds, but are reliable, soothing, and effectual, and just merit the success they have earned from an appreciative public. The Curative is a healing ointment; immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it will positively cure the worst cases of Festered Corns, Inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the sorest instep, the largest and severest Blisters, the most extensive Callosities on the soles or heels of the feet, unequalled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Allevantor for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unexcelled by anything ever known.

PILES have been a terror to mankind for centuries, and almost every attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr. Briggs has discovered an absolutely cure for internal, bleeding, external, and itching piles. Briggs' Pile Remedies are mild, safe and sure.

Are the most congenial purgative yet perfected. Their effects abundantly show how much they excel all other Pills. They are safe and pleasant to take, but powerful to cure. They purge out the foul humors of the blood; they stimulate the sluggish or disordered organ into action, and they impart health and tone to the whole being. They cure not only the every day complaints of every body, but formidable and dangerous diseases. Most eminent clergymen, most skillful physicians, and our best citizens send certificates of cures performed, and of great benefits they have derived from these Pills. They are the safest and best physic for children, because mild as well as effectual. Being sugar coated, they are easy to take; and being purely vegetable, they are entirely harmless.

CHAPTER VIII.

Sunday morning and the Mariner on my hands! What a predicament! To "remember the Sabbath-day and keep it holy" of course was out of the question. How to get him through the day with a rag of respectability left was the problem that had more and more perplexed me as Saturday night drew on. I had decoyed him here and was responsible for his return in good order. Five days of fasting from his natural diet of newspapers, with mountain and ocean taken in excessive quantities, had affected his spirits a good deal. He missed the scream of the locomotive, too, and his daily conflicts with the "devil." In this dejected state he was ready to mutiny on the slightest provocation, and would inevitably become known as one of the "non-elect" unless kept prudently secluded the greater part of Sunday. But my courage rose with the morning, or an hour or two after it, for the sun was high when I took my matutinal observation from the roof-window, and the bay was a sheet of golden water, every ripple flashing fire. The very voice of the sea was glad, singing to itself on the sunny shore of Ironbound. My conundrum, "what shall I do with him?" seemed easier to answer than it did the night before, and I went with a resolute heart and appropriate weapons, to bombard his door. It was a work of immense labor to dislodge him from his intrenchments, and was accomplished only after repeated attacks. He surrendered rather to his own indolence than to me, finding it less laborious to rise and dress than to fight it out on that line. Never, since he out-grew short jackets, whippings and the catechism, has he been known to get up so early on a Sunday morning as he did on that one. The smile of amnesty on his countenance, when he at last appeared, full rigged, in the offing, and the high polish of his boots, in honor of the day, did him credit, and seemed to promise much in the way of respectability.

A lady in the entry, a new one, (not new to the planet but to Mt. Desert,) complained that the breakfast-hour came early here. By the next morning she knew that it was a necessary precaution to prevent cannibalism. The first glance at the breakfast-table showed us that we were in a community where Sunday was held in honor, for there were baked beans and brown bread in perfection. When the Mariner had partaken of these in a manner very complimentary to the cook, feeling that he had done his part towards keeping the Sabbath he became quite unmanageable, and stoutly refused to go to church with me. Anywhere else, he said, but there, so I took him a five-mile walk to Anemone Cave; the aborigines call it three and a half, but when you walk it you will say it is five, as we did. Quiet reigned everywhere; no gay groups on the piazzas, no parties starting off to ride; this stillness in such a place, was very impressive. No one met or passed us on the road, except one man and a little girl in a wagon, evidently residents, and going to church in some other parish perhaps. A mile or more on our way, from far over wood and pasture land

"Came the sweet monotone of one slow bell,
And parted time into division rare,
Whereof each morsel brought its own delights."

What a peculiar charm in that sound when you are going away from church on a lovely summer morning. Anemone Cave is at Schooner Head, but we did not know it when we were there, fortunately, for we could have given it but a few minutes of that clouded day, and it ought to be visited at leisure in the blaze of a summer sun. Then its cool shade is too grateful to be gloomy. We left our burdensome wraps at a house near the shore, interesting is the former sojourn of many well-known artists, asked for a glass of water, and broke the tumbler at the well, which caused the Mariner to press princely amounts of scrip into the protesting hand of the damsel who gave us to drink. We asked for the cave, and they said, "follow the rocks along—you can't miss it;" but we thought we had, a dozen times at least before we reached it, it was so long coming. Found at last, we entered with perfect ease, and the Mariner began the services by filling his pipe and sitting down for a serious smoke, and a survey of the premises. A spacious, circular room, seventy-five feet deep it is said, (and I don't doubt it,) wide open toward the ocean, just high enough, large enough and light enough to be as pleasant as a cave can be. I won't try to de-cribe it, for you would be none the wiser after I had done my best. Who ever forms a correct idea of anything from mere description? I had read De Costa's account of it, and pictured it in imagination, but I found that my picture was not a likeness in even one particular. This was the shortest Sunday morning I ever knew. The tide was low, and the lazy ocean lay stretched out at his ease playing with the rocks at the mouth of the cove, lifting the dulse and seaweed occasionally with a gentle swash, and with no business in the cave for some hours to come, so that we need not keep an eye upon him. Here was the natural aquarium I had heard so much about, hollows in the floor of the cave, pink or purplish with a kind of coral-line incrustation, and full of most beautiful sea mosses, pale green sponges, anemones,—white, white tipped with brown, pink, purple and other colors,—long, graceful kelps, like ferns, star-fish, etc., etc.,—such strange, lovely shapes and hues as belong only to the wonder-working sea.

At first we could not distinguish the anemones, although they starred the rocks all over, for they were not conspicuous in color or size,—the finest specimens having fallen victims to the vandalism of visitors, I imagine. We had not been long in the cave when a gentleman and lady joined us, having walked from Bar Harbor, and quite convinced, with us, that the distance was five honest miles. She had an old brown hat that insisted on falling off and met with little resistance on her part. Her hair was black and gypsey-ish, and her splendid gray eyes would do wonders in a novel. I think I have met him, more than once, in the highest order of love-stories. They were most agreeable companions, and the introduction of this "foreign element" revived the Mariner wonderfully. You know the poet tells us to "Walk with the beautiful," but the Mariner thinks it rather a bore, unless it is a beautiful young lady,—then he becomes a Weston at once. It gave us great pleasure to point out to them, with an air of superior wisdom, the anemones, which they had not seen before. Then, I am sorry to say, out came the pocket-knives of the two gentlemen, and many lovely anemones were cut from the rock to shrivel into instant ugliness and to be thrown away. "Transplanting" they called it. Such is man.

We took as momentoes slender kelps, and bits of green and purple moss; but the oddest thing was a long sea-weed, pulled up from amongst the rocks before the cave, exactly like trimmings I saw on many a Polonaise last summer,—a narrow fold with a ruffle on each side; the Florence Sewing Machine could not have done it better. As this was pulled up dripping from the ocean, the cast-off finery of some mermaid—now a great grandmother, no doubt,—how my soul swelled with indignation against the short-sighted philosophy that attributes these inventions to woman-kind in general and the dress-maker in particular, and regards them as a departure from the simplicity of nature; as if Dame Nature couldn't frill and ruffle and pucker and paint and embroider in a way to drive a mortal modiste to despair. See how she fringes her orchids, and ruffles her catalpa blossoms, and flutes her seashells, and stripes her zebras, and spots her leopards, and curls her little boys hair and tints her little girls' cheeks! Who is the wiser, she, or the musty philosophies only a few thousand years old, and never yet able to convince or convert one pretty and tasteful woman, while many a bold philosopher has been utterly routed and discomfited, compelled to recant and led captive in triumph by a lovely girl in her panoply of bright ribbons and fluttering muslins.

We, of the traduced sex, secured a ruffle apiece, to be used in defence of our inalienable rights, and the congregation of four reluctantly left the Cave, voting it the most delightful church we had ever visited, with the living rock for roof, a carpet of many-tinted moss, and the ocean at the threshold. We learned that our fellow Sabbath-breakers had come from St. Louis, in search of rest and retirement, and were directed to Mt. Desert by the artist. Church, as a lovely region but little visited. They were surprised, of course, at the number of guests, but so much pleased that they meant to remain another week—enviable mortals! The lady had never seen or heard of blue-berries till this visit, and was delighted with her new acquaintance, ranking it next to the strawberry. It was with mutual regret that we parted at the village, wishing we might have another walk together.

We found that all the right-minded had attended church that morning,—the Episcopal Service had been read at two of the hotels, and the Unitarians and Nondescripts had been to hear Rev. Rufus Ellis in the little meeting-house up the road. This parish possesses only a fragment of a minister, a third or fourth part, deviding him with several other parishes scattered about amongst the mountains. He preaches for each in turn. If each parish undertook to have a whole minister "he would be a very poor one," the landlord said, and no doubt he would, in more senses than one.

Such was the invigorating effect of the air upon our time-worn constitutions, that, instead of resting after dinner, as might have been expected, we started out afresh, but on a walk of more modest dimensions. We strolled down through the grounds where small cottages and private residences stood about sociably on the green, to visit Pulpit Rock, the finest one I ever saw, and nearly every town I was ever in boasts one. We kept along shore for a mile or more, sometimes close to the water's edge, wearing out our shoes fearfully amongst the rocks, sometimes higher up the bank, through pleasant wood-paths, on the lookout for a good place to sit and watch the waves. The Mariner, like the average man walking with his sister or his wife, kept a little ahead, or he might have saved me from a signal display of gaucherie, occasioned by my ignorance of the nature of squirrels, and my untimely benevolence, worthy of H. G. A beautiful little red squirrel sat up on a rock not three feet from an umbrella which spread its capacious shade over two persons,—two ladies, I innocently supposed, as I saw the dress of one. They were reading,—at least they had an open book. The squirrel didn't move when I stopped, very near him, nor when I shouted "Ladies!" in the direction of the umbrella. No response. I hesitated, remembered the Golden Rule, and shouted again in a voice not to be evaded, "Ladies! Ladies! just look at that squirrel behind you!" and the umbrella swung reluctantly aside, disclosing to my horror a lady and gentleman, who looked at the squirrel and then at me, with anything but rapture. Just then, to hide my discomfiture, the squirrel began to glide over the rocks spasmodically, with frequent and leisurely stops, so close to the disturbed couple and to me, that I was sure he must be badly hurt or he would never be so bold, and screamed frantically for the receding Mariner to come to the rescue, which he did, roaring with laughter at my stupidity and commiserating the victims of my philanthropy. The cause of all this trouble disappeared amongst the rocks, the umbrella turned its back upon us once more with offended dignity, and I went on, reflecting upon the eccentricities of squirrels, and the caution necessary in applying the Golden Rule.

We passed a good many parties of two reading under the trees, and finally came to anchor in a pretty, pebbly cove, where we told stories and watched the tide come in, and wished the sea would occasionally skip one tide—it would seem so much less hateful then.

After tea I went to a prayer and conference-meeting in the church, leaving the Mariner to his pipe and his Canton friend, spinning yarns. Only a handful were in the church, but they sung in a style that made me thankful there were no more. I suppose no living creature, a cat perhaps excepted, can produce such unmusical sounds as one of "the salt of the earth." A dozen of the most worthy members of any Christian church can out-do the discords of all the fish-horns, tin pans and other abominations that ever composed a Calithumpian band. If you want good singing, you must call on the sinners. But what is to become of the angelic song, if this is to hold good in all worlds,—the worthier the singer the worse the singing? The west windows were solemn with the last gleams of a faded sunset, the church was dusky with the twilight, and one dim lamp on the pulpit glimmered at us through the darkness. Some undistinguishable girls in the dark gallery had taken possession of the melodian, and once the lamp went up for their benefit, when an unfamiliar hymn was asked for by the leader of the meeting. With all its informality, perhaps all the more because of it, that was a delightful meeting. The old weather-beaten fishermen, the poor, hard-working women, the strangers of wider culture and more varied lives, had all the same story to tell, eternally fresh to those who know its truth, of the love of Christ, its all-sufficiency, its growing preciousness. The cruel sea could be faintly heard without, while within the name of Him who walked the waves and stilled the tempest, the Friend "who though he was rich, yet for our sakes became poor," made a home of the dim church and of the little company of believers, one family. FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 1, 1872.

Another Horror.

Steamship Missouri, Captain Curtis, which left New York October 17 for Havana and Nassau, was burned off Abaco. It is reported that over eighty lives were lost. Only twelve persons are known to be saved. The captain and crew are said to be lost. The steamer was burned at sea in a gale on the 22d instant, about twenty-five miles from Absco, on her passage to Havana by the way of Nassau, N. P. The fire was discovered about nine, A. M., in the pantry, and suddenly burst in volumes of flame amidships, spreading rapidly over the ship. The boats were launched immediately and all but one swamped at once. Those remaining on board were compelled, on account of the flames, to jump into the sea. Those saved landed in one of the boats at Abaco, at about six, P. M., on the evening of the 22d, and were taken from there in a small schooner to Nassau. It was a terrible sight for those in the floating boat to see those in the water clinging to swamped boats and begging for assistance. There were about ten ladies on board. It is not known whether any of the missing have since been picked up. It is said the captain used every effort to save the lives of the passengers, working bravely himself with the hose. The origin of the fire is unknown. Two of the boats were burned alongside of the vessel, and there is no probability that any of the others ever reached the shore. It is probable that not a single life would have been saved had it not been for James Culmer, a resident of Eleuthera and a passenger on board. A new boat had been purchased in New York and placed on deck, but as the weather had not been boisterous she had not been secured either by gripes or chocks. When it was known that the vessel would be destroyed, Culmer with a few others launched this boat, holding fast to the painter, when he jumped overboard and swam to the boat and eleven others followed, and even then had it not been for Culmer, who was acquainted with the management of a boat, and took charge and piloted her safely through the surf, she would have been lost with the others.

PROBABLE MURDER IN NORTHWOOD. Intense excitement prevails over the mysterious disappearance of a young girl, about thirteen years of age, the granddaughter of Mr. Sylvester Day. The circumstances, as nearly as they can be gathered, are as follows: On Friday last, about nine o'clock A. M., she started for the woods to tend some partridge snares. Failing to return, after a reasonable time, a vigorous search was instituted and continued unsuccessfully until Monday night, despite the pelting rain of Saturday and Sunday. From fifty to seventy-five citizens have scoured the woods in every direction, with no very definite results. The opinion is universal that the child has been murdered and concealed. Very strong suspicion attaches to a man by the name of Evans, a brother of Mrs. Day's, who was living with the family at the time. The searchers succeeded in tracing the missing girl but a short distance. She seems, from the tracks, to have been accompanied by a second person, evidently a man, and indications of resistance and a struggle appeared at various points. All traces were lost at a point where a fence was crossed, and the closest scrutiny fails to follow the trail further. A portion of a toilet comb, newly broken and since identified, was found at this point.

It seems that the traps in question belonged to Evans. It is reported that he left home on Friday morning, ostensibly to work, requesting the girl to watch the snares. He was seen to enter the woods, subsequently, taking the direction which he knew the girl must pursue, and fails to account for himself satisfactorily for about seven hours intervening between nine o'clock A. M. and past three o'clock in the afternoon. He has already told several stories conflicting, and speedily disproved. Evans is said to be an old offender, and not long since was implicated in a bogus life insurance affair. There are also reports of his connection with a deed similar to the present, some years since. The feeling against him is intense, and nothing but the presence of Sheriff Drew, of Strafford, saved him from violence on Saturday.

DEATH FROM KEROSENE —The Claremont Advocate says that, last Saturday evening, the wife of Mr. Moses Purington, while engaged in paring apples, herself, husband and little boy sitting around the table, accidentally capsized a kerosene lamp, which falling upon the floor near her feet, broke, spattering the fluid upon her dress, which at once took fire. Her person was shockingly burned, the flesh literally peeling from her arms and lower limbs. Her husband is a cripple, and was unable to render much assistance. She tried to reach a bucket of water, but failed in the attempt, when Mr. Purington succeeded in reaching a bed quilt, which he wrapped around her. This with two or three buckets of water, extinguished the flames, leaving the old lady in a state of intense suffering, from which death relieved her at one o'clock on Sunday morning. She was 63 years of age.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS. — Absolute control over the disordered stomach and bowels is exercised by these unapproachable vegetable curatives. Their genial effect upon the system is akin to the miraculous. Sold 78 Maiden Lane, N. Y. Price 25 cents per box. Ask for new style; the old is counterfeited.

PILES.—The unceasing torture from internal bleeding, external and itching piles is fast wearing away the thousands of those who are afflicted and their hope and courage have long since given place to despair. Let those who see this cheer up, for a mild and sure cure may be had by using BRIGGS' PILE REMEDIES.

CORNS.—Since pride and fashion have had control of mankind, and shoemakers were compelled to make boots and shoes to fit fancy instead of the feet, the suffering from Corns, Bunions, Ingrowing Nails, Sore Insteps, Blistered Heels, Callosities on the bottom of the feet, &c., cannot be described. But Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies will cure all such torments, and proper fitting boots will prevent their reproduction. Sold by all druggists. al2

HELP THE TORPID ORGANS.—When the body is in a state of health, the food taken into the stomach acts on the bowels as a stimulant, causing in them that worm-like motion by which their contents are expelled. The liver being in a natural condition, the flow of bile (which is a mild cathartic) into the intestines is ample and regular, and hence the discharges are easy and sufficently frequent. The reverse of all this constitutes costiveness, and the only true method of cure is to restore the functional activity of the two important organs which use the bowels as a sewer for the egress of waste matter. For this purpose Hostetter's Stomach Bitters can be confidently commended as the most effective of all medicines. It is not too much to say that chronic constipation would be unknown if the Bitters were in universal use as a remedy in the earlier stages of the complaint. At this period of the year, when dyspepsia with all its kindred disorders are so apt to be engendered and aggravated by the dampness of the atmosphere, this unequalled stimulant, tonic and alterative should be taken daily.

A POLYGLOT BUSINESS.—The wide spread influence of American skill and enterprise has enterrupted the confrehensions of the Americans themselves. The fabrics of our mills clothe savages of both continents. They wrap the lions of Africa, and the tawny skins of South American pampas. But wider still are spread the products of our skill in medicines. A late visit to Ayer & Co.,'s laboratory and office in Lowell, showed us that the whole surface of the habitable globe pays its tribute there: there they cater to and serve the requirements of almost all nations. Their publications are in the many tongues that widely-covered peoples use. Their letters must be read from and written in many tongues, for which there sit a long range of correspondents with this indispensable accomplishment for their duties. Their daily mail of half a bushel of letters brings them advices, orders and remittances from the circle of the world. We were overwhelmed with amazement, and our readers would be by an inspection of this wonderfully extensive, health-dealing enterprise. — Holly Springs (Miss.) Conservative.

GRAND ARTISTIC Promenade Exhibition!

MR. T. P. ROSES is fast completing his gallery of Oil Paintings and decorations, and will open for visitors on MONDAY evening, November 11, in the spacious rooms at No. 13 Exchange Buildings, (first floor, up stairs,) opposite the Post Office,—to continue every day and evening (Sundays excepted) until his PIANO and over thirty well-finished OIL PAINTINGS are disposed of at One Dollar a Share. Mr. M. designs to make this Exhibition the most beautiful and social resort ever presented in Portsmouth. All the paintings, tinsel-work decorations, etc., are of his own production; and he hopes the Gallery will elicit the interest of thousands of visitors during its continuance. The blessing of pleasant recollections will reward each visitor if he should not be the recipient of a tangible and valuable award at the grand Finale. Mr. M., hopes all the children of the city will attend during the Exhibition on Wednesday and Saturday afternoons—the show will please them and impress them with delightful dreams and help to elevate their taste and imagination. There will be no bitterness in the memory of this charming and refining scene. Programmes will be in free circulation, with the catalogue of paintings and further particulars.

Tickets of admission, 25cts.; children under 14 years, 15 cts.; Season tickets, admitting the purchasers at all times to the Gallery, and having an interest according to their numbers, in the awards to be made after all the tickets are sold, $1. LOCAL AFFAIRS.

Grant and Wilson Guards.

The Grant & Wilson Guards will assemble at Headquarters at 7 o'clock this (Friday) evening, prompt, with uniforms and torches. Per Order,

D. J. VAUGHAN, Com'dr.
J. N. JONES, Adjutant.

The Torch-Light Parade.

The procession of Grant and Wilson organizations, this evening, will form and march as follows: First Division will form on Congress Street, right resting on North Church; Second Division will form on Fleet Street, right resting on National House.

Procession will march through Market, Deer, Vaughan and Elm streets, to Christian Shore, countermarch through Elm, Vaughan, Congress, Islington, Dover, McDonough, Sudbury, Hanover, Vaughan, Congress, Pleasant and South Streets to Newcastle Street, countermarch through South, Water, State, Union, Middle, Congress, Daniel, Chapel, Atkinson, Court and Middle Streets to Richards Avenue, where a collation will be served.

ELBRIDGE G. PEIRCE, JR.,
Chief Marshal.

To-Night's Demonstration.

Arrangements for the parade of the Grant and Wilson Guards, this evening, are completed. Organizations are expected from Manchester, Newburyport, Saco, Biddeford and Portland—and it is thought a thousand torches will be in line. It will be impossible for the Manchester Guards to arrive before 9.15, and we are desired to say that the procession will not move until 9.30. Those who intend illuminating their residences on the line of march will bear in mind the fact that it is useless to light up before the procession moves. The committee in charge have obtained fire-works which will be let off at various intervals during the march. Mr. Alfred Stavers advertises Chinese lanterns and other illuminating material for sale.

The Newburyport company, 125 in number, will arrive at 7 o'clock.

The Saco and Biddeford companies of Tanners will number 100 each and arrive at 8 o'clock.

A telegram from Manchester announces that 500 uniformed torch bearers will leave that city at 7.30.

The Portland Continentals, Artillerymen and Rangers are expected on an extra train, to return after the collation—which is to be furnished in the big tent, in Rundlett's field, under direction of Mr. Joseph H. Gardiner.

We hear that Hon. John H. Bailey has arranged for a tableau exhibition and fireworks at his residence on Middle Street.

The cavalry will not come out, on account of the horse disease prevailing so extensively.

Lost, Stolen or Strayed,

Two or three hundred children of from four to six years of age, who left their homes to take part in the Greeley demonstration on Tuesday evening, Oct. 29th. Any information concerning them will be thankfully received by their mothers. It is supposed that they accepted those torches "temporarily, to wait till the Manchester people came," and are still waiting for the men folks to return and relieve them. Should the reader discover any of the little innocents, please return them to their anxious mammas.

Per order CENSUS COMMITTEE.

Deservedly Complimentary.

The able reporter who represented the Boston Advertiser at the inquest upon the Seabrook disaster, says:

The testimony [at Newburyport] is not likely to do more than duplicate that given here, and it is not probable that more thoroughness and attention to detail will be attempted. Mr. Rider has conducted the examination with praiseworthy patience, impartiality and skill. The able counsel of the Eastern road have co-operated with him in his search after the truth, rather than sought to shield the corporation and its employes from blame. On the whole it is impossible for me to instance any point in which the inquest could have been more penetrating. And it appears to be the fault of neither coroner, counsel nor jurors that the result is so unsatisfactory. At the conclusion of the testimony Mr. Hackett, on behalf of the road, thanked the coroner and the jury for their patient investigation.

S. J. Court.

In the case of McMurphy vs. Garland and H. B. Lampry, trustee, the jury found that Lampry was liable as trustee, for $675.

Town of Sandown vs. George F. Griffin, Giles Davis and Hiram Fellows was next tried. This was a suit brought upon the bond of Griffin given as town treasurer for the year 1854, signed by Fellows and Davis as sureties, and the town claimed that Griffin had not accounted for $600 which came into his hands. Verdict for the defendant.

John Albee vs. Theodore W. Frost, a dispute about certain accounts, each claiming a balance due from the other, resulted in a verdict for Mr. Albee of $50.94.

In the suit of Polly M. Leavitt vs. Stebbins H. Dumas, which is an action to try the title to a little strip of land on Boar's Head at Hampton Beach, the jury viewed the premises, on Wednesday.

Laconics.

The payment of the amounts due under the eight hour law will be commenced to-day at the Navy Yard.

Mr. Charles A. Hazlett, Ex-Governor Goodwin's private secretary, has been appointed clerk in the First National Bank of Portsmouth. Mr. Hazlett is a talented young man, with a good business education; the Bank obtains a reliable clerk and the Governor loses a valued assistant.

A horse belonging to Wm. Downs & Son died on Wednesday night. He was well as usual in the evening, and was found dead next morning.

Harlow's Marine Band went to Newburyport, to furnish music for the firemen of that city.

The Portsmouth correspondent of the Boston Traveller telegraphs that paper that "on and after Monday, the 4th of November, the first train from here will leave at 7.05 A. M., fifty minutes later than now." Good!

Mr. W. H. Varney, formerly of this city, was recently killed in Springfield, Mass., by being caught in a belt and carried over a shaft. He had been married about a year and was 21 years of age.

Sale of real estate and personal property on the premises of Reuben Kimball, Esq., Cabot Street, commences at 10 o'clock, to-day. An ancient and valuable clock will be disposed of.

All Saints' Day.

The festival of All Saints in the Episcopal church Calendar occurs to-day, Nov. 1st. It is devoted to the memory and honor of all the faithful departed, everywhere, in all times, known and unknown, a constantly-increasing host as the years roll on. In general, it is designed to excite our thankfulness for the record of various virtues which their lives have bequeathed to the world, and to stimulate our ambition to imitate the examples they have left behind and enjoy the rewards to which they have gone.

But it is also a day for domestic and private memories; a day to visit the places where the dust of our own loved ones are sleeping—to strew flowers and drop a tear there, and beside their last bed indulge fond and fruitful memories of their love, their virtues, and the life they are now living within the vail.

The services of St. John's church will be held in the Chapel on State Street, commencing at 11 o'clock.

A Boat Race.

Messrs. Jacob Achorn and Harry Lombard, residents of this city and owners of the boats "Saucy Cuss" and "Eagle," respectively, created a little amusement on Thursday among the Navy Yard workman by a friendly strife in the form of a rowing match for the purpose of testing the merits of their boats. The terms of the race were that on Thursday noon the boats should take position abreast each other in front of the Navy Yard battery and at a given signal they should start and row to the head of the wharf of Samuel Adams & Co., the first boat reaching it to be declared the winner. The eventful hour at length arrived and amid the shouts of hundreds of their fellow-workmen the two boat's crews shoved out into the river and came up abreast of each other. At the word "go" the green white boat of Mr. Lombard's instantly shot ahead of the heavier and less wieldy craft of Achord's. The nervous little Frenchman at the tiller fairly shook with delight at this incipiently favorable prospect, but his pleasurable emotions were soon to give place to feelings of gloomy despondency as it afterward proved. The crew of the "Saucy Cuss" settled down vigorously at their work, soon passed their rival and began to make a gap. This gap widened until it assumed a length compared to which the chasm that the great and good philosopher proposes to shake hands across, is but an insignificant ditch. To be brief, the result was a triumph of the "Saucy Cuss," a defeat for the "Eagle," a derisive shout of laughter as a greeting to the return of the vanquished Harry, not to mention the "by tams," "it was no fair," &c., that rent the air in the vicinity of the landing at the conclusion of the race. We are informed that the intensely important question of merit still remains unsettled. C.

Office of the Portsmouth and Dover Railroad, Rockingham House, Portsmouth, N. H., Oct. 26, 1872.

The Singer

SEWING MACHINE

STILL LEADS THE MARKET.

The Success of the Company is far beyond that of any other similar concern; the

Daily Manufacture

—OF—

400 OF THE SINGERS

Failing to Supply the Constant Demand.

All other machines call the public attention to some new loop or stitch or tension or finish, some advantage in running or needles or feed or prices—and many of these are as we have said very good points, and the agents selling them use them to divert entirely the would-be purchaser from fairly considering the facts in the case; but the

seems to unite the good qualities of all, and is never found wanting.

THE SINGER

IS THE

OLDEST

SEWING MACHINE

IN THE MARKET,

All others being copied from its first model, does two-thirds the sewing done in this country and preserves its advantages over all others combined.

It is readily kept clean, and has THE BEST TENSION EVER INVENTED; it is higher speeded and requires but little power to run; it works equally well upon the finest and heaviest goods; it does all the varieties of work known to the art.

The News.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England,

Pulmocine Cordial

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. EVERY FAMILY should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred THROAT DISEASES at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of PREVENTION. Children attacked with the Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of the FAMILY MEDICINE prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) points to a speedy and certain healing at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best PULMONARY CURATIVE he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are WILD CHERRY BARK, SQUILL ROOT, LIQUORICE ROOT, BLOOD ROOT, &c. It is a BLOOD PURIFIER, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration, and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary in medicine. It is a Tonic, and a powerful aid to digestive duty use for the complaints specified, in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him for securing their patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges. AYER'S

SARSAPARILLA

FOR PURIFYING THE BLOOD.

A medicine that cures is a real public blessing. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA makes positive cure of a series of complaints, which are always afflicting and too often fatal. It purifies the blood, purges out the lurking humors in the system, which undermine health and settle into troublesome disorders. Eruptions of the skin are the appearance on the surface of humors that should be expelled from the blood. Internal derangements are the determination of these same humors to some internal organ, or organs, whose action they derange, and whose substance they disease and destroy. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA expels these humors from the blood. When they are gone, the disorders they produce disappear, such as Ulcerations of the Liver, Stomach, Kidneys, Lungs, Eruptions and Eruptive Diseases of the skin, St. Anthony's Fire, Rose or Erysipelas, Pimples, Pustules, Blotches, Boils, Tumors, Tetter and Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, Ulcers and Sores, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Pain in the Bones, Side, and Head, Female Weakness, Sterility, Leucorrhœa arising from internal ulceration and uterine disease, Dropsy, Dyspepsia, Emaciation, and General Debility. With their departure health returns.

AYER'S

CHERRYPECTORAL

For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma and Consumption.

The few compositions, which have won the confidence of mankind and become household words among not only one but many nations, must have extraordinary virtues. Perhaps no one ever secured so wide a reputation or maintained it so long as AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. It has been known to the public about forty years, by a long continued series of marvellous cures, which have won for it a confidence in its virtues, never equalled by any other medicines. It still makes the most effectual cures of Coughs, Colds, Consumption, that can be made by medical skill. Indeed the CHERRY PECTORAL has really robbed these dangerous diseases of their terrors, to a great extent, and given a feeling of immunity from their fatal effects, which is well founded, if the remedy be taken in season. Every family should have it in their closet for the ready and prompt relief of its members. Sickness, suffering, and even life is saved by this timely protection. The prudent should not neglect it, and the wise will not. Keep it by you. Its protection it affords in sudden attacks, and by its timely use.

CAUTION.

THE immense demand for HOLLOWAY'S PILLS and OINTMENT, has tempted unprincipled parties to counterfeit these valuable medicines.

In order to protect the public and ourselves, we have issued a new "Trade Mark," consisting of an Egyptian circle of a serpent, with the letter H in the centre. Every box of genuine HOLLOWAY'S PILLS and OINTMENT will have this trade mark on it; none are genuine without it.

BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOR is composed of Ammonia, Chloroform, Spirits of Camphor, Tincture of Lupulins, Oil of Juniper, and Alcohol. This compound is unequalled in the annals of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling or Twitching of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, banish pimples, cure scaly eruptions, itching, humors, &c.; it equalizes the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the brain, cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. Briggs' Allevantor absolutely possesses more curative properties than any other preparation. Physicians, chemists, and others are requested to examine and test the remedy, and $1000 will be paid if found different from representation.

COUGHS, Much has been said and written, and many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases; but nothing has been so eminently successful, or obtained such a wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.

CORNS! The excruciating pain produced by Corns, the incessing twinging from Bunions, the piercing, distressing pain from Ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, not knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies are no acid or potash compounds, but are reliable, soothing, and effectual, and just merit the success they have earned from an appreciative public. The Curative is a healing ointment; immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it will positively cure the worst cases of Festered Corns, inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the sorest instep, the largest and severest Blisters, the most extensive Calicelites on the soles or heels of the feet, unequalled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Allevantor for ordinary corns and preventive formation is absolutely unexcelled by anything ever known.

PILES have been a terror to mankind for centuries, almost every attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr. Briggs has discovered an absolutely cure for internal, bleeding, external, and itching piles. Briggs' Pile Remedies are mild, safe and sure.

For sale by J. H. THACHER, WM. R. PRESTON, Portsmouth; JAMES O. TREFETHEN, Kittery; E. S. SAFFORD, Kittery Point; H. M. CURTIS, Newcastle, and dealers generally.

CORNS, Bunions, Bad Nails, and Scrofulous and Cancerous Humors, Piles, etc., skillfully treated at the great central Chiropodical and Healing Institute, No. 785 Broadway, New York. DR. J. BRIGGS, President; DR. ALEXANDER WEBBER, Secretary. ap9

For all the purposes of a Family Physic,

CURING

Costiveness, Jaundice, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Dysentery, Foul Stomach, Erysipelas, Headache, Piles, Rheumatism, Eruptions and Skin Diseases, Biliousness, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Tetter, Tumors and Salt Rheum, Worms, Gout, Neuralgia, as a Dinner Pill, and Purifying the Blood,

Are the most congenial purgative yet perfected. Their effects abundantly show how much they excel all other Pills. They are safe and pleasant to take, but powerful to cure. They purge out the foul humors of the blood, they stimulate the sluggish or disordered organ into action, and they impart health and tone to the whole system. They cure not only the every day complaints of every body, but formidable and dangerous diseases. Most eminent clergymen, most skillful physicians, and our best citizens send certificates of cures performed and of great benefits they have derived from these Pills. They are the safest and best physic for children, because mild as well as effectual. Being sugar coated, they are easy to take; and being purely vegetable, they are entirely harmless.

L. LAIGHTON, 44 Market Street.

The Chronicle.

A FLORIDA TRAGEDY.—A distressing affair took place in Tallahassee, Fla., a few days ago. Mrs. A. W. Pace, wife of a popular and successful Jacksonville merchant, and a daughter of Mr. George Damon, a prominent merchant in Tallahassee seemed to be suffering from some mental derangement, and thinking a change of scene and surroundings might cure her incipient malady, her husband took her to her parents and friends in Tallahassee. That night, soon after her arrival at her father's house, she called the family around her and prayed and exhorted them to prepare for a great and sad calamity. None had any idea that she was contemplating anything like self-destruction.

The next morning early her father went out to procure a bottle of wine for her, and soon after his departure she took a kerosene lamp or can, and saturing her garments from head to foot, set fire to it, and in a moment was enveloped in the flames. Her husband and others, hearing shrieks, ran to her rescue, and throwing a bucket of water over her, endeavored to extinguish the flames. This proved unavailing, and her husband seizing a blanket, threw it around her, and finally succeeded in putting out the flames, but not until the poor victim was burned to such an extent that she died in a few hours, after the most intense suffering. Mrs. Pace was quite young and had been married about three years. Two years ago she was the happy wife of a devoted husband, whose success in business had placed him in comfortable circumstances.

Chicken Counting.

The National Republican committee estimate that every New England State will increase its majority over what it gave in 1868 for Grant and Colfax. The Republicans of New York declare, as their lowest estimate, that Grant and Wilson will have a majority of 25,000, while some of the shrewdest men in State politics there affirm that Western and Central New York will reach Albany with a Republican majority of from 60,000 to 80,000, and that New York city will not give more than 15,000 Democratic majority. These calculators count confidently upon the Republican majority ranging from 50,000 to 65,000. Pennsylvania will give at least 50,000 majority; New Jersey will range from 10,000 to 12,000 ind Delaware the majority will be very small which ever way it goes. Ohio will add 30,000 majority to the Republican column; Indiana, 10,000; Illinois, 35,000; Michigan 35,000; Wisconsin, 25,000; Minnesota at least 10,0000; Iowa, 60,000; Nebraska, 7000; Kansas, 20,000; Missouri from 15,000 to 20,000; California, 6000; Oregon, 20000, and Nevada about the same.

For the South the question of estimating majorities may be considered a more doubtful process, owing to the fact that terrorism may be organized at any time and seriously affect the details, yet the committee fully rely on the following estimates; North Carolina, 10,000; South Carolina 45,000; Florida, 1500; Alabama, by from 10,0000 to 12,000; Mississippi, 16,000 to 20,000; Louisana, about the same, and Arkansas, probably from 3000 to 50000. We shall make a serious break, too, in the States that we have placed on the Greeley list, with, perhaps, the exception of Texas, from which State reports on the canvass have been but meagre. The total popular majority, taking the lowest figures given would be, if the above proves correct, about 575,000, putting the majority in the New England States at 135,000, on a total of at least six and a half million votes. The popular majority for Grant in 1868 was 309,588.

ANOTHER MISPLACED SWITCH.—An accident very similar in its cause to the late disaster at Seabrook took place on the Boston and Lowell road, which might have resulted as fatally, but for the promptness of one of the employes of the road. At 12.30 P. M. a train loaded with bricks was switched off the inward across the outward track, on to the siding at East Cambridge which connects the Lowell with the Grand Junction road. The man tending the switch, who was a brakeman on the block train, after his train had passed, set the signal target "all right" for through trains to pass on the outward track, but neglected to shift the switch. In consequence of this most culpable piece of stupidity, the outward freight train from Boston, a few moments later, on reaching this place ran over onto the inward track, and then the engine, tender and two forward cars left the track. Fortunately no one was injured, though if it had been a fast passenger train instead of a slow-going freight, it would have probably pitched down the steep embankment and caused more or less loss of life. At this moment the station master at Milk Row, Somerville, which is about an eighth of a mile further out, noticed something wrong on looking down the track towards the scene. As he knew the express train from Lowell was due in five minutes, he lost no time in putting out a red flag, and succeeded in pulling up the train, which generally passes this point at twenty miles an hour. By this prompt action he probably saved many lives, for there was not room to pull up the train going at its usual speed had it passed this point. No damage was done except to the woodwork of the tender and one of the freight cars. Trains ran as usual on the outward track, but inward-bound trains were somewhat delayed.

THE SEABROOK INQUEST.—The coroner's inquest into the cause of the accident at Seabrook closed yesterday. We do not seek to anticipate their verdict. The testimony as published fails to show any inquiry on their part as to whether the switch, the misplacement of which caused the accident, had a light upon it. The absence of affirmative evidence warrants the inference that it had not. We hear of brakes and other improvements, and the public will duly appreciate them all; but the absence of the best attainable switch light was an omission which needs explanation.

With such a light, the engineman of the Pullman train would have known from the first moment it came into sight that it was turned to the siding, and the fault would have been his if the train had not been stopped before reaching it. Will some one who knows inform the public of the facts in regard to switch lights on the Eastern Railroad? There are in use on many roads lights which can be seen on straight lines for miles. When right for the main track the color is green, or white, and when the switch is thrown over for a siding it is red, the color of danger. That should have blazed upon the eye of the engineman on that fatal night, proclaiming his peril all the same whether caused by neglect of the switchman or by the malice of somebody else.

The defence of the Eastern Railroad for having Maine Central cars without Miller platforms and Westinghaus brakes seems to us a good one. That defence is that while the Railroad is compelled by the law of Maine to draw the cars of the Boston and Maine Railroad, which have neither of these safeguards, its managers ought not to be censured in doing the same for the Maine Central. Of course, the purpose of the law was to protect the public against monopoly on the part of the Eastern road; but as it made no provision in regard to the protection of passengers, the Eastern road has no option. The public inquiry now is, when the Boston and Maine Railroad runs such cars, why has it not made its cars as secure against a certain class of accidents as the Eastern? Other Massachusetts roads may yet have occasion to answer the same questions.

This accident enforces again and with fresh emphasis the duty on the part of railway officers of having every security for human life which ingenuity has provided and experience sanctioned. And it will intensify a rising public sentiment which will hold them more and more to rigid accountability whenever they fail in this paramount duty. Clearly, too, it is for the railroad commissioners to keep themselves fully informed in this direction.

While writing as we have, we would do full justice to the Eastern Railroad for its large outlays already made for the public safety. No road in New England has done so much during the last year; and it should have the full benefit of this in the judgment of all fair men.—Boston Advertiser.

The News.

Hon. John A. Griswold of New York died at Troy on the 31st ult. He was the Republican candidate for Governor of New York in 1868.

Among the lost passengers of the burned steamer Missouri was Colonel Albert Evans of San Francisco, an old journalist, for many years editor of the Alta, and author of the book "Our Sister Republic" He accompanied Wm. H. Seward on the latter's Mexican tour. He was the San Francisco agent of the Associated Press, and a man universally popular and extensively known on the Pacific coast.

The Delaware democracy have very generally concluded to abandon Greeley. The O'Conor men confidently claim that their ticket will receive more votes on Tuesday than Greeley.

Both in New York and Boston, instances of human beings being taken sick with the horse disease are reported.

A man named Brown of Jersey City, while leaning out of a window on the Erie express train, westward bound, Monday afternoon, as the train crossed the river at West Paterson, N. J., was struck by the bridge, his brains dashed out and his body thrown into the river.

Martin Devaney, who murdered a man in a drunken quarrel at West Concord, two months ago, has been sentenced to one year's imprisonment, the sentence being made light on account of the provocation and his own failing health.

The jury failed to agree in the case of the chief of police and a detective of Jersey City, on trial for bank robbery. The three burglars who testified against them were sentenced to long terms of imprisonment.

State News.

A Frenchman named Louis Dumas had his skull fractured, left arm broken and ankle dislocated, besides other painful injuries, at Nashua. There is hope of his recovery. A family of five children are depending upon him for support. He was injured by the fall of a derrick.

16,000 ACCIDENTS.—The Travelers, Life and Accident Insurance Company of Hartford, has paid sixteen thousand claims for death or injury by accident, and yet there are thousands of people who honestly think nobody gets hurt. Capt. R. Norton, of Gardiner, Me., who was killed by the late accident on the Eastern Railroad, at Seabrook, was insured for $5,000 under an accident policy in the Travelers' Life and Accident Insurance Company.

Let those who see this cheer up, for a mild and sure cure may be had by using BRIGGS' PILE REMEDIES.

CORNS.—Since pride and fashion have had control of mankind, and shoemakers were compelled to make boots and shoes to fit fancy instead of the feet, the suffering from Corns, Bunions, Ingrowing Nails, Sore Insteps, Blistered Heels, Callosities on the bottom of the feet, &c., cannot be described. THE GREAT HAIR PRODUCER.—Hair Oils, Pomatums and Pomades have had their day. They belong to the musty past. Nobody that understands the chemistry of the hair and the philosophy of its growth thinks of using them. Instead of clogging the pores of the scalp with thick unguents, and thus obstructing the insensible perspiration which is essential to the health of the fibers, we now tone the surface of the head with an invigorating application which penetrates to the roots of the hair and stimulates them in the same way that the fertilizing agents spread over the meadows stimulate the grass roots and cause the blades to spring up in myriads, coating the earth with verdure. The invigorant best adapted to this purpose is Lyon's Kathairon. It may well be called the fertilizer of the head. To the barren scalp it communicates vegetative power. If the hair is dropping out or becoming dry and withered, it arrests the process of dilapidation or blight. The hair thickens and becomes glossy and flexible under its genial operation, and as a dressing it is unapproached by any preparation that has yet been laid on the toilet of Fashion.

PERNICIOUS PURGATIVES.—The brilliant idea of half a century ago that the weak and ailing could be bled, blistered and salivated into a condition of health and vigor is happily exploded; but violent and prolonged purgation is still, to some extent, in vogue. We have impostors who are daring enough to offer to the world, as tonics and restoratives, the most destructive cathartics, unmodified by a single stimulating, soothing or restorative element. Compare the operation of one of these terrible nostrums with that of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, in which are combined the three great curative elements—a tonic, an alterative, and an aperient. The former completely paralyzes the vital forces, of that nature can make no resistance to disease; the latter sustains the strength of the patient, while it restores the suspended functions of the secretory organs and relieves the bowels without violence or pain. It is simply a choice between restoration and prostration.

A POLYGLOT BUSINESS.—The wide-spread influence of American skill and enterprise has outstripped the comprehensions of the Americans themseves. The fabrics of our mills clothe savages of both continents. They wrap the lions of Africa, and the tawny skins of South American pampas. But wider still are spread the products of our skill in medinces. A late visit to Ayer & Co.'s laboratory and office in Lowell, showed us that the whole surface of the habitable globe pays its tribute there: there they cater to and serve in a respectable manner of almost all nations. Their publications are in the many tongues that widely-severed peoples use. Their letters must be read from and written in many tongues, for which there sit a long range of correspondents with this indispensable accomplishment for their duties. Their daily mail of half a bushel of letters brings them advices, orders and remittances from the circle of the world. We were overwhelmed with amazement, and our readers would be by an inspection of this wonderfully extensive, health-dealing enterprise. — Holly Springs (Miss.) Conservative.

PERUVIAN SYRUP

Makes the Weak Strong.

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an ailment, as easily digested and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.

This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building up an Iron Constitution.

Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures to strong, healthy, and happy men and women: and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.

Public Improvements.

Dear Chronicle:—The last Portsmouth Journal, in a very pleasant if not accurate article, which you republished, on our city's needs or capabilities for improvement, says, after alluding to the anonymous pamphlet against the Dover Railroad;—

True, we need a city hall, a public park—for which we have one of the best sites in the world, which an outlay of a part of this sum would convert into a paradise. * * * Speaking in reference to the site which was generously offered some years ago for a park, we understand that its wealthy owner having become impatient at the city's delay in improving upon its offer, has leased said land for a term of thirty years to private individuals. If this be true then some other spot, beautiful for situation, must be secured, and where?—though it is hoped that that public avenue leading to our city of the Dead will be attended to as provided by the will of the late Mrs. Cutts, before anything is done on the park question. * *

Now, without discussing the pamphlet against the proposed Railroad, the author of which seems fully able to speak for himself—I would like to say, that the above praise of the Park grounds, so called, comes with a queer grace from the Journal, that a few years since spoke repeatedly in condemnation and ridicule of the same "paradise," while the CHRONICLE was endeavoring to promote this great improvement. I think the Journal must be mistaken in its statement that Mr. Elwyn has leased the land referred to,—as it certainly is in stating that it was ever offered the City proper — for the land in question was a few years since deeded to five trustees for public use forever as a common or mall, with no limitation of time of "improving" the same. Said trustees consisted of Messrs. Albert L. Jones, A. M. Heyt, T. S. Tredick, H. M. Clark, and F. W. Miller; and had their chairman been as much in earnest as is the President of the P. & D. (not P. & be D.) Railroad, and also had the press as unanimously supported the Park project—it would have been well begun ere this. Mr. Elwyn did give his fine strip of land, and the three owners of the South Pond agreed to give that; but the decided opposition of the Journal helped check the movement—which one of the most enterprising men in the city said to the writer within a month, that he would give a thousand dollars to promote. The plan was for a foot bridge across the pond at the Court House,—(towards which Mr. Austin offered to give a thousand dollars, when he resided near,) and a marginal road around the pond from the Universalist church to the ropewalk,—which was entirely feasible, and highly approved and encouraged by the late W. P. Jones and other prominent citizens, and perhaps may be consummated sometime.

As to the Cutts Avenue or Richards Avenue, being first completed — this might well be done at the same time with the Park or mall, (which latter name the donor of the land prefers,) and this the trustees proposed. But the long delay in the Cutts case has made many a heart sick of the whole thing, though the cause is not generally understood, probably, if it be as I am told because Mr. Elwyn declines to give or sell any land for the widening of said avenue, as proposed, and the doubt whether the Aldermen or County Commissioners have any power to take it merely to widen a road for ornamental purposes. Of course, any plan which would leave such an avenue much less than a hundred feet wide, would be a failure and an abortion; and the only feasible way that I can see is, to continue the new Cutts Avenue around to Rogers Street, for which the owners of the land will grant the same, and the money to do it can be raised by private subscription.

I have thus only attempted to throw out a few hints on this subject—hoping that the Journal will now endeavor to write it up, as it formerly did to write it down. Yours, IMPROVEMENTS.

A Rebuke.

Editors Chronicle:—As a reader of both the daily papers of this city and a spectator of the display in honor of Mr. Greeley and Gratz Brown, on the evening of Oct. 29th, I consider myself qualified to judge understandingly of the merits of the two newspaper accounts of that pageant; and I hope your well known modesty will not take offence when I say I consider your report much the best of the two. But one of your statements grieved me to the heart; you say, "the whole procession could have dressed in rebel uniform, very appropriately." "Rebel uniform," indeed! Gentlemen, your very next issue convicts you of cruelty, for in it you call for the restoration to their once happy homes of two or three hundred little wanderers who had not yet reached home after taking part in the torch-light jubilee; and I saw a woman rush into the middle of the procession at one point, capture one of the little men, who was bearing both a torch and a Chinese lantern, and bear him triumphantly off, illuminators and all, kicking and resisting. How would you like it, if any one was to suggest the dressing-up of your own little ones" in "rebel uniform," just because they took pretty toys offered them, and carried them around town by way of payment? I hope, Messrs. Editors, that political zeal will not again lead you to suggest anything so monstrous as the putting in "rebel uniform" of a throng of juveniles not yet old enough to be emancipated from primers, pinafores and—and spankings! In sorrow, not in anger, I remain, Yours truly, A. NURSE.

[*Should our fair and kindhearted reprover have any more suggestions in this line to offer, we trust she will recognize the propriety of addressing them to one of the publishers of the CHRONICLE, who is a Benedict, both the editors being unmarried men.—Eds. Chronicle.]

City Council.

In Board of Mayor and Aldermen, Thursday evening, the petition of W. N. Ilsley and others that Fleet Street from Lydston's to Congress Street be widened agreeably to records was received. Voted, That petitioners have leave to withdraw.

Petition of Plaisted & Shea for leave to lay concrete sidewalk in Bridge Street at their own expense and the city to pay for it in a certain contingency, was referred to Committee on Streets.

Frank W. Miller's bill of $200 for making Wibird Street, was ordered to be paid.

Committee on Fire Department who were requested to consider the expediency of purchasing one or more Fire Extinguishers, recommended the purchase of two large machines at the price of $800 each. The report was adopted.

Voted: That the Committee on Fire Department be directed to locate the Fire Extinguishers and provide companies.

Voted: That the vote changing the name of Miller's Avenue to Summer Street be reconsidered.

The motion to change the name of Miller's Avenue to Summer Street was laid on the table for one week.

Laconics.

There will be service in St. John's church to-morrow (Sunday) evening at quarter past 7 o'clock.

The horse distemper has got among the horses across the river, many of those belonging to navy yard workmen having been attacked. Mr. Keen, who runs the stage between Kittery and Portsmouth, had to cease running it on Friday.

The good deeds of legislative (and many other) bodies are sometimes quite as apparent in what they leave undone as in what they do. Premising this, we may say that no act of our last State legislature has given better satisfaction to the people of this city than the "letting alone" of Calvin Page, Esq., our able and efficient Police justice. No one was displaced to make room for Mr. Page, the office having become vacant by limitation; before his appointment, though he was an earnest Democrat, he was not objectionable; and from what we have seen in some dozen or more trials before him we are satisfied it would be hard to find a man who can more thoroughly divest himself of personal and political bias on the bench than does Judge Page. When the appointment was first suggested, before the legislature which elected Gov. Weston had met, we wrote, "we throw up our hat for Judge Page." We still throw up our hat for the popular judge, if he is a Democrat,—and it isn't a Greeley hat, either.

The true cause of the horse distemper is at length discovered. It is a base trick of the infamous Republican administration to reduce the Greeleyeratic vote by increasing the difficulty of getting to the polls in those districts where there are "ten gallons of whiskey to one spelling book," and no roads.

The representation of Frost's Allegory and Tableaux of Joseph and His Brethren, on the evenings of Oct. 29 and 30, in the Universalist church at Kittery, resulted in replenishing the church treasury in the sum of about $100. The church was packed both evenings.

The rebel soldier referred to in our issue of Thursday desires us to say that he did not appear in the procession intending insult to the friends of the Union cause during the war—but that he was desirous of showing a disposition to forget past issues, and learning that six Union soldiers recently marched side by side with six rebel soldiers in a procession at New Orleans, he thought it would not be a disagreeable feature of the "liberal" procession were he to march with a colored man and a Union soldier. Furthermore, he was not a secessionist before the war, advocated the election of Bell and Everett in 1860, while residing in Mobile, and since his return to this city has employed (and now employs) workmen of both political parties—not being a bitter partizan.

Under the heading "Portsmouth," the Exeter News-Letter says the dry goods stores on Water Street are to close at 8 o'clock, P. M., this Winter!

On and after Nov. 1 the Post Office will be open from 7:30 A. M., to 7:30 P. M., and on Sundays from 9:30 to 10 o'clock, A. M.

Mr. James D. Butler of Dover met with a painful accident on board his packet at a wharf in this city, Thursday. He slipped and badly shattered his ankle, which was set by Dr. Folsom.

Mr. Hiram C. Locke, who was washed out of his confectionary and fruit store a short time ago, has reopened at his old stand with a new stock of goods and will be pleased to wait upon his old friends and new customers.

John Barry, a boy 16 years old, was before Judge Page on Friday for being engaged in a brawl and assault. He was let off on payment of costs of court, and received from the bench some advice worth much more than the money, if it is only followed.

Quite an excitement was occasioned on Market Street, Friday afternoon, by an attack made upon a five-year-old son of Mr. Wm. Lydston, by a ferocious dog belonging to man named Kelleher. The brute knocked the little fellow over and bit him on the head and face. City Marshal Johnson was soon on the spot and promptly shot the dog.

The Torch-Light Parade

Came off according to the programme announced, although the rain interfered a great deal with the walking and no organizations appeared from Portland, Saco or Biddeford.

At quarter of 7 o'clock the Grant and Wilson Guards went to the Concord depot and escorted Gov. Straw, Ex-Gov. Smyth, Mayor Cheney and Col. Adams, (who were accompanied by their "better halves,") to the Kearsarge House. The Newburyport Tanners, 124 in number, appeared on time and were quartered at the State Street ward room until the arrival of the extra train from Manchester.

As on the occasion of the Greeley parade, the stone-throwers were abroad,—with this difference, that on the former occasion they were in the procession, but this time contented themselves with throwing stones at the ranks. A gang of young Irish rowdies managed to smash quite a number of Chinese lanterns borne by a delegation from Kittery, before the procession was completed; and the Newburyport men had a chance to find out what the Greeleyites mean by "conciliation," while at the State Street ward-room. We are pleased to add that we heard of no men annoying the procession or individuals.

The Manchester train consisted of eight cars,—and about 500 passengers arrived on it at about 9:15. The procession moved on time and the streets were thronged with spectators. The illuminations along the line of march were too numerous to mention—but we particularly noticed the Kearsarge House, the residences of Messrs. John T. French, Plumer D. Norton, Ichabod Goodwin, Chas. A. Shannon, Geo. P. Edny, John H. Bailey, T. E. O. Marvin, J. F. Shores, Samuel Adams, Job Woodsum, Geo. Stott and many others. The CHRONICLE Office was decorated with Chinese and wax lanterns. Fireworks were let off at various points and the enthusiasm was unbounded. Many Democrats contributed to the illuminations. It was nearly one o'clock when the procession reached the lunch tent, hungry and footsore. Ample justice was done the eatables and there was enough left to feed a thousand more. The Newburyport and Manchester organizations returned home well satisfied about half past 2 o'clock. The whole affair was a great success notwithstanding the rain.

Morning Chronicle.

An important paper-credit case has just been decided at Wiscasset, Me., in the supreme judicial court. During the rebellion J. M. Carlton, for the town of Whitefield, bargained with David T. Pike of Augusta to furnish for the town fifteen men to fill the quota demanded by the general government. Pike put in paper men on naval credits and received therefor $5000. The town wanted real men and sued Pike for breach of contract. The jury brought in a verdict for the plaintiff and decided that Pike pay back the money with interest, the whole amounting to about $5500. The case goes up to the law court and its decision is looked forward to with great interest, as it is the first paper-credit case in the State tried by jury, and there are many who were substitute brokers trembling in their shoes.

James McElhaney, who has been on trial for the murder of his wife by shooting her on the 17th of August last at a house in Boston Highlands, has been found guilty of murder in the first degree.

A little daughter of Dr. Carey, of Brooklyn, N. Y., fell from a third-story window and was fatally injured. Mr. Job Cushing, the grandfather of the child, in great excitement ran for a physician, and returning to the house, died.

The Singer

SEWING MACHINE

STILL LEADS THE MARKET.

The Success of the Company is far beyond that of any other similar concern; the

Daily Manufacture

—OF—

400 OF THE SINGERS

Failing to Supply the Constant Demand.

All other machines call the public attention to some new loop or stitch or tension or finish, some advantage in running or needles or feed or prices—and many of these are as we have said very good points, and the agents selling them use them to divert entirely the would-be purchaser from fairly considering the facts in the case; but the

seems to unite the good qualities of all, and is never found wanting.

THE SINGER

IS THE

OLDEST

SEWING MACHINE

IN THE MARKET,

All others being copied from its first model. does two-thirds the sewing done in this country and preserves its advantages over all others combined.

It is readily kept clean, and has THE BEST TENSION EVER INVENTED; it is higher speeded and requires but little power to run; it works equally well upon the finest and heaviest goods; it does all the varieties of work known to the art.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the long-trying climate of New England,

Pulmocine Cordial

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. EVERY FAMILY should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred THROAT DISEASES at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of PREVENTION. Children attacked with Whooping Cough, or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this FAMILY MEDICINE prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human racelies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best PULMONARY CURATIVE he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are WILD CHERRY BARK, SQUILL ROOT, LIQUORICE ROOT, BLOOD ROOT, &c. It is a BLOOD PURIFIER, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary tonic in debilitated. It is a Tonic, and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

For Coughs,

Croup,

Diphtheria,

Asthma, &c.

USE BUCHMAN'S

PULMOCINE CORDIAL.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified, in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents."

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him in preference to any other person, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges. JOHN TAGGART."

AYER'S

SARSAPARILLA

FOR PURIFYING THE BLOOD.

A medicine that cures is a real public blessing. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA makes positive cure of a series of complaints, which are always attended with great labor and pain. It purifies the blood, purges out the lurking humors in the system, which undermine health and settle into troublesome disorders. Eruptions of the skin are the appearance on the surface of humors that should be expelled from the blood. Internal derangements are the determination of these same humors to some internal organ, or organ, whose action they derange, and whose substance they disease and destroy. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA expels these humors from the blood. When they are gone, the disorders they produce disappear, such as Ulcerations of the Liver, Stomach, Kidneys, Lungs, Eruptions and eruptive Diseases of the skin, St. Anthony's Fire, Rose or Erysipelas, Pimples, Pustules, Blotches, Boils, Tumors, Tetter and Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, Ulcers and Sores, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Pain in the Bones, Side, and Head, Female Weakness, Sterility, Leucorrhea arising from internal ulceration and uterine disease, Dropsy, Dyspepsia, Emaciation, and General Debility. With their departure health returns.

AYER'S

CHERRY PECTORAL

For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma and Consumption.

The few compositions, which have won the confidence of mankind and become household words among not only one but many nations, must have extraordinary virtues. Perhaps no one ever secured so wide a reputation or maintained it so long as AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. It has been known to the public about forty years, by a long continued series of marvellous cures, which have won for it a confidence in its virtues, never equalled by any other medicines. It still makes the most effectual cures of Coughs, Colds, Consumption, that can be made by medical skill. Indeed the CHERRY PECTORAL has really robbed these dangerous diseases of their terrors, to a great extent, and given a feeling of immunity from their fatal effects, which is well founded, if the remedy be taken in season. Every family should have it in their closet for the ready and prompt relief of its members. Sickness, suffering, and even life is saved by this timely protection. The prudent should not neglect it, and the wise will not. Keep it by you for the protection it affords in sudden attacks, and by its timely use.

BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOR is composed of Ammonia, Chloroform, Spirits of Camphor, Tincture of Lupuline, Oil of Juniper, and Alcohol. This compound is unequalled in the annals of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling or Twitching of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, heal pimples, cure scaly eruptions, itching, humors, &c.; it equalizes the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the brain, cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. Briggs' Allevantor absolutely possesses more curative properties than any other preparation. Physicians, chemists, and others are requested to examine and test the remedy, and $1000 will be paid if found different from representation.

COUGHS, Much has been said and written, and many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases; but nothing has been so eminently successful, or obtained such a wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.

CORNS! The excruciating pain produced by Corns, the unceasing twinging from Bunions, the piercing, distressing pain from Ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, not knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies are no acid or potash compounds, but are reliable, soothing, and effectual, and just merit the success they have earned from an appreciative public. The Curative is a healing ointment; immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it will positively cure the worst cases of Festered Corns, Inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the sorest instep, the largest and severest Blisters, the most extensive Callosities on the soles or heels of the feet, unequalled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Allevantor for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unexcelled by anything ever known.

PILES have been a terror to mankind for centuries, and almost every attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr. Briggs has discovered an absolutely cure for internal, bleeding, external, and itching piles. Briggs' Pile Remedies are mild, safe and sure.

Costiveness, Jaundice, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Dysentery, Foul Stomach, Erysipelas, Headache, Piles, Rheumatism, Eruptions and Skin Diseases, Biliousness, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Tetter, Tumors and Salt Rheum, Worms, Gout, Neuralgia, as a Dinner Pill, and Purifying the Blood,

Are the most concentrated purgative yet perfected. Their effects abundantly show how much they excel all other Pills. They are safe and pleasant to take, but powerful to cure. They purge out the foul humors of the blood; they stimulate the sluggish or disordered organ into action, and they impart health and tone to the whole being. They cure not only the every-day complaints of every body, but formidable and dangerous diseases. Most eminent clergymen, most skillful physicians, and our best citizens send certificates of cures performed and of great benefits they have derived from these Pills. They are the safest and best physic for children, because mild as well as effectual. Being sugar coated, they are easy to take; and being purely vegetable, they are entirely harmless.

A MAN FALLS FROM A BURNING BALLOON.—The De Kalb (Ill.) News gives the following account of the death of a man by falling from a balloon:

Mr. Dennison, the aeronaut, who advertised that Mr. L. Durham would make an ascension at this place, was inflating his monster balloon, "City of New-York," and had nearly completed the inflating process, when people on the north part of the grounds discovered smoke escaping from the top of the balloon. It was scarcely visible at first, but faster and faster emitted the smoke, and the alarm was given, but hardly had the defection in the air-ship become apparent, before flames were issuing from the very top of the balloon. Quickly the shout went up, "The balloon is on fire!" and as those near by began to retreat, the horses were also driven here and there to escape all danger. The dry cambric and its covering began burning, first slowly, then the flames spread, and upward and onward went the fire, a premonition by this time overtaking the spectators—every one present feeling that some fearful if not fatal calamity would result. Scarcely had the flames burst out, however, before an aperture of two or three feet was made—where the guy-rope holding the unwieldy thing crossed it—and the rope burned off and away to the southward shot the balloon carrying with it in its course Mr. Michael McMann, a laborer assisting in the inflation. Being near the basket as it started off he became entangled, and hanging with one foot inside the basket—his hands holding to the ropes—he thus ascended for perhaps 100 feet, and regained a position in the basket, which again hung sideways, and in another minute he was hanging to the ropes alone at a height of probably not less than 300 feet. Now his strength gave way, his presence of mind deserted him, and in another moment the poor man is seen falling to the earth, filling with horror and consternation the 400 or 500 spectators on the grounds. He descended to the earth nearly in a standing position from 300 feet in mid-air, until, when near terra firma, he fell backward, striking the ground with his back with such force as to produce a concussion heard some distance away. He was utterly crushed, the blood streaming from his mouth and nostrils. McMann left a wife and several children, who depended upon his labors for a living. The balloon alighted but a few rods outside of the fair grounds, and was soon consumed.

HOW THEY SHAVE IN CHINA.—A fellow who has been shaved in China says that his barber first stropped the razor on his leg, and then did the shaving without any lather. The customer remonstrated, but was told that the lather was entirely useless, had a tendency to make the hair stiff and tough, and was, therefore, never used by persons who had any knowledge of the face and its appendages.

After the beard had been taken off—and it was done in a very short time—the barber took a long, sharp, needle-shaped spoon, and began to explore his customer's ears. He brought up from numerous little crevices bits of wax and dirt, that had been accumulating since his childhood. The barber suddenly twisted his subject's neck to one side in such a manner that it cracked as if the vertebræ had been dislocated.

"Hold on!" shouted the party, alarmed for the safety of his neck.

"All right," replied the tonsor, "me no hurt you," and he continued to jerk and twist the neck until it was as limber as an old lady's dish-rag. He then fell to beating the back, breast, arms, and sides with his fists; then he pummeled the muscles until they fairly glowed with the beating they received. He then dashed a bucket of cold water over his man, dried his skin with towels, and declared that his work was done. Price two cents.

—A few evenings ago, a San Francisco gentleman who occupies a room on the lower floor, and opening on a balcony, retired to rest leaving one of the windows open. A few hours afterwards he was awakened by a rustling noise outside the window. Creeping cautiously out of bed, he armed himself with a heavy hair-brush from the dressing-table, and stationed himself by the window to watch developments. Soon he perceived in the dim light a hand resting on and pressing the window down. The watcher swung his hair-brush, and brought it down with a will on the intrusive fingers. A yell and a curse followed the blow, and a fellow-lodger and intimate friend of the watcher leaped into the room. He had forgotten his night-key, and he thought he would get in his friend's window without disturbing the other lodgers. He now has a broad strip of plaster on his knuckles, from the effective hair-brush.

The Canvass.

From the Republican State committee, who are by no means idle, we learn the following facts, and everybody knows that our canvasses are not fictitious, but have real, substantial bases, and have never, with but one exception, exceeded the real vote. More than usual care has been exercised this year.

The committee say the returns from 294 towns, give the following figures:

For Grant	29,0 0
For Greeley	25,1 3
Grant over Greeley	4 57

In the same towns there are returned for

O'Conor	808
Doubtful	2237
Grant over all	1462

The canvass shows much better than last March when we had 1000 clean majority, and more than 2000 over the Democratic ticket.

The committee think we shall have 3000 majority. Roll up the record; give us 5000. Let us feel that this is the last battle. Whip them good and they will not rise again.

The Public Debt

Was decreased $5,228,417.32 last month. Total decrease under President Grant's administration, $363,696,999.87. Debt, less cash in the Treasury, $2,161,766,260.14.

The News.

A woman residing in Charlestown, Mass., who is badly affected with the small-pox, while crazed by the disease jumped from the chamber window to the sidewalk, and there remained for some time, the policemen and all others keeping at a respectful distance, and no one could be found who was gallant enough to pick her up, but the police sent for a person who had had the disease to come to her assistance.

The first railroad to attempt to run cheap trains is the Eastern. The experiment will begin on Monday, a train leaving Lynn at 5:35 A. M. and Boston 6:25 P. M. Twenty tickets will be sold for a dollar. Ten miles for five cents is the cheapest railroading ever known in America.

Intelligence from the Polar expedition states that new and valuable explorations and discoveries have been made. It is found that what were formerly regarded as separate islands in the Polar Sea comprise one large area of land abounding in birds, seals and reindeer. A full report of all the discoveries will soon be given to the public.

The River Po continues to rise and the inundation is spreading. Families are flying, and those who cannot escape are starving on house-tops and in the trees, where they have taken refuge. The streams are filled with the carcasses of cattle and wrecks of houses and barns. The town of Reggio, 14 miles from Modena, has almost entirely disappeared beneath the flood.

—A window full of pot plants suddenly descended into the street, Monday morning, filling the back, bosom and hair of an elderly party with bulbs, earth, thorns and hair pins. As soon as he recovered his speech he stated that he was a pilgrim and a stranger, but he'd be—if he couldn't lick the man who touched off that powder.—Danbury News.

Thanksgiving Proclamation.

The passing harvest season again reminds us of the pious and praiseworthy custom of our Fathers, of marking it, close by a day of Thank-giving and praise to God. In honored observance of this usage, and in accordance with the recommendation of the President of the United States, I do, with the advice of Council, appoint Thursday, the twenty-eighth day of November next, as a day of thanksgiving and praise to be observed throughout this State, and I recommend that on that day the people assemble in their respective places of worship and make humble acknowledgement to God of their entire dependence upon Him, and render thanks for his many mercies and great blessings vouchsafed to us during the past year, especially for the blessings of peace and plenty in the land; the maintenance of civil and religious liberty and equality; the perpetuation of our free Government and the union of the States, and for the general health and prosperity of our people. Let us, while thanking Him for His great kindness and generous gifts, remember, as His almoner, to relieve the necessities of the poor, who are always with us.

Given at the Council Chamber, in Concord, this twenty-fourth day of October, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventy-two, and of the independence of the United States, the ninety-seventh.

JOHN'S FUNERAL.—The unique ceremonies of a Chinese funeral were performed on the grounds adjoining Capt. Harvey's Laundry at Belleville, N. J., recently. The dead man was one Li Chow Chin, a recently imported washerman, who fell a victim to the severity of our climate. His latter days were passed in profound communion with an ugly wooden god, to which he remained desperately loyal in spite of the most zealous efforts of a Christian minister to redeem Li Chow Chin from heathenism. As he lived he died, and his burial was attended by 220 Chinese, the total number of Captain Harvey's washermen Dressed as usual in wooden shoes, flabby pantaloons, loose shirts and far extending pig-tails, they assembled in the spacious ironing room of the laundry, and in their manner were silent and demure while awaiting the removal of their departed brother. When all was ready, they moved gravely and like a religious order of Chinamen down to their countryman's grave in the field below. They surrounded the grave and each threw a piece of lighted paper upon the corpse when it was laid to rest. From this funeral pile rose a dence volume of smoke and the spirit of Li Chow Chin was believed by his brothers to have ascended therein to the clouds. As the clay was being heaped upon the Chinese corpse, little sticks and pieces of nickel currency were mingled with it, and money was distributed among the strangers who came to witness the ceremony. After the funeral the Chinamen's supper-bell rang, and they repaired uproariously to their chopsticks and unseasoned tea and rice.

—During the recent firemen's parade at Titusville, the streets, windows and house tops were crowded with people. To swell his weekly wealth, Leonard, of the Press, lowered his ears half-way, supporting the outer margins by trusses, and rented standing room on the living platform at a nickel a stand. Fortunately there were no Louisville renters, and the structure remained firm.—Nebraska Chronicle.

—A Danbury boy whose imagination had become diseased by too close devotion to dime novels, started off recently to seek fame as a slayer of bears and Indians. LAUGHING BILL.—William Bennett, known as Laughing Bill the champion laugher of the United States, is visiting New York city. A reporter was introduced to him, and obtained from him the following facts in regard to his laughing propensities and his wonderful ability as a laughist generally. Laughing Bill hails from Philadelphia, where he was born in 1827. He is a stout, thick set man, with a jolly round face, fair complexion, ruddy cheeks, and blue eyes. He is five feet six inches in height, forty-two inches around the waist, and weighs two hundred pounds.

It is natural for Laughing Bill to laugh and be jolly as it is for some men to be solemn and melancholy. If his hair was white and his beard frosted, he would be the very personification of Santa Claus, as he is represented every Christmas to the admiring gaze of millions of children all over Christendom.

In Philadelphia, there is scarcely a man, woman or child but knows Laughing Bill.

"The first time," said he, "that I was brought into public attention in Philadelphia was in 1863. It was the evening of the day of election for State officers. Andrew G. Curtin was the Republican candidate, and Henry D. Foster, the Democratic candidate. Chesnut street was thronged with thousands of people to learn what the election returns were from the State. As soon as the result was definitely determined, and it was known that Curtin was elected, I commenced laughing, moving at the same time through the immense crowd up Chesnut street, laughing in my loudest and most exultant tones. My voice could be heard three squares in the clear night air. My laugh was infectious, as you know," appealing to the reporter, "a good square honest laugh always is. Well, sir, by George, it wasn't more than a minute and a half before at least three thousand people were laughing as they never laughed before. It amused me to hear the various tones of the laughers, which supplied me with additional stimulus to keep up and prolong the period of enjoyment. All the various degrees of a laugh, from the coarse and loud guffaw to the quick and spasmodic cackle, could be heard. What added to my enjoyment of the occasion was that I knew that the crowd did not know what they were laughing at, but only laughed because others did. This was something unprecedented in Philadelphia, or indeed anywhere else under similar circumstances. It was the talk of the whole city the next day. The Age, a Democratic newspaper, in an article upon the result of the election, referred to the laughing of the crowd; and called me a 'laughing lunatic,' and said that the people who were induced by me to laugh in that absurd manner were a set of fools."

Here the scene and the occasion seemed to come in their full force upon Laughing Bill, and he indulged in a brief cachination. It was the first time the reporter had an opportunity of judging what a splendid laugher he is. He laughed all over. His whole body seemed to join in it, and yet there was no apparent effort used by him. It bubbled up naturally and musically as the notes of song issue from the mouth of a prima donna.

"One day," continued Laughing Bill, "some few years ago, I arrived at Chambersburg, Pa. You must know I'm a stove drummer for a Philadelphia manufactury, and travel a great deal. I had heard there was a great laugher in Chambersburg, and therefore thought I should like to meet him. By George, as I entered the National Hotel I encountered him. I am sorry I can't give his name. I knew it was the fellow because he was laughing at the time, and because there was a certain ring in it which proved to me that he was a genuine laugher, and that there could not be two such laughers residing in the same town. I determined to tackle him then and there. I felt my reputation was at stake. I don't say this in a spirit of egotism, but I determined to crush him. Without waiting to enquire what the fun was I began. I had not laughed more than five seconds before I could see that the fellow knew he had met his superior. Pretty soon he showed signs of exhaustion. He began to get out of breath, and at last quit entirely and withdrew into the clothes room. I continued laughing as if I knew all about what had occasioned the hilarity. The other persons in the room laughed at his discomfiture, and called upon him to come forth and try it again. He did reappear and began laughing again. I continued to laugh as I had during the whole time I had been there; but he soon broke down, and gave up beaten. He was a good laugher, though, the best I ever struck.

"Do you ever go to the theatres or other places of amusement, and laugh there?" inquired the reporter.

"Oh, yes," answered Bill, "and I must tell you about that. Why, sir, in Philadelphia the doorkeepers at the theatres, negro minstrel places and variety shows, all have orders not to let me in unless I promise not to laugh at the performance. A funny incident occured one night at Fox's while I was there. I had been as sober as a judge for about half an hour, for there was nothing to laugh at, when a French dancing woman appeared on the stage and began cavorting up and down. I began to laugh. The whole audience joined me. 'That's Laughing Bill!' they exclaimed. The French dancing stopped dancing and gazed at me and at the audience in mute astonishment. I then stopped laughing, and she resumed her dance. The moment she did so I again began laughing. Of course there was nothing to laugh at; but I did it out of pure mischief. She stopped dancing again, and I stopped laughing. Again she began, and I began. At last she left the stage with an indignant toss of her head and a most expressive shrug of her pretty shoulders, about as mad a woman as you ever saw."

"Didn't an officer of the theatre speak to you about your conduct?" asked the reporter.

"Yes," Bill replied, "and I promised him I would not laugh any more; but the audience continued to laugh more or less, until the performance was over."

Reporter—Have you ever laughed while visiting the theatres of any other city?

Laughing Bill—No, I usually refrain from indulging in my mirth, at least I do not laugh very loudly, because I do not wish to make myself so notorious as that. It would attract too much attention to myself and injure me, perhaps, in a business point of view. In Philadelphia I am at home, and where everybody knows me, and where I feel I can do pretty much as I please.

In conclusion, Laughing Bill said he was ready to laugh against any man in the United States from one hundred to five hundred dollars a side.

The reporter then cordially shook Laughing Bill by the hand, for no one could be anything else but cordial with so amiable a man; thanked him and bid him good-bye.

THE GREAT HAIR PRODUCER. — Hair Oils, Pomatums and Pomades have had their day. They belong to the musty past. Nobody that understands the chemistry of the hair and the philosophy of its growth thinks of using them. Instead of clogging the pores of the scalp with thick unguents, and thus obstructing the insensible perspiration which is essential to the health of the fibers, we now tone the suface of the head with an invigorating application which penetrates to the roots of the hair and stimulates them in the same way that the fertilizing agents spread over the meadows stimulate the grass roots and cause the blades to spring up in myriads, coating the earth with verdure. The invigorant best adapted to this purpose is Lyon's Kathairon. It may well be called the fertilizer of the head. To the barren scalp it communicates vegetative power. If the hair is dropping out or becoming dry and withered, it arrests the process of dilapidation or blight. The hair thickens and becomes glossy and flexible under its genial operation, and as a dressing it is unapproached by any preparation that has yet been laid on the toilet of Fashion.

GRAND ARTISTIC

Promenade Exhibition!

MR. T. P. MOSES is fast completing his gallery of Oil Paintings and decorations, and will open for visitors on MONDAY evening, November 11, in the spacious rooms at No. 13 Exchange Buildings, (first floor, up stairs,) opposite the Post Office,—to continue every day and evening (Sundays excepted) until his PIANO and over thirty well-finished OIL PAINTINGS are disposed of at One Dollar a Share. Mr. M. designs to make this Exhibition the most beautiful and social resort ever presented in Portsmouth. All the paintings, tinsel-work decorations, etc., are of his own production; and he hopes the Gallery will elicit the interest of thousands of visitors during its continuance. The blessing of pleasant recollections will reward each visitor if he should not be the recipient of a tangible and valuable award at the grand Finale. Mr. M. hopes all the children of the city will attend during the Exhibition on Wednesday and Saturday afternoons—the show will please them and impress them with delightful dreams and help to elevate their taste and imagination. There will be no bitterness in the memory of this charming and refining scene. Programmes will be in free circulation, with the catalogue of paintings and further particulars.

Tickets of admission, 25cts.; children under 14 years, 15 cts.; Season tickets, admitting the purchasers at all times to the Gallery, and having an interest according to their numbers, in the awards to be made after all the tickets are sold, $1. Tickets can be procured at the usual places, at the Bookstore of Messrs. Buzzell & Son, and at the Exhibition Hall.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

Laconics.

Saturday was just the nicest kind of a day. Now for the Indian summer.—P. S. Sunday was one of the meanest days of the year. It rained.

If you have a good thing, advertise. If you haven't, don't.

Mr. Walter A. Hoyt has sold his Hair Dressing business to Mr. John F. Leverton, who with increased facilities will continue the business at the Franklin House rooms. Uncleanly citizens who realize the moral excellence which soap and water evolves will find the best opportunities of proving that cleanliness is next to Godliness, at Mr. Leverton's bath rooms, where the kindest attentions are paid to the comfort of patrons.

The Humane Society will hold the first meeting at Mrs Lyman's, on Tuesday, Nov. 5th.

Electric signals having been placed along the line of the railway from Portland to Boston, via Eastern road, a reward of $100 will be paid for the apprehension of any one caught tampering with said signals.

Gov. Straw and Ex-Gov. Fred Smyth were heard to express the opinion, on the occasion of their recent visit to this city, that there is no finer and no better-kept hotel in New England than the Rockingham House. We do not imagine any one in Portsmouth will dissent from their opinion.

When the place that now knows silly Billy shall know him no more, there will be mourning in Greece and utter wretchedness in Dublin. The addle-pated little sap had his expectations raised and dreamed o'nights that on Friday night he should see 5000 torches in the Republican procession. Imagine his supreme disgust at seeing less than 1000 and then getting no chance at the victuals!

Hereafter the first train for Boston will leave this city at 7.05 instead of 6.15.

By order of the Secretary of the Treasury, Inspector Payne Durkee is transferred from the Portsmouth Custom House to Boston, and Inspector William O. Sides of this city is transferred from the Boston Custom House to similar duty here.

Mr. Geo. W. Peirce, who owns the tent in which the collation was served to the Republican procession, Friday evening, says that 800 persons in uniform partook of the collation. Mr. Peirce is a Democrat.

Work on the Navy Yard will be suspended at noon, to-morrow, to give all employees an opportunity to vote. No deduction is to be made from their pay.

The Eastern Railroad Company has adopted the Bailey ticket system, by which each station has a distinctively marked ticket, which facilitates the labors of conductors very much.

Verdict of the Coroner's Jury.

On Saturday, the Jury of Inquest, Messrs. J. Horace Kent, Emery Brown and Robert Collins, agreed on a verdict as follows:—

"That Robert Norton came to his death by a concussion or shock of the brain caused by a blow, or striking his head against some hard substance while a passenger in one of the cars of the Pullman train running between Bangor and Boston over the Eastern Railroad on the morning of the 22d of October, in the year of our Lord 1872; said blow or striking being caused by a collision of the Pullman train and the local freight train, both going west, and that said collision was occasioned by the wrong position of the switch at the east end of the long turnout at the Seabrook station, and after the Bangor freight train had passed toward Boston; that this switch was misplaced after the passing of the said Bangor freight train by some person or persons to the jurors unknown; and they further find that it was not proved that the Eastern Railroad Corporation neglected any duty in regard to said switch, or in running either of the trains which came in collision."

The verdict is approved by the Coroner. We do not see that any different conclusion could have been reached with the testimony given.

ART GALLERY.—To the citizens of Portsmouth: As a native born citizen I beg to call your attention to the advertisement of another native born citizen of Portsmouth who has more tact and talent in the fine arts and imitations of nature, than any one man I ever met with. It is said that a prophet has no honor in his own country, but when the works of T. P. Moses are seen and justly criticised, and fully appreciated then his own town's people will be compelled to say, how beautiful are the works of this man Moses, how gifted in painting, poetry and music, how natural are his birds and his flowers, and how elegant are all of his own devices and designs, and imitations of nature. If Mr. Moses had have had the advantages of travel and culture which has made Rubens, Van Dyke, Michael Angelo, Titian, and other immortals so famous in history, he too would have his name famed and immortalized as a painter, poet, architect and master of music, a man of genius and indefatigable industry. I have known him to paint 20 hours out of 24 many a time and seldom does he take more than six hours rest from his daily and nightly labors. His name should be honored for his work's sake. What he has done for his benefit of our own population in his time, the young ladies of musical talents, as well as their parents can testify. The old Temple speaks of his fame in the only decorations it has, and the floral concerts echoing name as a man of genius. Although not so meek as the Moses of old, he is nevertheless as deserving the patronage of the public. He will not lead his followers through the wilderness of Canaan, but through the flowery fields of Paradise, and inspire their minds with everything beautiful in nature and art, and lead on and on to the hights of his own imaginations, as portrayed on that beautiful square signboard of his, surmounted with harp and lyre, and under all the plain words in golden letters of Thomas P. Moses, music teacher. J. M. H.

—A white colt is nearly as much of a rara avis as a white blackbird or crow; and notwithstanding white horses are so common, few persons have ever seen a colt of this color, or rather without color. Colts usually change color, by shedding their coats, within their first year; and most of those that are afterwards white or gray, are nearly black at birth. But Mr. Frank W. Miller, of this city, has a mare colt a few months old, a recent purchase, that was almost milk white at first, and is now turning buckskin color. This little fellow, with another black one, attract much attention, as seen in their paddock at "Lincoln Hill."

The Northwood Murder.

The mystery concerning the disappearance of Georgia Lovering of Northwood, a girl thirteen years of age, has been partially solved, and the tragedy is an awful one. She was last seen in company with F. B. Evans, a man some sixty years of age, who said that he got Miss Lovering to tend his snares in the woods. Since that day the girl has not been seen alive. Her absence caused great anxiety to her relatives and friends. Hundreds of people searched the woods for her, and near a fence traces of her were discovered in the shape of pieces of her dress, some of her hair and her broken comb. This led to the arrest of Evans by Sheriff Drew. So firm was the belief of the citizens that Evans had outraged the girl and then murdered her that they came near lynching him. Evans was reticent until Friday night, when he acknowledged the crime, or at least took the sheriff and ten or more persons to a wild spot in the woods, and there under an old stump showed them the mutilated body of the girl.

Portsmouth and Dover Railroad.

"Sidney" of the Boston Journal, sends that paper the details of the projected construction of the Portsmouth and Dover Railroad. The length of road between depots will be 11.38 miles; total rise going north, 106.6 feet; total rise going south, 46.70 feet; maximum grade, 45 feet per mile; length maximum grade, 2000 feet.

The bridge across the Piscataqua river at the Point will be a double one, (railway and public road,) and built on piles, strong and substantial, with the public carriage way alongside the railroad section. The length of the bridge will be 2081 feet. The bottom in which the piles are to be driven is pronounced by the engineer as very superior and favorable for a very strong structure. The length of the piles will be about 60 feet. The bridge will cost $100,000. The railroad managers have chosen pile instead of pier because the former can withstand the action of the tides better, as the Boston and other bridges have proved, having less resisting surface.

The route of the road, starting from Noble's Island, is over a pile bridge to Freeman's Point and through a little valley where the excavations and fill will be small. The route is near the river and passes through the lands of Frank Jones,. Mark H. Wentworth, Charles Lamprey, George de Rochemont, Clement Huntress, R. Pickering, L. de Rochemont, S. Paul, Mr. Kingsbury and others, to the land of Mrs. Rollins and Joseph Whidden, when the bridge crosses to Dover Point. From thence the route is along Bellamy river, by Sawyer's Mills. It enters Dover across the corner of the county jail lot and passes through the city, crossing the Cocheco river at what is called "The Point." The proposed site of the depot in Dover is near the Boston & Maine track, in the vicinity of Chestnut street, on First and Second streets.

Bids for construction of the road are to be received at the office of the corporation in the Rockingham House. The cost of the superstructure per mile is estimated at $10,436.35, of which $7756.32 is for track iron, $860.03 for fish-bars, bolts, nuts, spikes, &c., $1820 for sleepers, and $500 for labor.

By this Dover link in the Eastern railroad chain, the latter will obtain even a shorter and better line to Conway and upper New Hampshire and Vermont than at present. Dover will secure a competing route to Boston and thus open up to enlarged and new business and manufactures the valuable sites with which the city abounds, and in many ways thereby benefitting the place. The Concord and Dover road will add still more largely to these advantages and make a grand railroad junction. By the Portsmouth and Dover and the Concord and Dover roads Portsmouth will gain thirteen miles over its present New Market route and this section of New Hampshire will be grandly improved and prospered.

The Lake Shore will open up Montpelier, Rouse's Point and upper New York, the West and the Canadas, and render the commerce of Portsmouth, imports and exports, extensively enlarged for the benefit not only of local interests between Portsmouth and Meredith, but of all the above named connecting points.

All other machines call the public attention to some new loop or stitch or tension or finish, some advantage in running or needles or feed or prices—and many of these are as we have said very good points, and the agents selling them use them to divert entirely the would-be purchaser from fairly considering the facts in the case; but the

AYER'S HAIR VIGOR

FOR RESTORING GRAY HAIR

TO ITS NATURAL VITALITY AND COLOR.

Advancing years, sickness, care, disappointment, and hereditary predisposition, all turn the hair gray; either of them disposes to fall off prematurely, and either effect is unsightly and unpleasant to behold. DR. AYER'S consummate skill has produced an antidote for these deformities, which has won gratitude for him from multitudes of men and women. His HAIR VIGOR sometimes reproduces lost hair; and always restores to faded and gray hair its natural color, with the glose and freshness of youth. The comparatively few bald and gray heads, that we now see, are those who have not yet discovered the virtues of AYER'S HAIR VIGOR for renewing the hair. The fresh and youthful hair we see on older heads is often the product of his art. If you are disfigured, or made old, austere and ugly, by gray hair, restore its youthful color, and with your features to their original softness and agreeable expression.

As an elegant dressing for beautifying the Hair, it has no superior.

OYSTERS.—The English and French are taking kindly to the Chesapeake oysters, and Norfolk is a large business in that line. One firm is forwarding at the rate of 1200 barrels per month, principally to France. Another is shipping at the rate of about 1000 per month to Liverpool. At present they go forward by New York, thence to destination by steamer. When the Allen weekly line plies, the traffic will increase. The new trade already gives an impulse to oyster raising. The oyster "spot," as soon as it is free, assumes the most active state of life and motion, dancing and gyrating up and down in concentric columns as midgets play in the evening sunbeams. A microscope shows how exquisitely these little fellows are fashioned. A pair of tiny shells, the counterpart of those of the mature oyster, inclose the yet rudimentary organs, while affixed to the mantle is a kind of tiny coronet, composed of minute, hair-like appendages (cilia). The violent and ceaseless vibration of these living paddles serves to row the infant oyster rapidly from the place. Should it become the destiny of one of these fragile beings to become a steady, well behaved oyster, it finally, settles itself on some suitable resting-place to which it makes itself fast—no one ever clearly knows how—by the valve or shell. The bristle-like oars or cilia, no longer of any utility, disappear, and now, a permanent fixture, the baby oyster begings to grow. At about a fortnight old it is not much bigger than a fair-sized pin's head, and at three months about that of a split pea. Having attained a year's growth, under favorable conditions, the young oyster will become as big as an ordinary half-penny; while at four years' growth, they are considered marketable.—Harrisburg State Journal.

THORN IN THE FLESH.—Sixty-one years ago Mr. William Wirtman, a well-known citizen of Bath county—he then being quite a young man—ran a thorn in his foot below the ankle, from which he suffered considerably. As it went deep, the attempt of the physicians to extract it caused him excruciating pain, so much so that it was deemed best to desist from farther attempt for fear that lockjaw might ensue. The thorn remained in the foot, and in the course of time the wound made by it healed up. The pain ceased, and after that he experienced no inconvenience from walking on the foot. Time passed on, and he thought no more of the matter until last week; when feeling an itching in the leg just below the knee, he scratched the part, the skin loosened, and, to his surprise, to his surprise, a dark speck was visible. He caught hold of it with his thumb and forefinger, and pulling at it, out came the thorn! It had been imbedded sixty-one years, and had made its way that far up his leg, coming out at the side opposite to that which it entered. And we will add that the thorn, when it came out, was as sound as when it went in. All the above is strictly true, as our informant is a trustworthy gentleman, who received the information direct from Mr. Wirtman.—Carlisle (Ky.) Mercury.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England,

Pulmocine Cordial

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. EVERY FAMILY should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred THROAT DISEASES at all times prevalent, it is the choice of PREVENTION. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and misery. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this FAMILY MEDICINE prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMONCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling of the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best PULMONARY CURATIVE he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are WILD CHERRY BARK, MANDRAKE ROOT, LIQUORICE ROOT, BLOOD ROOT, &c. It is BLOOD PURIFIER, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is emollic and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic, and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

For Coughs, Croup, Diphtheria, Asthma, &c.

USE BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Its best ingredients are those as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified, in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in declaring my conviction that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents."

"Mr. R. H. Eddy has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend all inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA FOR PURIFYING THE BLOOD.

A medicine that cures is a real public blessing. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA makes positive cure of a series of complaints, which are always afflicting mankind, and which baffle all remedies the blood, purges put the lurking humors in the system, which undermine health and settle into troublesome disorders. Eruptions of the skin are the appearance on the surface of humors that should be expelled from the blood. Internal derangements are the determination of these same humors to some internal organ, or organs, whose action they derange, and whose substance they disease and destroy. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA expels these humors from the blood. When they are gone, the disorders they produce disappear, such as Ulcerations of the Liver, Stomach, Kidneys, Lungs, Eruptions and Eruptive Diseases of the skin, St. Anthony's Fire, Rose or Erysipelas, Pimples, Pustules, Blotches, Boils, Tumors, Tetter and Scald Head, Ringworm, Ulcers and Sores, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Pain in the Bones, Side, and Head, Female Weakness, Sterility, Leucorrhea and arising from interal ulceration and uterine disease, Dropsy, Dyspepsia, Emaciation, and General Debility. With their departure health returns.

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL

For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma and Consumption.

The few compositions, which have won the confidence of mankind and become household words among not only one but many nations, must have extraordinary virtues. Perhaps no one ever secured so wide a reputation or maintained it so long as AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. It has been known to the public about forty years, by a long continued series of marvellous cures which have won for it a confidence in its virtues, never equalled by any other medicines. It still makes the most effectual cures of Coughs, Colds, Consumption, that can be made by medical skill. Indeed the CHERRY PECTORAL has really robbed these dangerous diseases of their terrors, to a great extent, and given a feeling of immunity from their fatal effects, which is well founded, if the remedy be taken in season. Every family should have it in their closet for the ready and prompt relief of its members. Sickness, suffering, and early life is saved by this timely protection. The prudent should not neglect it, and the wise will not. Keep it by you for the protection it affords in sudden attacks, and by its timely use.

AYER'S HAIR VIGOR

FOR RESTORING GRAY HAIR

TO ITS NATURAL VITALITY AND COLOR.

Advancing years, sickness, care, disappointment, and hereditary predisposition, all turn the hair gray; either of them dispoes to fall off prematurely, and either effect is unsightly and unpleasant to behold. DR. AYER'S consummate skill has produced an antidote for these deformities, which has won gratitude for him from multitudes of men and women. His HAIR VIGOR sometimes reproduces lost hair; and always restores to faded and gray hair its natural color, with the gloss and freshness of youth. The comparatively few bald and gray heads, that we now see, are those who have not yet discovered the virtues of AYER'S HAIR VIGOR for renewing the hair. The fresh and youthful hair we see on older heads is often the product of his art. If you are disfigured, or made old, austere and ugly by gray hair, restore its youthful color, and with your features to their original softness and agreeable expression.

As an elegant dressing for beautifying the Hair, it has no superior.

COUGHS. Much has been said and written, and many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases; but nothing has been so eminently successful, or obtained such a wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.

CORNS! The excruciating pain produced by Corns, the uncessing twinging from Bunions, the piercing, distressing pain from Ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, not knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies are no acid or potash compounds, but are reliable, soothing, and effectual, and just merit the success they have earned from an appreciative public. The Curative is a healing ointment; immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it will positively cure the worst cases of Festered Corns, Inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the sorest instep, the largest and severest Blisters, the most extensive Callosities on the soles or heels of the feet, unequalled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Allevantor for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unexcelled by anything ever known.

PILES have been a terror to mankind for centuries, and almost every attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr. Briggs has discovered an absolutely cure for internal, bleeding, external, and itching piles! Briggs' Pile Remedies are mild, safe and sure.

LAST MONTH.—It is October. The woods are all one flash of flame. The maple trees go pranked in gay gauds. Crimson nods to scarlet, and orange to the new Bismarck. Gold comes down in showers, and the heavens are all lapis lazuli.

The Northwood Murder.

The Boston Journal's reporter visited Northwood on Saturday and we copy from his account further details of the fearful tragedy:—

Georgianna Lovering was born in Northwood, and was in the fourteenth year of her age. Her father was a soldier in the Eighth New Hampshire Regiment in the rebellion war, returning home from service sick and dying soon afterward. The family had been located at their present place two years. Their means are quite limited, consisting mainly of a government pension and the income from the mother's labor. Georgianna was an only child, and was the idol of her mother, the pride of her grandparents, and the beloved companion of her cousin. She was a bright, pretty and affectionate girl. Her form was well developed, her hair and eyes dark, and her countenance beamed with youthful life and buoyancy. She was in truth the sunlight of the household. Notwithstanding the slender income of the family, the mother took pride in dressing Georgie tastily and in sending her to school. Her teachers bear ample testimony to her excellent scholarship. Outside of her home the girl was a favorite with the neighbors, and when she went into the village on domestic commissions, no young miss had more kind and pleasant salutations than Georgie Lovering; and when she was taken away by a terrible death, it was not strange that the mother was nearly insane, and the aged members of the family bowed down with a grief, such as they had never before experienced.

Evans, the murderer, is a native of Strafford, sixty-four years old, and has from a youth led a roving and miserable life. He is of medium stature, rather slim of body, and is a little stooping. He has a long grey beard, and hair of the same shade. His features are sharp, his face thin and his forehead of medium height. A stranger would instantly notice his eyes, which are dark, piercingly sharp, and have an unmistakable sinister expression. In his dress and personal appearance he is tolerably neat. He has a sanctimonious look, is an easy talker, and a keen observer would recognize him as a cunning, shrewd and unprincipled man. He has traveled much and lived in many places, including Manchester, Concord, Allenstown, Derry and Candia. He pretended to read medicine with Dr. Hanson of Manchester, and calling himself a botanic physician he practiced as much more or less among ignorant people. Many who read this will remember him as traveling with an electrical battery, which he pretended to use professionally, and again as hauling a vehicle containing a magic lantern, with which he used to give picture exhibitions. Again he drops all these occupations and goes about doing odd jobs of work, thus gaining a precarious living. Next we hear of him as a beggar and a self-styled Second Advent preacher in Boston, where, in the garb of a hypocrite, he appealed successfully to the sympathies of the audience, who raised him a good contribution. The next day he spent most of it for a meerschaum pipe, and his religious friends hearing of it would never have anything more to do with him. He often extended his travels into Canada, but wherever he went he was sure to get a bad name. The sudden and mysterious disappearance of a young twin child in Derry many years ago was also supposed to have been his work, but no positive proof of it was ever obtained. He has been married three times. After living with him some twenty years his first wife died. Of the children born in this union one, a son, now lives in Derry, while a married daughter resides in Lawrence, Mass. His second wife separated herself from him. He was married again, but his last wife also left him and returned to Laconia. Since last June Evans had made his home at Mr. Day's, being the only brother of the old lady, which of course made him a grand-uncle of the murdered girl. His relations with the different members of the family had generally been of a peaceable character, and in truth no one seemed to regard Evans as a dangerous character. Since last spring he had worked considerably by the day for various farmers in the vicinity.

Evans had always pretended to think a great deal of Georgie. In return she manifested no fondness for him, although she usually obeyed his ordinary requests, and naturally looked up to him somewhat on account of his age and relationship. It is stated that he once made improper advances to the young girl, who indignantly repelled them, and acquainted her mother with the circumstances. After that time he apparently turned over a new leaf, and treated his niece with much consideration. The sequel proves that he then commenced to lay his plans for the ruin of the girl. His first move was to set snares in the woods above mentioned. He afterward talked considerably about his traps, and explained how nicely he caught the handsome birds. This naturally awakened the girl's curiosity, and she asked that she might go with him and see them. At first he refused to take her with him, but after having greatly wrought up her eagerness to see them, he finally took her with him one day to the woods. She enjoyed the trip, and went a number of times afterward. At length she commenced to tire of going there, and Evans then matured the plan for his fiendish work. One week ago last Thursday evening, the night before the day of the murder, Evans told Georgie that he was going away to work the next morning, and that she must look after the snares. She hesitated about complying with his request, but upon his urging she consented to it, but said she was tired of going to them.

The next day, Friday, was the loveliest of the fall. Evans appeared as usual when he took his breakfast, and then immediately went out, saying that he was going to his day's work. Georgie was up bright and early. After her meal she assisted in domestic duties. It was then 9 o'clock and she put on her hat and shawl to go and look after the snares. Her grandmother had noticed that she looked very sober that morning, and made a remark to that effect as she was leaving the room. The girl then observed that she had promised her uncle to look after the snares, but that she should not do it again, for the woods were rough and lonely to her. Georgie then kissed Mrs. Day affectionately, and tripping across the road soon disappeared among the rocks in the pasture. No one except her murderer is supposed to have seen her alive after that time.

It is proved that Evans did not go away to any place to work that morning. Soon after Georgie left he was seen on a hill about a mile distant towards the village, and which command a view of the house and pasture. He probably went there directly after leaving Mr. Day's in the morning, and concealed himself in order to observe when the girl left her home. At half past 9, half an hour after the girl went out, which would have given her time to have reached the woods, Evans was seen to come down the hill, cross the road and pasture, and go into the same woods where the girl had gone.

Alarmed at her protracted absence, search was made for her as early as ten o'clock on the day of the murder. Mr. Day was unable to find her and returned for Mrs. Lovering, who after entering the woods found on the ground the apron of her daughter.

This aroused suspicion, and an alarm being given the immediate neighbors joined in a more thorough search. Early in the afternoon James Pender, in crossing a brush fence about half a mile from the entrance, found a broken comb that was at once recognized as belonging to the absent girl. There was some hair in the comb, and not far distant a strong string was found. This discovery struck the company with terror, for then there were indeed evidences that the girl had been foully dealt with. Word was instantly sent to the village that Georgie Lovering was missing, and there were fears that she had been murdered. If a bolt had dropped from the clear sky above, the citizens would not have been more amazed. A chord of sympathy was struck in every heart, and more than a hundred persons went at once to assist in the work. Soon, near the spot where the apron was found, there were discovered plain evidences of a struggle. The earth was stirred up and leaves were misplaced. Further along there were large and small tracks, as though one person had dragged another along. The conviction was now general that the girl had been murdered.

After calling on some neighbors that day, Evans returned home and on being questioned said he knew nothing of the girl. Sheriff Drew of Strafford soon after arrested him, but Evans said he was innocent as an angel in Heaven. He maintained that the girl was alive; asked why he should injure her, a little innocent girl, whom he thought a great deal of. Although he appeared in fine spirits, yet he begged the officer quite earnestly for some strychnine. Before that while at dinner, he privately whispered to Miss Brown, the landlord's daughter, and besought her to put some poison in his tea. Although no further evidences were found, yet the search was vigorously continued. The drenching storm that came on deterred no one. On Sunday the number of persons engaged was estimated at 250.

On Tuesday, Evans said the girl was alive and that he had agreed with a Mr. Webster of Kingston to help get her away. He said he took her to him and gave him $11. Search at Kingston developed the fact that no such man lived there. Talking with him on Friday night, Sheriff Drew said:—

"In the hearing of no persons but us two and the Great Being above, I ask you this question: Is the body of the girl cold in death?" The two men gazed fixedly at each other for a few moments, and it seemed doubtful which would relax first; but Evans became unnerved under the searching gaze of the officer, turned pale, trembled, and said, "It is, Mr. Drew; I have done wrong." The officer continued, "Go with me and show me where she is;" to which Evans replied, "I will." Evans then asked if the Selectmen would give him any protection.

Mr. Drew went to his wife's bedroom privately, and told her that he was to leave with Evans on a most solemn duty and he wished her to dress herself and go to Alonzo Tuttle's, a near neighbor, and say that he desired him to get E. J. Parshley and both go to Mr. Ham's and wait there in darkness. If they heard a call from the swamp they must promptly follow the sound. It will be recollected that Mr. Ham was the nearest neighbor to Mr. Day. It was then 11 P. M., and Mr. Drew lived some three miles or more from the home of the murdered girl.

The Sheriff and prisoner started at once with a team for the wood where the girl was last seen, and reached there about midnight. Then leaving the carriage, the Sheriff took his lantern and told Evans to lead the way. They were soon in the forest, and a more dismal night's journey cannot easily be imagined. The darkness was intense, and as they went along nothing was audible save the rustling of the leaves under their feet, and the wind moaning dismally through the trees. They passed the spot where the apron was found, and got over the fence where the broken comb was discovered, but not a word escaped the lips of either man. Then they entered the swamp where stones, fallen trees and treacherous bog-holes made locomotion very difficult. They often went into the mud and both of them fell several times. Suddenly Evans stopped and seemed bewildered, said he had lost the trail and must go back to the fence and start again. Conflicting thoughts then came into the Sheriff's mind, but he did not waver for a moment. He motioned with the lantern, and both went back over the tollsome way to the fence. Evans looked around and without uttering a word again started into the swamp. Once more they were threading their way through the difficult morass. The obstructions were even more formidable than before. At length, wet and bruised, they reached a bleaker spot than they had heretofore seen. One very large tree had fallen, and its roots were so imbedded in the soil that they torn up the earth for a considerable space.

Close to the ground, under the shelving mass of fibres and earth, Evans pointed his finger and said "There." The Sheriff said "What?" The prisoner answered again—"There!" Then Evans, half kneeling, stooped and carefully scraping away some leaves disclosed something white, and again said "There!" The Sheriff then laid his hand upon the object, and saw that it was the body of the poor murdered girl.

When the Sheriff touched the body the prisoner said with perfect composure, "That's she." Mr. Drew then pulled a pair of handcuffs from his pocket and said, "Frank, stand still." Evans cried out, "Don't put them on." But it did not avail, and in a moment he was in irons. Then the prisoner fell on his knees and said: "Mr Drew, I have but one favor that I implore of you, which is that you will shoot me dead on this spot." The simple reply was, "You will not be harmed." Then Mr Drew shouted for assistance, and after he had called the third time Tuttle answered, and with Parshley repaired to the spot as soon as he could get there. The former was left with Evans, while Mr. Drew and the latter went for the authorities and a surgeon.

It was some two hours before the party returned; it consisted of eight men, among them a surgeon. All uncovered their heads as the surgeon, under direction of the Selectmen, lifted the body from its resting place.

The face wore a calm and pleasant expression, and showed only two very slight abrasions. The neck bore plainly the prints of fingers, showing that she was undoubtedly strangled. Her dress and skirts were in a bunch around her neck, and dreadful as it may seem, the body was probably dragged through the swamp. Then portions of the clothing were removed by the surgeon, and a spectacle was presented that sickened the stoutest heart present. Every person turned pale, and there was not a dry eye in the company. Evans himself gave a shriek of anguish that rang out clear and frightful thro' the woods. It was found that the inhuman fiend had not only strangled his victim, but had horribly mutilated portions of the body. The clothing was carefully replaced, and extemporizing a rude litter, the party started from the swamp. The prisoner was asked to point where a part of the body had been concealed. He hesitated at first, but as he looked into the determined face of the officer he knew well the best course to pursue. He said he would go to the spot, and accompanied by Mr. Drew, he went directly to Sherburne's mill, perhaps a mile distant, and lifting a stone the missing remains were found.

A jury of inquest was formed and the prisoner was committed to jail. The funeral of the the murdered girl took place on Monday. The crime is one of the most revolting and atrocious on record, and mercy to Evans should not be thought of.

A telegram to Mr. J. Horace Kent, Monday evening, stated that Evans had arrived at Exeter jail. Sheriff Drew took him to Exeter from Northwood through Dover, at which place there was great excitement and serious menacing of the murderer.

The Cholera

Has appeared in various districts of Germany, causing considerable alarm. The epidemic has not spread to any great extent, however.

A Prague despatch says that a number of cases of Asiatic cholera have occurred in that city, with fatal results. The presence of the dreaded pestilence, which is believed to be approaching from the East, causes the greatest alarm.

A Vienna despatch says that the much-dreaded Asiatic cholera has appeared in that city. A number of cases have occurred ending fatally. Reports from other parts of the country announce the appearance of the epidemic and indicate that a general outbreak is not improbable unless the greatest care be exercised to avert such a calamity.

The News.

Victoria C. Woodhull and Tennie C. Claflin were arrested Saturday on a suit brought against them for publishing in their Weekly a series of scandalous articles implicating Henry Ward Beecher and Theodore Tilton's family. Bail was fixed at $8000 each. Both women were taken to the Ludlow-street jail. The defendants, acting upon advice by their counsel, made no efforts to procure bail, having been informed that the warrants had been issued against them in a libel suit, and that additional warrants for their arrest were issued by Mayor Hall on a charge of dealing in indecent literature. Colonel Blood was also arrested at the suit of L. Challis and was taken to Jefferson-market police court for examination as an accomplice. The officers have arrested William Denyze, stereotyper, and William A. Smith, printer of Woodhull and Claflin's Weekly.

The official vote of South Carolina at the recent State election is just received. It shows the total vote for General Moses (regular Republican candidate for governor) to have 71,388; for Tomlinson (bolters' candidate) 36,478; General Moses's majority, 34,905. The total vote is 28,747 smaller than that of 1870, when Scott's majority was 33,534.

Information received from Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island, states that the extensive cattle yard of Malcolm Duncan, the wealthiest cattle trader on the Island, was destroyed by fire on Tuesday last. Over four hundred horses and two hundred and fifty sheep were burned to death. The total loss will not exceed $400,000.

William L. Brown, clerk in the Treasury department, Washington, who registered in Brooklyn, and whose name was subsequently erased, has appealed to the courts to have it restored. Two years ago Mr. Brown removed with his family to Washington to accept an appointment, but claims a right to vote under the statute—"No person shall be deemed to have gained or lost his residence while in the service of the United States."

Maurice Lomasney stabbed Timothy Dacey during a quarrel soon after midnight on Sunday, on Cambridge street, Boston, so that he died in ten minutes. The murderer was arrested.

—Epizootic was cavorting around Titusville, and spying Leonard's ears rising majestically above an intervening building, thought he would try his hand on the animal for a change. His chagrin, when he got around the corner and saw two thin legs supporting the unnatural listening-machines, was pitiful.—St. Louis. Globe.

PERNICIOUS PURGATIVES.—The brilliant idea of half a century ago that the weak and ailing could be bled, blistered and salivated into a condition of health and vigor is happily exploded; but violent and prolonged purgation is still, to some extent, in vogue. We have impostors who are daring enough to offer to the world, as tonics and restoratives, the most destructive cathartics, unmodified by a single stimulating, soothing or restorative element. Compare the operation of one of these terrible nostrums with that of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, in which are combined the three great curative elements—a tonic, an alterative, and an aperient. The former completely paralyzes the vital forces, of that nature can make no resistance to disease; the latter sustains the strength of the patient, while it restores the suspended functions of the secretory organs and relieves the bowels without violence or pain. It is simply a choice between restoration and prostration.

The Horse Distemper

Increases in this city. We hear that Hon. Frank Jones has seventeen horses sick. Eldredge & Co.'s brewery teams are drawn by oxen, and some of the milk carriers are to use oxen to-day. On Monday morning, A. T. Walker & Co. drove a horse down town and on his return the horse fell dead in the stable. He had been exercised but very little and had only a slight cough. Owners of horses think the worst is yet to come. The disease attacks the animals in various ways. Those which are taken with a cough and free emissions from the nostrils are deemed the most fortunate. Others become instantly lame and drop in the streets—while the most dangerous cases are those in which the poor animals have only slight coughs and no emissions from the nose. The famous trotter, Nellie Locke, as reported very sick.

There have been two deaths from small-pox at Epping.

Workmen are clearing away the ruins of the Alpine House at Gorham preparatory to the erection of a new hotel.

A HUMANITARIAN VIEW.—Mr. Bergh is not slow to find a moral lesson in the terrible epidemic prevailing among horses. That the horse has too long been held as on a level with the vehicle he draws, by all corporations, no one can deny. He thinks the inanimate property has often received more and better attention in the way of housing than the animate, and now when we are to be taught the value of "this generous and most indispensable servant" by his absence, we ought to remember our sins against him, the poor quality and small quantity of food, doled out grudgingly after a hard day's toil under the scorching sun, the drenching rain, or the ignorant driver's whip. He hopes that, in the suspension of travel about our cities, the question of substituting "dummy engines" will once more be noticed, and means taken to bring about so desirable a means of travel, in place of the crowded cars and omnibuses, which, as long as money making instead of comfort is the object, are sure to be overloaded.

OLIVE LOGAN.—A New York correspondent of the St. Louis Globe writes:

"I stepped into Steinway Hall the other evening to hear Olive Logan. I had read in the out-of-town papers the most extraordinary puffs of her brilliancy, eloquence, and fascination, and I was somewhat surprised to find her a contradiction of all of these. Her subject, 'Successful People,' was an attenuated thread on which she strung as many common-places, frivolities, ancient jokes and impertinent egotisms as could well be crowded into the space of an hour. Her delivery, too, which she seemed to imagine charming, was extremely unpleasant, being mainly composed of wriggles, grimaces, and affectations, with overliberal and superfluous dental accompaniments. Mrs. Sykes is a species of feminine Mr. Carker. Her teeth are omnipresent and all-pervading. She never allows you to forget them, and she certainly never forgets them herself. She looks with her teeth, talks with her teeth, thinks with her teeth, gesticulates with her teeth, walks with her teeth. The chief aim and end of her being are teeth, and, after you have listened to her awhile, and gone away, the sole recollection you have of her is teeth. Whatever may be the opinion of her as a lecturer, she is unquestionably the greatest tooth exhibitor now living. No dentist should be without her."

—A San Francisco surgeon has just distinguished himself in two ways at once. In the first place he took care of a man who had broken his arm eighteen months before and had never been able to get it mended. The two parts of the bone had obstinately refused to knit. This doctor reopened the wound, bound the bits of bone together with silver wire, and in time the bone did reunite. The arm was made two inches shorter, but fully as strong, and the man, after paying the doctor about $400 for services, was enabled to go to work. On being asked for his bill, the doctor did the second good thing. He told the man he did not want any pay until the arm had proved its validity by earning it.

—Kaine, of the St. Louis Globe, wears no brass watch chains. The despotism of his leather bills leaves him no margin for luxuries.—Courier-Journal.

Padman don't deny himself gorgeous jewels because of his leather bills. He kindly allows the unfortunate wretch who supplies him with footwear to do the suffering, while he indulges in dollar-store truck just the same as though his feet were small.—St. Louis. Globe.

—The other day in St. Louis the citizens were startled, and subsequently thrown into a state of the deepest alarm, by a shadow falling upon the city, where all had been sunshine a moment before. Not a cloud was to be seen in the sky, but the gloom grew deeper, and the alarm extended to Carondelet, but at this juncture a policeman discovered that the phenomenon was occasioned by "Globules," of the Globe, who was upon the court-house dome waving his ears to and fro, little thinking he was shutting off the sun-light from two thirds of the city.—Titusville Press.

—A smart team of horses ran away at Sumpter, Wis., and thereby stirred up a hive of bees which stung them to death.

A RELIC OF BARBARISM.—An exchange tells us the "barbarous custom of piercing ladies' ears for rings is rapidly being abolished. Several very ingenious arrangements for fastening in these articles of jewelry without the usual surgical operation are now sold at the jewelry shops and very extensively worn." Woman will have the ear-ring with or without pain, preferring it naturally without. It is a useless ornament, and it has always been a wonder to us that it was not long ago cast aside. There is some excuse for the bracelet and breastpin, and neither inflicts pain nor disfigures a member of the body. The ear-ring does both and since the rage for cheap jewelry, the brass of which it is in the main composed has poisoned many a feminine ear. The nose-ring is equally pardonable.—Philadelphia Press.

IRON in the BLOOD.

DYSPEPSIA, DEBILITY, DROPSY, HUMORS,

PERUVIAN SYRUP

Makes the Weak Strong.

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an ailment, as easily digested and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.

The secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building up an Iron Constitution.

Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures to strong, healthy, and happy men and women; and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.

See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.

The Singer

SEWING MACHINE

STILL LEADS THE MARKET.

The Success of the Company is far beyond that of any other similar concern; the

Daily Manufacture

—OF—

400 OF THE SINGERS

Failing to Supply the Constant Demand.

All other machines call the public attention to some new loop or stitch or tension or finish, some advantage in running or needles or feed or prices—and many of these are as we have said very good points, and the agents are filling them one them to divert entirely the would-be purchaser from fairly considering the facts in the case; but the

seems to unite the good qualities of all, and is never found wanting.

THE SINGER

IS THE

OLDEST

SEWING MACHINE

IN THE MARKET,

All others being copied from its first model, does two-thirds the sewing done in this country and preserves its advantages over all other combined.

It is readily kept clean, and has THE BEST TENSION EVER INVENTED; it is higher speeded and requires but little power to run; it works equally well upon the finest and heaviest goods; it does all the varieties of work known to the art.

N. B. Those purchasing for cash, before the 1 of January next, will have a consideration allowed them.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England,

Pulmocine Cordial

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred THROAT DISEASES at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of PREVENTION. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup, should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the prevention of this FAMILY MEDICINE prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressure, soft-cating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best PULMONARY CURATIVE he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are WILD CHERRY BARK, SQUILL ROOT, LIQUORICE ROOT, BLOOD ROOT, &c. It is a BLOOD PURIFIER, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic, and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and induces quiet sleep. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

For Coughs, Croup, Diphtheria, Asthma, &c.

USE BUCHMAN'S

PULMOCINE CORDIAL.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents."

"Mr. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges.

AYER'S

SARSAPARILLA

FOR PURIFYING THE BLOOD.

A medicine that cures is a real public blessing. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA makes positive cure of a series of complaints, which are always afflicting and too often fatal. It purifies the blood, purges out the virulent humors in the system, which undermine health and settle into troublesome disorders. Eruptions of the skin are but the appearance of the surface of humors that should be expelled from the blood. Internal derangements are the determination of these same humors to some internal organ, or organs, whose action they derange, and whose substance they disease and destroy. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA expels these humors from the blood. When these are gone, the disorders they produce disappear, such as Ulcerations of the Liver, Stomach, Kidneys, Lungs, Eruptions and Eruptive Diseases of the skin, St. Anthony's Fire, Boils or Erysipelas, Pimples, Pustules, Blotches, Boils, Tumors, Tetter and Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, Ulcers and Sores, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Pain in the Bones, Side, and Head, Female Weakness, Sterility, Leucorrhœa arising from internal ulceration of uterine disease, Dropsy, Dyspepsia, Emaciation, and General Debility. With their departure health returns.

AYER'S

CHERRY PECTORAL

For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma and Consumption.

The few compositions, which have won the confidence of mankind and become household words among not only one but many nations, must have extraordinary virtues. Perhaps no one ever secured so wide a reputation or maintained it so long as AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. It has been known to the public about forty years, by a long continued series of marvellous cures which have won for it a confidence in its virtues, never equalled by any other medicines. It still makes the most effectual cures of Coughs, Colds, Consumption, that can be made by medical skill. Indeed the CHERRY PECTORAL has really robbed these dangerous diseases of their terrors, to a great extent, and given a feeling of immunity from their fatal effects, which is well founded, if the remedy be taken in season. Every family should have it in their closet for the ready and prompt relief of its members. Sickness, suffering, and even life is saved by this timely protection. The prudent should not neglect it, and the wise will not. Keep it by you for the pain it affords in sudden attacks, and by its timely use.

There is no disease of the human system for which the VEGETINE cannot be used with PERFECT SAFETY, as it does not contain any mercurial compound. For eradicating the system of all impurities of the blood, it has no equal. It has never failed to effect a cure, giving tone and length to the system debilitated by disease. Its wonderful effects upon these complaints are surprising to all. Many have been cured by the VEGETINE that have tried many other remedies. It can well be called

FOR RESTORING GRAY HAIR

TO ITS NATURAL VITALITY AND COLOR.

Advancing years, sickness, care, disappointment, and hereditary predisposition, all turn the hair gray; either of them disposes to fall off prematurely, and either effect is unsightly and unpleasant to behold. DR. AYER'S consummate skill has produced an antidote for these deformities, which has won gratitude for him from multitudes of men and women. His HAIR VIGOR sometimes reproduces lost hair; and always restores to faded and gray hair its natural color, with the glossy and freshness of youth. The comparatively few bald and gray heads, that we now see, are those who have not yet discovered the virtues of AYER'S HAIR VIGOR for renewing the hair. The fresh and youthful hair we see on older heads is often the product of his art. If you are disfigured, or made old, austere and ugly, by gray hair, restore its youthful color, and with your features to their original softness and agreeable expression.

As an elegant dressing for beautifying the Hair, it has no superior.

PILLS AND OINTMENT.

Every Man His Own Physician.

CAUTION.

THE immense demand for HOLLOWAY'S PILLS and OINTMENT, has tempted unprincipled parties to counterfeit these valuable medicines.

In order to protect the public and ourselves, we have issued a new "Trade Mark," consisting of an Egyptian circle of a serpent, with the letter H in the centre. Every box of genuine HOLLOWAY'S PILLS and OINTMENT will have this trade mark on it; none are genuine without it.

$1000 REWARD.

BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOR is composed of Ammonia, Chloroform, Spirits of Camphor, Tinctures of Cappsicum, Cubeb Juniper, and Alcohol. The compound is unequalled in the annals of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling or Twitching of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, banish pimples, cure scaly eruptions, itching, humors, &c.; it equalizes the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the brain, cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. Briggs' Allevantor absolutely possesses more curative properties than any other preparation. Physicians, chemists, and others are requested to examine and test the remedy, and $1000 will be paid if found different from representation.

COUGHS. Much has been said and written, and many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases; but nothing has been so eminently successful, or obtained such a wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.

CORNS! The excruciating pain produced by Corns, the unceasing twinging from Bunions, the piercing, distressing pain from Ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, not knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies are no acid or potash compounds, but are reliable, soothing, and effectual, and just merit the success they have earned from an appreciative public. The Curative is a healing ointment; immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it will positively cure the worst cases of Festered Corns, Inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the sorest instep, the largest and severest Blisters, the most extensive Callosities on the soles or heels of the feet, unequalled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Allevantor for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unexcelled by anything ever known.

PILES have been a terror to mankind for centuries, and almost every attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr. Briggs has discovered an absolutely cure for internal, bleeding, external, and itching piles. Briggs' Pile Remedies are mild, safe and sure.

For sale by J. H. THACHER, WM. R. PRESTON, Portsmouth; JAMES O. TREFETHEN, Kittery; E. S. SAFFORD, Kittery Point; H. M. CURTIS, Newcastle, and dealers generally.

CORNS, Bunions, Bad Nails, and other diseases of the feet, Scrofulous and Cancerous Humors, Piles, etc., skillfully treated by the great central Chiropodical and Healing Institute, No. 765 Broadway, New York. DR. J. BRIGGS, President; DR. ALEXANDER WEBBER, Secretary. ap9

For all the purposes of a Family Physic,

CURING

Costiveness, Jaundice, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Dysentery, Foul Stomach, Erysipelas, Headache, Piles, Rheumatism, Eruptions and Skin Diseases, Biliousness, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Tetter, Tumors and Salt Rheum, Worms, Gout, Neuralgia, as a Dinner Pill, and Purifying the Blood,

Are the most congenial purgative yet perfected. Their effects abundantly show how much they excel all other Pills. They are safe and pleasant to take, but powerful to cure. They purge out the foul humors of the blood; they stimulate the sluggish or disordered organ into action, and they impart health and tone to the whole being. They cure not only the every day complaints of every body, but formidable and dangerous diseases. Most eminent clergymen, most skillful physicians, and our own city men send certificates of cures performed and of great benefits they have derived from these Pills. They are the safest and best physic for children, because mild as well as effectual. Being sugar coated, they are easy to take; and being purely vegetable, they are entirely harmless.

—The Oriental Tea Company, which was among the first to secure an ox-team after the horse disease became prevalent, not only did a good thing for themselves, but have been able to "help out" many others who were suffering for assistance. By hauling wool to a railroad station a factory was supplied with stock, which would otherwise have been obliged to stop; by hauling meat from Brighton for the market-men they helped to keep up our supply of provisions; and by hauling paper for the Daily Advertiser they enabled us to supply our readers with their accustomed intellectual entertainment. Although these favors to others interfered somewhat with their own business, yet while contributing so generously toward the supply of food, raiment and mental pabulum to the public, they were still able to furnish their customers with something to drink.—Boston Advertiser.

—Graiz Brown will take the stage after the election. He has always manifested a striking fondness for the dram, ah!

THE GREAT HAIR PRODUCER.—Hair Oils, Pomatums and Pomades have had their day. They belong to the musty past. Nobody that understands the chemistry of the hair and the philosophy of its growth thinks of using them. Instead of clogging the pores of the scalp with thick unguents, and thus obstructing the insensible perspiration which is essential to the health of the fibers, we now tone the surface of the head with an invigorating application which penetrates to the roots of the hair and stimulates them in the same way that the fertilizing agents spread over the meadows stimulate the grass roots and cause the blades to shoot up in myriads, coating the earth with verdure. The invigorant best adapted to this purpose is Lyon's Kathairon. It may well be called the fertilizer of the head. To the barren scalp it communicates vegetative power. If the hair is dropping out or becoming dry and withered, it arrests the process of dilapidation or blight. The hair thickens and becomes glossy and flexible under its genial operation, and as a dressing it is unapproached by any preparation that has yet been laid on the toilet of Fashion.

"WELL

Old Wheezy, what's the matter with you and why are you muffled up so?"

"Wretched cold! Can't speak aloud. My throat's so sore and lungs so oppressed it pains me to talk."

"Now, Old Boy, I was in the same predicament and have been wonderfully cured. Met a friend who urged me to take

Bought a bottle at the

is powerful. A half bottle completely cured me; a single dose

RELIEVED MY THROAT INSTANTANEOUSLY.

"I WILL."

The good ship Union's voyage o'er,
At anchor safe she swings.
And loud and clear, with cheer on cheer,
Her joyous welcome rings.

Hurrah! hurrah! It shakes the wave,
It thunders on the shore,
One flag, one land, one heart, one hand,
One nation evermore.

Excuse my back;
I'm busy now.
Young man, Go West
And speed the plow.

GRANT AND WILSON

ELECTED!

The Election.

We give full returns of the election received up to midnight, for which we are indebted to the lady operator of the Western Union Line in this city and J. Horace Kent, Esq., who sent us promptly the news received at Boston. The Republican has won its greatest victory. GRANT AND WILSON are elected President and Vice President by an overwhelming vote. Greeley is the worst beaten candidate for the Presidency since Scott's defeat in 1852. Our returns show that the New England and Middle States are solid for the Republican party candidates, and with the remaining western and southern States heard from give Grant and Wilson 214 electoral votes, 184 being necessary for a choice. We estimate elsewhere the probable result in all the States.

MAINE.

Biddeford, 150 Republican majority.
Eliot, 45 Republican majority.
Kittery, Grant 524, Greeley 147.
Grant's majority is set at 28,000.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.

The State will give Grant 2,000 majority.

Large Republican gains are reported.

Greenland, one majority for Greeley. Republican gain, 39.

Later returns indicate Grant's majority will reach 3000.

Newcastle, Grant 91, Greeley 61.

Rae, Grant 102, Greeley 150.

CONCORD, 11 P. M.

145 towns give Grant 27,254, Greeley 22,566. Grant's majority, 4688. It will reach 6000.

MASSACHUSETTS.

The State has chosen Grant electors by about the majority of 1868, when it was 77,000.

All the Republican Congressmen are elected. Gooch beats Banks, two to one.

Boston gives Grant 5434 majority.

Grant's plurality is about 70,000.

Gooch's majority for Congressman over Banks is more than 4000.

NEW JERSEY.

Returns from New Jersey indicate that Grant will have 5000 majority in that State.

NEW YORK.

A dispatch from the New York Times secures the State of New York for Grant & Wilson by 50,000 majority.

Havemeyer, Republican, is probably elected Mayor of New York city.

Greeley has 4000 majority in New York city. The State is sure for Grant by 30,000 to 40,000.

NEW YORK, 10 P. M.

Grant has carried New York State by 30,000 majority. R. W. E. ROBINSON.

The Tribune claims New York city for Greeley by 20,000 majority.

Brooks, Wood and Roberts, Democrats, are elected to Congress.

Grant runs ahead of Dix.

The Tribune concedes the triumphant election of Grant and Wilson.

The city gives Grant 5000 majority.

ARKANSAS.

Grant & Wilson electors have been chosen.

MARYLAND.

The Democratic majority is largely reduced.

PENNSYLVANIA.

Grant's majority in Philadelphia is over 35,000; in Alleghany county about 16,000.

A Times dispatch claims 46,000 majority for Grant in Philadelphia and 85,000 majority in the State.

OHIO.

A dispatch from Cincinnati says there are large gains over the October election and Ohio is claimed by the Republicans by at least 30,000 majority.

Grant's majority probably exceeds the Republican majority in October.

The Republican majority is between 15,000 and 30,000.

CONNECTICUT.

Grant's majority will reach 3000.

Hawley, Republican, is probably elected to Congress.

MISSISSIPPI.

Grant carries the State by 10,000 to 15,000 majority.

RHODE ISLAND.

Rhode Island elects both Republican Congressmen and gives Grant a large majority.

Grant's majority is estimated at 7500.

Grant's estimated majority is 10,000.

VERMONT.

Nearly the entire vote of the State has been cast for Grant.

CALIFORNIA.

Both parties claim the State.

TENNESSEE.

Returns show large Republican gains.

Cheatham, Democrat, is probably elected to Congress over Maynard, Republican, though the contest is close.

Grant leads the Republican State ticket.

MISSOURI.

BOSTON, midnight.

A St. Louis dispatch says a large vote has been polled, notwithstanding bad weather. Owing to intense excitement over local candidates, Greeley runs behind his ticket. The general impression is that Grant & Wilson have carried the city and county of St. Louis by a small majority. which is a great gain over the influence of Senator Blair and Schurb, Returns from the interior show an increased majority for Grant over his vote of 1868, when he carried the State by 25,883.

The indications are that Grant's majority will be 30,000.

Do you see any "bars" on this flag?

Gratz turned around and winked at me,
And from his vest he drew a V,
"I'll bet you those, that this ere hearse Crosses ahead of that excurs."

The mourners they sot up a yell,
And then was missin' for a spell;
It was amazin' how that crowd
Caverted upward in a cloud.

We piled them victims on the sward,
About three-quarters of a cord,
On top we put H. Greeley's meat,
But where Gratz went, we all was beat.

We searched the ruins of that train
But all our searchin' was in vain,
And to this day it does beat me,
Where the piece went that held that V.

He fled from home before the spasm,
And lost his leg in the bloody chasm.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

Election Day.

Was one of the most pleasant days of the year, clear and cool, with the streets in good condition. Teams to get disabled voters to the polls were scarce and in demand. Horses gave way to oxen for transportation purposes among our merchants and ale travelled slowly by ox-power to the depot.

A number of incidents occured by which the various partizans turned the laugh on each other. In Ward One, a voter was proceeding to cast his vote for Grant & Wilson, when a Greeley & Brown electoral candidate stopped him, saying; "Here, that ticket is torn; they wont take it. Here's a whole one." The voter dropped the Grant ticket, took the Greeley ticket, mechanically, and voted the wrong way.

A Democrat in the same ward declared he "would not vote for Greeleey & Brown," and tore off the top of the Democratic ticket, intending to cast his vote for the Greeley electors. Instead, however, he handed the Moderater the top of the ticket and threw that portion away which had the electors names on it! The vote of course was a blank one.

A Republican who had promised to vote the Democratic ticket, sickened of the project and cleared his conscience by voting for the Grant & Wilson electors, whose names were pasted on the regular Democratic ticket headed by Greeley & Brown.

Majorities.

The Republican majorities in Portsmouth for the past four years were:—

In 1868,	for Governor,	58
" "	" President,	222
" 1869	" Governor,	251

Newcastle.

The Democrats threw but one vote against Nathaniel P. Campbell, Esq., for moderator. Mr. Campbell received 66 votes. At the close of the polls, the vote for President was announced as follows:—

For Grant	91
For Greeley	61
For O'Conor	1

Laconics.

More than half of the persons belonging in Portsmouth who bore torches in the recent Greeley procession, didn't vote, yesterday. But some of them will be able to vote in 1884!

For an unmitigated liar, the editor of the Democratic organ in this city bears off the palm. He attacks a Ward Two voter for exercising the right of suffrage and says the voter referred to has claimed to be a CHRONICLE editor and that the "CHRONICLE people" put him through. The statements are false and the lying editor of the Lyre knew they were false when he published them. The only person connected with the CHRONICLE who was present, did all he could to hinder the voter (who fought in the army against the rebellion) from casting his vote. He was not a Republican.

The new weekly paper, The State, published at Portland, issued its first number on Saturday last. It is a neat quarto.

A correspondent recommends prayer as a cure for the horse disease!

The Portland State says;—"Dr. M. F. Wentworth is just now in a straight betwixt two desires, one to depart (to Portsmouth) to fill the place lately made vacant by retirement of Dr. Boardman, and be comparatively at rest, the other to comply with the wishes of his numerous friends in this town, and decline the flattering inducements held out to him by his Portsmouth friends, and continue his residence in Kittery. His Kittery friends will not permit him to depart without a struggle."

Thanks to Mr. Richard D. Smart for refreshments to the weary CHRONICLERS received at midnight.

The News.

The disease among the horses in Boston is rapidly disappearing. A better state of affairs is reported from all quarters, and on Monday the streets resumed their wonted aspect.

Gottfred Gebhardt, a young lad of St. Louis, was bitten in the hand seven weeks ago by a dog and died of hydro phobia, on Sunday night, after suffering intensely for three days.

State News.

A man and boy were blown up at the granite quarries at West Concord, Monday afternoon. The man was fatally injured.

The first cheap passenger train over the Eastern Railroad carried four cars full of workmen and laborers.

The value of manufactured products in the State ten years ago was only $87,000,000; at the present time it is $71,000,000.

—A Matrimonial Terre Hautentot is looking around for a sixth wife. He "generally takes them as has grown up sons with a trade."

—Levi Brown of Poygan, Mich., thought he could hold a playful young bull by the tail, but his widow now says "he never could stick to anything ten minutes in his life."

—A loony brakeman on the New York Central Railroad declares that a phantom train goes over the New York Central Railroad every year, bearing the body of President Lincoln.

We have received from Geo. D. Russell & Co., No. 126 Tremont St., Boston, the following pieces of new music: "Nobody's treasure," words by Frank Dumont, composed by John S. Cox; "How the little brothers perished," song and chorus, by Sammel N. Mitchell, composed by Geo. Dana. Also from J. L. Peters, New York, "Hattie's Waltz," by C. Kinckel, and "Belle of Saratoga Polka," by E. J. Victor. For sale by D. H. Montgomery.

Promenade Exhibition!

MR. T. P. MOSES is fast completing his gallery of Oil Paintings and decorations, and will open for visitors on MONDAY evening, November 11, in the spacious rooms at No. 13 Exchange Buildings, (first floor, up stairs,) opposite the Post Office,—to continue every day and evening (Sundays excepted) until his PIANO and over thirty well-finished OIL PAINTINGS are disposed of at One Dollar a Share. Mr. M. designs to make this Exhibition the most beautiful and social resort ever presented in Portsmouth. All the paintings, tinsel-work decorations, etc., are of his own production; and he hopes the Gallery will elicit the interest of thousands of visitors during its continuance. The blessing of pleasant recollections will reward each visitor if he should not be the recipient of a tangible and valuable award at the grand Finale. Mr. M. hopes all the children of the city will attend during the Exhibition on Wednesday and Saturday afternoons—the show will please them and impress them with delightful dreams and help to elevate their taste and imagination. There will be no bitterness in the memory of this charming and refining scene. Programmes will be in free circulation, with the catalogue of paintings and further particulars.

Tickets of admission, 25cts.; children under 14 years, 15 cts.; Season tickets admitting the purchasers at all times to the Gallery, and having an interest according to their numbers, in the awards to be made after all the tickets are sold, $1. Tickets can be procured at the usual places, at the Bookstore of Messrs. Buzzell & Son, and at the Exhibition Hall.

SINGULAR RIOT.—On the 28th of July last a frightful storm laid waste the Commune of La Chetre Langin in the canton of Saint Benoit-du-Sault, France. The inhabitants believed that if their cure, M. Saudon, had performed certain religious rites, and more especially that if he had brought out the cross used in processions, he might have checked the tempest. They proceeded to the church, and entering it in a riotous and threatening manner, interrupted the celebration of mass. The cure escaped to the vestry-room, and while he was there the mob broke into his house and threw his property out of the windows. They attacked persons who took his part, and they wanted "to kill the curate because he had been the cause of the hail." M. Vauzelade, a municipal councillor, had the courage to go to the assistance of the curate, but the garde champetre prudently kept his own house while the riot lasted. Ten women and four men were brought before the court. Their counsel, M. Remilly, pleaded that they were ignorant and superstitious. Five of the accused were found guilty of having interrupted services recognized by law, and of having struck Mlle Eglantine Chabenet and M. Vauzelade. Five of the accused were sentenced to undergo imprisonment for three months, and to pay a fine of twenty-five francs; two were sentenced to six days' imprisonment, and to pay a fine of sixteen francs; and a fifth, for having committed an assault, was fined twenty-five francs. The four women were acquitted.

A NEW CHILL CURE.—The local of the Terre Haute Journal has discovered a cure for ague. Here it is:

To those afflicted with ague we say emphatically, crawl down stairs head foremost. Laugh at the idea if you please, but do your crawling first; you can then afford to laugh. Just as the chill is coming on, start at the top of a long flight of stairs, and crawl down on your hands and feet, head foremost. You never did harder work in your life, and when you arrive at the bottom, instead of shaking, you will find yourself puffing, red in the face, and perspiring freely, from the strong exertions made in the effort to support yourself.

It will effect a cure, beyond a doubt; but whether from this cause or from that we will never tell you, nor need you care to know. Try it. It won't cost you near as much as quinine or patent medicines, and if it fails it will only do what they do every day. If it cures, as it surely will, lay the facts before our local scientists, and let them discover the cause. At all events, ye shaking sufferers, lay this maxim to your hearts: "Crawling down stairs head foremost will certainly prevent a chill."

SEWING MACHINE

STILL LEADS THE MARKET.

The Success of the Company is far beyond that of any other similar concern; the

Daily Manufacture

—OF—

400 OF THE SINGERS

Failing to Supply the Constant Demand.

All other machines call the public attention to some new loop or stitch or tension or finish, some advantage in running or needles or feed or price—and many of these are so we have said very good points, and the agents selling them use them to direct entirely the would-be purchaser from fairly considering the facts in the case; but the

seems to unite the good qualities of all, and is never found wanting.

THE SINGER

IS THE

IN THE MARKET,

All others being copied from its first model. does two-thirds the sewing done in this country and possesses its advantages over all others combined.

It is readily kept clean, and has THE BEST TENSION EVER INVENTED; it is higher speeded and requires but little power to run; it works equally well upon the finest and heaviest goods; it does all the varieties of work known to the art.

AYER'S

SARSAPARILLA

FOR PURIFYING THE BLOOD.

A medicine that cures is a real public blessing. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA makes positive cure of a series of complaints, which are always afflicting and too often fatal. It purifies the blood, purges out the lurking humors in the system, which undermine health and settle into troublesome disorders. Eruptions or the skin are the appearance on the surface of humors that should be expelled from the blood. Internal derangements are the determination of these same humors to some internal organ, or organs, whose action they derange, and whose substance they disease and destroy. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA expels these humors from the blood. When they are gone, the disorders they produce disappear, such as Ulcerations of the Liver, Stomach, Kidneys, Lungs, Eruptions and Tumors, Tetter and Salt Rheum, Scrofula, Head, Ringworm, Ulcers and Sores, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Pain in the Bones, Side, and Head, Female Weakness, Sterility, Leucorrhœa arising from internal ulceration and uterine disease, Dropsy, Dyspepsia, Emaciation, and General Debility. With their departure health returns.

CHERRY PECTORAL

For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma and Consumption.

The few compositions, which have won the confidence of mankind and become household words among not only one land, but many nations, must have extraordinary virtues. Perhaps no one ever secured so wide a reputation or maintained it so long as AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. It has been known to the public about forty years, by a long continued series of marvellous cures, which have won for it a confidence in its virtues, never equalled by any other medicines. It still makes the most effectual cures of Coughs, Colds, Consumption, that can be made by medical skill. Indeed the CHERRY PECTORAL has really robbed these dangerous diseases of their terrors, to a great extent, and given a feeling of security from their fatal effects, which is well founded, it the remedy be taken in season. Every family should have it in their closet for the ready and prompt relief of its members. Sickness, suffering, and even life is saved by this timely protection. The present should not neglect it, and the wise will not. Keep it by you for the protection it affords in sudden attacks, and by its timely use.

VEGETINE

The Great Blood Purifier.

A valuable Indian compound for restoring the health, and for the permanent cure of all diseases arising from impurities of the blood, such as

Scrofula, Scrofulous Humors, Cancers, Cancerous Humor, Erysipelas, Canker, Salt Rheum, Pimples and Humors on the Face, Ulcers, Coughs, Catarrh, Bronchitis, Neuralgia, Pains in the Side, Rheumatism, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Costiveness, Dizziness, Fits, Headache, Nervousness, Faintness at the Stomach, Pains in the Back, Kidney Complaints, Female Weakness, and General Debility.

This preparation is scientifically and chemically combined, and so strongly concentrated from roots, herbs and barks, that its good effects are realized immediately after commencing to take it. There is no disease of the human system for which the VEGETINE cannot be used with PERFECT SAFETY, as it does not contain any metallic compound. For eradicating the system of all impurities of the blood, it has no equal. It has never failed to effect a cure, giving tone and strength to the system debilitated by disease. Its wonderful effects upon these complaints are surprising to all. Many have been cured by the VEGETINE that have tried many other remedies. It can well be called

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England,

Pulmocine Cordial JOHN SISE,

No. 5 Market Square,

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. EVERY FAMILY should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred THROAT DISEASES at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of PREVENTION. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of the FAMILY MEDICINE prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the painful, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best PULMONARY CURATIVE he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are WILD CHERRY BARK, SQUILL ROOT, LIQUORICE ROOT, BLOOD ROOT, &c. It is a BLOOD PURIFIER, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic, and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

For Coughs, Croup, Diphtheria, Asthma, &c.

USE BUCHMAN'S

PULMOCINE CORDIAL.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

AYER'S HAIR VIGOR,

FOR RESTORING GRAY HAIR

TO ITS NATURAL VITALITY AND COLOR.

Advancing years, sickness, care, disappointment, and hereditary predisposition, all turn the hair gray; either of them disposes to fall off prematurely, and either effect is unsightly and unpleasant to behold. DR. AYER'S consummate skill has produced an antidote for these deformities, which has won gratitude from him from multitudes of men and women. His HAIR VIGOR sometimes reproduces lost hair; and always restores to faded and gray hair its natural color, with the gloss and freshness of youth. The comparatively few bald and gray heads, that we now see, are those who have not yet discovered the virtues of AYER'S HAIR VIGOR for renewing the hair. The fresh and youthful hair we see on older heads is often the product of his art. If you are disfigured, or made old, ashen and ugly, by gray hair, restore its youthful color, and with your features to their original softness and agreeable expression.

As an elegant dressing for beautifying the Hair, it has no superior.

PILLS AND OINTMENT.

Every Man His Own Physician.

CAUTION.

THE immense demand for HOLLOWAY'S PILLS and OINTMENT, has tempted unprincipled parties to counterfeit these valuable medicines.

In order to protect the public and ourselves, we have issued a new "Trade Mark," consisting of an Egyptian circle of a serpent, with the letter H in the centre. Every box of genuine HOLLOWAY'S PILLS and OINTMENT will have this trade mark on it; none are genuine without it.

$1000 REWARD.

BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOR is composed of Ammonia, Chloroform, Spirits of Camphor, Tincture of Lupulins, Oil of Juniper, and Alcohol. This compound is unequalled in the annals of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling or Twitching of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, banish pimples, cure scaly eruptions, itching, humors, &c.; it equalizes the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the brain, cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. Briggs' Allevantor absolutely possesses more curative properties than any other preparation. Physicians, chemists, and others are requested to examine and test the remedy, and $1000 will be paid if found different from representation.

COUGHS, and written, and many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases; but nothing has been so eminently successful, or obtained such a wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.

CORNS! The excruciating pain produced by Corns, the unceasing twinging from Bunions, the piercing, distressing pain from Ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, not knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies are no acid or potash compounds, but are reliable, soothing, and effectual, and just merit the success they have earned from an appreciative public. The Curative is a healing ointment; immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it will positively cure the worst cases of Festered Corns, Inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the sorest instep, the largest and severest Blisters, the most extensive Callosities on the soles or heels of the feet, unequalled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Allevantor for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unexcelled by anything ever known.

PILES have been a terror to mankind for centuries, and almost every attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr. Briggs has discovered an absolutely cure for internal, bleeding, external, and itching piles. Briggs' Pile Remedies are mild, safe and sure.

For sale by J. H. THACHER, WM. R. PRESTON, Portsmouth; JAMES O. TREFETHEN, Kittery; E. S. SAFFORD, Kittery Point; H. M. CURTIS, Newcastle, and dealers generally.

CORNS, Bunions, Bad Nails, and other diseases of the feet, Scrofulous and Cancerous Humors, Piles, etc., skillfully treated at the great central Chiropedical and Healing Institute, No. 765 Broadway, New York. DR. J. BRIGGS, President; DR. ALEXANDER WEBBER, Secretary. ap9

Costiveness, Jaundice, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Dysentery, Foul Stomach, Erysipelas, Headache, Piles, Rheumatism, Eruptions and Skin Diseases, Biliousness, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Tetter, Tumors and Salt Rheum, Worms, Gout, Neuralgia, as a Dinner Pill, and Purifying the Blood,

FOR GRAMMARIANS.—The Hudson Register deals humorously with a question of grammar, as follows:

"A searcher after truth" writes to us, 'which is grammatically correct, to say 'the house is building,' or 'the house is being built:' 'the street is paving,' or 'the street is being paved?' There is a wide diversity of opinion upon this subject; but we incline to favor 'is being built,' following reasons: Suppose you wish to express another kind of an idea, would you say, for instance, 'Johnny is spanking,' or 'Johnny is being spanked?' The difference to you may seem immaterial, but it is a matter of considerable importance to Johnny; and it is probable that, if any choice were given him, he would suddenly select the former alternative. You say again that the 'missionary is eating.' Certainly this expresses a very different and much pleasanter idea than the form: 'The missionary is being eaten,' and the sensation is very different for the missionary, too. We have consulted several missionaries about it, and they all seem to think that the two things are somehow not the same, no matter what the grammarians say.

"But it is to be confessed that there are occasions when the difference in the form is not so marked. You assert, we say, that 'Hannah is hugging'—which, by the way, would be a very improper thing for Hannah to do; it would be positively scandalous, indeed; precisely a similar idea is conveyed if you say, 'Hannah is being hugged,' because it is a peculiarity of the act that it is hardly ever conceded; there is no selfishness about it. And it is the same with kissing. 'Jane is kissing'—and her mother ought to know about it if she is—is just exactly as we say, 'Jane is being kissed;' and the sensation is the same, although none of the grammars by a singular inadvertance, mention the fact. It will not be necessary, however, for our correspondent to attempt to prove these last mentioned facts by practice. And if he does so, we shall answer no more questions in syntax for him or any one else. Our duty is to conserve the morals of the community, not to start people to playing private games of Copenhagen.

The Daily Chronicle,

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 7, 1872.

The Election.

The Boston Globe says:—The defeat is so overwhelming, and the victory so wonderful, that even the most jubilant may well stand in amazement at the most terrible rebuke the American people have ever administered to a corrupt coalition and an infamous bargain. The lesson is severe and solemn, though well deserved.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.

Grant's majority is in the region of 5000.

Returns from 169 towns give Grant 30,895. Greeley 24,781. Grant's majority, 6,044.

NEW YORK.

All but three election districts heard from on the mayoralty vote of New York city give Havemeyer (Rep.) 51,959; Lawrence (Tammany) 48,505; and O'Brien (Apollo Hall) 34,301—Havemeyer's plurality being 3454.

The following is the result for city officers: Judge of the Supreme Court, Noah Davis; Judge of the Superior Court, H. C. Van Voorst; City Judge, Josiah Sutherland; District Attorney, B. K. Phelps; Coroner, Adolph Kessler; all Republicans except Sutherland and Kessler, who are candidates of Apollo Hall, but were also supported by the Republicans.

The Assembly in the State will probably stand 44 Democrats to 88 Republicans—the Senate, which is Republican, holding over from last year.

Eleven Tammany Assemblymen are elected in the city, nine Republicans, and one representative of Apollo Hall, who was also supported by the Republicans.

New York city gave Grant 45,599, Greeley 77,527. Greeley's majority, 29,929 against 69,000 for Seymour in 1868.

The present delegation in Congress consists of fifteen Republicans and sixteen Democrats. The new delegation will probably have nine Democrats to twenty-four Republicans, being a net gain of fourteen votes.

Sixteen women voted in Rochester, fifteen of them for Grant.

MARYLAND.

The Republicans have gained one, and probably two Congressmen in Maryland.

WISCONSIN.

Wisconsin Republicans elect six out of eight congressmen.

"THROUGH A BURNING TUNNEL.—There was no trusty watchman or anybody else to give warning of the impending danger, and the train was around the curve and into the tunnel before the fire could be seen. The tunnel is 650 feet in length, and the fire being at the opposite end, there was little for thinking or acting—not enough for stopping. The deep red, roaring flames and dense black smoke were ahead, and it looked like attempting a wild rush through tophet, but there was no other way for it. The lives of the passengers and all hands were in the care of Johnny Bartholomew, and nobody knew it better than he. His first impulse was to reverse the engine and whistle down brakes, but his quick conclusion was that it wouldn't do, so with a resolute jerk of the lever he "threw her wide open." The Reno gave an angry snort and rushed madly through like a freed racer with whirlwind speed—right through the fiery mass. Johnny held fast to the lever, closed one eye, held his breath and tried to think of some prayer as he passed in his checks, for he imagined he could feel the hot rails bending like iron under the wheels, and both felt and heard the blazing timbers and other fallen obstructions on the truck being dashed aside by the trusty cow catcher. The women passengers screamed, and even the stoutest-hearted men quivered with sudden fear as they dashed through the fierce, hot light, till in another instant the terrible gauntlet was passed and they safely slowed down in the cool, gray morning daylight beyond.

Dirt, stones and blazing bits of timber on the cow-catcher and the shower of burning coals covering the train, proved how dangerous were the obstructions so safely passed, yet they had rushed through so quickly that the paint on the passenger coaches was not even scorched. Johnny cannot rush the engine through that tunnel to-day, for every timber throughout its entire length burned out as clean as a shotgun, and huge cavings of earth and rock render it impassable for many days to come. Had the train struck or been wrecked amid the fiery obstructions, the fierce flames, caving earth and suffocating smoke of that underground passage, a more horrible, more heart-sickening calamity than ever before recorded might have occurred, but thank Heaven it didn't.—Gold Hill (Nevada) News.

DR. HAYES SUSTAINED.—The reported discovery of a vast open Polar sea, east and northeast of Spitzbergen, by the Norwegian Captain Nils Johnson, confirms the original finding of Dr. Hayes, and should make doubters and scoffers feel ashamed of themselves. Dr. Hayes, in his first volume of Arctic researches, told in a very few plain words, without a dash of boasting, of his discovering an unfrozen Polar sea, with no visible northern shore. The doctor and his solitary companion had reached it by sledge, penetrating as far north as Cape Constitution, Washington Land, latitude 82 degrees 72 minutes, and longitude about 69 degrees. They establish the fact that Smith's Strait connects by a channel (to which they gave the name of Kennedy) with the open Arctic Ocean. In this channel they found seals and other animal life, and on the banks bears and various birds.

Scientific persons, and even those who had made a study of Arctic explorations, saw fit to doubt this story, on the ground of its extreme improbability; though others equally as competent to pass judgment believed it on the sole authority of a man of high character like Dr. Hayes. People generally did not challenge the report—the evidence being good enough for them. Captain Fili Johnson, cruising to the east of Spitzbergen, on a whaling voyage, has now, by accident, entirely corroborated the statements of Dr. Hayes. Attaining a point, given at 79 degrees 8 minutes north latitude and 30 degrees 15 minutes east longitude, he found the whole sea to the south and east and east-north-east perfectly free from ice. He sailed along the coast without obstruction for two days and one night, and it was everywhere open except in one line toward the north, where ice was visible. Ascending a mountain near the coast he obtained a view over a wide circuit, and saw an iceless ocean to the extent of his vision, in a direction east-north-east. The captain saw birds, seals and reindeer, but says nothing about whales in the brief abstract of his report which has come to hand. He found great piles of driftwood along the shore, some of them heaped twenty feet above high-water mark.

A common map of the eastern hemisphere will show the scene of Captain Johnson's exploits. He entered a region hitherto unknown to geographers, and put down on maps as open space. The route by Spitzbergen has always been regarded as favorable for Arctic research, as it is the probable path of the Gulf Stream; and Captain Johnson having entered it and brought back such valuable results with a common sailing vessel, the scientific world may be encouraged to hope that a better fitted craft, going out for the express purpose of exploring the open Polar Sea, may by that line make her way to the North Pole.—Journal of Commerce.

Those who call the defeated candidate for representative to Congress from the fifth district, the "Iron Man," are supposed to speak ironically. He is a flatiron man, if anything.—Boston Advertiser.

THE GREAT HAIR PRODUCER.—Hair Oils, Pomatums and Pomades have had their day. They belong to the musty past. Nobody that understands the chemistry of the hair and the philosophy of its growth thinks of using them. Instead of clogging the pores of the scalp with thick unguents, and thus obstructing the insensible perspiration which is essential to the health of the fibers, we now tone the surface of the head with an invigorating application which penetrates to the roots of the hair and stimulates them in the same way that the fertilizing agents spread over the meadows stimulate the grass roots and cause the blades to spring up in myriads, coating the earth with verdure. The invigorant best adapted to this purpose is Lyon's Kathairon. It may well be called the fertilizer of the head. To the barren scalp it communicates vegetative power. If the hair is dropping out or becoming dry and withered, it arrests the process of dilapidation or blight. The hair thickens and becomes glossy and flexible under its genial operation, and as a dressing it is unapproached by any preparation that has yet been laid on the toilet of Fashion.

CORNS.—Since pride and fashion have had control of mankind, and shoemakers were compelled to make boots and shoes to fit fancy instead of the feet, the suffering from Corns, Bunions, Ingrowing Nails, Sore Insteps, Blistered Heels, Callosities on the bottom of the feet, &c., cannot be described. But Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies will cure all such torments, and proper fitting boots will prevent their reproduction. Sold by all druggists. al2

SEEING IS BELIEVING.—If ladies who do not use the Improved Soudont will compare teeth with those who do, they will see in an instant, more reasons for adopting it, than can be composed into a newspaper paragraph.

PERNICIOUS PURGATIVES.—The brilliant idea of half a century ago that the weak and ailing could be bled, blistered and salivated into a condition of health and vigor is happily exploded; but violent and prolonged purgation is still, to some extent, in vogue. We have impostors who are daring enough to offer to the world, as tonics and restoratives, the most destructive cathartics, unmodified by a single stimulating, soothing or restorative element. Compare the operation of one of these terrible nostrums with that of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, in which are combined the three great curative elements—a tonic, an alterative, and an aperient. The former completely paralyzes the vital forces, of that nature can make no resistance to disease; the latter sustains the strength of the patient, while it restores the suspended functions of the secretory organs and relieves the bowels without violence or pain. It is simply a choice between restoration and prostration.

IRON in the BLOOD.

DYSPEPSIA, BEBILITY, DROPSY, HUMORS,

PERUVIAN SYRUP

Makes the Weak Strong.

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an aliment, as easily digested and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.

This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building up an Iron Constitution.

Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures to strong, healthy, and happy men and women; and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.

GRAND ARTISTIC

Promenade Exhibition!

MR. T. P. MOSES is fast completing his gallery of Oil Paintings and decorations, and will open for visitors on MONDAY evening, November 11, in the spacious rooms at No. 13 Exchange Buildings, (first floor, up stairs,) opposite the Post Office,—to continue every day and evening (Sundays excepted) until his PIANO and over thirty well-finished OIL PAINTINGS are disposed of at One Dollar a Share. Mr. M. designs to make this Exhibition the most beautiful and social resort ever presented in Portsmouth. All the paintings, fresco-work decorations, etc., are of his own production; and he hopes the Gallery will elicit the interest of thousands of visitors during its continuance. The blessing of pleasant recollections will reward each visitor if he should not be the recipient of a tangible and valuable award at the grand Finale. Mr. M. hopes all the children of the city will attend during the Exhibition on Wednesday and Saturday afternoons—the show will please them and impress them with delightful dreams and help to elevate their taste and imagination. There will be no bitterness in the memory of this charming and refining scene. Programmes will be in free circulation, with the catalogue of paintings and further particulars.

Tickets of admission, 25cts.; children under 14 years, 15 cts.; Season tickets, admitting the purchasers at all times to the Gallery, and having an interest according to their numbers, in the awards to be made after all the tickets are sold, $1. Tickets can be procured at the usual places, at the Bookstore of Messrs. Buzzell & Son, and at the Exhibition Hall.

Fifteen boys were born in this city on Monday—and it wasn't a good day for boys, either.

Wanted, an original Greely man. If the article required is not purchasable, a Democrat who ever had any idea that Greeley could be elected will answer. Any person producing either of the above mentioned antiquities will have two shares of Greeley stock allotted him.

Square dances are fashionable this season.

Somebody came tumbling down over the stairs leading from the Greeley headquarters, election night, covered with blood. What was up?

Silly Billy crawls out of his statement that the "CHRONICLE people" put through the voter referred to in our issue of Wednesday, by saying that Frank W. Miller, Esq., was instrumental in doing so. Mr. Miller is chairman of the Ward Two Republican committee and as such did his duty. He has had no connection with the CHRONICLE for more than two years and the Lyre liar knows it.

A new born infant enclosed in a tobacco box was picked up in the river on Wednesday.

Now is the time for Greeley editors to win a glorious national victory for their candidates, on the "percentage gain" system. This should be an easy job for them, they have had so much practice in winning State victories on that plan. They'll never get Honest Horace into the White House in any other way.

Edward Flynn was on Wednesday bound over in $300 by Judge Page, to answer at a higher court to a charge of keeping a disorderly house on Bow Street.

The S. J. Court was engaged Wednesday, in the trial of the cause John Stack vs. the City of Portsmouth, for damages caused by falling into a cellar at the corner of Brewery Street on the evening that the Democracy celebrated the election of Western as Governor. Stack testified that he had just bought a pint of rum at Alton's. There was some disagreement among the surgeons as to whether his collar bone was broken or not.

Mr. Edwin Adams, the distinguished tragedian, will make his first appearance in this city about Nov. 28. The Columbus (Ohio) Journal, says: It is a rare treat in one's life to have read the sad production of the muse over and over again, and then see it acted out in all its fullness and sadness as Adams acts it. In his personation of Enoch Arden, he is justly compared by competent critics to Joe. Jefferson, as Rip Van Winkle."

A Query.

Eds. Chronicle:—Can you inform me whether or not it is proposed to drape the Masonic Hall building in mourning, as a mark of respect to the memory of the anti-secret-society candidate whose name has for months been visible on the partizan political flag suspended from the building? I think a few pieces of crape would fill the place of that flag very appropriately, the candidate having been washed into a bloody chasm by a tidal wave, and drowned. Yours truly,

ANGUS (R).

NEW BOOKS.—Sheldron & Co. have issued a pamphlet edition of "The Ordeal For Wives," a new story by Mrs. Annie Edwards. It is admirably written, interesting and bright reading, and in its plot, thought, character and style, is strikingly excellent. It is a novel of great merit.

"Saratoga in 1901," from the felicitous pen of "Eli Perkins," (Melville D. Landor,) of the New York Commercial, is issued by the same publishers. It it quaintly illustrated by Lumley with 500 wood cuts, and consists of watering place gossip and satire, being a collection of "Lan's" readable letters from Saratoga and imaginative compositions of 1901. It is an irresistibly funny book. For sale at the book stores.

—"Who was the meekest man, my son?" said the superintendent of a boys' Bible class in this State." "Moses, sir." "Very well, my boy, and who was the meekest woman?" "Please sir, there never was no meekest woman."

CAN SUCH THINGS BE?—On a retired but pleasant avenue of this city, says the Pittsburg Dispatch, a newly-married couple settled down to housekeeping a short time ago, who, for obvious reasons, shall be called Brown, one of the reasons being because that isn't their name. Mrs. Brown is a very pretty woman, and Mr. Brown a very jolly, good kind of fellow, and there appeared to be no reason why the lives of this interesting couple should not be one long summer-day of happiness. But one day there arose a little dark cloud in their wedded sky, which grew and grew and grew till it culminated in quite a shower, as will be seen hereafter. The single domestic in the Brown family is, or rather was, a specimen of octoroon beauty, who may be designated as Jane, for the same reason that her employers are called Brown. Jane had a lover, who is the biggest and blackest of his race. His name is Tom; he drives a coal cart, and he had a habit of calling on his lady-love in the kitchen by slipping through the area gate, which occasions were no doubt highly enjoyed by the parties concerned. Now little Mrs. Brown had somehow got it into her silly head that her liege lord was altogether too partial to the tropical beauty of the olive-cheeked and starry-eyed queen of the kitchen, and she made herself correspondingly miserable about it.

For a long time she nursed her secret misery in silence, while the world, including her husband and Jane, went on in the even tenor of its way, and the sky didn't fall nor any other extraordinary phenomenon came to pass. At last Mrs. B. determined to put an end to her suspense by confirming her worst suspicions, then to go and sleep beneath the clods, &c., and she arranged it in this way: Her husband was accustomed to return to the conjugal nest at about twilight in the evening, and she was sure that he would seek the partner of his guilt in the kitchen at that time; so she laid a little plan to detect him in his inconstancy, wither him with her righteous wrath, and then leave him forever. With this determination, near the above-mentioned time she descended to the lower regions, sent the supposed wicked syren out on some domestic errand, and took up a waiting position with her head screened by a window curtain, so that the false one should not recognize her until too late for excuse. She had not long to wait. Very soon she heard the well-known footstep stealthily but hurriedly coming up the alley, then the latch was raised and the intruder entered. She heard him cross the room. She felt his arm sliding around and clasping her waist; she held her breath, for the culmination of her worst fears, the proof of her strongest suspicions were within her grasp.

The arm drew her yielding and almost fainting form to the manly, palpitating bosom of its owner, and the lips of the owner of the arm imprinted a resounding kiss upon her own. Then, for the first time, she faced her embracer, and beheld her—no, not her husband, but—shades of all the amendments!—the staring eyes, perplexed and astonished countenance of that sooty son of Ham, Tom, the coal cart driver and lover of the suspected filcher of Mrs. B.'s conjugal treasure. The scene that ensued may be imagined, but cannot be described. There was a series of screams and a rapid disappearance of No. 13 bregans through the door. The confusion brought Brown down from the parlor, where he had been impatiently waiting for the appearance of his little wife, instead of philandering with the cook. There was a shower of tears and a confession, and a discharge of the handsome octoroon, a thorough understanding that the affair was never to be mentioned, and they are to live happy in the future.

—A young man who prides himself on his muscle and proficiency in the "manly art," went to a store in Bangor, and, after some loud talk, tipped over a barrel of cranberries on his exit, following up his feat by "stumping" one of the proprietors out into the street. The aforesaid proprietor accepted the challenge, and after wiping up the mud for a square rod with the man-of-muscle's back, ended the little game by throwing him bodily over a fence. The muscular youth doesn't like to have anybody say cranberries to him now.

The Singer

SEWING MACHINE

STILL LEADS THE MARKET.

The Success of the Company is far beyond that of any other similar concern; the

Daily Manufacture

—OF—

400 OF THE SINGERS

Failing to Supply the Constant Demand.

All other machines call the public attention to some new loop or stitch or tension or finish, some advantage in running or needles or feed or prices—and many of these are as we have said very good points, and the agents selling them use them to divert entirely the would-be purchaser from fairly considering the facts in the case; but the

seems to unite the good qualities of all, and is never found wanting.

THE SINGER

IS THE

OLDEST

SEWING MACHINE

IN THE MARKET,

All others being copied from its first model. does two-thirds the sewing done in this country and preserves its advantages over all others combined.

It is readily kept clean, and has THE BEST TENSION EVER INVENTED; it is higher speeded and requires but little power to run; it works equally well upon the finest and heaviest goods; it does all the varieties of work known to the art.

Dick Wood.

The Mount Sterling (Ky.) Sentinel says: "Dick Wood, the Radical candidate for Congress in this district, while canvassing in the mountain the other day, was compelled at one point to imbibe a great deal of apple-jack in order to convince the natives that he was not one of those "high-flyers" who think themselves made of superior stuff to the "honest and hardy yeomanry." The consequence was that Dick—after giving orders to be woke up at eight o'clock in the morning, that he might be able to reach a distant appointment next day—when he retired to rest, was in five minutes after he laid down "as good as a dead man." Some scamps procured some lampblack, which they mixed with water, and entering his sleeping apartment thoroughly blacked his face. Next morning, promptly, he was aroused at three o'clock and was in such a hurry to be off that he did not take time to wash, but bolted his breakfast and rode away at a brisk gait. Arriving at his destination, he hunted up a prominent Radical to whom he had a letter of introduction and presented his credentials. The gentleman read the letter, alternating the reading with glances at Dick's face, and then asked:

"And you are Major Wood, of Mount Sterling?"

"That's my name," replied Dick.

"Why, I thought you were a white man," said the other.

Greatly astonished, "Dick" blurted out, "And so I am."

"Well, you have a cussed black skin for a white man."

"What the devil do you mean?" said "Dick," angrily. "Do you want to insult me?"

"No, sir; but you had better not attempt to speak here to-day. Our boys won't stand a speech from a nigger!"

"A nigger!" cried "Dick;" "why, there ain't a drop of nigger blood in my veins! I'm as white as you or any other man!"

Seeing a looking glass on the wall "Dick" stepped up and looked in it. Starting back with an oath that fairly made the blinds rattle, he exclaimed:

"Well, if the cussed fools over at Wytheville haven't waked up the wrong man, and Wood is over there yet!"

Jerking off his hat, he dropped into a chair and began vigorously to fan himself. The other seeing his straight hair, and noticing that the back of his neck appeared to be white, suggested soap and water.

The many Boston friends and acquaintances of Mr. George A. Marden, the editor of the Lowell Courier, will be glad to learn of his election as representativ from Lowell. Lowell will be well represented, by George! Advertiser.

AYER'S

SARSAPARILLA

FOR PURIFYING THE BLOOD.

A medicine that cures is a real public blessing. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA makes positive cure of a series of complaints, which are always afflicting and too often fatal. It purifies the blood, purges out the lurking humors in the system, which undermine health and settle into troublesome disorders. Eruptions of the skin are the appearance on the surface of humors that should be expelled from the blood. Internal derangements are the determination of these same humors to some internal organ, or organs, whose action they derange, and whose substance they disease and destroy. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA expels these humors from the blood. When they are gone, the disorders they produce disappear, such as Ulcerations of the Liver, Stomach, Kidneys, Lungs, Eruptions and Eruptive Diseases of the Skin, St. Anthony's Fire, Boils or Erysipelas, Pimples, Pustules, Blotches, Boils, Tumors, Tetter and Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, Ulcers and Sores, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Pain in the Bones, Side, and Head, Female Weakness, Sterility, Leucorrhœa arising from internal ulceration and uterine disease, Dropsy, Dyspepsia, Emaciation, and General Debility. With their departure health returns.

AYER'S

CHERRY PECTORAL

For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma and Consumption.

The few compositions, which have won the confidence of mankind and become household words among not only one but many nations, must have extraordinary virtues. Perhaps no one ever secured so wide a reputation or maintained it so long as AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. It has been known to the public about forty years, by a long continued series of marvellous cures, which have won for it a confidence in its virtues, never equalled by any other medicines. It still makes the most effectual cures of Coughs, Colds, Consumption, that can be made by medical skill. Indeed the CHERRY PECTORAL has really robbed these dangerous diseases of their terrors, to a great extent, and given a feeling of immunity from their fatal effects, which is well founded, if the remedy be taken in season. Every family should have it in their closet for the ready and prompt relief of its members. Sickness, suffering, and even life is saved by this timely protection. The prudent should not neglect it, and the wise will not. Keep it by you for the protection it affords in sudden attacks, and by its timely use.

AYER'S HAIR VIGOR

FOR RESTORING GRAY HAIR

TO ITS NATURAL VITALITY AND COLOR.

Advancing years, sickness, care, disappointment, and hereditary predisposition, all turn the hair gray; either of them disposes to fall off prematurely, and either effect is unsightly and undesirable. To obviate this, DR. AYER'S consummate skill has produced an antidote for these deformities, which has won gratitude for him from multitudes of men and women. His HAIR VIGOR sometimes reproduces lost hair; and always restores to faded and gray hair its natural color, with the glossy freshness of youth. The comparatively few bald and gray heads, that we now see, are those who have not yet discovered the virtues of AYER'S HAIR VIGOR for renewing the hair. The fresh and youthful hair we see on older heads is often the product of his art. If you are disfigured, or made old, austere and ugly, by gray hair, restore its youthful color, and with your features to their original softness and agreeable expression.

As an elegant dressing for beautifying the Hair, it has no superior.

BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOR is composed of Ammonia, Chloroform, Spirits of Camphor, Tincture of Lupuline, Oil of Juniper, and Alcohol. This compound is unequalled in the annals of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling or Twitching of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, banish pimples, cure scaly eruptions, itching, humors, &c.; it equalizes the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the brain, cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. Briggs' Alleviator is absolutely possesses more curative properties than any other preparation. Physicians, chemists, and others are requested to examine and test the remedy, and $1000 will be paid if found different from representation.

COUGHS, Much has been said and written, and many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases; but nothing has been so eminently successful, or obtained such a wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.

CORNS! The excruciating pain produced by Corns, the unceasing twinging from Bunions, the piercing, distressing pain from Ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, not knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies are no acid or potash compounds, but are reliable, soothing, and effectual, and just merit the success they have earned from an appreciative public. The Curative is a healing ointment; immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it will positively cure the worst cases of Festered Corns, Inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the sorest insole, the largest and severest Blisters, the most extensive Callosities on the soles or heels of the feet, unequalled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Alleviator for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unexelled by anything ever known.

PILES have been a terror to mankind for centuries, and almost every attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr. Briggs has discovered an absolutely cure for Internal, Bleeding, external, and itching piles. Briggs' Pile Remedies are mild, safe and sure

For all the purposes of a Family Physic,

CURING

Costiveness, Jaundice, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Dysentery, Foul Stomach, Erysipelas, Headache, Piles, Rheumatism, Eruptions and Skin Diseases, Biliousness, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Tetter, Tumors and Salt Rheum, Worms, Gout, Neuralgia, as a Dinner Pill, and Purifying the Blood,

Are the most congenial purgative yet perfected. Their effects abundantly show how much they excel all other Pills. They are safe and pleasant to take, but powerful to cure. They purge out the foul humors of the blood; they stimulate the sluggish or disordered organs into action, and they impart health and tone to the whole frame. They cure not only the every day complaints of every body, but formidable and dangerous diseases. Most eminent clergymen, most skillful physicians, and our best citizens send certificates of cures performed and of great benefits they have derived from these Pills. They are the safest and best physic for children, because mild as well as effectual. Being sugar coated, they are easy to take; and being purely vegetable, they are entirely harmless.

THE OLD KIND OF RELIGION.—A spicy sort of a chap who calls himself "Jo Itemizer," and contributes regularly to the Urbana Citizen and Gazette, speaks as follows of Mr. Gunn's sermon in the M. E. church:

A son of a Gunn, from Springfield, O, preached at the First M. E. church, last Monday, on the subject of sanctification—a new name for old fashioned religion, as it looks through my spectacles. You know when they wanted to bring old fashioned large figured prints into style again, they knew they could not do so if they called them Old Fashioned Prints—so they named them Dolly Varden. Religious worship having degenerated into mere form and fashion, viewed abstractly, it has become necessary, in order to bring the people back to the tracks of old fashioned religion, to call old fashioned heartfelt religion by a new name—namely, sanctification. They used to call the grace of sanctification "the soul full of love to God," or "conversion. Anyhow, with that kind of Religion, or Grace, and the kind that saved the thief on the cross, we have seen our fathers, mothers, brothers and sisters shove out for the bright shore with angelic faces and shouts of joy. Old fashioned religion would not allow the wearing of superfluous apparel, jewelry, &c. They got some of this old fashioned religion at the last Urbana National Camp Meeting, and gold watches, diamond rings, gold chains, and even the ornamental flub-dubs on their dresses were cast off. Women that looked like a pile of fancy dry goods, and some of them suffering so severely with "Grecian Bend" and the "back up" as to make one fear that by colic they were about to die, suddenly curtailed their proportions to modest dimensions, and the right kind of suffering got into their backs. In the face of the facts that not only the Bible, but the Methodist Discipline, also, in language as plain as A, B, C, forbids the wearing of gaudy and costly apparel, jewelry, &c, many—in and out of the pale of the church—actually pronounced these Christians crazy, and honestly disbelieved what they asserted. Not so with me. I was not only almost persuaded [illegible] by this kind of demonstration, but to be in favor of Camp Meetings also.

IRON in the BLOOD.

DYSPEPSIA, DEBILITY, DROPSY, HUMORS,

PERUVIAN SYRUP

Makes the Weak Strong.

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an aliment, as easily digested and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills" simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, scathing our morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.

This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building up an Iron Constitution.

Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures to strong, healthy, and happy men and women; and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.

See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.

The Election.

Georgia is for Greeley by 30,000. Savannah gave Grant 3532, Greeley 3182. Seven Democrats and two Republicans are chosen Congressmen.

Complete returns at the Courant office show the total vote of Connecticut to be 96,901—Grant, 50,026; Greeley, 42,890; scattering, for O'Conor and Black, 385; Grant's plurality, 4736; majority, 4351. For Congress in the first district General Hawley's majority over Eaton is 635.

The Ohio Legislature is Republican, ensuring the defeat of Trumbull for the U. S. Senate and the election of Oglesby, when Lieut. Governor Beveridge will act as Governor.

Additional returns show that the republicans carry New Jersey by 20,000. The legislature will stand: Senate—republicans, 14; democrats, 7,. Assembly—republicans, 43; democrats, 17; independent democrat, 1.

It is believed that McFadden (dem.), delegate for Congress, is elected in Washington Territory.

Immense republican gains everywhere justify the conclusion that Grant has carried Virginia.

Memphis, Tennessee, gave Grant 4863, Greeley 4455.

A Jackson dispatch says returns from 31 counties in Mississippi give 19,600 republican majority. The State is claimed for Grant by 35,000. The republicans elect 5 out of 6 Congressmen.

Wisconsin gives Grant and Wilson 15,000 majority. Williams, Hazleton, Barber, Sawyer, Rush, and McGill, republicans 5, and Eldridge, democrat, are elected to Congress.

Brooklyn, N. Y., has 66,022 votes on the presidental ticket, of which Greeley has a majority of 4716. Seymour's majority in 1868 was 11,539, so that a republican gain of 6828 is shown over 1868. The city also gives Dix, with a few election districts yet to hear from, a majority of 1047. Kernan ran 5762 votes behind Greeley. The republican gain on Governor compared with Hoffman's majority in 1868, is 15,594. In the county of Kings, which includes beside Brooklyn but about 3000 votes, the republicans have carried two congressional districts and have chosen five out of nine assemblymen.

Grant's majority in Virginia is from 3000 to 5000.

The Murder Mania

Continues. A shocking tragedy has been discovered in Boston. The Advertiser says:—A cloud of crime seems to have been hovering over us of late. The inquest on the mysterious Lane murder in Dorchester has not yet rendered a verdict; since then the details of three murders in Boston and vicinity have been made public, and we hear of a fifth, as mysterious as the first, and more shocking in its horrible details than any of the others. Wednesday afternoon at about half-past three o'clock, a laborer at the works of the Cambridge Gas Light Company, saw a barrel drifting slowly up-stream, it being nearly the turn of the tide. Supposing it driftwood he took a small boat and rowed off to secure the prize.

But as he approached it, to his horror and astonishment he saw a human hand protruding. Putting back to the shore he summoned assistance, and the barrel was taken ashore. It was found to contain the body of a man, the head and legs missing. While removing the body from the barrel another cask was seen farther up the river, and floating down, the tide having turned. It was brought on shore, and found to be filled with some kind of packing material, secured in its place by thin strips of wood across the top. The second barrel was found to contain the missing head and legs, closely packed in horse manure and shavings. Neither barrel was headed, the first being entirely open.

The body was found to be that of a man about fifty years old, stout and well built, and about five feet eight inches in height. His weight would appear to be somewhere between one hundred and fifty and one hundred and seventy-five pounds. His head was bald on top, and his hair was thin and gray. His whiskers were dark and grayish, extending around on the side of the face, which had the appearance of recent shaving. The features appeared somewhat thin and sunken. the hands were under the medium size, were white and soft appearing, unused to hard labor. He was well-dressed in a dark-blue tricot coat, dark pants, and dark double-breasted vest. He had on nice sewed calf-skin boots, and in the barrel with the head and legs was a silk hat. His whole appearance was that of a gentleman, apparently a merchant. In the barrel with the body was an open-faced gold watch. In his pockets were found a Ward 10 (Boston) Greeley and Brown ballot, a brass key, two shingle nails and half a lead pencil, but no money.

The body when handled bled freely and was quite stiff, showing that it could not have been many hours since the deed was committed. The ballot found in the pocket would also indicate this, and, together with the direction in which it was floating, that the murder was done in Boston. The watch was stopped at ten minutes past eleven o'clock. The two barrels were seen to pass the Harvard boat-house at three o'clock. On the back of the head the skull was broken in several places, and there were two gashes there. Under one eye the face was bruised and discolored. The head and legs were chopped off with an axe, and the legs were gashed in several places.

These are the facts of a murder which was apparently committed with the most fiendish malice, the presence of the watch indicating that murder was not the object, although no money was found on the person. The identity of the murdered man will probably not long remain a mystery, as appearances indicate that he belonged in Boston, though it is somewhat strange that the police had not been notified that some one was missing. The horse-manure and shavings make it appear that the deed was committed somewhere about a stable, and there are other circumstances that afford a better clue to detectives than is usually the case.

Death of Gen. Meade.

Major General George G. Meade died at his residence, in Philadelphia, on Wednesday, of pneumonia. He was born in Cadiz, Spain, in 1816. His father, Richard W. Meade, was at that time consul of the port. Coming to the United States during his boyhood, he was appointed to the Military Academy at West Point, where he graduated in 1835. Entering the artillery, he served for a short time in the Seminole war in Florida, and in 1836 resigned his commission and entered the civil service of the government as an assistant engineer on the survey of the Delta of the Mississippi. He was engaged as a surveyor until 1842, when he was reappointed to the army as second lieutenant of topographical engineers. While holding this rank he was employed on the northern border and elsewhere, and at the breaking out of the war with Mexico he was stationed in Texas. He was engaged in several of the Mexican battles and was breveted first lieutenant for gallant conduct at Monterey. Continuing in the service of the government he rose to a captaincy of engineers, which rank he held at the breaking out of the rebellion. He was appointed brigadier-general of volunteers, Aug. 31, 1861, and took command of a brigade of the Pennsylvania reserve corps, which was stationed on the right of the lines before Washington until June, 1862. The first action of the war in which he was engaged took place at Dranesville, Va., in December, 1861. He took part in the peninsular campaign during the summer of 1862, was present at the Mechanicsville and Gaines' Mill engagements, and was severely wounded at the battle of Glendale, June 30, of that year. In two months he recovered and went into the campaign in northern Virginia. For a few days in September, 1862, he was in temporary command of the army of the Potomac, and in November he was promoted to be major-general of volunteers. He was present at South Mountain and Antietam, and in December took command of the 5th corps, which he held in the battles of Fredericksburg and Chancellorsville. On the eve of the battle of Gettysburg, he was appointed to the command of the Army of the Potomac, which he continued to hold until the close of the war. He directed many of the important actions in Virginia and was present in many of the battles. He received the honor of a brigadier-general's commission in the regular army on the field of Gettysburg, and was appointed major-general in the army, August 18, 1864. After the surrender at Appomattox he took command of the military division of the Atlantic, which he held for over a year. August 6, 1866, he was appointed to command the department of the East, with headquarters at Philadelphia, which position he continued to hold until his death. During the terrible campaign in Virginia which finally broke the back of the rebellion, General Meade was the trusted and steadfast leader of the army of the Potomac, under General Grant, and he came out of the war for the Union with a military reputation untarnished by the effects of selfishness or ambition. He was a good officer, bluff, soldierly in all things, but kind of heart and popular with his subordinates. As commander of the Union army during the great and decisive struggle on the field of Gettysburg, the nation will forever hold him in the highest honor.

PILES.—The unceasing torture from internal bleeding, external and itching piles is fast wearing away the thousands of those who are afflicted and their hope and courage have long since given place to despair. Let those who see this cheer up, for a mild and sure cure may be had by using BRIGGS' PILE REMEDIES.

SEEING IS BELIEVING.—If ladies who do not use the fragrant Sozodont will compare teeth with those who do, they will see in an instant, more reasons for adopting it, than can be composed into a newspaper paragraph.

PERNICIOUS PURGATIVES.—The brilliant idea of half a century ago that the weak and ailing could be bled, blistered and salivated into a condition of health and vigor is happily exploded; but violent and prolonged purgation is still, to some extent, in vogue. We have impostors who are daring enough to offer to the world, as tonics and restoratives, the most destructive cathartics, unmodified by a single stimulating, soothing or restorative element. Compare the operation of one of these terrible nostrums with that of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, in which are combined the three great curative elements—a tonic, an alterative, and an aperient. The former completely paralyzes the vital forces, of that nature can make no resistance to disease; the latter sustains the strength of the patient, while it restores the suspended functions of the secretry organs and relieves the bowels without violence or pain. It is simply a choice between restoration and prostration.

USE BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL for all throat diseases. For sale at the Union Store.

CORNS.—Since pride and fashion have had control of mankind, and shoemakers were compelled to make boots and shoes to fit fancy instead of the feet, the suffering from Corns, Bunions, Ingrowing Nails, Sore Insteps, Blistered Heels, Callosities on the bottom of the feet, &c., cannot be described. But Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies will cure all such torments, and proper fitting boots will prevent their reproduction. Sold by all druggists. al2

MR. T. P. ROSES is fast completing his gallery of Oil Paintings and decorations, and will open for visitors on MONDAY evening, November 11, in the spacious rooms at No. 13 Exchange Buildings, (first floor, up stairs,) opposite the Post Office,—to continue every day and evening (Sundays excepted) until his PIANO and over thirty well-finished OIL PAINTINGS are disposed of at One Dollar a Share. Mr. M. designs to make this Exhibition the most beautiful and social resort ever presented in Portsmouth. Fire at Greenland.

Shortly after 8 o'clock, Wednesday evening, fire was discovered bursting from the roof of the barn of Albert Blaisdell, Esq., at Greenland. The neighbors saved the live stock and some of the furniture of the house, but the house and barn were burned. Loss $13,000; insured $7000 in Sise's agency. A. F. Craig had $1000 insurance on the furniture.

Schooner Sunk.

Arrived at this port, Nov. 7th, sch. Potomac, Cochran. Spoke on morning of the 6th, sch. B. D. Darling, Hatch, from Fall River for Bangor. The latter reported having rescued the captain and crew of sch. Frank & Nellie, of Rockland, which vessel foundered three miles eastward of Pollock Rip lightship on the 5th, at 9 P. M.

S. J. Court.

In case John Stack vs. City of Portsmouth, the jury found for Stack on Thursday, estimating damages at $1000. Exceptions taken and case carried to full bench. The plaintiff sued for $1500 damages and was offered $300.

A Father Found.

An investigation of the case of the body of an infant found floating in the river on Wednesday was held by Coroner Rider on Thursday afternoon, the father of the child coming forward and acknowledging that he threw the body overboard, it having been still-born. He was evidently innocent of any criminal intent, but poverty, occasioned by sickness in his family, induced him to thus dispose of the body rather than to incur the expense of burial. The body was placed in a box and a big stone attached to it, but the stone became disengaged and the pox floated. The coroner deemed an inquest unnecessary.

Notice to Catholics.

Bishop Bacon, of Portland, Me., is expected here on Sunday next to bless the corner-stone of the new Catholic Church of this city. It is usual on these solemn occasions to take up a collection to meet the necessary expenses of the church, and it is hoped that all those present will liberally contribute whatever they can afford. Those persons who cannot conveniently come will be kind enough to send their subscription to Father Walsh, who will publicly thank them for it.

Election Bets.

Among the numerous election bets made in this city—most of them made at an early date in the canvass, before North Carolina, Vermont and Maine had rendered the introduction of the "percentage gain" system necessary to the winning of Greeley victories—was one made on the 27th of August, when the brag and bluster of the coalitionists was loudest and most positive, between mine host of the Kearsarge House, James E. Dennett, Esq., and one of his guests, Mr. Geo. W. Harrison, of Alexandria, D. C. Mr. Harrison was "dead sure" that Honest Horace was the man to build a bridge over the bloody chasm he had just discovered; Mr. Dennett had had too much experience as a landlord to be caught with such chaff as the Greeleyites were then holding out to entice Republicans into their ranks, besides which he didn't believe there was any bloody chasm, nor that it needed bridging if it existed, nor that Horace was mechanic enough to build the bridge if it was needed. Each gentleman thought it well to make the election of his favorite candidate redound to his own private interest, so a bet was made—and now Mr. Harrison's $150 English watch is the property of the confident supporter of Grant and Wilson.

On the evening of election day a prominent "Liberal" wagered a "plug" hat with a Grant man, that this State would go for Greeley! It is believed the Greeley man has lost. On the same evening two straight Republicans made a bet with a Liberal one that Greeley would not get the electoral votes of more than seven States; and one of the two, in his supreme contempt for the doings of the Greeleyites as shown by the telegraphic returns, actually wagered that Grant would carry the home of Petroleum V. Nasby,—Kentucky!

The Northwood Murder.

"Kent," of the Traveller, has been interviewing Evans at Exeter jail—who says:—"I am not guilty of the murder, but knew where the body was put. When I got to the woods he had killed her; said that he had outraged her and then choked her to death. He wanted me to help him conceal the body, and said he would give me a handsome present. We then lugged her a half or three-quarters of a mile. I took her by the head and he by the feet and legs. I do not want to tell now who the person was that killed her. He got me two or three days before to get her into the woods for him. He showed me a piece of her body, gave it to me, and I went to the road and hid it. I should not have told the sheriff where the body was if he had not solemnly promised me my liberty.

Meeting of the Agricultural Board.

In accordance with a resolution passed by the Legislature, last June, the Governor and Council have assigned a room for the Board of Agriculture in the State House, and furnished it ready for occupancy.

The Board propose to make a somewhat formal acceptance of their headquarters, and inaugurate measures for a permanent organization. They therefore give notice that they will hold a session, at their room, on Thursday, the 14th day of November, at 11 o'clock in the forenoon, for the transaction of business.

That they may make a profitable meeting, they invite farmers from all sections of the State to meet with them in the afternoon and evening of that day, and engage in the discussion of practical topics, and especially in that of Fruit Culture.

To make the meeting more interesting, the Board invite fruit-growers from all sections of the State, and of neighboring States, to bring or send specimens from the products of their orchards and gardens for examination. Apples will be the chief item to be presented, though pears, grapes, and any kind of fruit will be received and considered.

The object has been heretofore named, not only by fruit-growers, but in several of the papers of the State. It is to determine the character of the fruit presented, ascertain if it is correctly named, and discuss the importance and profit of Fruit Culture and all that pertains to the subject. The Board will arrange to interest pomologists and others in the meeting with the expectation of securing their presence and of course their advice in regard to fruit-growing.

New Hampshire is a fruit-growing State. Nowhere do we find better apples than on our rocky soil. We grow pears in great variety, and in the southern section of the State we are successful in growing most of the valuable varieties of grapes.

Now if some man or some farmer's club will take pains to collect samples of the fruit grown in any particular locality, and send or bring them to the meeting named above, each variety properly labeled, it will tend to make the meeting one of great value. It is not necessary to make a large selection, only two or three of a variety will be necessary. They may be addressed to the Secretary of the Board, at Concord, and forwarded by express in cases where the sender cannot accompany his contribution.

If the meeting possesses sufficient interest it may be continued more than one day. Information will be given by any member of the Board, or by the Secretary.

The News.

In a mine at Maurburg, near Charleroi, Belgium, the lowering machinery gave way as miners were descending to work. Twenty-one men and boys were precipitated several hundred feet to the bottom of the shaft, and all were killed.

Italy suffers by wind and flood. A hurricane has killed thirty-two persons in the town of Palazuolo, destroyed half of the buildings and turned thousands of families from their homes.

Twenty boys, about ten to twelve years old, were arraigned before the police court at Great Falls a few days since, and fined $6.62 each for breaking glass in houses.

Another railroad horror has just been almost miraculously averted. An attempt was made by placing a rail across the track to destroy the steamboat train on the Old Colony and Newport Railroad and kill the passengers, but the prompt use of the Westinghaus brake saved the train, although the engine was disabled and the engineer seriously scalded.

The Singer

SEWING MACHINE

STILL LEADS THE MARKET.

The Success o the Company is far beyond that o any other similar concern; the

Daily Manufacture

—OF—

400 OF THE SINGERS

Failing to Supply the Constant Demand.

All other machines call the public attention to some new loop or stitch or tension or finish, some advantage in running or needles or feed or prices—and many of these are as we have said very good points, and the agents selling them use them to divert entirely the would-be purchaser from fairly considering the facts in the case; but the

seems to unite the good qualities of all, and is never found wanting.

THE SINGER
IS THE OLDEST
SEWING MACHINE
IN THE MARKET,

All others being copied from its first model. does two-thirds the sewing done in this country and unserves its advantages over all others combined.

It is readily kept clean, and has THE BESTTENSION EVER INVENTED; it is higher speeded and requires but little power to run; it works equally well upon the finest and heaviest goods; it does all the varieties of work known to the art.

HANGING FLOWER POTS, for sale by JOSEPH H. FOSTER, No. 1 Congress Block

Morning Chronicle.

A MOTHER-IN-LAW'S FAST RIDE.—Joe S. is the fortunate possessor of a mother-in-law, and, what he probably thought more of, among his horses was one known as Quaker. Now Quaker was a good reader, and could and would jerk a wagon with two in it in '51 on the road, and the harder he was pulled in and the more he was yelled at the faster he meant to go. In fact, when a competing horse ranged alongside, and a strong pull was taken accompanied with yells, he thought he must do his level best on trotting, and you bet he did it.

Not many years ago, when the county fair was held where Mister Joe then lived, he had old Quaker hitched up to a 130 pounds three-quarter seated wagon, and as he was getting in mother-in-law wished to go with him. He informed her that he was going to the town clerk's office at the lower end of the village, (about a mile,) and if she was in a hurry to return she would have to drive back alone, and then cramped the wagon for her admittance; and with head drooping and slouching gait old Quaker walked along, taking the ill-assorted pair to the clerk's office. Now be it known, Joe dearly loves fun, and will have it as often as possible, while mother-in-law is a rigid, old fashioned, sky-blue Baptist, undoubtedly very good but unfortunately possessed with the idea that to laugh is to sin.

It so happened that every team at that time was going to the fair grounds, or else walking; so Quaker had no chance to "score up," but just as they arrived at the office of the town clerk, S. saw Jack Barnes coming on his way to the fair. Now Jack's mare had the reputation of being 4 or 5 seconds faster than old Quaker. To turn Quaker around, jump out, advise mother-in-law to drive slow along home, was but a minutes' work, and then holding up his hand to attract Jack's attention he told him he would pay chicken fixings, et ceteras, if he would range along side Quaker at speed, yell and spirt the old horse up the street to Fair ground's entrance. A nod, Jack touches Lady Cutler with his whip, sings out git! and lays for Quaker, who hearing the stepper grabs at his bit.

Mother-in-law takes hold of reins in front of the buttons; puts feet against brace in front, and as the Lady ranges alongside, Jack yelling lively, mother-in-law takes the strongest pull, screaming whoa! to stop her "animile." But he didn't stop—not much, he didn't. The pull was just enough to steady him good; "whoa" he evidently considered to be meant for a sell to the other horse, and squatted to go his level best, and just did it. Now you bet!

Barnes was actually getting behind, and, warming up to his work, he commenced in right good earnest to sing out, "Hi! Yar! Go er long! What are you about! Git, won't yer?" And she did git—nice—"bush off 'em." The people they passed, seeing their speed, and the old lady's hat on the back of her neck, her shawl streaming out behind, and the courage with which she hung on to the lines, clapped their hands and encouragingly sung out, "Good old gal!" — "Gay old gal!" —"Gay old bird!"—"Bully for old Quaker!" And as they passed the two hotels, the fast boys on the piazzas gave them three cheers with a vim—in fact with sweet extra vims.

Joe's mother-in-law took the first evening train for her Green Mountain home. His parting words were, "he should not allow her to drive Quaker again, as he had cautioned her to drive slow, and she had gone and beat one of the fastest horses in the town."

Joe said next day, with a quiet twinkle in his eye, that his wife did not give him a curtain lecture" that night, and when parties put up their little bets on it, he proved by Jack Barnes that they went out to Pittsburg for their chicken fixings and et ceteras, and didn't get back until 6 o'clock next morning.—Turf, Field & Farm.

AYER'S
SARSAPARILLA
FOR PURIFYING THE BLOOD.
A medicine that cures is a real public blessing. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA makes positive cure of a series of complaints, which are always afflicting and too often fatal. It purifies the blood, purges out the lurking humors in the system, which undermine health and settle into troublesome disorders. Eruptions of the skin are the appearance on the surface of a humor that should be expelled from the blood. Internal derangements are the determination of these same humors to some internal organ, or organs, whose action they derange, and whose substance they disease and destroy. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA expels these humors from the blood. When they are gone the disorders they produce disappear, such as Ulcerations of the Liver, Stomach, Kidneys, Lungs, Eruptions and Eruptive Diseases of the skin, St. Anthony's Fire, Rose or Erysipelas, Pimples, Pustules, Blotches, Boils, Tumors, Tetter and Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, Ulcers and Sores, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Pain in the Bones, Side, and Head, Female Weakness, Sterility, Leucorrhea arising from internal ulceration or a uterine disease, Dropsy, Dyspepsia, Emaciation, and General Debility. With their departure health returns.

AYER'S
CHERRY PECTORAL
For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma and Consumption.
The few compositions, which have won the confidence of mankind and become household words among not only one but many nations, must have extraordinary virtues. Perhaps no preparation ever received so wide a reputation or maintained it so long as AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. It has been known to the public about forty years, by a long continued series of marvellous cures, which have won for it a confidence in its virtues, never equalled by any other medicine. It still makes the most effectual cures of Coughs, Colds, Consumption, that can be made by medical skill. Indeed the CHERRY PECTORAL has really robbed these dangerous diseases of their terrors, to a great extent, and given a feeling of immunity from their fatal effects, which is well founded, if the remedy be taken in season. Every family should have it in their closet for the ready and prompt relief of its members. Sickness, suffering, and even life is saved by this timely protection. The prudent should not neglect it, and the wise will not. Keep it by you for the protection it affords in sudden attacks, and by its timely use.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!
Relieve Your Lungs.
For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England,
Pulmocine Cordial
Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. EVERY FAMILY should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred THROAT DISEASES at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of PREVENTION. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and in little more are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this FAMILY MEDICINE prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all this afflicted. BOCHMAN'S PULMONIC CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.
BUCHMAN'S PULMONCIE CORDIAL is no now discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best PULMONARY CURATIVE he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experiments with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.
Buchman's Pulmonic Cordial
Is the ultimate thule of Medical Discovery.
Among its many ingredients are WILD CHERRY BARK, SQUILL ROOT, LICORICE ROOT, BLOOD ROOT, &c. It is a BLOOD PURIFIER, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is anodyne and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic, and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.
For Coughs, Croup, Diphtheria, Asthma, &c.
USE BUCHMAN'S
PULMOCINE CORDIAL.
The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of the ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

AYER'S HAIR VIGOR

FOR RESTORING GRAY HAIR

TO ITS NATURAL VITALITY AND COLOR.

Advancing years, sickness, care, disappointment, and hereditary predisposition, all turn the hair gray; either of them disposes to fall off prematurely, and either effect is unsightly and unpleasant to behold. DR. AYER's consummate skill has produced an antidote for these deformities, which has won gratitude for him from multitudes of men and women. His HAIR VIGOR sometimes reproduces lost hair; and always restores to faded and gray hair its natural color, with the glose and freshness of youth. The comparatively few bald and gray heads, that we now see, are those who have not yet discovered the virtues of AYER's HAIR VIGOR for renewing the hair. The fresh and youthful hair we see on older heads is often the product of his art. If you are disfigured, or made old, austere and ugly, by gray hair, restore its youthful color, and with your features to their original softness and agreeable expression.

As an elegant dressing for beautifying the Hair, it has no superior.

HOLLOWAY'S

PILLS AND OINTMENT.

Every Man His Own Physician.

CAUTION.

THE immense demand for HOLLOWAY'S PILLS and OINTMENT, has tempted unprincipled parties to counterfeit these valuable medicines.

In order to protect the public and ourselves, we have issued a new "Trade Mark," consisting of an Egyptian circle of a serpent, with the letter H in the centre. Every box of genuine HOLLOWAY'S PILLS and OINTMENT will have this trade mark on it; none are genuine without it.

$1000 REWARD.

BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOR is composed of Ammonia, Chloroform, Spirits of Camphor, Tincture of Lupuline, Oil of Juniper, and Alcohol. This compound is unequaled in the annals of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling or Twitching of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, banish pimples, cure scaly eruptions, itching, humors, &c.; it equalizes the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the brain, cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. Briggs' Alleviator absolutely possesses more curative properties than any other preparation. Physicians, chemists, and others are requested to examine and test the remedy, and $1000 will be paid if found different from representation.

COUGHS, Much has been said and written, and many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases; but nothing has been so eminently successful, or obtained such a wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.

CORNS! The excruciating pain produced by Corns, the unceasing twinging from Bunions, the piercing, distressing pain from Ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, not knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies are no acid or potash compounds, but are reliable, soothing, and effectual, and just merit the success they have earned from an appreciative public. The Curative is a healing ointment; immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it will positively cure the worst cases of Festered Corns, Inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the sorest instep, the largest and severest Blisters, the most extensive Callosities on the soles or heels of the feet, unequalled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Alleviator for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unexcelled by anything ever known.

PILES have been a terror to mankind for centuries, and almost every attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr. Briggs has discovered an absolutely cure for internal, bleeding, external, and itching piles. Briggs' Pile Remedies are mild, safe and sure.

For sale by J. H. THACHER, WM. R. PRESTON, Portsmouth; JAMES O. TREFETHEN, Kittery; E. S. SAFFORD, Kittery Point; H. M. CURTIS, Newcastle, and dealers generally.

CORNS, Bunions, Bad Nails, and other diseases of the feet, Scrofulous and Cancerous Humors, Piles, etc., skillfully treated at the great central Chiropodical and Healing Institute, No. 765 Broadway, New York. DR. J. BRIGGS, President; DR. ALEXANDER WEBBER, Secretary. ap9

CURING

Costiveness, Jaundice, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Dysentery, Foul Stomach, Erysipelas, Headache, Piles, Rheumatism, Eruptions and Skin Diseases, Biliousness, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Tetter, Tumors and Salt Rheum, Worms, Gout, Neuralgia, as a Dinner Pill, and Purifying the Blood,

Are the most congenial purgative yet perfected. Their effects abundantly show how much they excel all other Pills. They are safe and pleasant to take, but powerful to cure. They purge out the foul humors of the blood; they stimulate the sluggish or disordered organ into action, and they impart health and tone to the whole frame. They cure not only the every day complaints of every body, but formidable and dangerous diseases. Most eminent clergymen, most skillful physicians, and our best citizens send certificates of cures performed and of great benefits they have derived from these Pills. They are the safest and best physic for children, because mild as well as effectual. Being sugar coated, they are easy to take; and being purely vegetable, they are entirely harmless.

Horace's Soliloquy after Hearing the Election News.

O, dear! 'tis a terrible thing to be beaten,
After all the mud swallowed and all the dirt eaten;
I've cried like a baby, I've wriggled and squirmed,
I've crawled through my record, in all ways I've turned;
Betimes I've prayed (for me that's something new,)
Then I've sworn like a trooper (which I usually do;)
I've said good is evil, that black was pure white
And that Grant should be hung if he dared to do right:
I've fawned on the rebel, the "nigger" I've cursed,
And had Tammany asked it I would have done worse.
I've worn a bad hat and terrible coat,
And would e'en have worn Adam's rig, to win a vote.
O! what shall I do? where shall I find rest?
Now do not be harsh and tell me to "go West;"
O, cracky! O! Jiminy! Thunder! Boo-hoo!
That bad Grant is sitting where I wanted to.

STILETTOED.—Two Italians, reached Dover, N. J., from New York, and visited the shoe store of Giovanni Barriotti. One of the men claimed Barriotti's housekeeper as his wife, and after a slight altercation stabbed the woman in the mouth with a long stiletto. She died immediately. Barriotti attempted to rescue her, and was also stabbed in the abdomen in two places, and will probably die. Both men are under arrest, and the affair creates great excitement, some of the citizens wanting to lynch the murderer.

IRON in the BLOOD.

DYSPEPSIA, DEBILITY, DROPSY, HUMORS,

PERUVIAN SYRUP

Makes the Weak Strong.

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an aliment, as easily digested and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.

This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building up an Iron Constitution.

Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures to strong, healthy, and happy men and women: and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.

See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.

Portsmouth, N. H.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 9, 1872.

The Election.

From Florida a dispatch is received stating that Grant's majority in fifteen counties heard from is 5700, and that the Republican State ticket is surely elected.

Mr. Nathaniel Stone of Framingham, Mass., in his ninety-third year, voted for the seventy-first time at a State election, and cast his fifteenth presidential vote. He was not quite twenty-one at the national election in 1800. He voted for Grant and Wilson.

The board of return judges officially give the majority for Grant in Philadelphia,—45,446.

Michigan reports, through the chairman of her republican State committee, a majority of full 50,000 for Grant, a full republican Congressional delegation, every county republican, a republican legislature, not a Greeley republican elected to any office in the State and the republican gain in the State over the majority of 1868 up to 20,000.

A Tennessee despatch states that the returns, official, indicate that in that State, Greeley's majority will be very small if any. The election of Freeman (republican) over Brown (Democrat) for governor is probable. The legislature will be under control of republicans and Johnson men. Maynard's (republican) plurality over Cheatham is 10,000, and over Andrew Johnson about 40,000. The republicans have elected seven out of the ten Congressmen.

A despatch says Missouri has probably given 15,000 majority for Greeley and has elected a republican legislature.

A special from Mississippi states that returns received insure the State for Grant by 35,000, and indications are that further returns will increase this figure to at least 40,000.

New Jersey gives Grant nearly 14,000 majority. The republican congressmen have about 18,000 majority.

A dispatch from Nevada announces Grant's majority in that State at 2,000. The legislature will stand 52 republicans and 20 democrats. This secures the election of J. P. Jones to the United States Senate.

A special despatch from Kentucky, conceded from the very first to Greeley, intimates that it may yet prove to belong on the long list of Grant States. Scattering returns, this despatch states, show immense gains, and a like per cent. throughout the State will give Kentucky to Grant. The prospect of the election of three republican congressmen is fair.

In Arkansas, Baxter, Republican, is elected Governor; the State has gone for Grant by 2000 or 3000 majority. The legislature is republican.

In New York City, Tammany has elected six aldermen to seven republicans and two Apollo Hall men; eight assistant aldermen out of twenty-one, seven of the remaining thirteen being Apollo Hall men and six Republicans; and ten members of the legislature out of twenty from New York county.

Returns from Alabama indicate the election of the republican State ticket by a small majority. Greeley ran slightly behind the State ticket. The legislature is doubtful, but the democrats claim a small majority in both houses.

A despatch from Baltimore says the official vote of Maryland will make Greeley's majority about 1000.

Vote of Biddeford. Grant 728, Greeley 561. Grant's majority 167.

Grant had 1060 majority in Portland.

Lawrence, Mass., gave Grant 1937, Greeley 1853.

Havemayer, republican, has 5063 majority for Mayor of New York city.

A Baltimore special says Greeley's majority in Maryland is under 2000. Three Republican and three Democratic Congressmen are chosen.

The five cities in New Hampshire voted as follows:

	Grant	Greeley	Maj.
Manchester,	2164	1548	615
Concord,	1598	1139	459
Dover,	1043	603	440
Nashua,	1113	775	338

State News.

Charles Quimby of Concord had a child die of scarlet fever last Friday, and another one on Saturday, and both of them were buried on Sunday. When he returned from the funeral he found a third child dead from the same disease, and a fourth is now sick and not expected to live.

The News.

The ship Mongolia, from Quebec for Grantown, has put into Greenock, Scotland, disabled by storm. The crew experienced dreadful suffering, having been ten days without provisions and constantly exposed to the sea. They all survived, but reached port in a fearfully emaciated condition.

Challis, the broker, libelled by the women Woodhull and Claflin, publicly states he will expend one thousand dollars, if necessary for their conviction. The impression is universal that they will be sentenced to full imprisonment, if convicted. The feeling of indignation which was for a time diverted by the Presidential election, is again displayed toward the women.

The Belgian steamship Moscoa, from Antwerp for Dantzig, sunk suddenly near Skaw. The passengers and crew took to the boats, but seven persons are missing.

Lerdo de Tejada has been elected President of Mexico without opposition of any account, and "Little politics and much administration" is given as a condensed expression of his proposed policy of government. Diaz has formally surrendered his forces, the last in arms against the government, and the whole country is now at peace.

Honolulu dates of October 19 state that the rainy season had begun. Seventeen lepers had been sent off to the island of Molokai.

It is too early to anticipate the President's action in the future concerning reforms and the measures of the administration further than his intimation that he will endeavor to shape his official conduct so as to meet the expectations of the country and unite the people in stronger bonds of peace, while by all means in his power promoting their welfare at home and abroad.

Peter Tighe shot William McBride in Frankfort street, New York, on Tuesday night. Both are roughs, the latter having shot Tighe some weeks ago.

On the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western R. R. a caboose car containing a lot of laborers was thrown down an embankment 290 feet high. Seven of the men were killed and sixteen injured, four probably fatally. Another accident was on the Lehigh and Susquehanna Railroad, and was caused by a broken rail. One person was killed, one fatally injured and twenty-seven others more or less hurt.

York County had a railroad accident, owing to a misplaced switch. This occurred at Bar Mills, on the Portland & Rochester railroad, last Tuesday, by which the cow-catcher and head-light to the engine were damaged, and two or three passengers slightly bruised.

The Boston Oakum Manufactory on Norfolk Avenue was burned on Friday. Thomas Corrigan, a workman employed there, was burned to death.

RAILROAD ITEMS.—The Biddeford Times says:—"The frame for the passenger station on the Boston and Maine in this city is about up.

Mr. Charles Sands, the contractor for the erection of the station in Saco, is pushing his work quite rapidly, and will soon have the frame in position. The freight depot in Saco is to be about opposite the passenger depot. Saco is to be a wood-up station, and it is intended to use a stationary engine for sawing the wood, pumping the water, etc.

The foundation for the depot at Old Orchard has been put in, but the erection of the depot has not yet been contracted for and it will probably not be erected until some time next spring.

A few days more of good weather will permit the workmen to nearly complete the iron work on the bridge at the Cataract falls, and the planking is being pushed forward quite rapidly.

The rails are laid from Portland as far as the Calef pasture in Saco.

To the west of us, at last accounts, rails were down as far as Kennebunk."

A large force of men are now at work ballasting the road-bed of the Boston and Maine extension between South Berwick and Wells.

MRS. STANTON vs. MRS. WOODHULL. Mrs. Elizabeth Cady Stanton, who was cited by Mrs. Woodhull as authority for some of her charges against Henry Ward Beecher, on having her attention called to the matter emphatically denied the allegation and declared her conviction that Mrs. Woodhull's statements are untrue in every particular.

THE GREAT HAIR PRODUCER.—Hair Oils, Pomatums and Pomades have had their day. They belong to the musty past. Nobody that understands the chemistry of the hair and the philosophy of its growth thinks of using them. Instead of clogging the pores of the scalp with thick unguents, and thus obstructing the insensible perspiration which is essential to the health of the fibers, we now tone the suface of the head with an invigorating application which penetrates to the roots of the hair and stimulates them in the same way that the fertilizing agents spread over the meadows stimulate the grass roots and cause the blades to spring up in myriads, coating the earth with verdure. The invigorant best adapted to this purpose is Lyon's Kathairon. It may well be called the fertilizer of the head. To the barren scalp it communicates vegetative power. If the hair is dropping out or becoming dry and withered, it arrests the process of dilapidation or blight. The hair thickens and becomes glossy and flexible under its genial operation, and as a dressing it is unapproached by any preparation that has yet been laid on the toilet of Fashion.

But Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies will cure all such torments, and proper fitting boots will prevent their reproduction. Sold by all druggists. a12

Hobbs, wife of James Hobbs, baggage-master on the Eastern Railroad, met with a very severe accident while getting off the train at South Berwick Junction on Wednesday evening, which resulted in her death Thursday afternoon. The cars ran some distance by the station before stopping. As Mrs. Hobbs was stepping from the train, it started to back up and threw her to the ground with her right arm across the rail, and it was completely severed from the body.

The Times man of Biddeford refers to the moon as "the little silver thread hanging in the Southern sky." Pulmocine will cure him!

Rehearsal Portsmouth Music Society, with Harlow's Orchestra, at Mr. Tilton's music rooms, Sunday evening, 7 o'clock. All singers invited to join. See advertisement.

How is your horse?

A schooner, the name of which we have not learned, is lying at quarantine in the Lower Harbor, having one or more cases of smallpox on board.

In another column may be found the advertisement of Messrs. Chickering & Sons, the famous piano-forte manufacturers. The immense proportions to which their manufacture has grown, the numerous premiums awarded their pianos by competent juries of musical men at fairs and expositions, and Dr. Franz Liszt's endorsement of the Chickering piano as "superior to any made in Europe or America," would make commendation from us smack strongly of egotism,—so we merely recommend persons in want of pianos to read Chickering & Sons' advertisement, which is not hard to find.

Shanks is doing a big business in Portsmouth. Shoemakers are jolly.

The Y. P. C. Union will open their rooms next Monday evening. Refreshments have been provided, and Mr. Harlow has kindly volunteered to furnish music for the evening. All members are cordially invited to be present.

Those Fearful Liberals.

The Lyre claimed before election that 140 Republicans in this city would vote for Greeley and that not more than two Democrats here would fail to vote for Horace. In 1868, Seymour, Democratic candidate for President, received 900 votes in Portsmouth and Grant had 1122. Now Grant has 1127 and Greeley 913. In 1871, the Democrats threw 914 votes for Weston, and the Republicans gave Pike 1044 votes. How much stronger is the Democratic party in Portsmouth than in 1868 and 1871? Where, oh! where were the 140 Liberal Republicans, and the "no more than two Democrats" who wouldn't vote for Greeley?

A New Hen-Fever.

The old hen fever has at various times raged furiously among the human race, generally resulting in a frightful depletion of the pocket; but the hen fever to which we now refer seems to be due to a determination on the part of the hens to have their share of what's going, and not to be swindled by any equine monopoly.

A gentleman residing in this city informs us, on the authority of a farmer of Eliot, Me., that the barnyard fowls in that town, or at least such of them as have had access to the refuse of stables containing sick horses, are afflicted with a throat disease in many respects resembling the horse distemper. We have (and had previously) been informed that a similar complaint has shown itself in several flocks of hens in this city, and in one instance at least where the fowls had no access to stables or barns containing diseased horses.

One gentleman whose hens showed symptoms of the "epizootic," doctored them with a mixture of castor-oil and whiskey, with most beneficial results; the hens were so affected by this heroic treatment (their owner is a homeopath in theory), that they were afraid to be sick any longer, and with one exception are now all well. The exception is doing her best to die and be at rest, but the physician thinks he can circumvent her if the stock of castor-oil and whiskey does not give out.

Seriously, the horse distemper is bad enough, in the money loss occasioned horse owners and the suffering to animals, the serious interruption of trade and the consequent loss of employment by the workingmen just as winter is commencing—all this is bad enough, without having our New England jubilee, Thanksgiving Day, menaced by a hen epidemic.

City Council.

In Board of Mayor and Aldermen, Thursday evening, the question of altering the name of Miller's Avenue to Summer Street was considered, and it was Voted, That the whole subject be laid on the table for one week, and that all persons who own land on said street be notified that the subject will be considered next Thursday evening.

The Committee on Accounts reported bills against the following appropriations, which were ordered to be paid:—

Repairs Bridges,	$810.36
" Almshouse,	1235.18
Reservoir in Hanover St.,	98.25
School Houses,	142.70
Sidewalks,	120.46
Street Lights,	4.86
Contingent, etc.,	26.15
Salaries,	108.32
Fire Department,	226.87
Streets,	1207 13
Poltce,	131.75
Watch,	354 25
Total,	$3972.28

The same committee presented without recommendation the following bills, which were ordered to be paid:

Repairs Almhouse,	$726.96
School Houses,	24.87
Repairs Bridges,	21.25
Sewers,	12.40
Contingent,	156.85
Repairs City Building,	792.82

Bills on account of Hanover Street reservoir, amounting to $373.66, and J. R. Holmes' bill on account of Dr. Parsons' fence, $28.37, were ordered to be paid.

Voted, That the Board of Engineers be authorized to call for volunteers to man Steamer No. 1 to fires.

Voted, That the Mayor be requested to apply to the Trustees of the State Reform School for the discharge of Andrew Cailahan.

Voted, That the Mayor and Committee on Fire Department be authorized to buy two Fire Extinguishers, voted to be purchased last Thursday evening.

The Common Council met for the first time in several months. A resolution sent down by the Aldermen, amending the joint rules so that either board of the City Council may adjourn to meet at the Mayor's call, was concurred in.

An ordinance relating to the Fire Department was received from the Aldermen, read once and referred.

Notice was received that the appropriations for Health Department, Fire Department, Repairs and Rents of School Houses, Street expenditures prior to 1872, and for Reservoirs (including reservoir on Hanover Street,) were exhausted.

Adjourned to 7 o'clock, P. M., Nov. 14th.

Coroner's Inquest.

The jury at Newburyport on the Seabrook disaster has made up its verdict in the case of George M. Hayward, exonerating the Eastern railroad from blame, and recommending the passage of a law making it incumbent on all railroads in the State to adopt the Miller platform and the Westinghaus brake. They fix the responsibility on no one, the evidence implicating no particular person.

The Charles River Tragedy.

The body of the man whose body was found packed in two barrels at Boston has been recognized as that of Mr. Abijah Ellis of Boston. He was worth $50,000 to $75,000 and carried considerable money about his person. It is supposed that he was murdered for the sake of robbery. He was in the habit of showing his money. Mr. Ellis had no family.

The Northwood Murderer.

Evans has requested Hon. Samuel M. Wheeler to act as his counsel, but Mr. Wheeler, who visited him on Thursday, declined to act in that capacity and advised the wretch to prepare for the punishment which awaits him. There is but one chance for his escaping the gallows except by death, and that is in consequence of the intense feeling against him in every town in Rockingham county. This feeling is so strong and general that it may be difficult to find twelve men who have not already determined in their own minds that Evans is guilty of the horrible crime.

Sheriff Odlin forbids all persons seeing Evans, even his relatives, as it is said it may injure his health and such a precious specimen of sanctimonious villainy should not be allowed to cheat the law if possible. Evans had a narrow escape from being lynched on his way to Exeter. He is imperturbably self possessed and has the impudence to complain that he was not allowed to attend the funeral of his victim. It is also said that he knows more about the Joyce tragedy than is comfortable for his general health, being in Massachusetts at the time of that horror. He shows no sign of remorse, says he inveigled the girl into the woods for another man's purpose, and denies that he committed the murder. When arrested he had on his person an obscene book, which is evidence of the tenor of his thoughts and actions. He once left his clothing on Hampton Beach and claim was made for insurance on his life.

Clippings.

From the Portsmouth Journal, Nov. 9.

—Rev. James DeNormandie has resumed for the winter his Wednesday evening Bible lessons at the Court St. Chapel.

—Sailmaker Thos. S. Gay, now attached to the gunnery ship Constellation, is in town for a few days on a leave of absence.

—First Assistant Engineer Nathan D. Towne, lately on duty at this navy yard, is ordered to the Richmond on the 12th instant.

—At a meeting of Sagamore S. F. E. Co., held Monday evening it was decided to give their 13th annual ball at Congress Hall on Thanksgiving eve.

—A tremendous sea has been raging for some time, fishermen tell us, the waves being apparently as high as in the September gale of last year. Fishing has been greatly interrupted ever since.

—The installation of Rev. Carlos Martyn as pastor of the North church will take place next Tuesday evening. Dr. E. B. Goodall, who is chorister at this church, is making special arrangements to produce the music on this occasion, by a select chorus of twenty-four voices, the solos to be sustained by some of the leading singers in this vicinity.

—The Manchester Mirror pays a compliment to the Junior Grant and Wilson Guards of this city, on their soldierly appearance and gentlemanly deportment during their recent visit to that city. The Manchester Guards send a pleasant greeting to the Portsmouth clubs for their hospitable entertainment after the long march here last week.

—The public, no less than the personal friends of Thos. P. Moses, will be greatly pleased with a visit to the promenade artistic exhibition, that opens at his rooms over Messrs. Buzzells' store in Exchange Buildings next Monday. We have had the pleasure of viewing his paintings by the brilliant light of twelve Argand gas burners. They well sustain the high commendations of the genius of the artist that we have taken pleasure in giving from time to time, and will each be a beautiful addition to the parlor decorations of any mansion. The surroundings of this gallery of art have been most tastefully gotten up, and will furnish a fine promenade entertainment as the winter evenings come on. The fitting-up has been done at a large expense, and the whole cannot but meet the cordial approval of the public.

—The Hartford Courant reports the following conversation on election day betwen two Democrats:—

William—Wha'd'yer think of 'i?
Charles—D'no, d' you?
William—Not 'xactly. Have we (hic) car'd anything?
Charles—Sa'd say (hic) we had; we've carried (hic) a d'm big lo (hic) load!

How to be Beautiful.—A worn-worn, care-worn face, a bending back and falling health, may be renewed, "like the eagle's," (Milton) by a "Domestic" Sewing Machine. To be taken immediately, and paid for monthly, at E. A. Joy's if the money isn't ready. *

The Singer
SEWING MACHINE
STILL LEADS THE MARKET.
The Success of the Company is far beyond that of any other similar concern; the Daily Manufacture
—OF—
400 OF THE SINGERS
Failing to Supply the Constant Demand.
All other machines call the public attention to some new loop or stitch or tension or finish, some advantage in running or needles or feed or prices—and many of these are as we have said very good points, and the agents selling them use them to divert entirely the would-be purchaser from fairly considering the facts in the case; but the
SINGER
seems to unite the good qualities of all, and is never found wanting.
THE SINGER
IS THE OLDEST
SEWING MACHINE
IN THE MARKET.
All others being copied from its first model, does two-thirds the sewing done in this country and preserves its advantages over all others combined.
It is readily kept clean, and has THE BEST TENSION EVER INVENTED; it is higher speeded and requires but little power to run; it works equally well upon the finest and heaviest goods; it does all the varieties of work known to the art.
N. B. Those purchasing for cash, before the 1 of January next, will have a consideration allowed them.

Morning Chronicle.

H. Greeley, Editor.

The New York Tribune publishes the following card:—

The undersigned resumes the editorship of the Tribune, which he relinquished on embarking in another line of business six months ago. Henceforth it shal be his endeavor to make this a thoroughly independent journal, treating all parties and political movements with judicial fairness and candor, but courting the favor and deprecating the wrath of no one. If he can hereafter say anything that will tend to heartily unite the whole American people on the broad platform of universal amnesty and impartial suffrage he will gladly do so. For the present, however, he can best do amend that consummation by silence and forbearance. The victors in our late struggle can hardly fail to take the whole subject of southern rights and wrongs into early and earnest consideration, and to them, for the present, he remits it. Since he will never again be a candidate for any office and is not in full accord with either of the great parties which have hitherto divided the country, he will be able, and will endeavor, to give a wider and steadier regard to the progress of science, industry and the useful arts than a partisan journal can do, and he will not be provoked to indulgence in those bitter personalities which are the recognized bane of journalism. Sustained by a generous public he will do his best to make the Tribune a power in the broader field it now contemplates, as, when human freedom was in peril, it was in the arena of political partisanship.

HORACE GREELEY.

—The reopening of the rooms of the Young People's Union takes place next Monday evening, for the winter season, and is to be observed by a free oyster supper, with hot coffee, to which all members are cordially invited. A general good time may be expected. The reading room of the Union is furnished with the dailies, illustrated papers, magazines and a general miscellany; the amusement room has been improved and new attractions in the way of games will be regularly supplied; a fine piano has been generously offered for the general uses of the Union; these with the free classes in book-keeping, penmanship, drawing and vocal music should draw in a large number from our streets. The Secretary, on Monday evening will receive the names of those who desire to join one or more of the classes. It is expected that a musical and literary entertainment will be given by the members during the winter. An announcement will soon be made of Wendell Phillips' benefit lecture.

AYER'S

SARSAPARILLA

FOR PURIFYING THE BLOOD.

A medicine that cures is a real public blessing. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA makes positive cure of a series of complaints, which are always afflicting and too often fatal. It purifies the blood, purges out the lurking humors in the system, that breed the humor, and settle into troublesome disorders. Eruptions of the skin are the appearance on the surface of humors that should be expelled from the blood. Internal derangements are the determination of these same humors to some internal organ, or organs, whose action thereby becomes disordered and whose disease they disease and destroy. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA expels these humors from the blood. When they are gone, the disorders they produce disappear, such as Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Liver Stomach, Kidneys, Lungs, Eruptions and Eruptive Diseases of the skin, St. Anthony's Fire, Rose or Erysipelas, Pimples, Pustules, Blotches, Boils, Tumors, Tetter and Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, Ulcers and Sores, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Pain in the Bones, Side, and Head, Female Weakness, Sterility, Leucorrhœa arising from internal ulceration and uterine disease, Dropsy, Dyspepsia, Emaciation, and General Debility. With their departure health returns.

AYER'S

CHERRYPECTORAL

For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma and Consumption.

The few compositions, which have won the confidence of mankind and become household words among one but many nations, must have extraordinary virtues. Perhaps no one ever secured so wide a reputation or maintained it so long as AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. It has been known to the public about forty years, by a long continued series of marvellous cures which have won for it a confidence in its virtues, never equalled by any other medicines. It still makes the most effectual cures of Coughs, Colds, Consumption, that can be made by medical skill. Indeed the CHERRY PECTORAL has really robbed these dangerous diseases of their terrors, to a great extent, and given a feeling of immunity from their fatal effects, which is well founded, if the remedy be taken in season. Every family should have it in their closet for the ready and prompt relief of its members. Sickness, suffering, and even life is saved by this timely protection. The prudent should not neglect it, and the wise will not. Keep it by you for the protection it affords in sudden attacks, and by its timely use.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England,

Pulmocine Cordial

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. EVERY FAMILY should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred THROAT DISEASES at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of PREVENTION. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared much pain and suffering. As the attack in time saves nine, so does the possession of this FAMILY MEDICINE prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which PULMONARY CURATIVES can relieve the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best PULMONARY CURATIVE he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are WILD CHERRY BARK, SQUILL ROOT, LIQUORICE ROOT, BLOOD ROOT, &c. It is a BLOOD PURIFIER, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic, and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

For Coughs, Croup, Diphtheria, Asthma, &c.

USE BUCHMAN'S

PULMOCINE CORDIAL.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified, in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

AYER'S HAIR VIGOR.

FOR RESTORING GRAY HAIR

TO ITS NATURAL VITALITY AND COLOR.

Advancing years, sickness, care, disappointment, and hereditary predisposition, all turn the hair gray; either of them disposes to fall off prematurely, and either effect is unsightly and unpleasant to behold. DR. AYER'S consummate skill has produced an antidote for these deformities, which has won gratitude for him from multitudes of men and women. His HAIR VIGOR sometimes reproduces lost hair; and always restores to faded and gray hair its natural color, with the gloss and freshness of youth. The comparatively few bald and gray heads, that we now see, are those who have not yet discovered the virtues of AYER'S HAIR VIGOR for renewing the hair. The fresh and youthful hair we see on older heads is often the product of his art. If you are disgraced, or made old, austere and ugly by gray hair, restore its youthful color, and with your features to their original softness and agreeable expression.

As an elegant dressing for beautifying the Hair, it has no superior.

BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOR is composed of Ammonia, Chloroform, Spirits of Camphor, Tincture of Lupuline, Oil of Juniper, and Alcohol. This compound is unequaled in the annals of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling or Twitching of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, banish pimples, cure scaly eruptions, itching, humors, &c.; it equalizes the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the brain, cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. Briggs' Allevantor absolutely possesses more curative properties than any other preparation. Physicians, chemists, and others are requested to examine and test the remedy, and $1000 will be paid if found different from representation.

COUGHS, Much has been said and written, and many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases; but nothing has been so eminently successful, or obtained such a wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.

CORNS! The excruciating pain produced by Corns, the unceasing twinging from Bunions, the piercing, distressing pain from Ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, not knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies are no acid or potash compounds, but are reliable, soothing, and effectual, and just merit the success they have earned from an appreciative public. The Curative is a healing ointment; immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it will positively cure the worst cases of Festered Corns, Inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the sorest instep, the largest and severest Blisters, the most extensive Callosities on the soles or heels of the feet, unequalled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Allevantor for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unexcelled by anything ever known.

PILES have been a terror to mankind for centuries, and almost every attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr. Briggs has discovered an absolutely cure for internal, bleeding, external, and itching piles. Briggs' Pile Remedies are mild, safe and sure.

Costiveness, Jaundice, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Dysentery, Foul Stomach, Erysipelas, Headache, Piles, Rheumatism, Eruptions and Skin Diseases, Biliousness, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Tetter, Tumors and Salt Rheum, Worms, Gout, Neuralgia, as a Dinner Pill, and Purifying the Blood,

Are the most congenial purgative yet perfected. Their effects abundantly show how much they excel all other Pills. They are safe and pleasant to take, but powerful to cure. They purge out the foul humors of the blood: they stimulate the sluggish or disordered organ into action, and they impart health and tone to the whole being. They cure not only the every day complaints of every body, but formidable and dangerous diseases. Most eminent clergymen, most skillful physicians, and our best citizens send certificates of cures per-formed under great benefits they have derived from these Pills. They are the safest and best physic for children, because mild as well as effectual. Being sugar coated, they are easy to take; and being purely vegetable, they are entirely harmless.

The Chronicle.

Greeley's Gratitude.

Horace Greeley, in an editoral in the Tribune, says—"It is a source of profound satisfaction that office-seekers will keep aloof from a defeated candidate who has not influence enough at Washington or Albany to get a sweeper appointed under the sergeant-at-arms, or a deputy sub-assistant temporary clerk into the pastepot section of the folding-room. At last we shall be let alone to mind our own affairs, and manage our newspaper, without being called aside every hour to help lazy people whom we don't know and to spend our strength in efforts that only benefit people who don't deserve assistance. At last we shall keep at our office, clear of blatherskites and political beggars, and go about our daily work with the satisfaction of knowing that not the most credulous of place-hunters will suspect us of having any credit with the appointing powers. That is one of the results of Tuesday's election for which we own ourselves profoundly grateful."

The Election.

The Tribune transfers both the Virginias, Alabama and Tennessee to the Grant column, making 31 States and 304 electoral votes for Grant. It claims Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland and Missouri, a total of 54 electoral votes, for Greeley, and says that Texas with eight votes is yet to be heard from. It gives Grant 42,000 majority in Ohio and 129,000 majority in Pennsylvania.

Greeley's majority in Maryland is now down to 1200, with prospects of a further reduction. In the 6th district the Republican gain is 2300.

Greeley's majority in Georgia is down to 12,000,—not so much as the 60,000 majority at the State election. If it were not that the Greeleyites went for "reform" this might arouse suspicion of fraud.

The News.

Thirty-eight coal miners were killed by an explosion of gas in a French mine, Friday.

Mr. Oliver Richardson, a Boston merchant, fatally shot himself on Saturday, while in depressed spirits caused by ill health.

President Grant, accompanied by Generals Sherman and Sheridan, will attend General Meade's funeral in Philadelphia to-day.

A lumber barge with all hands on board was lost on Lake Ontario, Friday.

The members of the diplomatic corps in Washington united in congratulating President Grant upon his re-election, Friday.

The body of Mr. Ira Bryan of Lake Village was found in the river at Laconia, Friday. He had been missing since Nov. 2.

The Spanish government has discovered another plot for an insurrection, and by prompt action has probably prevented the contemplated uprising.

The Greatest Conflagration of the Age.

Best Business Streets of Boston IN RUINS.

Frightful Loss of Life.

Pecuniary Damage HUNDREDS of MILLIONS.

At about 2 o'clock A. M., Sunday, the North Church bell rang out an alarm of fire. There was a brief pattering of foot-steps along the streets, as the members of the Fire Department hurried to their stations, and then the bell ceased its clangor; and drowsy citizens, who had roused themselves enough to listen to the noise and determine that they would get up if it continued much longer, composed themselves for another nap with a growl at the person who had raised the "false alarm." But it was no false alarm; on the contrary, it was in answer to the earnest appeal of a great city in its extremity, for such aid as could be afforded by stout hearts and willing hands.

At about 1 o'clock a telegram was received at the Eastern Railroad depot, directed to the captain of the night watch, asking for aid to check a frightful conflagration which had already destroyed much of the business portion of the city of Boston. The officer at once aroused Mayor Marvin, who ordered the Chief Engineer of the Fire Department and the City Marshal to be called; the alarm was given, Kearsarge Engine, No. 3, with her own company and that of Dearborn, No. 1, was put on a special train and started for Boston at 3 o'clock, the Mayor, Chief Engineer, two police officers and a CHRONICLE representative accompanying. The train arrived in Boston at 5:20 A. M. The Kearsarge was located on Court Square and did signal service.

An intense desire to learn the particulars of the disaster was manifested in this city, and was probably not diminished by the difficulty of obtaining information. The facts that the fire was plainly visible from this city; that Boston, with its magnificent fire department and abundant water supply, had been forced to call for aid; that engines from cities to the eastward had passed through this city on their way to Boston; and that the business interests of this city are so intimately connected with those of Boston that a slight derangement there may induce a serious derangement here, made the great fire a topic of all-absorbing interest. An excited crowd was in waiting at the Eastern depot for a large part of the day, among them many who have business in Boston, or whose friends reside or do business there. An attempt was made to induce the Eastern Railroad to run an extra train, but it was reported that the authorities of Boston deprecated any further influx of people and the railroad declined to put on a train from this city.

At about 2 o'clock a train of eight cars packed full, arrived from Portland; and a ninth car, crowded with men having business in Boston, others having been excluded by the police, was added here. Two more of our city police went up on this train. A platform car, with the steamer Dupont, from the navy yard, was left behind, as were hundreds of persons who wished to go to Boston from curiosity alone.

The first report was that the fire commenced in Franklin Square—not the large Franklin Square opposite the St. James Hotel, on Washington Street toward Roxbury, but the small one near Devonshire Street, in the heart of the business portion of the city. One account says the alarm was first given from fire-box No. 52, on State Street, at half-past 7 o'clock, Saturday evening; another account is that the fire broke out at half past 9 o'clock, but as the passengers and railroad men on the Pullman train which left Boston at 8 o'clock saw the fire plainly before they left, the former statement is most probably correct. The Western Union telegraph office which is in direct communication with this city was burned at about 9 o'clock Sunday morning, and for some time messages for this city over that line came only by way of Portland, being received in the latter city by way of the Grand Trunk. The only direct communication up to 6 o'clock, P. M., was over the Eastern Railroad line, the following message arriving by that line;

BOSTON, 9:30 A. M., Sunday.

The fire commenced about 9 P. M., near Summer Street. Owing to the horse disease the engines were somewhat slow in getting to work. The fire spread with great rapidity to Beach Street on the South, Water on the North, Washington on the West and Fort Hill on the East. The principal streets burned are Water, Milk, Franklin, Summer, Lincoln, High, part of Devonshire, Federal, Congress, Pearl, and part of Broad.

Up to 7 o'clock, Sunday evening, the above was all that could be learned in this city, the Western Union telegraph not working and the Eastern Railroad telegraph operators having enough to do attending to trains. At 7 o'clock a train arrived from Boston, bringing our associate and the Boston Herald. We make liberal use of the paper and leave our associate to speak for himself.

In Boston, we made strenuous efforts to secure communication with Portsmouth but were unable to and were obliged to leave Boston at 3 P. M. and bring our own despatches. At that time the firemen seemed to have got the fire under control and the only building threatened was the old Post Office, which was afterward gutted. During the day Gov. Washburne ordered out the militia, who relieved the overburdened police force of some of their arduous duties, roping in the burning blocks and keeping the crowds out of the reach of harm. The thieves who were spotted during the first hours of the conflagration found it more difficult to carry on their robberies.

The fire originated in the rear end of the large five-story granite building, Nos. 87, 89 and 91 Summer street, directly on the corner of Kingston street. This building was surmounted with a high Mansard roof overtopping all the other buildings in the immediate vicinity. Directly as the flames began to spread through the story beneath this roof and before an engine or hose carriage was on the ground, great volumes of flames suddenly burst out from the rear lower stories of the building, and in less than twenty minutes the whole broad facade, extending fully one hundred feet along Kingston street, was one sheet of livid flame, as was also at the same time the Summer street front, the heat being so intense as to force the firemen away from that immediate vicinity. By this time a strong wind had been created, the flames began to sweep over Summer and Kingston streets and despite all the desperate, unremittant and fearless exertions of the firemen, in every branch of the department, fire was communicated to the buildings on the opposite corner of Kingston and Summer streets, as well as to the great block on the corner of Summer and Otis streets; and in less than half an hour thereafter the flames were bursting out of the roof and all up and down the broadsides of these immense structures. By this time the wind had increased to nearly a gale, and the flames, having the entire mastery of everything, swept from story to story, from roof to roof, from block to block and from corner to corner, driving the firemen from every vantage ground they could secure, and apparently rendering all their exertions useless and futile. Wherever the flames reached they rapidly consumed everything, of a combustible character, even melting granite walls, crisping and crackling iron doors and shutters as though they were so much molten lead.

During the day, the wind shifted frequently and the flames seemed to assert the mastership. Under management of Gen. Benham, scores of buildings were blown up and by this means and this only the fire was checked. Trinity Church and several fine blocks were thus sacrificed for the benefit of the whole. By one of these explosions three firemen from Worcester were killed—at the corner of Kilby and State Streets. Mr. Charles Foote of Portsmouth was in a building with three others when another building close by was blown up. Mr. Foote remained in the building; the others ran and one of them was killed, another being wounded. Two gentlemen state that they saw fire men go into Walker & Co.'s on Federal Street, though warned of their danger by the police. Two minutes after, the roof fell in and they were buried in the ruins. A fireman states that the front of a building fell into the street while he was at work with eight or ten others. The falling mass struck his companions and he alone escaped.

Fabulous prices were offered for transportation. We hear of one case, that of a merchant who had $25,000 worth of kid gloves carried to the sidewalk and offered a passing hackman $500 to take them to a place of safety. The offer was declined, the hackman fearing he would lose his back and horses. Some merchants seeing that it was impossible to save their goods flung some of them to the crowds in the streets, telling them to help themselves.

The streets were alive with job teams loaded down with valuable goods being removed to places of safety. The Common was used as a repository by those who could find no covered shelter for their goods, and all along the Tremont Street mall from Park to Boylston Street, goods in bales and boxes, packages large and small, dry goods and household furniture were heaped in large stacks, and determined men with a out sticks guarded them from the incursions of numberless thieves, who swarmed at every turn. The doorsteps of the stores in streets adjoining those in which the fire was raging were covered with the worldly goods of poor people who saved but little of their property, and many of them were standing guard to prevent their goods from being stolen while others vainly sought for teams. The large firms on Broad Street had their teams out, removing their endangered goods; in some cases oxen were used, and hand-carts, wheelbarrows and other means of conveyance were in requisition, but all were inadequate to meet the demand.

Among the sad sights witnessed were those of young, plainly clad girls, standing upon the streets adjacent to the burning acres, with piteous exclamations and bitter tears at seeing the places where a few hours before they were earning by hard work their daily bread, razed to the ground. It is estimated that not less than 10,000 of these poor girls are thrown out of employment.

The fire seems to have been mainly confined to an area bounded by State, Washington, Bedford and Broad Streets.

Of the newspapers, the Post and Transcript were burned out, but so far as we learned, no others.

The wharf of the Hartford and Erie Railroad Company was burned and the passenger station of the corporation on Broad street, at the foot of Summer street.

The banks destroyed are the National Bank of North America, the National Revere Bank and the Emigrant Savings Bank.

The Kearsarge boys returned from Boston about 9 o'clock, Sunday evening, and report the fire as being subdued. Two companies of Biddeford passed through this city for Boston in the evening, as relief to some of the exhausted firemen of that city. Engines arrived from New York at an early hour in the afternoon. An engine from Portland laid over in this city for further orders.

The fire burned over nearly 200 acres. The loss is estimated at $200,000,000 to $300,000,000. One stern lesson has been taught the business men of Boston, and that is the utter folly of tempting destruction by the erection of fire traps. The financial loss of this conflagration will, we think, exceed that of Chicago, but the personal suffering is not so great, fewer individuals being the victims. The public will look with great interest to the standing of the insurance companies, half of the loss it is estimated being incurred by Boston companies.

In his book on Chronic Diseases Dr. Pierce says of his Golden Medical Discovery:

"God, I believe, has instilled into the roots and plants from which this wonderful medicine is extracted, the healing properties, by the use of which Consumption, the scourge of the human family, may in its early stages be promptly arrested and permanently cured. I do not wish to delude, flatter and then disappoint the afflicted by asserting that this can be accomplished when the lungs are half consumed, as many do who, being devoid of all conscience, aim to humbug the afflicted, that they may sell their often worse than worthless compounds. But if my Golden Medical Discovery is employed in the first or early stages of the disease, I know from ample observation and actual test in hundreds of cases, that it will arrest the disease and restore health and strength." 616

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

S. J. Court.

The court will probably adjourn to-day or Tuesday, after a four weeks' session. Several cases on the docket have been continued until next term. The petit jurors were dismissed on Saturday.

Laconics.

Hon. J. H. Ela, fifth auditor of the U. S. Treasury, made a brief stop in this city Saturday morning, on his way to Washington.

The funeral of Mrs. James Hobbs, who was accidentally hurt at South Berwick Junction by the cars on Thursday last, and died from her injuries, took place on Saturday. She was the daughter of Mr. Joseph Goodwin, of North Berwick, Me., and a neice of Ex-Gov. Goodwin of this city.

Mr. Joseph B. Stearns of this city, the electrician and inventor, has been awarded a splendid silver medal by the Cincinnati Industrial Exposition. It bears upon one side the inscription, "Board of Trade, Chamber of Commerce, Ohio Mechanics' Institute;" upon the reverse side, "Awarded to Joseph B. Stearns for the greatest improvement in Telegraphy in 1872." The award is for his duplex telegraph invention.

Among the sons of Portsmouth who suffered by the great fire in Boston are John Hodgdon, Kilby Street; F. A. and A. W Fernald, Arch Street; Thomas S. Nowell, Pearl Street; H. L. Libbey, Mt. Washington Glass Works; W. L. Libbey, New England Glass Works; Palmer and Bachelder, Washington Street. It is said that Portsmouth interests to the amount of several million dollars will be affected by the fire.

Fifteen hundred barrels of apples, grown in the immediate vicinity of this city, are now stored in a warehouse near one of the wharves awaiting a vessel to transport them to Washington, D. C.

The president, engineer and committee of the directors of the Portsmouth and Dover Railroad were at Dover on Thursday and met for consultation the treasurer and agents of the Cocheco Manufacturing Company and Cocheco Print Works, the subject under consideration being the mutual advantages and benefits to be obtained by the road and the manufacturing interests. These two works use 20,000 tons of coal per year, the freights of which at present is $1 per ton.

Snow this week. We have before us a handbill concerning an entertainment to come off in Rochester on the evenings of the 12th, 13th and 14th of November, in which the announcement is made that "a competent person will have charge of the coat room, and ample arrangements are made for the care of horses and sleighs." The horses will need much care if they go sleighing this week, while epizootic is around.

Col. William H. Hackett sold at auction, Saturday, five shares in the National Mechanics & Traders' Bank at $140 per share, and three shares in the Rockingham National Bank at $74 per share.

The statement that a schooner with small-pox on board is at quarantine in the lower harbor is pronounced untrue. Glad of it. A schooner with an alleged small-pox case on board put in for shelter on Thursday, but sailed next day.

Mrs. J. Horace Kent picked nasturtiums and sweet peas in her garden on Saturday, Nov. 9th.

The corner-stone of the Roman Catholic church was laid on Sunday, with the usual ceremonies, Bishop Baker of Portland making an address, Harlow's Band furnishing music, and a select choir singing several pieces. There was a large attendance of Catholics and not a few Protestants, to witness the ceremony, and the Bishop's address is spoken of as having been very able and interesting.

The firemen of this city were instructed to sleep in their engine houses, Sunday night, as an extra precaution against fire, the Department being weakened by the absence of so many men in Boston; and twelve extra night-watchmen were appointed by the City Marshal, that the city might be as secure as it could be made with so many of its regular guardians out of it.

The Charles River Mystery

Is in a fair way to be solved. The murdered man, Mr. Abijah Ellis, was a native of this State and was for some years a tin-peddler. He is said to have been a man of strictly temperate habits. The Bostod Advertiser of Saturday says "the deceased was last seen at his boarding-house about six o'clock on Tuesday evening, when he ate his supper. At half-past seven o'clock he was seen on Washington Street. He did not return to his lodgings on Tuesday night, although it was customary for him to return early. The inquiry is now narrowed down to the discovery of the man's whereabouts after half-past seven o'clock on Tuesday evening. There can be no doubt that robbery was the incentive to the crime, as no money was found upon the body, and the wallet and memorandum book which he habitually carried were both missing. The theory that is received with the most favor is that Mr. Ellis went directly to a stable on Cherry street, where he kept a horse, for the purpose of attending to his wants, that he was followed thither by one or more persons who were familiar with his habits, and was there knocked down and robbed. After committing the robbery and discovering that the man was dead, the body was got rid of in the manner previously described. The fact that the remains were found encased in horse manure and bedding such as is used in barns gives prominence and apparent reality to this theory.

The question of who was the murderer is now in a fair way of solution. Suspicion points to two parties. It appears that he was in the habit of spending part of his time in a house known to be the rendezvous of a boisterous crowd of roughs on East Dover street. Some of his friends have often expressed fears that he would some time be robbed, and warned him not to show his money so freely at these resorts; but he always turned them off with some remark to the effect that no one would dare to attempt to rob him. On the other hand, a teamster is known to have had a quarrel with him as to the non-payment of a small amount of rent due, and high words passed between the parties. This man is understood to be detained, though not actually under arrest."

All the circumstances thus far elicited go strongly to bear out the supposition that the material used for the secretion of the remains was taken from the stable of Mr. Leavitt Alley, a teamster employed by a firm of billiard-table manufacturers to do their trucking. His stable is in Hunneman Street, Roxbury, and a search of it has disclosd a quantity of such refuse as was found in the barrels with the body. Mr. Alley also thinks that two barrels are missing from the stable; and as the barrels containing the body could not have been carried to the river by men unaided, it is reasonable to suppose that a team was used for that purpose by the murderer or murderers. It is not likely that a conveyance was hired for the transportation, however, and the officers are forced to the conclusion that it either must have been owned by the men who did the bloody work or that it was stolen. There appears to be no evidence that the door was broken open; consequently, it is fair to infer that the door was left unfastened, or that it was opened by a person having a suitable key in his possession.

Leavitt Alley and a man named Justin Barrett are in custody on suspicion of having committed the murder. Blood, pronounced human on analysis, has been found in Alley's stable. It is significant that no reward is offered for the discovery of the murderer,—an indication that the police believe themselves on the right track. It is believed that Mr. Ellis had an altercation with Alley about money matters, which led to his murder by the latter.

The Traveller says that Boston is fast losing its reputation as a quiet and safe city, and that the people will not long be satisfied without inquiry as to the causes. After exonerating the police force, it says: "The great cause of crime, and the busy manufactories of criminals are practically unmolested. Nearly every one of the homicides in this city, during the past year, were committed by intoxicated persons, and it is probable that these later murders were planned in the flourishing schools of crime, which, if not fostered and encouraged, are certainly not broken up. It would be unjust to charge the police with responsibility for this. They carry out their instructions, and, as a body, they perform their manifold duties, under the direction of the authorities, faithfully and well. It is assumed that public sentiment will not uphold an attempt to execute the laws, but we believe that public sentiment is further advanced on this question than has been represented. It is true, that many respectable men profit by the traffic, in one way or another, and that politicians are ready to give support and influence in exchange for votes, but the great body of the people, seeking the welfare of the city, desirous that its reputation may be untarnished, and the safety of citizens and visitors secured, and that young men may be saved from a career of crime, and sad homes made cheerful once more, will approve of efforts to close these nurseries of vice and these resorts of criminals."

The Singer

SEWING MACHINE

STILL LEADS THE MARKET.

The Success of the Company is far beyond that of any other similar concern; the

Daily Manufacture

—OF—

400 OF THE SINGERS

Failing to Supply the Constant Demand.

All other machines call the public attention to some new loop or stitch tension or finish, some advantage in running or needles or feed or prices—and many of these are so we have said very good points, and the agents selling them use them to divert entirely the would-be purchaser from fairly considering the facts in the case; but the

seems to unite the good qualities of all, and is never found wanting.

THE SINGER

IS THE

OLDEST

SEWING MACHINE

IN THE MARKET.

All others being copied from its first model, does two-thirds the sewing done in this country and preserves its advantages over all others combined.

It is readily kept clean, and has THE BEST TENSION EVER INVENTED; it is higher speeded and requires but little power to run; it works equally well upon the finest and heaviest goods; it does all the varieties of work known to the art.

BULBS! BULBS!

A SMALL lot of choice HYACINTHS, CROCUSES, TULIPS, &c., for sale by JOSEPH H. FOSTER, No. 1 Congress Block

Morning Chronicle.

A NEW HAMPSHIRE RAILROAD PROJECT.—An important railroad question is now under consideration at Dover, and in the towns in that vicinity. In the year 1869 the New Hampshire Legislature granted a charter for the building of a railroad from Concord to Rochester. The road has not yet been commenced, and the Board of Trade of Dover city, of which Oliver Wyatt, Esq., is President, have appointed a committee to examine into the feasibility of building a railroad from that city to Concord via the Cocheco River valley, through Northwood, Epsom and Chichester, and to urge the passage of a bill by the legislature next June, changing the charter of the Concord and Rochester road so as to run it as above described. The distance by rail now via Newmarket Junction, which is the only route, is 59 miles, while the distance of the proposed route would be only 36 miles—a saving of 23 miles in travel. The distance from Portsmouth to Concord is 59 miles by the Concord road; with the Portsmouth & Dover road finished, which can be done in a year, and the connection at Dover as desired by the Board of Trade, the distance between Portsmouth and Concord would be lessened 13 miles. With these two roads built, Concord would be only 42 miles from tide water at Dover Point, where vessels of the largest size can lay. This is 17 miles nearer than at any other place. The towns of Strafford and Northwood have already appropriated money for the purpose of defraying expenses in carrying out this enterprise, and it has already assumed a tangible form and shape.

Exit Kent.

One of the satisfactory results of the recent canvass, was the defeat of Col. Henry O. Kent in Lancaster for Moderator. Henry espoused the cause of Greeley, and predicted big things in Lancaster. At the spring election he was chosen Moderator by 17 majority, although Governor Straw had 31 majority. At the recent election, Col. Kent was beaten for Moderator by 20 majority, and Grant carried the town by 44! Valuable recruits—those Liberal Republicans!

Express Per Bull.

The Biddeford Times says the Eastern Express runs a bull team in that city. "Of course the messenger isn't afraid, oh, no! yet we couldn't but notice that one man stood at the head of the animal, another in the wagon to pass out packages, while the messenger stood at the rear or took to the sidewalk."

AYER'S HAIR VIGOR,

FOR RESTORING GRAY HAIR

TO ITS NATURAL VITALITY AND COLOR.

Advancing years, sickness, care, disappointment, and hereditary predisposition, all turn the hair gray; either of them dispose to fall off prematurely, and either effect is unsightly and unpleasant to behold. DR. AYER'S consummate skill has produced an antidote for these deformities, which has won gratitude for him from multitudes of men and women. His HAIR VIGOR sometimes reproduces lost hair; and always restores to faded and gray hair its natural color, with the gloss and freshness of youth. The comparatively few bald and gray heads, that we now see, are those who have not yet discovered the virtues of AYER'S HAIR VIGOR for renewing the hair. The fresh and youthful hair we see on older heads is often the product of his art. If you are disfigured by premature old age, restore, by gray hair, restore its youthful color, and with your features to their original softness and agreeable expression

As an elegant dressing for beautifying the Hair, it has no superior.

BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOR is composed of Ammonia, Chloroform, Spirits of Camphor, Tincture of Lupuline, Oil of Juniper, and Alcohol. This compound is unequalled in the annals of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling or Twitching of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, banish pimples, cure scaly eruptions, itching, humors, &c.; it equalizes the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the brain, cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. Briggs' Allevantor absolutely possesses more curative properties than any other preparation. Physicians, chemists, and others are requested to examine and test the remedy, and $1000 will be paid if found different from representation.

COUGHS, Much has been said and many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases; but nothing has been so eminently successful, or obtained such a wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.

CORNS! The excruciating pain produced by Corns, the unceasing twinging from Bunions, the piercing, distressing pain from Ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, not knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies are no acid or potash compounds, but are reliable, soothing, and effectual, and just merit the success they have earned from an appreciative public. The "curative is a healing ointment; immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it will positively cure the worst cases of Festered Corns, Inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the most insipe, the largest and severest Blisters, the most extensive Callosities on the soles or heels of the feet, unequalled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Allevantor for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unexcelled by anything ever known.

PILES have been a terror to mankind for centuries, and almost every attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr. Briggs has discovered an absolutely cure for internal, bleeding, external, and itching piles. Briggs' Pile Remedies are mild, safe and sure.

For sale by J. H. THACHER, WM. R. PRESTON, Portsmouth; JAMES O. TREFETHEN, Kittery; B. S. SAFFORD, Kittery Point; H. M. CURTIS, Newcastle, and dealers generally.

CORNS, Bunions, Bad Nails, and other diseases of the feet, Scrofulous and Cancerous Humors, Piles, etc., skillfully treated at the great central Chiropodical and Healing Institute, No. 765 Broadway, New York. DR. J. BRIGGS, President; DR. ALEXANDER WEBBER, Secretary. sp9

For all the purposes of a Family Physic,

CURING

Costiveness, Jaundice, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Dysentery, Foul Stomach, Erysipelas, Headache, Piles, Rheumatism, Eruptions and Skin Diseases, Biliousness, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Tetter, Tumors and Salt-Rheum, Worms, Gout, Neuralgia, as a Dinner Pill, and Purifying the Blood,

Are the most congenial purgative yet perfected. Their effects abundantly show how much they excel all other Pills. They are safe and pleasant to take, but powerful to cure. They purge out the foul humors of the blood; they stimulate the sluggish or disordered organ into action, and they impart health and tone to the whole being. They cure not only the every day complaints of every body, but formidable and dangerous diseases. Most eminent clergymen, most skillful physicians, and our best citizens send certificates of cures performed and of great benefits they have derived from these Pills. They are the safest and best physic for children, because mild as well as effectual. Being sugar coated, they are easy to take; and being purely vegetable, they are entirely harmless.

IRON in the BLOOD.

DYSPEPSIA, DEBILITY, DROPSY, HUMORS,

PERUVIAN SYRUP

Makes the Weak Strong.

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an aliment, as easily digested and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.

This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor and new life into all parts of the system, and building up an Iron Constitution.

Thousands have been charged by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures to strong, healthy, and happy men and women; and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.

See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.

DARING FEAT.—The romantic story of the feats of St. Michael's in Charleston, South Carolina, which we copied a day or two ago from Mrs. Carson's book, reminds us of an incident in relation to that church which probably has never been printed, or if it has, is old enough and interesting enough to be told again. We heard it related long since by an old lady who witnessed it when she was a young girl, perhaps eighty years ago.

This lady, who was from Massachusetts, was on a visit at Charleston in the latter part of the last century. It was at a time when there occurred a fire which burned up a considerable portion of the city, and which for many years marked an era in its history as "The time of the Great Fire;" though, doubtless, that ancient date has been wiped out by events more recent and more disastrous. St. Michael's, however, was then, as it has always continued to be, the pride of the citizens of Charleston, who truly claimed that it served from its height as a beacon to sailors approaching the coast, and was the last thing sighted, far out at sea, by those who were outward bound. And not only was it their pride, but it almost seemed to them that Providence had the beautiful old church in its special keeping, when the morning after the great fire, they turned their eyes upward to see its lofty spire almost piercing the clouds, while beneath and all around it lay in blackened ruins the fairest and largest part of their beloved city, and the ashes of so many of the homes of the stricken people.

It had, however, barely escaped destruction, and that by an act of heroism which is now, perhaps, forgotten in Charleston, but is recalled by a native of Massachusetts as a pleasant reminiscence of his childhood and of the venerable woman who told of the brave act of which she was an eye-witness.

While the fire was raging and the whole city seemed doomed to destruction, the Mayor and Aldermen sat in solemn and anxious council to devise ways and means to stay the conflagration and to provide for those who had lost all their worldly possessions, and who stood half naked and shivering by the smouldering ruins of their homes. The news came to them presently that St. Michael's was in danger, for the fire was approaching the square where it stood and a storm of great burning brands was showered down upon its roof and buried against its steeple. Men upon the roof put out the fiery missiles as they fell, and could reach and dislodge those that fastened themselves upon the lower portion of the spire; but the danger was that some burning shingles, borne far up in the air by the gale would make a lodgment out of reach, ensuring not only the destruction of the church, but spreading the flaming messengers far and wide from the great height over parts of the city as yet untouched by the ravages of fire.

The fear was well-founded. It was not long before a flying brand caught and fastened itself upon the topmost height of the spire. The spectators watched it anxiously in the vain hope that it would drop before its blaze caught upon the surrounding woodwork; but, held to its place, perhaps by the wind, it kindled brighter and brighter till it was plain that unless some human hand could pluck it down, the spire and all that would be involved in its destruction were doomed. The helpless crowd looked up and watched the burning brand, but among them all there was not one man fearless enough or active enough to attempt to scale the giddy height. The Mayor and the Council stood in the square below, powerless and despairing like the rest, but offering a large reward to any one who would attempt the daring feat of dislodging that speck of flame that flickered in the gale at the very summit of the steeple, and grew each moment brighter, and would not fail.

But presently a man appeared in the belfry of the church, and leaning over the railing looked upward, as if measuring with his eyes the distance of the many feet of almost perpendicular ascent that still lay between him and the spot of flame above him. Then he mounted upon the railing and stretched his hands above him upon the steeple. From the crowd of thousands below went up one single mighty shout that almost shook the air about him; then a great silence fell upon the multitude as they held their breath, and their upturned faces grew white in the ruddy light as they watched his progress. Slowly, painfully, carefully and steadily he crept up and up, raising himself from one slight projection to another, invisible to those below, but which served him for a foothold and which his hands could grasp. All around for many squares the fire raged unheeded, and men forgot their blazing homes as by the light of their burning they watched this solitary figure creeping hundreds of feet above them, up St. Michael's steeple. At length the brand was within his reach, and holding on with one hand only he seized the blazing mass with the other and hurled it clear into the square below, and the spire stood out black once more against the sky with no light upon it except the reflection from the burning houses.

But not yet did the crowd dare to shout out their exultation that St. Michael's was saved, for its savior sun clung, a moving speck beneath the golden ball, the sight of which the sailors greeted so far out to sea. Slowly, painfully, carefully, steadily he began the more difficult descent, and not until he had stepped safely and firmly over the railing and into the belfry of the church did the mighty shout of men who hailed a great deliverance and recognized an act of daring heroism, rise above the roar of the surrounding fire. St. Michael's was saved and the man was safe.

At the church door the Mayor and Corporation and a surging crowd of people met him. Who he was that had performed that fearful feat none knew; they could only see that it was a man who climbed the spire, but in the lurid light so many feet above them in the air they had not seen that he was black. He stood at the church door, and they saw not only that he was black; he was a slave.

But none the less had he saved St. Michael's; and, as the burgesses of Aix ordered their last measure of wine to be given to the good horse Roland, who brought the good news from Ghent, so the Mayor of Charleston gave, on the spot, his freedom to the negro slave who had plucked the burning brand from the very summit of St. Michael's spire and saved the city and the church. —*N. Boston's Misfortune.

The Boston Advertiser says:—Within the area of the fire there had grown up during the last ten years an aggregation of buildings which for beauty of architecture and adaptation for business purposes was not surpassed by any city in the world. Here was the centre of the leading market of the country for American dry goods. Here, also, a little farther to the east, and also in the path of the fire, was the great boot and shoe market of the world. On the borders of the area were the warehouses of many wholesale merchants and dealers in iron, wool, clothing and other staple products. They are all swept away, hardly one stone remaining upon another.

In the magnitude of its destructiveness the Boston conflagration of 1872 is second in rank among all the fires which have occurred in the United States, that of Chicago standing at the head of the list. By the last-named most terrible event some seventeen thousand buildings, covering an area of 2124 acres, were consumed; but the difference in the comparative value of the buildings and goods destroyed there and here may be inferred from the fact that the total actual loss by the Chicago fire was $196,000,000,—the amount assigned to buildings being $53,000,000, and to merchandise and personal effects $143,000,000. The destruction by our fire, covering less than a thirtieth of the space, was therefore by value very nearly one-half that of the great Chicago calamity. The loss by the great fire of 1835 in New York was variously estimated at from $15,000,000 to $20,000,000. The memorable conflagration in Portland on the fourth of July, 1867, covered two hundred acres and destroyed property to the value of $10,000,000.

The Advertiser says the area of the fire slightly exceeds 64 acres. It estimates the loss in buildings at $20,000,000; loss of stock $50,000,000; about 700 buildings were consumed; some of the dry goods commission houses had small stocks on hand. All the old boot and shoe manufacturing and commission firms are solvent and even strong as before the fire, and by their solvency will preserve to Boston, unimpaired, their very valuable line of business. Very many of the jobbing firms, also, in the same line, came out of the fire with large losses, it is true, but able to meet all their engagements, and to continue their business. The same may be said in general terms of the large manufacturers and dealers in clothing; their stocks in hand are consumed, but their surplus of assets in bills and accounts receivable, together with what insurance they will be able to recover, will save them. That there will be failures in several of the leading lines of business is probable; but in the case of many firms we believe it will be found that after a suspension of payments until they can ascertain how much of their insurance can be released, they will resume payments and go on as before.

Disastrous as the fire has been, whatever way we look at it, let no one think it is irreparable. The losers are not turned houseless into the street, and there is no deficiency in the necessities and comforts of life. The loss falls heavily upon trade and investments, but economy, good judgment and courage may restore the loss. The land is left, and the future with its infinite opportunities. The burnt district will be rebuilt, with streets rectified and buildings better adapted to resist the ravages of fire. The trade which has made the city the resort of buyers from the most distant parts of the conjucnt will fall into its old channels, and the good will of the country will make up the rest.

The fire caught first in the engine-room and ran up the elevator with terrible rapidity so that the flames were first discovered bursting from the windows in the Mansard roof of the large four-story new granite building at the corner of Kingston and Summer streets. It was numbered 86, 89 and 91 Summer street, and extended back on Kingston street about one hundred feet. The lower floor and the basement were occupied by Messrs. Tebbetts, Baldwin & Davis, wholesale dry-goods dealers; the second and third stories by Damon, Temple & Co., dealer in hosiery, gloves, laces and small wares; the fourth and upper stories by A. K. Young, corset and hoop-skirt maker. The fire ran from window to window with frightful rapidity. In ten minutes flames were bursting from every opening in the roof, and in ten minutes more volumes and waves of flames were rolling out from every window in the third story with such terrible force that the fate of the building was decided. Yet there was not a spark in the air as yet nor a suspicion of a breeze, not even the smallest bit of flame had appeared on any other building. Nevertheless it was evident even then that there was no hope of saving any buildings because the fire was up above the reach of the firemen. No stream of any magnitude can be carried above the fifth story by an ordinary engine, except under the most favorable circumstances. Every hydrant in the vicinity had been called into active service and the pressure correspondingly diminished. Then too the hot flame and the rarified air made a breeze which warded off the best directed streams. So it was that the fire ran briskly round the cornices and playfully skipped from window to window entirely undisturbed and regardless of the streams which all but reached them. The heat from the building in which we are caught was now terrible and the engineers could only stand at the engines for a minute or two at a time, and not even that unless wet down thoroughly by hand hose. Meanwhile another fireman prone in the gutter was plying the hand hose on the hydrant pipe to keep the flames from attacking them.

About eight o'clock, soon after the first store was completely enveloped in flames, the heated window casings of the opposite store on Summer Street, No. 66, 68, 70 and 72, of precisely similar construction, gave way and the little flames began running along from one window-sill to another. It went round the corner almost like a flash, but was stayed a little when it reached the corner of the building on Otis Street. Even then before it had descended to the fourth story it was so hot that no one could pass along the street with impunity. It soon gained headway and reached Winthrop block, the magnificent granite structure owned by J. M. Beebe, and the finest block of stores in the city. Here Haughton, Perkins, Wood & Co. had $800,000 worth of goods, and Anderson, Heath & Co.'s magnificent stock of dress goods, worth a million and half, might have been bought for old rags. The fire ran round the eaves, descended to the next story, and within fifteen minutes was coming down the broad stairway like a stream of molten lava. Already the heat from the immense pile was such that the firemen were erecting barricades from behind which they did what little they could to diminish the flames, but they were soon driven out of their forts. A burning board was carried across Devonshire Street, lodging in the window opposite Anderson, Heath & Co.'s, and the block was soon in flames. Meanwhile on Summer Street the fire was slowly but with terrible certainty moving down the street, which ran rivers of water, and a rain of water was dashed back from the buildings with a violence excelling that of any rain storm. Now the coals began to fly, and drove every one but the firemen from the streets.

At one o'clock it became evident that a solid mass of flame a quarter of a mile in width was moving up toward State Street, and parallel with it. Engines continued to arrive from neighboring towns constantly, and as they appeared in Washington Street they were immediately placed by the alert and symphonic specimen, Ar-5-30-a-m., an engine from Portsmouth, but in an appearance, having come on a special train. It was a gallant and winning fight on Washington Street. The buildings continued from 3 to 6 A. M. to burn through and fall in, frequently endangering the lives of the brave men tending the engines burst few feet distant. It was a question whether the new Transcript building on Washington Street would be destroyed. A dozen times it seemed on fire, and yet the flames did not devour it; but the fire continued to rage and burned up fiercely against the rear, and the firemen could not save it. Far greater was the interest hinged on the fate of the Old South Church, and it seemed possible, and indeed probable, that the fire might march on across Washington Street to Court Street. The new post-office was an effective barrier to the flames below that point, and shielded the magnificent Rialto building on the Simmons estate on Devonshire Street. But through the tinder boxes on Court Street near the new post-office, down Milk Street and around to Water Street the flames seemed to move unimpeded. Thus the destruction on Congress and Kilby Streets was far greater than on Devonshire Street, where the fine building of the Boston Post was saved in spite of the burning of the half finished block below it. St. Stephen's Church, in Purchase Street, was burned.

Steamer Kearsarge of Portsmouth arrived just in time to help save a portion of the Transcript building and the Old South Church. When the Kearsarge boys assured the anxious sexton that the church was safe he devoutly thanked God. They were well cared for by Mayor Marvin. Those who went to Boston from this city on the special train are indebted to Conductor John Bennett, Engineer Sam. Hawkes and Brakeman J. Howard Dame for special favors.

Sixty stores on Devonshire Street were blown up inside of an hour—120 pounds of powder being placed in each.

The front of Macullar, Williams and Co.'s building on Washington Street still stands, as does also one rear corner.

Postmaster Burt and clerks are located in Faneuil Hall.

Mudge's store, corner of Summer and Washington Streets, was not burned.

The ale depot of Frank Jones on Devonshire Street was not burned—but some of his stock was lost.

The Globe states the loss at $250,000,000; the Herald, $125,000,000; the Journal, $100,000,000.

The Hartford Insurance Co. loses $500,000 and will pay all losses.

The Etna loses $750, 000.

The Phenix loses $500,000.

The Queen's of London, Commerce of Albany and the Fireman's Fund of San Francisco will meet all losses.

Just before midnight of Sunday, the air having reached the gas supply pipes of W. R. Storms & Co., and R. S. Sterrns & Co., on Summer Street, a terrific explosion knocked out the front wall and set the building on fire. The fire began to spread and occupants of Aron and Bedford Streets, Temple and Suffolk Places fled from their houses half clad. The explosion awoke Mrs. Martha Hudson and her aged mother living on Summer Street. The former rushed to the second story window crying for help. Obtaining no assistance she jumped to the sidewalk, having been burned severely about the legs. Her mother perished in the building.

A lady and infant were rescued from a building in the same street just as the lady was about to leap to the ground.

The store of Shreve, Crump & Sous, jewellers, was burned.

In an article published in November, 1871, Mr. Joseph Bird urged the Boston merchants to take warning from Chicago of the danger of Mansard roofs, saying:—

When that dozen lumber yards in the roof is once well on fire it will be taken, not by little sparks only, but by cords, into and upon every building within half a mile! Every window on the lee of the gale will be broken into by the fiery brands, every place where there is wood for fire to catch upon, and fires will soon be rushing from fifty of those windows or roaring from the exposed wood. Such a fire (and they will surely occur) will stop just when there is no more wood to burn. The earnest men of the fire department, with their apparatus, would be as inefficient as would the writer with one of his ten-dollar machines. Then would come the story so lately told of Chicago: "Awful conflagration! Boston in ruins! Thousands of houses and the business portion of the city in ashes! Hundreds of men, women and children burned to death! The people starving! Boston cries for help!" Well, thank God, Boston would have help. The noble hearted, the truly Christian people of this city have so done their duty to every people in times of distress that the tide of humanity would flow back with interest. But Boston, with its great humanity, its ample means, should, with its splendid schools, teach its people to be more humane and good hearted. They should be so intelligent and wise as to be able to guard against such awful calamities as these just described, and which are occurring somewhere almost monthly. Mansard roofs, if made at all, should be made of iron or kyanized wood.

THE GREAT HAIR PRODUCER.—Hair Oils, Pomatums and Pomades have had their day. They belong to the musty past. Nobody that understands the chemistry of the hair and the philosophy of its growth thinks of using them. Instead of clogging the pores of the scalp with thick unguents, and thus obstructing the insensible perspiration which is essential to the health of the fibers, we now lone the surface of the head with an invigorating application which penetrates to the roots of the hair, and stimulates them in the same way that the fertilizing agents spread over the meadows stimulate the grass roots and cause the blades to spring up in myriads, coating the earth with verdure. The invigorant best adapted to this purpose is Lyon's Kathairon. It may well be called the fertilizer of the head. To the barren scalp it communicates vegetative power. If the hair is dropping out or becoming dry and withered, it arrests the process of depopulation or blight. The hair thickens and becomes glossy and flexible under its genial operation, and as a dressing it is unapproached by any preparation that has yet been laid on the toilet of Fashion.

WORN TO A SHADOW.—Flesh, muscle and mind alike deteriorate when the stomach fatters in its duty and the bowels do not perform their part as scavengers of the system, regularly and naturally. In chronic dyspepsia the body is usually emaciated, the muscular fibre loose and flabby, and the brain incapable of prolonged or vigorous exertion. Every organ, every member, even the brain itself, is to a certain extent dependent upon the stomach for support. Strengthen and regulate this feeder of the system with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, when it fails to perform its functions properly. A good appetite, an increased flow of the gastric juice, and perfect digestion and assimilation will assuredly be the result. The manner in which the great tonic and alterative effects of cure of dyspepsia is direct and simple. It stimulates the digestive organs, cleanses without convulsing the bowels, regulates the flow of bile and determines it into the right channels, and exercises a tranquilizing influence over the nerves.

CORNS.—Since pride and fashion have had control of mankind, and shoemakers were compelled to make boots and shoes to fit Jerry instead of the feet, the suffering from Corns, Bunions, Ingrowing Nails, Sore Insteps, Blistered Heels, Callosities on the bottom of the feet, &c., cannot be described. But Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies will cure all such torments, and proper fitting boots will prevent their reproduction. Sold by all druggists. al2

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

A Tribute of Respect.

At a meeting of the members of the Rockingham County Bar held in this city on Monday, the following resolutions were adopted:—

Whereas, It has pleased our Heavenly Father to remove from this bar, one of its members, Moses N. Jenkins, who was endeared to us by every tie of respect and brotherly love:

Therefore, Be it Resolved: That we tender to the father, mother, sister, and relations of our deceased brother, our extreme sympathy for them in their severe affliction;

Resolved, That we here express our sincere sorrow at the loss which this Bar has sustained, and our personal bereavement in the death of him who by his exemplary conduct, scholarly abilities, and true Christian principles, won our affection and respect;

When the steamer Kearsarge was playing on the fire in Boston, Sunday, a man stepped upon the leading hose, when it burst and he went several feet into the air, propelled by a stout jet of water. He came down all in a heap, a sadder and a wetter man.

The Advertiser says:—The firemen of Boston and of other cities and towns who flocked to our rescue are entitled to great praise for their heroic and intelligent work.

Thos. S. Nowell, Esq., had a stock of boots and shoes valued at $50,000; insured mostly in foreign companies—no part of it in Boston companies. The stock had been reduced during the season and Mr. Nowell's shrewdness in selecting substantial companies may save him a great loss.

People who are ungenerous enough to sneer at Massachusetts for having lost the proud distinction of being the banner Republican State of the Union, should remember that Horace Greeley only made one little speech in Massachusetts and that one not in a public place, while his eloquence was abundantly aired for the benefit of Pennsylvania. Had Mr. Greeley made his Pittsburg speech in Faneuil Hall, Massachusetts would have given 100,000 majority, too.

The many friends of Mr. C. C. Jackson (of Jackson & Co's Express) in this city and elsewhere, will be pleased to learn that he has so far recovered from his recent serious illness of four weeks' duration as to make his appearance on the street, and that he expects to be able to attend to business in a few days. During the thirty years Mr. Jackson has run between this city and Boston, he has lost but few trips from sickness or any other cause.

An enterprising Water Street gamin stowed himself away under the Kearsarge and went to Boston with the firemen, Sunday morning.

Some of the survivors of the Missouri are of the opinion that the officers of the vessel should not escape censure. In the first place, the officers were careless in not using prompt and efficient means to entirely extinguish the fire at the outset. They thought it was entirely out, and reported it was extinguished. They did not examine thoroughly, but let it smoulder, and it soon broke out afresh, and the second breaking out was by lack of vigilance and promptness, which resulted in disastrous consequences. At least, there was great lack of good judgment in the matter, and the passengers who were saved, were all bound for Nassau and Havana. Their statements were taken by the Consul at Havana and the Agent of the Atlantic Mail Steamship Company, and will be used in the official investigation in regard to the burning of the steamer.

Several places of business in Peekskill, New York, were broken into Friday night by burglars, but nothing of value was stolen. Two of them were discovered in a store. One of them was shot in the head and severely wounded. The other escaped.
